As against this, it is interesting to set down what Gervais Markham, in 1675, sets forth as, "A human may keep in his family for the entertainment of his true and worthy friends." First warning the master of the feast that he must consult the season of the year, since summer affords what winter wants, and vice versa, he goes on to say: "It is good for him who intends to feast to set down the number of his full dishes, that is, dishes of meat that are of substance, and not empty or for show; and of these, sixteen is a good proportion for one course unto one mess (meal), as thus for example: First, a shield of brawn with mustard; secondly, a boyled capon; thirdly, a boyled piece of beef; fourthly, a chine of beef roasted; fifthly, a neat's tongue roasted; sixthly, a pigge roasted; seventhly, chewets bak'd; eightly, a goose roasted; ninthly, a swan roasted; tenthly, a turkey roasted; the eleventh, a haunch of venison roasted; the twelfth, a pasty of venison; the thirteenth, a pigge with a pudding in the belly; the fourteenth, an olive pie; the fifteenth, a couple of capons; the sixteenth, a custard or dousets.

Now to these full dishes may be added, sallets, fricasses, quelque-choses, and devised paste. As many dishes more, which make the full service no less than two and thirty dishes, which is as much as can conveniently stand on one table and at one mess. And after this manner you may proportion both your second and third mess holding fulnesse in one-half of the dishes and show in the other, which will be both frugal in the spender, contentment to the guests, and much pleasure and delight to the beholders."

GREAT BOOK.

Chicago News: "When sickness visits your household what do you do?" asked the agent severely.

"I don't know that it's any of your business," replied Mrs. Curfew, in a hostile voice, "but I don't mind telling you that we go to the cuboard and hunt up a lot of trashy medicines I've been buying of agents for several years, and the labels have fallen off most of the bottles and so we're always making mistakes. My husband is afflicted with rheumatism in his legs whenever the wind is in the southeast and he also has stomach trouble and asthma and goodness knows what else, for every time he has some new disease. But, as I was going to say, the labels being off the bottles, he is always drinking external liniment for his asthma and rubbing his legs with cough sirup or hair restorer, and I do think agents should use better mucilage and paste the labels on their bottles so they'll stay on."

"I agree with you cordially, madam," said the agent, politely. "But even if the labels are on the bottles, you too often find that the remedies are worthless. Then what do you do? Why, you summon a physician, and he runs up a bill that takes all the pleasure out of life for you. Doctor bills are keeping the people of this country poor. Then how shall we avoid doctor bills? I have the answer here in my hand. This wonderful volume, madam. 'The Complete Family Physician,' was written by——"

"Oh, you run along with your wonderful volumes and your complete family physicians," said Mrs. Curfew, impatiently. "An agent came here with just such a book as that about six months ago, and he might have been your brother, he looked so much like you, only his nose had been broken. I told the agent about my husband having so much trouble with the rheumatism, and he said his book paid particular attention to that disease and described seventeen sure cures, but I said that one cure would be enough, for it stands to reason that nobody would want to try the other sixteen cures if the first one worked all right.

"Well, he talked so long and I felt so sorry for him on account of his broken nose that I took a copy of the book on conditions. I paid him 50 cents down and agreed to pay him 50 cents a month for two or three years, I forget which, in case one of the rheumatism remedies would cure my husband, and if it wouldn't cure he was to take the book back, and I'm sure that agreement was simple enough so that anybody could understand it.

"My husband read the directions for a remedy that the book said was infallible and went to the drug store and bought about a barrel of the same old gums and barks and buds and things that he has been brewing in this house for thirty years, and he stewed all that stuff in a brass kettle, and it smelled like a sulphur mine, but he said he was sure it was good medicine, and when he got the remedy made he rubbed it all over his feet and ankles, where the rheumatism bothered him most. His feet have been jet black ever since and I'm afraid they never will fade out, and he says that he never heard of a meaner trick than to sell a man a book containing a recipe for indelible ink disguised as a rheumatism cure.

"Well, that agent came back, broken nose and all, after three or four weeks, and wanted to collect another 50 cents, and I wouldn't pay it, and told him the circumstances just as I have told you, and he became quite insolent and said he'd have the law on me, and just then my husband came around the corner of the house, and he happened to be carrying a bucket of green paint, and he poured it all over the unfortunate man and rubbed it in with his feet. So it isn't necessary to explain that I won't buy your wonderful volume."

PUNISHMENT FOR WITCHCRAFT.

Mrs. L. M. Fagan in Wide World Magazine: In the old days of Bustar, one of the feudatory states of India, any one accused or suspected of witchcraft was treated as follows: On being arrested, a fisherman's net was wound round and round his head to prevent escape or the chance of his bewitching his guards, and he was then subjected to the preparatory test. Two leaves of the peepul tree, one representing him and the other his accusers, were thrown upon his outstretched hands; if the leaf in his name fell uppermost, he was supposed to be a suspicious character; if the left fell with the lower side upwards, it was possible that he was innocent, and the popular feeling was in his favor. The following day the final test was applied. The man was sewn into a sack, and in the presence of the heads of the village, his accusers and his friends, carried into water, waist-deep, and let down to the bottom. If the unhappy man could not struggle up again and manage to get into a standing posture, with his head above water, he was said, after a pause, to be innocent, and the assembled head-men quickly directed him to be taken out. If he managed, however, in his struggles for life to raise himself above water, he was adjudged guilty, and brought out to be dealt with for witchcraft.

He was then beaten by the crowd, his head shaved, and his front teeth knocked out with a stone. This was done to prevent him muttering incantations. All kinds of filth were thrown at him, and if of good caste hog's flesh was forced into his mouth. Finally he was driven out of that part of the country, followed by the abuse and execrations of the whole village. When brought out of the water, the wretched victim was often insensible, but seldom died. Women suspected of sorcery had to undergo the same ordeal. If found guilty their hair was shaved off and tied to a tree. These customs, I am glad to say, have now given place to a trial by the Indian penal code, with residence in a well-appointed jail for the guilty.

SUNFISH STOPS A STEAMER.

Few marine experiences have been recorded stranger than that which befell the Fiona, a twin-screw steamer belonging to the Colonial Sugar Refining company of Sydney, New South Wales, says the Wide World Magazine. When the Fiona was off Bird island, about forty miles north of Sydney Heads, on her way from the Clarence river to Sydney, a little after 1 p. m., all hands were alarmed by a sudden shock, as though the steamer had struck a solid substance or wreckage. The result was strange and remarkable, for the port engine was brought up "all standing." The starboard engine was quickly stopped and a boat lowered and sent to investigate. On getting under the steamer's counter, the boat's crew were astonished to find that a huge sunfish had become securely fixed in the bracket of the port propeller. One blade was completely embedded in the creature's flesh, jamming the moster firmly against the stern-post of the vessel. It was impossible to extricate the fish at sea so the boat was hoisted on board again and the steamer proceeded on her passage to Sydney with the starboard engine only working. On reaching Port Jackson the Fiona was anchored in Mosman bay, where all hands were set to work to remove the fish. After much difficulty, and with the aid of the steamer's winch, the sunfish was hoisted clear and swung on board. The Fiona then proceeded to the sugar company's wharf. The fish was put on the company's weigh-bridge, and found to weigh two tons four hundredweights. The measurements were: Length, 10 feet; across the body, 6 feet; across the body and fins, 14 feet; mouth, 8 inches wide; dorsal fin, 4 feet high and 2 feet 6 inches across; anal fin, 3 feet 6 inches; and the caudal or tail fin, 22½ inches long—a short, fringe-like stump. The jaws were comparatively very feeble, but well adapted for masticating its food, which principally consists of minute pelagic matter, crustacea, and small fish. The skin in color was seagreen, and the texture that of the elephant. The naturalist to the board of fisheries of New South Wales, David G. Stead, who closely examined this specimen, stated that it was perhaps the largest ever killed, and certainly much larger than anything hitherto recorded or known of in Australian waters.

THE CHANGING COIFFURES.

Strand: Coiffures are perpetually changing. One year the hair of womankind shows an amazing and fertile exuberance. Next year the "crowning glory" of the sex staggers and grows pale and thin. One season it leaps protuberant from her brow; in another it retires in Greek confusion. So far the "Russian mediaeval haircut," as it is called, has been confined to children, but already one or two pretty Parisiennes have made a public appearance in a coiffure on these lines, which may, one fears, become prevalent. Again, is there not plenty of room for lateral expansion? Not long since Europe was threatened with the Merode coiffure, which, after all, was not so different from the mid-Victorian idea in its simplicity, not to say severity. Depend upon it, however, some of the old coiffures, timidly tried every year and rejected, will eventually return for a further spell of prosperity.

As for the Elizabethian ruff, that is bound to recur. Brought in modestly at first, as it has been occasionally during the past twenty years, it may in all likelihood attain such proportions that the Virgin Queen herself would be the first to cry, "Out upon such fashions, they make us women more absurd than zanies at the fair!"

FLAMINGO KILLED BY A HORSE.

A stately flamingo, which figures as an ornament in a Tunisian drawing-room, was killed in rather a remarkable fashion, says the Wide World Magazine. While riding along the sea shore a French officer saw it disporting itself at the edge of the waves, and fired at it, disabling one wing. Unable to fly, the bird strode rapidly away, and on being pursued took to the water. The officer, however, rode into the waves and managed to drive it back to the beach. Here the flamingo ran for about 200 yards, but, finding the horse gaining, stood at bay. As the horse came up the bird rushed at it with outstretched wings and neck curved to strike. Before the officer could use his gun his mount took matters into its own hands, or rather hoofs. Rising on its hind legs, it struck at the flamingo with its fore-legs, laying the bird dead at its feet. The officer took the bird home and had it stuffed.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

GETS VERDICT AGAINST SOO

Carlton County Mutual Fire Insurance Company Wins in Noted Case.

Railroad and Contractors Stuck for Over $6,000 Because of Fire.

Carlton, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the hardest fought cases ever tried in the Carlton county district court ended here yesterday afternoon, about 4 o'clock, when the jury that has been hearing the evidence in the case of the Carlton County Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance company against the Soo Railway company and Foley Bros. & Larson, which was on trial all last week, found for the plaintiff in the sum of $6,255.90, to be divided between the plaintiffs, in which the insurance company was given $3,707.20 and S. B. Smith, the farmer whose farms were burned over, an additional $2,548.70.

On Sept. 3, 1908, a fire raged over the premises down on section 17, 47-16 According to the evidence, the damages consisted of the loss of one large house, barn, chicken houses and other buildings belonging to S. B. Smith, and also some ninety acres of mixed timber; also the same fire burned other houses, barns and other buildings of Mr. Smith. Mr. Smith was insured for some $3,200 in the insurance company. Foley Bros., Larson & Co. were contractors of the Soo Railway company, building roadbeds there, and it was their assistants who set the fire in the clearing of the bed, which got beyond control and did the damage.

Beaten by Demurrer.

The case was first brought by Mr. Smith and the insurance company as plaintiffs in about the spring of 1909, and the defendants demurred to the pleadings because of misjoinder on the part of plaintiffs' causes of action. The court sustained the demurrer, which threw the action out of court for the time. An amended complaint was then filed and issues again joined. When the case came up the attorneys for the defense still demurred on the same grounds, misjoinder on the part of plaintiffs. The court overruled the demurrer. The action was then delayed by the defense appealing from the order of the judge, and the case was taken to the supreme court and passed upon by that body in April, 1910. The supreme court sustained the ruling of the district judge, which allowed the trial to proceed. It was on the calendar for last October term, but was continued.

At this term the defense contended that owing to the death of Larson the pleadings were defective, as such a partnership no longer existed. As the Soo railway was also made a defendant in the action it was allowed to proceed. Then the defense objected that the Foleys in turn had sublet the work to other contractors, which proceeding should relieve them from responsibility in the action of the ones actually doing the work.

Judge Dibell's Instructions.

Judge Dibell in his charge to the jury instructed them that if they found that the fire had been negligently set and that the setting of the fire at that time and place was a negligent act and the same was done while in the employ of or at the solicitation of the defendants, then the defendants would be liable. This is a new ruling for this part of the country, the plaintiffs' attorneys holding that fire under such corcumstances was a substance which was intrinsically dangerous under certain circumstances and in its operation would be likened unto one which would come under the employers' liability provisions, which provides that in using dangerous equipment it must be guarded.

The case will be appealed, it is said, as it involves so many issues which have not heretofore been passed upon by the supreme court.

MILLAR MADE HIT.

Duluthian's Speech at Fargo Banquet Pleased Assemblage.

Fargo, N. D., April 25.—The address delivered by E. L. Millar of Duluth at the Fargo Commercial club banquet was clearly the hit of the evening, being couched in a humorous vein that kept the assemblage roaring.

The visitor from the Zenith City kept the house in an uproar for some time before proceeding to the serious side of his subject.

Speaking seriously, Mr. Millar said: "I believe that the four states of South Dakota, Montana, Minnesota and North Dakota should co-operate and bring about wonderful results for the mutual advantage of this great Northwestern country. We should let the world know of the wonderful wealth of this country, and then we would have the same population as fifteen states back East, that have the same area of these four states.

"Fargo is a wonderful city. Its business blocks and surrounding country all go to indicate that it has a whole host of great possibilities for the future. I want you all to visit us at Duluth and come and stay as long as you want to and bring as many of your friends as you like."

BLOOD WAS IN POOR CONDITION

That Is the Story of All Sufferers from Nervous Troubles.

The Cure of This Woman Shows Why a Tonic for the Blood Is the Best Medicine for the Nerves.

Mrs. J. D. Smith, whose address is P. O. Box 122, Albany, Mo., was restored to health by the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"A few years ago I was suffering from a general breakdown in health owing to an attack of the grip and a nervous shock. For nearly three months I was confined to my bed. I was subject to fainting spells when it seemed that my heart failed me. I was also troubled with numbness, principally on my left side. I could not step on my left foot for a long time and had to be pushed around in a chair. My tongue would get thick and I could pinch myself without feeling pain. My blood was in a very poor condition, I had no color and became thin and weak. I had no desire to eat anything and my people thought I would never get well. I was kept alive on stimulants.

"The doctors did not seem to know what my trouble was. None of them helped me in the least. After we had spent a great deal of money and had tried everything that seemed to offer a cure, a friend advised us to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. My husband bought some for me and I received strength from them from the start. My improvement was rapid and I was finally able to get around. I took the pills until cured and have been doing all of my housework since. I always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house and would not be without them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured anæmia, rheumatism, sciatica, nervousness, after-effects of the grip and fevers, and neuralgia, owing to their blood-building property. These pills were originally a prescription used in the doctor's private practice and their benefit to mankind has been increased many thousand-fold by their being placed on general sale with the doctor's own directions for use.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold only in packages, never by the dozen or hundred. The genuine are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. WHEAT SAGS; MARKET DULL

Values Sink Under Pressure—Crop Reports Continue Good.

Foreign Values Lower—Seeding in Northwest Is General.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 25.—The wheat market declined today, reports from abroad being bearish with the exception of news from Russia, which, however, is more favorable than for some time. Seeding in Canada is proceeding under first-class conditions and the acreage is largely increased. In this country seeding is general for spring wheat. May wheat lost ½c and July declined ⅝c. Cash wheat was 1c over May.

Oats lost ¼c, rye was unchanged and durum wheat lost ¾c. Barley was unchanged.

Linseed was unchanged. May closed with offers at $2.60, July was offered at $2.59½ and September linseed advanced from $2.00 yesterday to $2.05 today, one sale of 1,000 bu being made at $2.05. This is the first transaction in the next crop.

Eastern demand for wheat continues dull, buying being on the hand-to-mouth scale. There is very little demand for durum wheat. Some interest is manifested in spring wheat.

The wheat market opened excessively weak. Cables were lower and the Buenos Ayres market was weak. The demand abroad was stimulated by the expected liberal decrease in the visible supply. Cargoes off the coast became more numerous and Plata offers increased and were cheaper. The foreign markets declined and there was evidence of liquidation.

The lower cables affected the opening here. Reports from Russia indicated that the weather has turned favorable. A cable to Slaughter of Chicago said that there are numerous complaints of winter wheat and the seeding of spring wheat is backward. Supplies of wheat in Russia are immense but the markets have held firm because of active buying from the continent and the inability of peasants to get their grain to market on account of inclement weather or field work.

There is some confusion over the reports from Russia saying that spring seeding is late. Some traders cannot understand how these reports can contain any elements of truth. In a great measure they are correct in their assumption that these reports are sent out for their bullish effect. The harvest of winter wheat in Southern Russia begins in July and the first spring wheat is harvested in August. The seasons run so closely together that there is liability of confusion over statements regarding planting. In August spring wheat that was planted in the fore part of April or the latter part of March is being harvested in Southern European Russia. This wheat is being sowed very late this year. The vast wheat acreage that stretches like a broad belt across Sweden, Norway, Northern European Russia and Siberia is not harvested until September. It comprises the chief spring wheat acreage and the reports of delayed seeding do not refer to this acreage, the sowing of which is now in progress. In Northern Siberia there is a large acreage that is harvested in October, Russia is so large that reports saying "Russian spring wheat seeding is delayed," might mean anything or nothing.

A bearish factor today was the increase in primary receipts which are running much larger than at this time last year. Freer deliveries are expected when spring wheat seeding is finished. The outside trade is light. The cash demand today was slow. A local mill took 50,000 bushels of spring wheat from a local elevator. It will take 150,000 bushels more in the next few days.

The weather map is satisfactory and crop conditions continue excellent. Reports from Calgary, Alta., indicate that the condition of fall wheat is excellent. A large amount of seeding for spring wheat has been completed under extremely favorable conditions. Unsettled weather with showers is predicted for the Southwest and Northwest tonight.

Toward noon there was a sharp rally on account of the covering by shorts. The movement was induced by Bradstreet's report of a decrease of 6,564,000 bu in the world's visible supply. A suit to recover damages or force the fulfillment of contracts for about 4,500,000 bbls of flour was started today by the Southwestern Millers' league against customers who repudiated their contracts. The suit had a bullish effect.

MARKET GOSSIP

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: The wheat market at the opening was easy, influenced by the lower American cables and the weaker close in Buenos Ayres yesterday, and prices were ¼d lower. Later there was some disposition to support and offerings became lighter, stimulated by the expected liberal decrease in the visible supply here and a continued fair demand from the continent for cargoes arriving. During the morning profit-taking developed and values declined ½@⅝d, with the undertone weak. Selling was prompted by the lower spot markets, cheaper Plate offers and the fact that cargoes off coast and awaiting orders were again heavy and in less demand. Large houses here were free sellers, and there was evidence of free liquidation in May in expectation of liberal deliveries. At 1:30 p. m. the market was weak and ¾@⅞d lower than yesterday. Corn, after opening ¼d lower, further declined ⅝d on fears that the market has been over-bought, which led to free realizing. American offers were larger at a decline, and there was a smaller demand for spot, with more liberal Danubian offers.

The supply of wheat in Europe this week amounts to 108,704,000 bu against 112,160,000 bu last week, thus showing a decrease of 3,456,000 bu. Last week there was a decrease of 1,176,000 bu and last year a decrease of 2,590,000 bu, when the total amounted to 94,460,000 bu.

Argentina — The wheat market at Buenos Ayres closed easy, being affected by the lower American cables.

Liverpool spot markets—Wheat easy and ½d lower, with the exception of Manitoba, which was unchanged. Corn easy. American ½d lower and Plate 1d lower.

Cargoes—Wheat arrived off coast, 3; awaiting orders, 16. Wheat in distant positions easy and offered at 1½@3d decline. Corn easier, demand less active.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Rain, Although Light, Has Bearish Effect on Wheat Prices.

Chicago, April 25.—Rain in Western Kansas and Nebraska today, although light, had a decidedly bearish effect on the price of wheat. The section that received moisture contains much of the one backward portion of the fall-sown crop. Improving conditions were reported too from Europe, taken as a whole. Moreover, sales by farmers northwest from here seemed to have become a good deal more free than has recently been the case. The opening was ⅛@¼c to ¾@⅞c lower. July started at 87@87¼c, a decline of ¼@½c, and fell to 86⅞@87c.

Flowery reports as to the Canadian Northwest gave prices an additional setback, but a big decrease in the world's available supply led to a reaction. The close, however, was weak at 87c for July, a net loss of ½c.

A rush of commission house selling weakened corn. Fine weather and bearish cables formed the chief reason. Buying was restricted. July opened ¼@½c down at 51¾@52c, but steadied around 51⅞c.

Later the lightness of offerings caused a rally. The close was easy, though with July at 52⅛@52¼c, exactly the same as last night.

Oats eased off with other grain. Trade was slim. July started ⅛@¼c to ¼c lower at 31½c to ½@⅝c and went to 31⅜c.

Packers bought enough to give a firm undertone to provisions. Besides, hogs were a trifle higher. First sales of product varied from last night's level to 7½c advance, with July delivery $14.95 for pork, $8.07½ for lard and $8.02½ for ribs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Prices Rule Easier on Increase in Supply.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 25.—The increasing local and primary wheat receipts more than offset the big decrease of 6,500 bu in the world's visible supply and prices ruled easier. Market held steady around the low during the late session. Weakness in Liverpool encouraged bears. May closed ⅞c lower than yesterday. July ¾c lower and September, ⅜@½c lower. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 260,000 bu for three days, and oats decreased, 50,000 bu.

Minneapolis today received 149 cars of wheat against 75 a year ago; Duluth 48 against 83 and Winnipeg 197 against 361. May opened 96½c; high, 96½c; low, 95½@95⅝c; closed, 95⅞c. July opened, 97¼c; high, 97⅜c; low, 96½c; closed, 96⅞c. September, 89½@89⅜c; high, 89½c; low, 89@89⅛c; closed, 89¼@89⅜c.

Cash wheat was a trifle easier. Heavier receipts made demand not as active. Premiums reduced No. 1 northern selling for 2@3c above May. Closing cash prices: No. 1 hard, 99⅜c; No. 1 northern, 98@98⅞c; to arrive, 97⅞@98⅞c; No. 2 northern, 95@97⅜c; to arrive, 94⅞@97⅜c; No. 3 wheat, 93@95⅞c. No. 3 yellow corn, 50½@51c; No. 3 white oats, 30@30½c; No. 2 rye, 91@92c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,987 tons; market steady; moderate demand. Mills sold output for next two weeks. Bran in 100-lb. sacks, $21.00@22.00.

Flour—Market quoted steady; demand continued fair to slow. Big mills booked moderate orders. Shipments less than last week and prices firm. Shipments, 51,907 bbls. First patents, $4.60@4.90; second patents, $4.50@4.80; first clears, $3.10@3.55; second clears, $2.10@2.75.

Flax—Receipts, 6 cars, year ago 10; shipments, none. The flax market, a seeding proposition, aside from inquiry from this source demand was indifferent. Prices both spot and to arrive were over Duluth May. Closing price, $2.61.

Barley—Receipts, 23 cars, year ago 14; shipments, 28. Malting barley selling at $1.10 was the highest price ever recorded in this market. Feeding demand fair and malting excellent. Prices 1@3c higher than yesterday. Closing range, 75c@$1.10.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Sagging Tendency Is Followed By Brisk Upturn After Noon.

Prices Sell Off Fraction Near Close, Which Is Steady.

New York, April 25.—The decision against the Southern Pacific railway in the Oregon land case caused some heaviness of the Harriman stocks at the opening of the market here today. Southern Pacific lost a point and Union Pacific ½. Most of the other active stocks declined fractionally.

There was little feature to the early dealings. Prices moved in an irregular fashion, mostly within a slim fractional range. A brisk rally followed the opening hesitation, but the higher prices uncovered new selling orders and the market receded again to its low level. Bethlehem Steel gained 1.

Stocks manifested a sagging tendency in the second hour again, under the leadership of United States Steel, which touched 73 on moderately large offerings. Rumors of internal troubles and important resignations from the corporation were officially denied and were without effect upon the list, which was dull and heavier throughout. There was some selling of the Harriman issues, a result of the decision against Southern Pacific in connection with its large land holdings, and trading as a whole was perfunctory and more restricted than for some days past. Mackay companies and the Texas company declined 3 points. Bonds were steady.

Prices took a brisk turn upwards after 12 o'clock and the list advanced to about yesterday's close or above. United States Steel rallied from 73 to 74 and there was a similar movement in Union Pacific, Reading and Amalgamated Copper.

Trading was very quiet in the last session but the market displayed a firm tone, several stocks moving up sharply despite the meager demand. Chesapeake & Ohio and Amalgamated Copper ruled 1 point above yesterday's closing and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie 1¾.

The market closed steady. There was very little stock on offer at current prices and traders, perceiving this, bid special stocks up sharply on the shorts who wanted to cover. American Smelting was run up 1½ over yesterday's closing and Union Pacific and Reading 1. Prices elsewhere ruled quite generally a good fraction above last night. In the last few minutes there was some quick realizing and prices sold off a fraction.

REMARKABLE IGNORANCE.

"In the last five years $28,000,000 have been embezzled from the banks and trust companies of the United States."

The speaker was H. C. Dalton, a capitalist of San Francisco. He resumed:

"The loss of this vast sum is due to the ignorance of our bankers. They don't employ the checks and safeguards in use in Europe. They seem, in fact, as ignorant of the value of these checks and safeguards as Bill Smith was ignorant of medicine.

"Bill Smith met a friend in a saloon.

"'Hello, Joe!' he said. 'Wot's the trouble? Ye're lookin' down in the mouth.'

"'Trouble Gee, I'm up to me chin in trouble,' Joe answered.

"'How so, old man How so?' said Bill.

"'Oh, everything's goin' wrong,' was the reply. 'The first thing was me dog—run over by a taxicab last Monday week. Arter buryin' the dog I took thirty or forty beers to cheer me up a bit, and the upshot was that a cop run me in. Of course I didn't have no money to pay the fine, so I got ten days. Well, I only got out this mornin' and when I got home I found that my wife had gone off to her mother's with peritonitis.'

"'Wot!' said Bill, a tone of horror. 'Wot! That dago fruit stand man up Snag alley Oh, poor old Joe! Poor feller!'"

A PESSIMIST ON HUSBANDS.

James C. Dahlman, the mayor of Omaha, said the other day of a terrible graft scandal:

"These things destroy our faith in human nature. They give us the pessimistic outlook of the elderly lady in the jewelry shop.

"A salesman in this shop was showing an ingenious electric clock to a young girl.

"'You see, miss,' he said, 'by touching this lever you switch a bright light onto the face of the clock. It's a splendid device for telling——ha, ha, ha!—for telling the exact hour of your husband's return from the club.'

"The young girl smiled.

"'But I,' she said, 'haven't got any husband.'

"'Ah, but you will have some day,' said the clerk.

"'Yes,' she agreed. Then she nodded toward the clock. 'But mine won't be that kind.'

"At this juncture the elderly woman interposed.

"'My poor child,' she said, 'they're all that kind. I'll take the clock,' she added to the salesman."

THE PAPUAN BRAVE.

London Globe: "When the natives are young they are quick to learn and can be taught almost any kind of work, and even up to the time of their marriage they are willing to learn. After marriage their ambition and intellectual development appear to cease; one of the reasons for this seems to be that the woman does most of the work, while the man—being the superior animal—can see no necessity for further exertion," says the Hon. J. G. Jenkins, speaking of Papua and the Papuans. He plays the part of her protector to perfection; while she digs in the garden he leans against a tree with his spear in his hand, apparently prepared to keep off intruders, but really because it is easier than doing the digging.

"Their wants are small and they generally take no thought for the morrow—sufficient for the day is the food thereof so long as the woman provides it. Women are frequently seen carrying a miscellaneous collection of foodstuffs such as yams, bananas and sugar cane in a net bag swung over their back and in many instances a podgy infant in nature's garb is perched on top of the provisions.

"If the women are accompanied by their husbands you will find these gallant braves dressed in masculine authority and a native spear slowly leading the way or leisurely following. There is no necessity for expensive divorce courts to settle family disagreements among the natives. If a married man finds that his wife displeases him or if she is too frivolous or lazy or does not cook well or do her garden work properly, he simply turns her out.

"Neither is a woman very permanently tied to her husband, for she can leave him of her own accord; but if she marries again her second husband has to pay something to her first husband and his friends. A pig, a wallaby, some yams or bananas generally settle the claim.

"At one time no doubt all the natives practiced cannibalism, but now all the central and eastern tribes have given it up. In the western part it is still practiced and it is not safe to visit some of the native villages there unless properly guarded and well armed. Life is not valued very highly by the native as a rule; although they possess a certain kind of rough love and affection for each other, it is rather of a transient character.

"If a man dies they mourn for him a whole night, but if a woman dies an hour or two of wailing seems to meet the case. Parents sell their daughters to other natives for small consideration and a few sticks of tobacco would be sufficient to induce a married man to part with one or more of his wives."

OLDEST PATENT MEDICINE.

American Medicine: A patent medicine older than Christianity, and which enjoyed a great reputation as late as 1750, was called Orvietan. The word charlatan originated in connection with this nostrum.

"Of all historic fakes," says one writer, "the most triumphant was undoubtedly orvietan. This word, although mentioned in Scott's 'Kenilworth,' does not appear in many dictionaries, even medical. The remedy has been forgotten, so to speak, under the name of Venice treacle.

"From the time of Nero till late in the eighteen century, orvietan was the great panacea, curing everything and being the sovereign antidote to all poisons, including snake venom. Prominent among its sixty odd ingredients was a powdered flesh of vipers. Known for centuries under the name of Theriaca, or mithradote, one Lupi, a Tuscan, managed to secure a practical monopoly for his formula, which he named after his native town, Orvieto. Several of his followers managed to secure, about 1628, the sole right to sell orvietan throughout the papal states, and a violation of this priceless monopoly was punished not only by a fine of 1,000 ducats, but by excommunication.

"A cart tail physician, Desiderio Descombes, despite the papal protection of Lupi, managed to build up an enormous patronage for his brand of orvietan. It is to Descombes that we owe the word charlatan. This word is usually derived from the Italian ciarlare, to chatter, but it seems unlikely that Descombes would care to boast of his oratorical prowess, although it was the sole secret of his prestige.

"It has been surmised that he derived his pet title from scarlatto, in reference to the brilliant coat he wore when mounted upon his little stage on the Pont Neuf in Paris. Something really striking in the vesture was a necessity for the Port Neuf was crowded from end to end with quacks and mountebanks of every description.

"It is consoling to learn that although Descombes obtained royal approbation and a fee from the queen of 150 crowns he was unable to cajole the Paris faculty of medicine into an indorsement of his methods. The royal approval, however, sufficed to win him a fortune. He finally died of the plague, despite his possession of what should have been a sufficient quantity of orvietan to safeguard him from all possible contagion.

"Orvietan finally lost its vogue about 1750, although it is said to be still used in Normandy by a low class of veterinary practitioners. The famous quack remedy is older than Christianity, for it was known long before Galen, who published a formula of his own, containing sixty-four ingredients.

"The last trace of it existed in the United States under the name of Confectio Democratis, which old practitioners will recall as an important ingredient of the original Warburg's tincture. The Confectio was made of turpentine, acacia, treacle, balm of Gilead, Russian castor, cinnamon, myrrh and some six other ingredients, making a mixture very like orvietan, except that the flesh of the vipers was replaced by the dried bellies of skunks, a doubtful improvement from the viewpoint of either therapeutics or aesthetics."

INSURANCE ON A GOOSE.

St. Louis corespondence, New York Press: The life of Rod Murchison's educated goose, which wears a one-piece suit and follows Murchison wherever he goes, is to be insured, if possible. Formal application for a $5,000 policy has been made by Murchison. G. G. Petrie, special agent for a New York insurance company in St. Louis, is trying to place the risk.

"I don't see why it shouldn't be possible to insure the goose," said Petrie tonight. "Horses, sheep and cattle are insured when they are shipped to market, and a policy on almost any valuable animal or fowl may be obtained.

"Murchison makes his living by using this goose for advertising purposes. I think the bird is a good risk, as it would be to Murchison's interest to keep it alive and defend it from danger."

As the potential life of a goose is thirty years and Murchison's bird is only 4 years old, he thinks he should get a policy at a low rate. The goose is used to advertise shoes.

Duluth Car Will Prebably Carry Twenty Delegates to Congress.

Special Train May Have to Be Run in Two Sections.

The Duluth car, which will be part of the Minnesota special to Helena for the development congress of the Northern tier of states, will leave Duluth at 8:55 next Sunday evening. Monday morning at Grand Forks it will be joined to the Minnesota special, which will be run from the Twin Cities.

Eleven representatives of organ'zations and business houses have already signed for the trip and it is expected that there will be at least twenty in the Duluth party.

The meeting was called by Governor Norris and the commercial bodies of Montana to consider the development of the northern states so that the tide of immigration, which has set in to the Southwest during the past few years, may be turned to the Northwest. It is believed that the failure of the states of the Northwest to properly place the resources of their region before prospective settlers and the activity of the states of the Southwest in that respect is responsible for the present trend of immigration and that it will be reversed when the northern states take proper steps to gain that end.

Greater interest is being shown in the meeting than any other similar movement in the Northwest. From the large number of reservations received from business men and delegates indications are that a special train will have to be run in two sections from St. Paul. Word was received yesterday from Chicago that a car load of farm, land and real estate men would leave Chicago in a special car and join the official train at St. Paul.

L. W. Hill received advice from George B. Harris, chairman of the board of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, that he would like to join the party and have his private car attached to the special train. This is the first time that any movement in the Northwest of this kind has attracted attention of Eastern people.

Governor Burke of North Dakota has appointed delegates and there are complete delegations from all the other states interested. The governors of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon are all expected to attend themselves. In addition to official delegates, a large number of business men from Grand Forks, Fargo, Aberdeen, Duluth, Minot, Devils Lake, Spokane, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, and other points will attend, as well as a special business men's delegation from the Twin Cities.

French Bulldog Has His Valet and Rides to Bench Show in Scented Dog Valise

MARIE WINTHROP AND CHARLEMAGNE.

MARION SIMPSON AND LUTE RENE.

MRS. ARNOLD LAWSON AND MIRETTE DE LA MARE.

The annual exhibition of the French Bulldog Club of America was held yesterday at the Hotel Astor, New York. There were at least 200 bulldogs on show to compete for the several score of solid gold, solid silver, bronze and copper prizes. Not one of these dogs could be bought for less than $300, and there were a dozen or so valued up in the thousands, among them Miss Mary Winthrop's champion Chalemagne of Amersham. He is a black and white bulldog and was personally attended by his own exclusive valet. He rode to the Astor in a pigskin dog valise specially scented and lined. Among the other dogs shown were Miss Marion Simpson's Lute Rene and Miss Verona Jarbeau's La Fille Cora and Aimee. At least half the exhibitors were women and many of them personally exhibited their dogs.

WISHES GOVERNOR HAD SIGNED BILL

Still Attorney General Does Not Think It Invalidates the Matter.

St. Paul, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Stating it broadly, Attorney General George T. Simpson has rendered an opinion to Governor Eberhart that his failure to sign the bill proposing a constitutional amendment limiting representation in the senate in the cities to half what it is in the country, does not invalidate the bill. In part it says:

"Some days ago in advising you orally with regard to your proper action in regard to this bill, which I had not then seen, I said that, while I doubted the necessity of your signing the same, I strongly advised the latter as a precaution, and I now desire to express my regret that my suggestion, speaking from a merely legal standpoint, was not followed.

"If the proposal of a mere naked amendment was the only action taken by the two houses of the legislature, I am still of the opinion that your signature would not be required to give it effect, but apparently in connection with these amendments, the legislature has gone further, and has prescribed certain matters of statute law. These statutory provisions relate to the time and manner of the submission of the proposed amendment to the electors of this state, and the counting and canvassing of the returns of the votes thereon. It is as to this latter that it would have been much safer, in my opinion, had your signature been appended to the bill.

"As to these features of the bill I would say, however, that there already exists on the statute books laws adequately providing for the submission to the people of constitutional amendments, and providing for the counting and canvassing of votes thereon and proclaiming the result. See sections 24 and 166 of the Revised Laws, 1905, and chapter 267, laws 1905.

"Further than this, I think I am correct in stating that without exception the bills heretofore submitting constitutional amendments have been signed by the governor. However, the filing of the bill in question in the office of the secretary of state without your approval renders the discussion of the matter, so far as your action is concerned, merely academic."

RESPITE GRANTED MURDERER GREEN

Wife's Confession of Unfaithfulness Influences Governor Dix in Case.

Albany, N. Y., April 25.—On a wife's confession of martial unfaithfulness, Governor Dix today granted a respite until the week beginning June 26, to Charles L. Green, who was to have been executed at Clinton prison next Tuesday for the murder of his 14-year-old step-daughter at New Scotland, Albany county, in July 1910.

The respite was granted on affidavit of Mrs. Green, who was also shot by her husband at the time her daughter was killed, and is for the purpose of permitting Green's counsel to present newly discovered evidence to the court. Mrs. Green in her affidavit confesses that her husband discovered a few days before the shooting that she had been unfaithful to him, and she attributes this confgession as the real cause of the tragedy. She swears that her husband would not permit her "to testify to anything that would help him and hurt me," and he told her that he "would rather die in the electric chair than have the people know or say a single word against me or against my character. I feel that in a way I am responsible for all that he has done, and the burden rests heavily upon me."

Green had refused to sign a petition to the governor for the commutation of the sentence of death to life imprisonment, saying he was resigned to his fate and anxious to pay the death penalty. The governor denied this application.

DRESS.

The Spectator: The real defense for women in their growing love of dress seems to us to be this, that dress is a recreation, one of those natural recreations which grow out of necessity and out of everlasting emotions. It is nothing against a recreation that the frivolous rich suffer from over-indulgence in it, or the frivolous poor from that craving for which it has its roots in privation. The love of dress among women—especially, we think, in its modern manifestation, which emphasizes variety—makes, we believe, for social balance. The disappearance of all remnant of class costume is a great reform. The open worship of tradition is a deadening thing. At the same time, by cultivating their instinct for the pretty and the useless, women build unconsciously a great rampart of admiration against the devastating spirits of envy and utilitarianism. Dress is a recreation shared by a whole sex—a strong bond of sympathy, and at the same time one of the forces which render the little ebulition of unnatural feeling which we have dignified by the name of sex-hatred wholly ridiculous. For if we go to the root of the matter, the reason women love to wear a variety of fine clothes is because men love to see them wearing them, and the reason men tend more and more to a uniform is because women in their heart of hearts care less than men do for their appearances, are less influenced by them and have a quicker appreciation of those charms over which fashion and finery have no effect.

WHICH IS YOUR FAVORITE CHARACTER IN DICKENS?

From "A Dickens Party for Children," in the Strand: A most diverting list might be compiled of the characters from Dickens which eminent persons have selected as their favorite. We know that Lord Palmerston thought Sam Weller was Dickens's high-water mark; that the late Lord Salisbury never wearied of Sairey Gamp; that Mr. Chamberlain most rejoices in Wilkins Micawber. In fact, if one looks through biographies published for the last fifty years, one is almost sure to come across references to the biographee's literary favorites, and especially to the characters of Dickens.

"One of the godlike things about Dickens," writes Mr. Chesterton, "is his quantity, his quantity as such, the enormous output, the incredible fecundity of his invention. I have said not one of us could have invented Mr. Guppy. But even if we could have stolen Mr. Guppy from Dickens we have still to confront the fact that Dickens would have been able to invent another quite inconceivable character to take his place. Perhaps we could have created Mr. Guppy, but the effort would certainly have exhausted us; we should be ever afterward wheeled about in a bath-chair at Bournemouth."

ROYALTIES WHO PAWN JEWELS.

M. A. P.: The ex-Sultan Abdul Aziz pawned all his crown jewels for 1,000,000 francs at the Mont de Piete at Paris, and they were only just redeemed by the Moorish government in time to prevent their being sold among other unredeemed goods.

The Sword of State, which is regarded in Servia as a sacred relic, was also pawned by a former king, while one well known European monarch found himself in such straitened circucstances that the famous house of Attenborough once, temporarily, had possession of all his old silver.

Queen Isabella was, however, the most famous royalty who made no secret of the fact that she raised money from the Jews upon the security of the portraits of her ancestors, which hung on the walls at the Palace Catile, her Parisian home. The royal lady often declared how deeply she was indebted to her royal forebears for coming to her rescue and helping her out of her financial predicaments.

KENTUCKY GAME PRESERVE.

Owensboro correspondence Louisville Courier-Journal: Thirty-five deer were purchased by W. E. Whitley during the last week which are to be placed on a large tract of land, located about ten miles east of Owensboro, which Mr. Whitley will make one of the largest and most abundantly stocked game preserves in this section of the country.

This purchase of deer is the first that has been made, but many more deer are to be put on the land, and the owner states that he will not permit any hunting on the land for some time.

A LITTLE TOO PRIMITIVE.

August Belmont, at a dinner in Saratoga, praised the seaside towns of New England.

"But some of them," he added, "are a little too primitive. I remember a story about the primitive town of Rockford. Rockford had a rough bathing establishment with a shower bath. You stood in your bathhouse and pulled a rope, and a deluge of cool water descended from the ceiling.

"Well, a lady visitor stood one day in her bathhouse, ready for the shower. She pulled the rope and braced herself, but no shower followed. She gave the rope another tug, when the gruff voice of the sailor proprietor of the establishment sounded from aloft.

"'Stand a p'int more to the nor'east, mum,' it said, 'if ye want to get the full force.'

"And the horrified lady, looking up, saw the old sailor frowning impatiently through a hole in the ceiling, and tilting a barrel of sea water for the shower."

DOES AN ACTOR NEED BRAINS?

When at the Comedy theater, writes Hawtrey, the actor, in the Strand, I once received an application from a young man who desired to see me on a matter of urgent importance. I wrote him, asking to be informed as to the nature of his business. He replied that it was personal and private, but of extreme urgency, and asked for an interview. I gave him an appointment, and he called to see me, when I learned that his object was to place his services at my disposal. His doctor, he informed me, had ordered him to take a complete rest, or, in any case, to employ himself in some way that required absolutely no brain work! So he had decided to go upon the stage!

WORLD'S GREATEST AVIATION SCHOOL.

Strand: The great school of aviation is beside the marshes where the dragonflies skim over the surface of the water, or in the open field where the butterflies pursue their zigzag and uncertain flight, or again on the lofty cliffs over which great sailing seabirds swoop down in descending curves to the surface of the sea. Whether it is a question of starting, rising, progressing, changing direction, or alighting, birds and insects are the masters of flight, and the planes of the flying machine have been designed upon the model of living wings. Generally speaking, the structure of a bird's wing is little known. Ask a man of ordinary education to draw on paper a plan of a bird's wing. It is very rarely that he will produce anything approaching the reality. The reason is because the wing folded displays little of its form, and that when a bird is flying the movements of the wing prevent it from being seen. Its motion is too quick for the eye to follow. In gliding flight it assumes the simple form of a circumflex accent. It is easier to imagine than to realize the wing of an insect, which, except in certain species, constantly preserves its form and is not bent upon itself, like a bird's wing. It is a sort of plane, formed by horny nerves covered with a membrane, which is generally transparent. Its form is comparatively simple.

NELL GWYNNE'S SECRET DOOR.

London Daily Mail: During alterations on the first floor of the Nell Gwynne tea rooms, High street, Epsom, there has been discovered a secret door in the bedroom that was used by Nell Gwynne, who was one of Epsom's fashionable visitors when the town was noted for the health-giving properties of its waters. The house is the one to which Pepys refers in his diary: "To Epsum by 8 o'clock to the well, where much company. And to the towne to the King's Head; and hear that my Lord Buckhurst and Nelly are lodged at the next house and Sir Charles Sedley with them; and keep a merry house."

Notice is hereby given that on May 17, 1911, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of the County Auditor, at Duluth, St. Louis County, in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands, and also those state lands which have reverted to the State by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms: Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance from date of sale to June 1st, 1912, must be paid at the time of sale. The balance of purchase money is payable in whole or in part on or before forty years from date of sale; the rate of interest on the unpaid balance is four per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1st of each year, provided, the principal remains unpaid for ten years; but if the principal if paid within ten years from date of sale, the rate of interest will be computed at five per cent per annum.

Appraised value of timber, if any, must also be paid at time of sale.

DETECTIVE APPEARS BEFORE GRAND JURY; DOES NOT TESTIFY

ACTING HEAD OF NEW YORK FIRE FIGHTERS

CAPT. JOHN KENLON,
Who Will Be Made Deputy Chief on May 1 and Stands a Good Chance of Becoming Permanent Successor to Chief Croker of the New York Fire Department. He Has Been in the Department Since 1887.

W. J. Burns Takes Advantage of His Legal Right Not to Talk.

President of Iron Workers Appears and Offers to Testify.

Jury Will Make Thorough Investigation of Both Sides of Case.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 26.—Investigation by the Marion county grand jury of the two-sided "dynamite conspiracy" absorbed the attention of its probers, official and unofficial, today. County Prosecutor Baker announced that the grand jury's inquiry would go thoroughly into the case.

William J. Burns, whose bureau of detectives is employed by the National Association of Structural Iron and Steel Contractors and who was arrested last night on the charge of complicity in the alleged McNamara kidnaping, was the first witness before the grand jury today. It is understood he took advantage of his right to decline to testify. Walter Drew and J. A. G. Badorf of counsel for the National Erectors' association, and W. Joseph Ford, assistant district attorney of Los Angeles, all of whom are charged with the alleged kidnaping and bound to the grand jury inquiry in bonds of $10,000, were expected to be examined either late today or tomorrow. Police Judge Collins and other officials having knowledge of the circumstances of the extradition of McNamara to California also were to appear, it was reported.

As Burns stepped into the corridor

PRISONERS IN CALIFORNIA

McNamara Brothers and Manigal Cross Border of Pacific State.

Expected to Soon Be Lodged in the Jail at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 26.—Heavily manacled and guarded by eight officers from Chicago and Los Angeles, John J. McNamara, his brother James W. McNamara, and Ortie E. McManigal, alleged dynamiters, entered California on the Santa Fe railroad at Needles early today and are expected to be in jail in Los Angeles by the middle of the afternoon.

When the prisoners crossed the state line from Arizona to California, the officers having them in charge felt for the first time since leaving Chicago, that they were free from the legal dangers of habeas corpus proceedings. Reports were received here that application for habeas corpus for the arrested men had been made by sympathizers at two or three different places along the route they traveled, but these were not confirmed.

In this city there was no sign of excitement or hostile feeling toward the prisoners, nor has there been from the moment of their arrest at Indianapolis and Detroit. Keen interest, of course, has been displayed in the capture of the supposed dynamiters, but a feeling of absolute calm prevailed.

All preparations or precautions have been made by the local police officers, however, for the safe entrance of the prisoners into the city, and for their incarceration.

NOTHING BUT A NIGHTMARE

Talk of War With Japan an Absurdity, Says Baron.

Delivers Address on Universal Peace at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Baron d'Estournelles de Constant of France, spoke on "universal peace" before a distinguished audience here last night. He said that war between the United States and Japan is "an absurdity, a nightmare, a bad dream."

In speaking on peace Baron d'Estournelles de Constant quoted the following passages from the 1903 program of the international arbitration party in the French parliament:

"Some people profess to believe that we, the supporters of arbitration, would like to see it applied to all questions, and that even if we were threatened with invasion we should not call out the whole armed strength of the nation but humbly ask to have the

DR. HYDE RELEASED FROM JAIL ON WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

M'HARG LOSES JOB AS CHOCTAW COUNSEL

ORMSBY McHARG.

TO LOSE POSITION PAYING $12,000

Interior Department Orders the Removal of Ormsby McHarg.

Washington, April 26.—Under the terms of an order just issued by the secretary of the interior the name of Ormsby McHarg, formerly of North Dakota, will be removed from the rolls of the government as the counsel for the Choctaw nation.

Mr. McHarg thus will lose a client that has been paying $12,000 a year. The notice issued to Mr. McHarg will become effective Oct. 22. The contract made with the Choctaws by Mr. McHarg provided that the other party to it might dissolve contractional relation upon six month's notice.

All such contracts are subject to the approval of the secretary of the interior, who decided that the retainer was excessive. Mr. McHarg could have continued in the service at $6,000 a year. He refused to consent to this reduction.

Decision Made By Seven Judges in the Circuit Court.

Majority of Evidence Convicting Physician, Circumstantial, They Say.

Prisoner Gives Bond in $50,000 and Goes Home With His Wife.

Kansas City, Mo., April 26.—Dr. B. C. Hyde, under a life sentence of imprisonment for the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope, was released from the county jail today on a writ of habeas corpus granted by the seven judges of the circuit court here.

In the opinion of the court en banc, the majority of the evidence on which the physician was convicted was circumstantial and there was a reasonable doubt of the prisoner's guilt. The opinion rendered this morning also takes into consideration the fact that Judge Ralph S. Latshaw, trial judge, had once admitted Dr. Hyde to bond. This bond was revoked during the trial of the murder case by Judge Latshaw and Hyde committed to the county jail.

After the reading of the decision the bail of Dr. Hyde was set at $50,000. Had Dr. Hyde's release been deferred until tomorrow the period of his incarceration in jail would have been exactly one year, as it was in April 27, 1910, during his trial, that Judge Lat-

FUNERAL TRIP OF 17,000 MILES

Battleship Returns After Taking Body of Chilean Minister to Chile.

Boston, April 26.—A 17,000-mile funeral trip to the west coast of South America ended today when the battleship Delaware steamed up to the navy yard from Valparaiso, Chile, where she carried and delivered the body of the Chilean minister, Senor Don Anibal Cruz, who died in Washington last January.

The Delaware sailed from Hampton Roads on Jan. 31 and reached Valparaiso on March 11. After participating in the funeral services, the big battleship steamed for home on March 21, making the stretch from Valparaiso to Rio Janeiro, 5,000 miles, without a stop, and the 4,000 miles to this port in like manner. The sustained speed of the entire trip was a trifle over fourteen knots an hour.

Report of Committee Is Accepted By Upper Branch of Legislature.

Arguments for the Investigators Made By Attorney J. J. Healy.

Judge Sears of Chicago Appears for Tilden, Benedict and Cummings.

Springfield, Ill., April 26.—The Illinois senate today is sitting in judgment over Edward Tilden, Charles Cummings and George Benedict, who have refused to produce bank books and documents showing Mr. Tilden's financial affairs in 1909 to the Helm investigating committee. The committee yesterday recommended that the senate cite the trio for contempt. The report of the committee was adopted by the upper branch of the legislature immediately after convening today.

Attorneys for Edward Tilden, Charles Cummings and George M. Benedict were present, prepared to argue against the reports adopted.

Attorney John J. Healy of the bribery committee, who opened up the arguments, declared that the senate had full authority by itself or its committee to examine and command all witnesses within the state to testify under oath and to compel them to produce any papers or documents that may be requested.

Mr. Benedict and Mr. Cummings, according to Mr. Healy, have given no reason for their refusal to testify before the committee and are waiting for the disposition of Edward Tilden's case before the bar of the senate.

"It is my contention, as counsel for your committee," said Mr. Healy, "that this body has as much power and the same authority as congress."

Refers to Constitution.

Mr. Healy referred to the fourth amendment of the United States Constitution which he said was similar to article 2 of the bill of rights of Illinois. This amendment gives witnesses immunity from unreasonable search and seizure.

"I understand from rumors around this capitol," said Mr. Healy, "that attorneys for Tilden, Benedict and Cummings will fall back on that amendment for protection. I want to say that it is the intention of this com-

HILL OFFERS $1,000 CUP.

Minot, N. D., April 26.—North Dakota farmers are planning to compete for the $1,000 cup offered by James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern railroad, for the best 100 pounds of wheat grown during the coming season. The samples are to be displayed at the big American Land and Irrigation exposition to be held in New York city Nov. 3 to 12.

COLLINS HAS QUIT HIS JOB

State Superintendent of Prisons of New York Finally Resigns.

Requested to Do So By Governor Dix the First of Year.

Albany, N. Y., April 26.—Cornelius V. Collins of Troy, state superintendent of prisons for thirteen years, has resigned. His resignation which reached Governor Dix today, takes effect immediately.

Supt. Collins had supervision over the four state prisons, Sing Sing, Auburn, Clinton and Great Meadows, and of the Matteawan and Dannemora state hospitals for the criminal insane. He also was a member of the state parole board and was chairman of the commission on new prisons appointed by Governor Hughes to select the site for the new prison to take the place of Sing Sing.

Soon after Governor Dix assumed office in January, he requested Supt. Collins to resign, but the superintendent refused. The governor's next move was to order an investigation of the state commission in lunacy, the state prisons and reformatories and the excise and highway departments. The prison department was the first to be investigated.

As a result of the investigations at Sing Sing and Clinton prisons alleged irregularities in the purchase of supplies were developed, but no charges were preferred against Supt. Collins.

In his letter to the governor the superintendent gave no reason for his resignation, but it is understood a business opportunity was presented which, if accepted, made it imperative

PREPARING FOR THE STRUGGLE

Senators Active in Fight for Committees Soon to Occur.

Washington, April 26.—Senators of every political shade were active today, preparing for a struggle which may take place on the senate floor tomorrow. Republican factions are at odds over the demands made by the insurgents and rejected by the majority of the committee on committees and the Democrats likewise, are dissatisfied with the assignments said to have been given them by the minority steering committee.

The Rupublican slate will be presented at a caucus called for 3 p. m. today and which will be considered at a party caucus called for 10:30 a. m. tomorrow. The regular Repulicans insisted before the caucus that there was no chance for the overturning of the program so as to place Senator La Follette on interstate commerce, Cummins on finance and Bristow on foreign relations, which were the points of difference which caused the greatest trouble.

Whether the Republican fight will be carried to the senate floor tomorrow will be determined by a meeting of the insurgents tonight after the adjournment of the caucus.

ATTEMPT TO ROB BANK AT ANOKA

Explode Nitro-Glycerin But Fail to Break Inner Door of Safe.

St. Paul, Minn., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four robbers made an unsuccessful attempt early today to crack the safe in the National bank in Anoka, Minn.

While they were approaching the bank they encountered Frank Wethern, who was on his way home. They handcuffed Wethern and tied him to a telephone pole.

After exploding a charge of nitroglycerin and failing to get beyond the inner door of the safe, they stole a railway motor and started for Minneapolis.

Ten miles from Minneapolis the motor car was hit by a freight train. The robbers meantime disappeared and the freight conductor believes they climbed on his train and rode toward St. Cloud.

Six suspects were taken from incoming freight trains at St. Cloud.

PRESIDENT AND KING

Notable Gathering at Celebration Under Direction of American Bible Society.

New York, April 26.—Letters from King George of England, and President Taft were read at Carnegie hall last night at a notable gathering in celebration of the 300th anniversary of the publication of the King James version of the English Bible.

The Right Rev. David H. Greer, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of New York, presided at the ceremony which was held under the auspices of the American Bible society.

King George V of Great Britain sent a special message. It was dated "Buckingham palace" and was read by the British ambassador, James Bryce. The king said:

MISSABE IS SHIPPING ORE

Steamer F. E. House Taking Cargo at West Duluth Docks.

Will Probably Clear for Lower Lakes Before Night.

The steamer F. E. House is the first boat to load ore at the Missabe docks.

The House is loading today and will leave port for Cleveland as soon as she has completed her load.

Yesterday she went out into the lake while her steering gear was adjusted. This morning she was brought back and sent to the Missabe docks for a load.

The shipments have begun to come down from the range in good shape and it is expected that there will be but little delay in loading and getting her away.

BREAKS STEERING GEAR.

Canadian Steamer Mapleton Has Accident Near Sault Ste. Marie.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Canadian steamer Mapleton was delayed one hour at Encampment this morning by a broken steering gear. She managed to work herself into deep water, where temporary repairs were made and came to this port for permanent repairs.

BIG FLEET IN "MUD HOLE"

Anchorage in Lower Harbor Is Used By Idle Boats.

One significant fact that does not speak well for a rushing season on the Great Lakes during the present year is the persistent way in which the big boats are seeking resting places at the "mud hole."

There are now fourteen boats laying up there and as more boats are being ordered there each day, it is expected that within a few days it will be filled. The "mud hole" will hold but about twenty boats.

The mud hole is located on the old Quebec channel near South Superior and directly across from the Northwestern Coal Dock No. 1. In the rush years there is not a sign of a boat near the mud hole, but in the dull season it is always crowded.

The mud hole is rapidly being filled up and this does not indicate to marine men that the season will be rushing for some time to come.

QUICK TIME BY TOWNSEND

The steamer E. G. Townsend of the Hanna line yesterday made the first quick trip to the Head of the Lakes of the present season.

She came up light and went at once to Allouez for a load of ore. She got nearly midsummer service, for although she made port at 8 o'clock, she was loaded and on her way back at 2 p. m.

This is but the second load of ore taken from the Great Northern docks at Allouez this season.

LAMBERT BRINGS STEEL RAILS

Big Fleet of Freighters Expected to Arrive This Week.

The steamer John Lambert arrived in the local port this morning with a cargo of steel rails. This is the first load of steel rails to be received at Duluth this season.

The D. J. Merrill, the only other arrival of the day, brought coal. There were no departures.

The fleet of light ore boats and those bringing coal are on the way up and are expected about Friday. There should be quite a number of them, according to those that are reported to have cleared from the lower lakes, and they will probably be bunched for some time at the ends of the lakes.

WOMAN IS UNRULY IN POLICE COURT

Jennie Schwantz, whose first arraignment was not this morning, was peevish when her name was called at the time the grist was arraigned.

"You are charged with drunkenness, second offense," said the judge when she stood before him. "Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Oh, I don't know about that," she retorted.

Seeing something further coming, the court directed that a plea of not guilty be entered and the trial set for this afternoon.

"You needn't do that," she said hastily. "I guess I had a few drinks all right." But the court wouldn't listen to her, having had experience in the past, and directed the police matron to take her from the courtroom.

"I won't move a step," she shouted. "I'll stay right here." But she didn't stay long. The matron being unable to induce her to go with her by persuasion, two husky policemen got her by either arm and she went along quite rapidly. As she was going through the door she called out: "Why don't you get half a dozen more cops to fire me out?" But no answer was forthcoming and in a minute she was back in the women's department.

STREET WORK CRITICIZED

Alderman Scott Says Much Unnecessary Expense Has Been Incurred.

Many Streets Having Light Travel Graded to Full Width.

"Too many streets and avenues in the suburbs have been graded and improved at a heavy expense to the property owners when it has not been necessary," said Alderman Scott, chairman of the council committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks today.

This is said to have been done in many places where but few lots were improved. In some instances it is claimed that the avenues and streets have been improved where they run into little more than woods.

Alderman Scott says that because of this many property owners who could ill afford it have been forced to unnecessary expense. This has caused them much hardship, it is claimed, and has hurt and retarded rather than aided the progress of the city. Already this year several contemplated improvements of this nature have been dropped, and Alderman Scott asserted that as far as possible he will be with the smaller property owners in this respect.

Under the present system of the city a petition of 25 per cent of the property owners will suffice to have the improvement ordered. In this way many owners who are opposed to the improvement are forced into it and can do little or nothing to stop it.

Others who have investigated this matter say that considerable sums of money have been wasted in this manner, the property owners getting practically no benefit from the improvement. They state that many streets have been graded to their full width, when a much smaller part of the street would have sufficed. To prove their contention they point to many streets in different parts of the city which have been improved in this manner, claiming that except for a small driveway in the center, they are overrun with weeds and grass.

USED AX ON BUILDINGS

Brimson Man Tried to Wreck Structures That Were Not Artistic.

Is Provided With More Artistic Surroundings in County Jail.

Joseph McDonald, 47 years old, of Brimson, Minn., tried to tear down the railroad station of that place. He thought it was his duty to tear down the structure, but would give no reason for it other than that. He was persistent in his endeavor to wreck the structure and it took a number of men to hold him.

A few days before he had tried to tear down a camp near Brimson which belonged to the Oliver Mining company. He said that the building was not artistic and that it made him nervous to look at it.

He used an ax in both instances. It worried the Oliver Iron Mining company and the Duluth & Iron Range railroad so much to think that they had erected buildings that were not artistic that they removed McDonald to Duluth where the crude buildings could no longer bother him.

He was given more artistic surroundings at the county jail and he will be given a nice, quiet and artistic hearing before Judge S. W. Gilpin and a board of examining doctors in probate court this afternoon.

McDonald has been acting queerly for a number of weeks. He seems to be rational on some things, but material things seem to worry him and it was thought best to test his candicacy for the institution at Fergus Falls, Minn.

ORGANIZE ON CO-OPERATIVE PLAN

New Cigar Company Will Employ at Least 100 Men.

During the past three months some local business men have regarded favorably the advisability of conducting in Duluth a cigar manufacturing company upon the mutual or co-operative plan.

The outcome of efforts made to interest cigar dealers and others in the project, was evidenced last evening in a meeting held in the offices of the Ron Fernandez Cigar company, located on West Second street, where a board of directors was elected for the ensuing year.

The Ron Fernandez Cigar company will hereafter be known as the Ron Fernandez Cigar Manufacturing company. The new company has purchased from the old, upon a cost inventory basis, with a nominal sum added, for the established business and registered labels owned and controlled by it, all rights and privileges to operate and further develop the business, in the territory and such adjacent territory as the board of directors may elect.

Inasmuch as between ninety and 100 stockholders are interested in the success of this enterprise, of whom the majority are venders of cigars, it is predicted that many Duluth investors will avail themselves of becoming identified with the newly organized company in return for the substantial dividends which must result from the natural tendency of merchants to sell merchandise they are financially interested in.

Sufficient stock has already been subscribed and mostly paid in, to take over the old business without indebtedness.

Additional stock, however, will be issued immediately and every effort made to increase the present working force to at least 100 men, resulting thereby in a monthly payroll of at least $10,000.

The board of directors elected last night consists of: W. A. Abbett, Edward M. Stone, H. B. Detweiler, A. M. Balfany and H. O. Outcault.

ROSSI WILL TAKE LAST JOURNEY

Sheriff John Meining received official notice this morning from Governor Eberhart and the state board of pardons that the sentence of Mike Rossi, who killed Antonio De Meo and who had been sentenced to hang, had been commuted.

The paper is a very official looking document and besides the signature of Governor Eberhart, it carries the seal of the state and a number of other important looking marks.

No further orders are necessary in the case. The sheriff will leave about the last of the week with Rossi for Stillwater, where Rossi will go behind the walls for the rest of his life.

GASOLINE IS CHEAPER

Competition Sends Price Down to 11 1-2 Cents a Gallon.

Auto Owners Will Find It Costs Less to Run Cars.

Without any apparent reason, gasoline has steadily declined in price until at the present time it can be purchased from the large oil companies for 11½ cents a gallon.

Last year gasoline sold for as high as 15 cents, and 20 cents was asked at all the garages. The competition is said to be stronger this year than ever, and so far as local managers are able to find out, this is the only reason for the falling off of the price.

More gasoline is being used every year and the business has grown greatly in the last few years. The companies are fighting for the business and hence the lower prices.

The Standard Oil company in this city has a number of rivals for local trade and while the companies are smaller they are all active competitors.

The price of 11½ cents is for gasoline delivered to any part of the city. This is 2 cents cheaper than it could have been purchased last summer. The price this spring is said to be the cheapest that the commodity has been in many years.

When the automobile came prominently into use, the price of gasoline was immediately raised. Each year it has been raised until last year and the year before "the juice" was a very prominent part of the expense of running an automobile. A few years ago it could be purchased at retail at 8 cents. Lately it has been much higher, however.

The reduction will be good news for all automobile and motor boat owners.

WANTS $56,000 FROM RAILROAD

McKinley Man Asks Fortune for Injuries Sustained in Runaway.

In a personal injury action filed yesterday afternoon with the clerk of the district court, Angelo Talerico, a resident of McKinley, Minn., asks $56,000 from the Duluth & Iron Range railroad.

Talerico claims that while he was driving a spirited horse close to the tracks of the company, an engine, the property of the railroad, came along and the engineer in a spirit of mischief caused the steam to be let out through the exhaust. It frightened the horse so that it ran away and the plaintiff claims he was badly injured.

He has been ill ever since and does not expect to be able to walk again. For the pain and anguish he has suffered he wants $50,000; for expenses of doctors and nurse, $5,000; and for loss of wages as miner, $3,000.

For a time the entire village was threatened and more than a 100 men worked every minute with chemicals and buckets of water.

E. C. Elleckson last three stacks of hay, E. O. Ytreby lost two and Henry Austinson two. Several small buildings were also burned.

WORK FARM IS FAVORED

G. G. Hartley Shows Miserable Abuse of Existing Jail System.

Not Enough Real Criminals to Half Fill Present Jail.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It is announced that our large jail is overcrowded with criminals, drunks and vagrants and that more room must be provided. Our merchants and property holders have insisted on such railroad service as will bring woodsmen and other laborers in here that we may secure their trade. Coming into the city after a few months on railroad construction, in the woods or on a river drive, these men are excited by the noise and racket of the city and the most natural thing, for instance, for a woodsman to do, is to call his comrades into a saloon and drink liquor to feed this excitement and promote good fellowship.

In Winnipeg recently I visited a department store that employs more than 3,000 clerks and sells more goods in a month than any department or retail store in Duluth sells in a year. Winnipeg has double the population and business of Duluth, yet Duluth has more than twice as many saloons as Winnipeg, and other towns and villages in this county are equally well supplied. Virginia, for instance, with 10,000 population, has about as many saloons as Winnipeg with fifteen times as many people, so that when the woodsman leaves the train he sees more saloons than anything else; nine in a row and more than fifteen in the first block from the depot in Virginia, and nearly everything is saloons in the vicinity of the depots at Duluth, and when a camp's crew or bunch of river drivers lands in Duluth, the young fellow among them who would be the class favorite in college is the first to invite all his comrades into a saloon to drink at his expense. This is his way of celebrating his return to civilization and it is done in the best of good fellowship.

How the Woodsman Falls.

There are too many saloons in Duluth to all make an honest living, and in order to pay expenses and satisfactory dividends some of them are obliged to break more than half of the Ten Commandments as often as the opportunity is presented. Our state and city inspect food, milk, maple syrup and vinegar and such things, but we have no effective system of inspecting the stuff sold by saloons and when the young woodsman, in the spirit of hospitality, pulls out his winter's wages from which to pay for the drinks, he is liable to get a very strong drink himself and the chances are that before long, with empty pockets and a crazed head, full of youthful health and strength, he is trying to knock the barkeeper's head off, or he is out on the street yelling like a Comanche Indian and trying to thrash a policeman. Next is the city prison, a morning of remorse and burning fever, in the police court, an impossible fine with the alternative of a term in our county jail, and the published police report is "that with his winter's wages spent in one day, the jail term looked good to him," with some jokes thrown in as to his personal appearance. He puts in a month or so in this miserable place crowded with criminals, degenerates and other unfortunates. Used to breathing God's pure atmosphere, fragrant with the odor of the pine, here he is packed with perhaps four or five in a small cell or herded in a basement with a miserable crowd. After many tedious days he is turned out of this overheated, foul atmosphere, illy clad, physically reduced, unfit to stand the cold, feeling himself a jail bird, self respect gone and in most cases he will return to the jail as soon as he can find anyone to buy liquor enough for him to send him back, and it is from such men and conditions as these, that our criminal class is largely recruited. We have not enough real criminals to half fill the present jail. It is a shame that it is full. It would be a crime to build more jail room and continue this miserable abuse.

Good Land Available.

I know where our county can buy 200 acres of good land within the city limits for $60 an acre, which is less than the price of good prairie land in Dakota. On this land comfortable, well-ventilated, healthful quarters for 100 men could be built by the county for less than the cost of the metal doors for the cells of the proposed new jail. I know this because I am constantly building such buildings. Then large feeding sheds could be built, and in early spring young pigs can be purchased for $2 apiece. The waste food from the homes of Duluth could be hauled to these sheds instead of to the present incinerator. Each two of these men could sort and classify the material and feed 100 hogs. This material is largely first-class groceries and vegetables and would make the best of food. The increase in the market value of these hogs, if sold in the fall, would average $20 per head. While it would be impractical with such help to do dairying or market gardening on a large scale, still enough vegetables and dairy product could be raised to supply the tables. Each man should have a room by himself and a good bed; they should be well fed and worked from morning to night. They would have plenty of exercise, pure air to breathe, and this sort of discipline would serve to break them of the drink habit and turn them out good citizens, free from the stigma of having "served time."

It is a mistake to assume that such a plant would be hard to handle. It would be only necessary to keep it out of politics and employ just such a man to run it as Alger-Smith would employ to handle 100 men in the lumber woods, which would mean a good, sturdy, sober, hard-headed man requiring a salary of about $100 a month.

No matter how carefully we may raise our boys, they may become restive and tired of home control and go out to try the world for themselves, and the very favorite one among them is liable to get into exactly the same troubles that I have described. We would like for the poor boy to have humane treatment in the time of his trouble.

The great Philosopher, in speaking to His good friends, said: "I was in prison and ye came unto Me." The lumberjack is in prison in our county jail, and it is our duty to come unto him. Thanking you for the space, I am, yours truly, G. G. HARTLEY.

NEW REAPPORTIONMENT BILL APPEARS IN HOUSE.

Washington, April 26.—A bill for the reapportionment of the house of representatives on the basis of 433 members, was reported favorably to the house late yesterday by Chairman Houston of the house committee on census. The size recommended for the house is the same which was provided by the Crumpacker bill, which passed the house at the last session and is an increase of forty-one over the present membership. The Houston bill does not contain the provision of the Crumpacker bill authorizing the secretary of commerce and labor to reapportion the house after future national censuses. If the house bill becomes a law, the representation in the house of representatives will be one member for each 211,811 of inhabitants.

BUTTE GETS RELIGION.

Successful Revival Just Closed in Big Mining Camp.

Butte, Mont., April 26.—The most successful revival in the history of Butte or Montana closed here Sunday night, when a great throng gathered for the last time in the big tabernacle to hear Revivalist Lowry Moody. About 3,600 persons worshiped at the tabernacle the last evening, and recited the Lord's prayer devoutly at the close of the service. Probably 2,000 persons were turned away, as every seat was filled and standing room was eagerly sought at 6:30 o'clock.

The final collection was for the benefit of Evangelist Oscar Lowry, and it yielded him $2,100, bringing the total of collections for the five weeks of the revival services to $5,970.60. Of this amount $3,600 was for current expenses and $276.60 for the church fund.

A total attendance of 11,475 was reported, which yielded 1,234 conversions to the churches of Butte. The last day's conversions were 169. The revival services were held under the auspices of the Butte Ministerial association.

Champion Woman Canoeist of Minneapolis to Enter Carnival

Miss Wylla Spence of Minneapolis, the champion canoeist of that city, is coming to Duluth at the time of the great water carnival this summer to engage in canoe races and compete for fancy paddling honors.

Miss Spence is the daughter of C. W. Spence of Minneapolis. She has lived on the shores of Lake Harlet and her life and since the time she was strong enough to hold a paddle, she has spent all her spare time in a canoe during the summer.

At the carnival in Minneapolis last year Miss Spence took all the prizes for both fast and fancy paddling. In the race against other women she finished more th neten lengths ahead of her nearest competitor.

Mr. Spence was in Duluth yesterday and he announced his intention of having his daughter enter the Duluth event. She is but 19 years old.

As there are a number of Duluth girls who are rather handy with the paddle, Miss Spence will probably be accommodated with some contests during her stay in the Zenith City.

MISS WYLLA SPENCE.

THE EVENING STORY

ROGUES ALL

By Rudolph Skinner.

Mr. Bauer looked gloomily through the letters that had come by the afternoon post. It was the quietest month of the year. Orders were small, and remittances few. He grew sadder and sadder as he went through the letters, and when he came to the last—a reminder from the Wellington Fire Insurance corporation that the annual premium, $30, on Mr. Bauer's policy was due—he struck the desk angrily with his fist.

"A set of scoundrels!" he exclaimed. "For four years they have taken this from me and given me nothing. It is daylight robbery!"

He laid the letter aside, and called his manager.

"Mr. Foster, things are so quiet we will take the stock tomorrow. Something must be done to make the people earn their wages. I do not pay people to skylark."

"Certainly not, sir," agreed Mr. Foster.

Mr. Bauer wandered sadly round his premises till closing time. Then he visited every room himself to see that everything was properly fastened up. He paused to look round the warehouse on the ground floor. The gas jet by the window was lit, which enabled the police to supervise the warehouse from outside.

As Mr. Bauer surveyed it, a little flake of whitewash from the ceiling above the gas jet detached itself and floated to the ground. Mr. Bauer took some steps, mounted to the ceiling, and touched it with his hand. It was quite warm.

"That is dangerous," thought Mr. Bauer, "the ceiling is but lath and plaster." Then like lightning a great idea flashed across his mind. The police, glancing through the loophole, could only see across the warehouse; they could not see the ceiling. "A bigger gas burner," thought Mr. Bauer, "plenty of wood wool and packing stuff on the floor above. I could have many goods unpacked on the night before. The place could be burnt down before one could whistle. It is providential—quite providential—that I arranged to take the stock tomorrow. I will take it myself—with great accuracy."

He went back to his office, and, before leaving business wrote, with a smiling face, a check for the insurance company he had only an hour since characterized as "a set of scoundrels."

The next morning Mr. Bauer, in spite of bad business, was in high spirits.

"I will write the stock down myself, Mr. Foster. Have the girls get out and dust the goods for you, and you call out the quantities." Soon they were hard at work.

"A gross and a half imitation leather ladies' handbags, with nickel fittings," Mr. Foster would call out.

"Right, right!" Mr. Bauer would reply. And his nimble pen would write down "two gross and a half."

Carefully and systematically the stock was gone through, in the process being inflated about 40 per cent in amount.

"You see, Mr. Foster," explained Mr. Bauer, when the stock taking was completed, "I have thoughts of floating the business as a limited liability company and giving to customers the opportunity to buy shares."

"Perhaps, if that is the case, we've taken stock a little too strictly, sir. I had no idea that was your object. Several lots of goods that we bought as job lines or bankrupt stock might fairly have been put in at their proper value."

"No, no!" replied Mr. Bauer sternly. "In business, my friend, it is necessary to be honest before all things. How could I ask my customers' shares to take in a company that was overvalued?"

"I meant nothing that was not perfectly legitimate, sir."

"One cannot be too strict in business. I will take the stock sheets home, and finish filling the prices in myself." Mr. Bauer went over the pricing of his stock in open, liberal fashion, and when he had worked out the results, he felt that if Providence did send a fire to his establishment it would prove a most profitable stroke of business.

So a week later, everything being ready, Mr. Bauer during the dinner hour, romoved the small burner from the gas jet and substituted a large one. He had set the hands in the upstairs warehouse unpacking a new consignment of goods.

"Ah," thought Mr. Bauer, "when I have gone away in the afternoon they will skylark, and everything will be left about to clear up in the morning. That is good."

When the manager returned from dinner, Mr. Bauer said to him: "Now the urgent letters have been attended to, Mr. Foster, I am going down to Philadelphia to see if I can do some business. I am tired of these idle travelers of mine, who sit all the day in hotels and do not send the orders. It is orders, not hotel bills that I want."

"Yes, sir," replied the manager.

"And you will see that the place is locked up. Try all the windows. I cannot have burglars taking the goods away."

"I'll see to it, sir."

"And mind you leave the gas jet burning, so that the policeman can look in at night."

"Yes, sir."

"That is all, Mr. Foster. I place trust in you. You have my confidence. I tell you that when my company is floated you shall have some shares."

"Thank you, sir."

"That is, if I find you trustworthy. If there is anything of importance in the letters tomorrow, you can wire me to the Davenport hotel, Philadelhpia, but do not waste a quarter unless it is absolutely necessary. I must be off. I shall send some orders by to-night's post. I do not stay and drink in hotels. I go out for business, and I get it. Good day, Mr. Foster!"

"Good, day, sir!"

Mr. Bauer bustled out, bag in hand. Arrived at Philadelphia, he interviewed two or three customers. He had no objection to cutting prices. Mr. Bauer was not one of those miserly men who insist on high prices, even when they have no intention of supplying the goods. At night he wrote his orders out and forwarded them to New York.

The next morning he went out early to work, but at 11 o'clock dropped into the hotel again, under pretense of needing more samples. He nodded cheefully to the manageress as he went in.

"There's a telegram for you, Mr. Bauer," she said.

"Dear me—dear me! I hope that my dear wife is well!"

With trembling hands, he tore open the envelope.

"Good heavens!" he cried. "My business premises are burned down—all destroyed—all my beautiful goods!" He sank on to the lounge, the picture of misery, and the manageress hastily brought him a glass of brandy.

"What a dreadful thing!" she said. "Has everything gone?"

"See what my manager says: 'Warehouse totally destroyed by fire last night; nothing left. Will meet 1 o'clock train at Brooklyn bridge.—Foster.'"

"Perhaps you'd better rest awhile, Mr. Bauer. There's twenty minutes before you need catch your train. I hope it won't prove as bad as it seems."

"I'm ruined, ruined!" murmured Mr. Bauer, gulping down the brandy with the comfortable consciousness that as he had not ordered it they could not possibly charge it on his bill.

He told his misfortune to his traveling companions in the train, and received much sympathy. When he arrived at Brooklyn bridge, his faithful manager awaited him on the platform. "Oh, Mr. Foster," cried Mr. Bauer, "my business—my beautiful business! Tell me it isn't true!"

"You'd better come into the refreshment room and have something to steady you, sir."

"Is nothing saved?" cried Mr. Bauer, in his agony of mind letting his manager pay for the drinks.

"Nothing but the safe and the books. But come in the corner here. I want to talk to you before you go to the warehouse."

Mr. Bauer gripped his hair wildly in mental agony.

"That looks very well," said Mr. Foster approvingly; "but mind, I know a little bit about this. I saw you fitting the new burner on the gas jet yesterday, and tumbled to the game at once. I'd a look, too, at the stock sheets, when I got them out of the safe today. They've been stretched pretty fairly. Still, not too much to make the insurance company kick. Well, this fire throws me out of a job. You can't do anything till the insurance people pay up, and that will take some months. If I talk, they'll never pay at all, and you may have to face a charge of arson. I don't grudge you the insurance money—you've earned it—but I'd a look at your bank pass book the other day. You'd $1,200 to your credit. You'll go to your bank, draw $1,000 and give it to me. I'll promise you to leave the country at once. That leaves you $200 to help you along till you get your insurance. I call that liberal."

"This is blackmail!" murmured Mr. Bauer. "I will never, never submit!"

"Right! The insurance company will treat me well. I'll drop around to see them whilst you have a look at the ruins. Good-day!" Foster turned to go out of the room.

"Here—come back!" gasped Mr. Bauer.

"Oh, you'll do it, then! You have your chequebook with you; I saw it wasn't in the safe. We'll cash the cheque. Come along;" Mr. Bauer almost shed tears.

"You are ungrateful after the way I treated you. Didn't I promise you shares in the company? Robbing a poor man whose business premises have been burned down! There will be a curse on the money! Do be honest, Mr. Foster!"

"And go to the insurance company?"

Mr. Bauer's gestures of repulsion was most striking.

"No; I will give you the money. But you promise to go abroad at once?"

"On my honor."

They drove to the bank, and Mr. Bauer after describing his terrible misfortune to the cashier, drew $1,000 out, and handed it over to his rascally manager.

"That'll do," said Mr. Foster. "You'll never set eyes on me again; I promise you that. Now you be off and weep over the ruins. You'll find the best description of the fire, by the way, on the outside page of the Journal."

"A fool!" thought Mr. Bauer. "He has robbed me, but if I had been in his place I would have shared the insurance money. But these Yankees they know nothing of business."

Mr. Bauer drove to the scene of the fire, watered the ashes with his tears, and received much sympathy—not entirely unmixed with envy—from his neighbors.

At last the poor ruined merchant said that he could bear the sight no longer, and called a taxi to carry him home. Foster's recommendation occurred to him as he got into the cab, and he stopped the driver at the first street corner to buy a Journal. He scanned it eagerly for the account of the fire, but could see nothing. He turned the paper over and over, annoyed at having spent a needless cent. Suddenly a paragraph struck his eye. "Another Bogus Insurance Company." "Clients of the Wellington Fire Insurance corporation were surprised yesterday to find the offices closed, and that the directors were not to be traced. The company was only formed four years ago, and has done a considerable business at cut rates. As the landlord has distrained on the office furniture for rent, it is exceedingly unlikely that the other creditors of the company will receive anything, or that any claims on the company that mature will be met."

"I'm ruined!" cried Mr. Bauer for the twentieth time that day. But this time he meant it.

The Doctor

Dyspepsia and Diet.

The first questions the sufferer from indigestion must ask himself are: Do I take enough time over my meals, and, secondly, do I eat more than I need?

Two-thirds of the cases of dyspepsia come: First, from bolting hastily chewed food in an effort to save time over meals, or, second, from over-eating.

Begin by cutting out all second helpings. Then make a point of chewing every mouthful at least six times if of a soft substance like vegetables or bread, and at least a dozen times if meat. For the man of fifty or over who gets three meals a day, second helpings are just as certain life shorteners as are drinks of spirits.

The best drink for the dyspeptic is fresh water or milk diluted with one-third soda water. A pinch of salt may be added instead of soda. Remember though that milk is a food as well as a beverage. So when taking milk go even slower with the solid dishes. Alcoholic drinks of all kinds are rank poisons for the dyspeptic.

If you suffer from flatulency and a bitter sometimes suddenly rises in the mouth cut out potatoes, white bread, rice thick soups, gravies, the coarser green vegetables, such as cabbage and sprouts, and all fried foods.

Rich fatty foods are just as hard to digest even by the heathiest of us, but the fats are a most necessary part of our diet, especially in the cold weather. Butter, however, rarely upsets even the most ill-balanced digestive system. While fine white bread should be given up entirely by the dyspeptic a while wheat bread often can be readily digested.

Don't worry your doctor for a cure for your digestion. He can't cure you. If you are going to get rid of it and get your stomach back into normal working order again, it won't be from medicines the doctor can give you, but from the care, attention and self-restraint with which you regulate your diet.

The doctors can't even lay down hard and fast rules about what you may or may not eat. Their part is to give a few broad hints, such as those above, and then urge the patient to experiment on his stomach along these lines until he learns that he can eat safely and what he must avoid.

Egg Nutriment.

As a flesh producer, says a writer in the Family Doctor, one pound of eggs is equal to one pound of beef. About one-third of the weight of an egg is solid nutriment, which is more than can be said of meat. Eggs at average prices, are among the cheapest and most nutritious articles of diet. Like milk, an egg is a complete food in itself. It is easily digested if not damaged in cooking.

THREATENED TO KILL GIRL

Tug Cook Is Arrested on Complaint of Young Woman.

Nellie Chillman Says Montroy Was Angered By Her Indifference.

Lafe Montroy, a tug cook, was arrested last night on a warrant sworn out by Nellie Chillman, charging him with assaulting and threatening to kill her in her room at the Columbia hotel, 115 West First street.

The assault is alleged to have occurred Monday afternoon when Montroy is claimed to have pushed her over the sill of an open window, grabbed her by the throat with one hand and to have brandished an open clasp knife with the other, threatening to kill her.

Yesterday morning she claims that he slashed the clothes left in her room into ribbons, and to have been waiting for her to put in an appearance. She heard of it and swore out a complaint against him at the office of the assistant city attorney at the city hall.

Miss Chillman said that she and Montroy had been "sweethearts" for some time past, but that she recently became convinced that he was not sincere in his protestations that they would be married soon. Sunday evening it appears that she attended the theater with another man, which aroused Montroy's anger. He is claimed to have waited for her return and to have severely upbraided her that night. She asserted that he had been drinking.

Montroy pleaded not guilty when arraigned in municipal court this morning, and will be given a hearing Friday afternoon.

DETECTIVE APPEARS BEFORE GRAND JURY; DOES NOT TESTIFY

after his appearance before the grand jury a man in the curious crowd shouted:

"You're a damned crook!"

"I'm good enough to get such men as you," retorted Burns, and he passed out of the courthouse with his attorneys.

Hearing that a subpoena had been issued for him, Frank M. Ryan, president of the Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, appeared in the grand jury anteroom and offered to testify. He was told he would be called later.

Following Burns, two women said to have lived in a downtown building in which some members of the structural iron workers' union had rooms, were called into the grand jury room and examined briefly and then a recess was taken.

The trial of Attorney Drew, who was charged with resisting an officer yesterday, was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Ask for Hearing.

Mr. Badorf, when arrested yesterday on a warrant charging kidnaping issued at the same time as those on which Walter Drew of New York, counsel for the Erectors' association; W. Joseph Ford, assistant district attorney of Los Angeles, and Frank Fox, a chauffeur, were arrested Monday night, asked for a hearing in the court of Justice of the Peace Manning, before whom he was taken, and it was set for 9 o'clock today. Mr. Badorf, however, appeared in court with Detective Burns when he gave himself up late yesterday, waived the hearing and his bonds were changed to hold him to the grand jury.

It is reported here that one of the "John Doe" warrants which were issued Monday night for Burns' assistants, is intended for James Hossick, the Los Angeles official who took charge of McNamara when the local officials recognized the extradition papers.

Five Witnesses Heard.

Five witnesses were examined by the grand jury yesterday. Superintendent of Police Martin J. Hyland and Captain of Detectives W. A. Holtz were the first summoned and it is stated that the grand jury purposes to learn if the police officials and Police Judge James A. Collins exceeded their authority in the part they took in the arrest and extradition of McNamara.

It is reported that evidence will be produced to an effect to show that the requisition papers for McNamara, which were honored by Governor Marshall, should have been served by the sheriff of Marion county instead of by a police officer. Attorneys for labor leaders say the extradition case should have gone before a judge of the circuit court instead of before Police Judge Collins.

Attorney W. C. Appleman was the next witness called, probably for the purpose of learning the whereabouts of a Miss Mary C. Dye, formerly private secretary for McNamara.

According to the attorney, the girl, in forcing the payment of a legal claim of $300 against McNamara, told Appleman that she had important information about McNamara and the iron workers' organization which he (McNamara) would not like to have known. The claim, according to Appleman, was paid.

B. John Cook, another witness, was a bookkeeper in the offices of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' association for several months up to Feb. 4 last, when he quit after a difference with McNamara.

Harry Graff, custodian of the American Central Life building, in which the union's offices are located, completed the witnesses for the day. Graff had stated he gave McNamara permission to construct the compartment in the basement in which the dynamite was found.

Burns Arrested.

Detective William J. Burns was served with a warrant at 6 o'clock last evening charging him with complicity in the alleged kidnaping of J. J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.

Burns was arrested on the street as he was on his way to the court of Justice of the Peace Manning to surrender himself. Constables had searched for him all day. He was released under $10,000 bond to appear before the grand jury.

shaw revoked the physician's bond of $50,000 and remanded him to the custody of the county marshal.

In its opinion, by which the Hyde case was reversed and remanded for a new trial, the supreme court declared that Judge Latshaw was in error in revoking the bond. In the habeas corpur proceedings Dr. Hyde's attorneys laid much stress upon that part of the supreme court's opinion.

Had Six Attorneys.

Dr. Hyde was represented in court today by all the six lawyers who looked after his interests at his first trial. The state was represented by Prosecuting Attorney Conkling and his assistants, and T. A. J. Mastin, law partner of United States Senator James A. Reed, special prosecutor in the case.

Prosecutor Conkling said he would demand that an early date be fixed for the second trial of Dr. Hyde.

When it was announced that Dr. Hyde had been admitted to bail and his bond approved, many of his friends, who were in the courtroom, crowded around him and shook his hand. His wife was beside him, smiling happily. As soon as they could make their way through the crowd Dr. and Mrs. Hyde left the courtroom and entering Mrs. Hyde's electric automobile, started for their home. As they passed the county jail many of the county officials who have had the prisoner in their charge for the last year leaned from the windows and waved their hands. With a broad smile Hyde returned the salutes.

Next Monday Dr. Hyde will appear in the criminal court here and the date for his next trial for the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope will be set.

matter decided by a tribunal—a proposal which the enemy would be sure to reject! It is time to explain, as clearly and unmistakably as possible, that, so far from being mere dreamers, philosophers or men without country, we have a clear conception of our duty and our responsibility. We believe that the policy we advocate for Europe is as clear, as prudent, as positive and as full of promise as the policy now followed is obscure and fraught with confusion and danger.

"Universal peace and simultaneous disarmament will never be anything but dreams, unless science and the strictest and most methodical means are employed to hasten their coming. It may already be said that disarmament will merely be the last stage of pacific evolution. Between this last stage and the aspirations we now entertain there is many a mile to be traveled, and always at the same pace. It is useless to look for disarmament unless we first try the effect of a progressive reduction of armaments; and this reduction itself will be necessarily preceded by a limitation, a halt in the increase of armaments. This limitation, however, implies great changes in the relations among the powers, and these changes must be set down in treaties. Such treaties imply reciprocal recessions, due to a respect for justice and the consciousness of a new solidarity between the contracting states. Such treaties cannot be successfully carried out, nor even negotiated, unless public opinion is thoroughly prepared beforehand.

"On these lines, our program becomes very simple and clear. Our one object is to bring international arbitration into general acceptance and induce governments to resort to a reasonable and honorable way of settling, not all conflicts, but the largest possible number of them, by equitable means."

publication, 300 years ago, of that version of the Holy Scriptures, which has so long held its own among English-speaking peoples.

"Its circulation in our homes has done more, perhaps, than anything else on earth to promote among old and young the moral and religious welfare on either side of the Atlantic.

"The version which bears King James' name is so clearly interwoven in the history of British and American life that it is right we should thank God for it together.

"I congratulate the president and people of the United States upon their share in this, our common heritage."

Letter From President.

"To the Tercentenary celebration of the King James version of the English Bible:

"I desire to express my deep interest in the recognition which is being taken in this country of so notable an event as the 300th anniversary of the King James version of the English Bible.

"The publication of the version of the Holy Scriptures in the year 1611 associates it with the early colonies of the English people upon this continent. It became at once the Bible of our American forefathers. Its classic English has given shape to American literature. Its spirit has influenced American ideals in life, and laws and government.

"I trust that this celebration may continue and deepen the influence of the Bible upon the people of the republic. "WILLIAM H. TAFT."

COLLINS HAS QUIT HIS JOB

for him to sever his connection with the department at once. He was not in Albany today.

Active Politician.

Mr. Collins is a member of the Republican state committee and political leader of Rensselaer county. He took an active part in the campaign last fall and was Theodore Roosevelt's "right hand man" at the Republican state convention at Saratoga when Col. Roosevelt wrested the temporary chairmanship from Vice President Sherman.

As a criminologist Supt. Collins was well known, not only in the United States but abroad. During his long service at the head of New York's prison department he inaugurated many reforms. He abolished the lockstep, striped clothing and the clipping of convicts' hair. A comprehensive school system for prisoners was established in each prison, classification rules were enforced so that first offenders were kept apart from confirmed criminals, and honor emblems were adopted; he inaugurated the finger print system of identification, and sanitary barber shops were established, competent dentists and oculists were engaged to give the inmates' teeth and eyes the proper attention.

Through legislation recommended by Supt. Collins Dannemora state hospital was opened and the segregation of the convicted from the unconvicted insane prisoners was accomplished.

ILLINOIS SENATE CONSIDERING QUESTION OF CITING WITNESSES

mittee that no attempt is made to break into houses and seize private documents and papers. We are not unreasonable, and our actions are not in violation of the Constitution."

Mr. Healy quoted from a number of supreme court decisions in support of his contention that the senate had power to force Tilden, Benedict and Cummings to produce the required data.

Tilden Attorneys Follow.

Judge Sears of Chicago, representing Tilden, Benedict and Cummings, followed Mr. Healy. Judge Sears declared that the Helm committee report was misleading and therefore could not be passed upon intelligently. He said that Mr. Tilden never refused to take the witness stand and at this time is ready to testify before the committee.

Judge Sears assured the senate that Mr. Tilden is willing to do all he can to aid the committee, but that he (Tilden) felt he had a Constitutional right to refuse to turn over to the committee his personal checking accounts and papers.

"Mr. Tilden has testified under oath," declared Judge Sears, "that not an item in his personal or business accounts had any reference to the inquiry. That is sufficient. The committee has that testimony and I believe that is all that should be asked of him."

"To further show the good will of Mr. Tilden," continued Judge Sears, "he has already offered to allow one member of the committee to examine all of his private affairs. Then the committee charges him with contempt. Why, I consider Mr. Tilden's action a matter of respect for this honorable body."

Lot of Old Maids' Gossip.

Judge Sears branded Clarence Funk's testimony as a "lot of old maid's gossip at a tea party," and declared that it should not be considered as sacred as Tilden's.

"What Tilden said on the witness stand," said Judge Sears, "was the gospel truth. What Funk said was merely gossip."

At this point Judge Sears requested that a recess be taken until 2 o'clock this afternoon to enable him to prepare additional arguments. His request was granted.

MANY NATIONS REPRESENTED

Second Annual Congress on Child Welfare Begins Its Sessions.

Washington, April 26.—The second international congress on child welfare began a seven-day conference here today by reports from officers and department chairmen. Reports were scheduled for today on child labor, child hygiene, juvenile court and probation, rural child welfare, and education.

Delegates from many nations were to attend, Persia being represented by Mme. Ali Kuli Khan, wife of the charge d'affaires here; Italy by Merrigio Serrati of the Italian navy; China by one of its secretaries of legation here, and Belgium by Paul Hagemans, its consul general at Philadelphia.

The report of Mrs. Frederic Schoff, president of the National Mothers' congress, under direction of which the international congress is held, pointed to the fact that as a result of letters sent out by ambassadors after the first international child welfare congress three years ago, at the request of the mothers' congress, similar organizations had been formed in a number of countries.

LEGISLATURE HAS STEPHENSON CASE

Resolution Asks That United States Senate Investigate Election.

Madison, Wis., April 26.—After months of delay the Stephenson senatorial election report is before the legislature. It came today in the form of a substitute resolution in place of the one originally introduced, and is presented by the senate judiciary committee with Senator Bodenstab dissenting.

The resolution is most sweeping in character, reviewing the report and recommendations of the senate investigating committee and in addition, requests that the United States senate investigate the election of Isaac Stephenson. The resolution recommends concurring in the findings of the senate committee. The report further recommends that prosecutions be instituted by the district attorney of Dane county against all persons shown by the testimony to have committed bribery. The same provision relates to the district attorneys of other counties.

Unless other disposition is made, the resolution will come up for consideration on Friday's calendar.

20,000 Women Bought It Yesterday

This is an entirely new dish—this Van Camp's Spaghetti.

This is one of the few towns where most grocers have it.

But, even now, 20,000 women are buying it daily. We have never created such a popular dish.

Some people have eaten spaghetti in Rome and wished they could bring a supply back to America.

But our chefs, in two years, have perfected a recipe better than Italy ever knew.

The recipe is secret. We can never reveal it to you. But, of the 17 ingredients, the main ones are these:

Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same superlative tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork & Beans.

The dish is prepared in our kitchens and supplied to you ready to serve. Simply heat it or bake it, as you prefer.

It costs you less than to make it yourself, even if we told you how.

This is a dish you ought to know, and know it while it's new. You'll find yourself serving it ten times as often as you serve spaghetti now.

Tell your grocer to send you some.

WEST END

PAVEMENT WORN OUT

Improvement Made Four Years Ago Must Be Replaced.

Property Owners Protest Against Proposed Filling of Sink Holes.

West end business men, who with Aldermen Scott, Bernard and Hoar and members of the board of public works, looked over the worn out pavement on West Superior street between the Point of Rocks and Twenty-first avenue yesterday, say that to spend money for repairs would be equivalent to throwing so much money away. They will protest against this being done.

The Superior street paving job at the West end will go on record, they say, as being one of the worst pieces of work ever put down in the city. There was a big assessment for the pavement levied against the Superior street property only four years ago and today the street is full of sink holes and is in very bad condition. The city was partly to blame for the job, they say, when they allowed the pavement to be laid without any foundation.

There was much difference of opinion among the aldermen, board of works members and the business men who made the trip of inspection yesterday, as to what should be done. Some of the board of public works members, who do not live in the West end recommended that the street be repaired, and that the sink holes be filled with a new kind of a cement, especially adapted for this purpose, but this suggestion was met with disapproval from the property owners.

S. W. Hill, president of the West End Commercial club, states that the sentiment of the West end people seems to be that the street should be paved on one side for a few blocks with a sandstone pavement, similar to that on Garfield avenue. He said that the property owners had been taxed enough for a pavement and that the expense of this improvement be defrayed from the repair fund of the board of public works. There is now $40,000 in the fund. The West enders believe that $20,000 of this amount should be spent on this street.

To lay sandstone blocks on one side of the street would cost in the neighborhood of $2,100 to the block. If $20,000 was appropriated from the repair fund of the board of public works, the improvement could be made this year from Garfield to Twenty-first avenue west.

FARMER NOT WORRYING

Spring Wheat Acreage in Northwest Larger Than Ever Before.

Greater Part of It Sown and Conditions Are Most Favorable.

Reports to The Herald indicate that the spring wheat acreage in the Northwest will be larger than ever before. The durum wheat acreage may show a falling off but the northern grades will be greatly increased in acreage.

Last year the government estimated the spring wheat acreage in the five Northwestern states as follows: Minnesota, 94,000,000 bu, acreage, 5,880,000; North Dakota, 36,000,000 bu, acreage, 7,221,000; South Dakota, 47,000,000 bu, acreage, 3,650,000; Montana, 4,000,000 bu acreage, 195,000; Washington, 12,000,000 bu, acreage 810,000. The total spring wheat crop was 231,399,000 bu from an acreage of 19,778,000. These figures are estimates of the government and are higher than the accepted figures of commercial interests.

The spring wheat crop was a partial failure in North Dakota last year. This year there has been plenty of moisture in territory which was most affected by the drouth last year. There has been plenty of moisture in North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota to germinate the seed and get the plant fairly well started. In some parts of South Dakota rain is needed but in no place in the Northwest is the siutation serious in this respect. There have been many local showers lately which have given enough surface moisture to make conditions almost ideal. Probably 60 to 70 per cent of the entire spring wheat acreage in the Northwest has been sown.

The durum wheat acreage will be smaller than last year. Durum wheat is a "freak." It gained popularity because farmers thought it a hardier plant than spring wheat. Last year's early freezing and thawing and the later drouth killed durum wheat with the same facility as spring wheat and farmers apparently have reached the conclusion that by careful cultivation they can grow spring wheat as successfully as durum wheat. The former brings higher prices than the latter.

The Durum Market.

Belgium, Germany and Turkey are the chief importers of durum wheat. Italy used to take large quantities and France was a big consumer, also, but in recent years these countries have not taken much. Finland is a big consumer of bread made from durum wheat. The bread from this wheat is also finding favor in this country, which partly accounts for the slump in the export of durum wheat. A few years ago 95 per cent of the durum wheat shipped to this market, the world's leading durum mart, was for export. Less than 90 per cent is now sent abroad. Northwestern mills are using more durum than ever before, also. Their increased consumption was caused to some extent by the slump in the production of spring wheat.

In Southern Minnesota and Southeastern South Dakota early sown wheat is above ground and is making a good stand. Seeding in Southern Minnesota is practically completed.

The spring wheat acreage of Western Canada will show an immense increase, estimates running from 10,000,000 to 11,000,000 acres, compared with 8,453,000 a year ago. Last year the yield of the three prairie provinces was: Manitoba, 39,916,000 bu; Saskatchewan, 72,666,000 bu; Alberta, 5,359,000 bu. The total spring wheat production for Western Canada was estimated last year at 119,175,000 bu. This crop is higher than the commercial estimates.

Seeding in the three provinces of the Dominion is about three-fourths completed.

The linseed acreage in Minnesota may be larger than last year, but in North Dakota it may be a stand-off. The acreage along the border and in the Northwest will be increased, but in the East and central portions it will show a sharp falling off. Montana will increase its acreage and South Dakota may have a slight increase. It is too early to tell definitely about the linseed area.

The weather is favorable for the planting of all crops and merchants in the Northwest look upon the new crop year with considerable satisfaction. After last year's partial failures of nearly all crops, large yields this year will be the greatest factor in the revival of business and the prosperity of the Northwest.

GIRLS REMAIN AT WORK IN LA CROSSE

Member of State Board of Arbitration Arrives to Settle Strike.

La Crosse, Wis., April 26.—John Humphrey, representing the state board of arbitration, arrived here today to settle the button workers strike, if possible. Mr. Humphrey had conferences with the strikers and the employes today and said he was hopeful of effecting an agreement because of the fact that thus far there had been no actual violence and no great bitterness engendered.

The strikers' ranks were augmented slightly today but one department of the Wisconsin Pearl Button works remained in operation. The girls were escorted to and from work and were served meals at the expense of the company. Every man in the factory, except the foreman and the office force, has struck. The situation today is settling down to a test of endurance. The strikers, who have organized since the strike, have been voted aid by other local unions and say they can hold out indefinitely.

IRON COUNTY ROAD PLANS.

Upper Peninsula County to Expend Large Sum on Highways.

Channing, Mich., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bond issue of $150,000 having been authorized for that purpose, Iron county is about to embark on the construction of a system of macadamized highways.

Considerable preliminary work costing thousands of dollars already has been done. A number of years will be required to complete the project, but with the operations concluded Iron county will have as fine country roads as there are in the state. The bonding proposition was given a majority of 300 in a total vote of 1,500. In adopting the county road system, Iron county has followed the example of almost all of the other Upper Michigan counties. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have already been expended and projects involving hundreds of thousands of dollars more are under way or are in contemplation. The people of Schoolcraft county only recently empowered the board of supervisors to spend $90,000 in building roads, and contracts for the construction of some eighteen miles of macadamized highway are about to be awarded in that district.

BURNS; SHOOTS; KILLS.

Bismarck, N. D., April 26.—Sylvester Sikel, residing with his brother, twelve miles east of Linton, set fire to the brother's barn, shot his sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Sikel, through the left leg, making amputation necessary, entered the house and set fire to it and burned himself to death.

The husband was at Linton on business. He returned and found his wife lying in the yard, the house and barn with all their contents totally destroyed, and a few charred bones of his brother in the ashes of the house.

The loss totaled $3,000, including buildings, seed grain and stock.

SURVEYS ARE INACCURATE

This Fact Claimed to Be Holding Back Improvements in Oneota.

Some Lots Believed to Exist Only on Paper.

Irregularities existing in lot surveys since the "boom" days, more than twenty years ago, are believed to be responsible for the holding back of building operations in some of the additions to West Duluth and Oneota.

Mistakes, which were made as far back as 1885, have never been corrected. In some of the divisions, such as Hazelwood and that portion of Oneota north of Oneota street, the street lines and avenues were never accurately established, it is claimed.

Private engineering companies in the city will not make lot surveys in these divisions and guarantee them to be correct. They say that there were never any monuments established, and consequently they have no point to work from except the old government lines.

In West Duluth proper this condition of affairs is said to exist in the West end, Harrington, Macfarlane and Grassy Point divisions. It is claimed that when these divisions were put on the market, competent engineers had evidently not been consulted, for many inaccuracies have been found.

There is a strong sentiment among the home owners in these divisions to have the city make an accurate survey and establish street lines, so that the lot boundries can be determined. This was recommended by W. B. Patton at the time he was city engineer. It has since been urged by City Engineer McGilvray.

The newer additions, such as the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh divisions of West Duluth, are claimed to be accurate and are generally acepted as such. In the city proper, monuments were established in 1888, by the city engineering crews.

City Engineer McGilvray this morning stated that if the city council would allow about $5,000 for the work, that correct surveys could be made, the street and avenue lines established and the property owners set at ease. They would then know, he said, whether their lot existed anywhere else except on paper.

According to the city engineer, when some of the plats were made in the boom days at West Duluth, they were drawn up with little regard to accuracy and often times did not correspond to the tract, which they were supposed to represent. "The plats looked pretty," he said, "and the lots would sell themselves. However, these plats cannot be depended on. Some of the lots they represent do not exist at all."

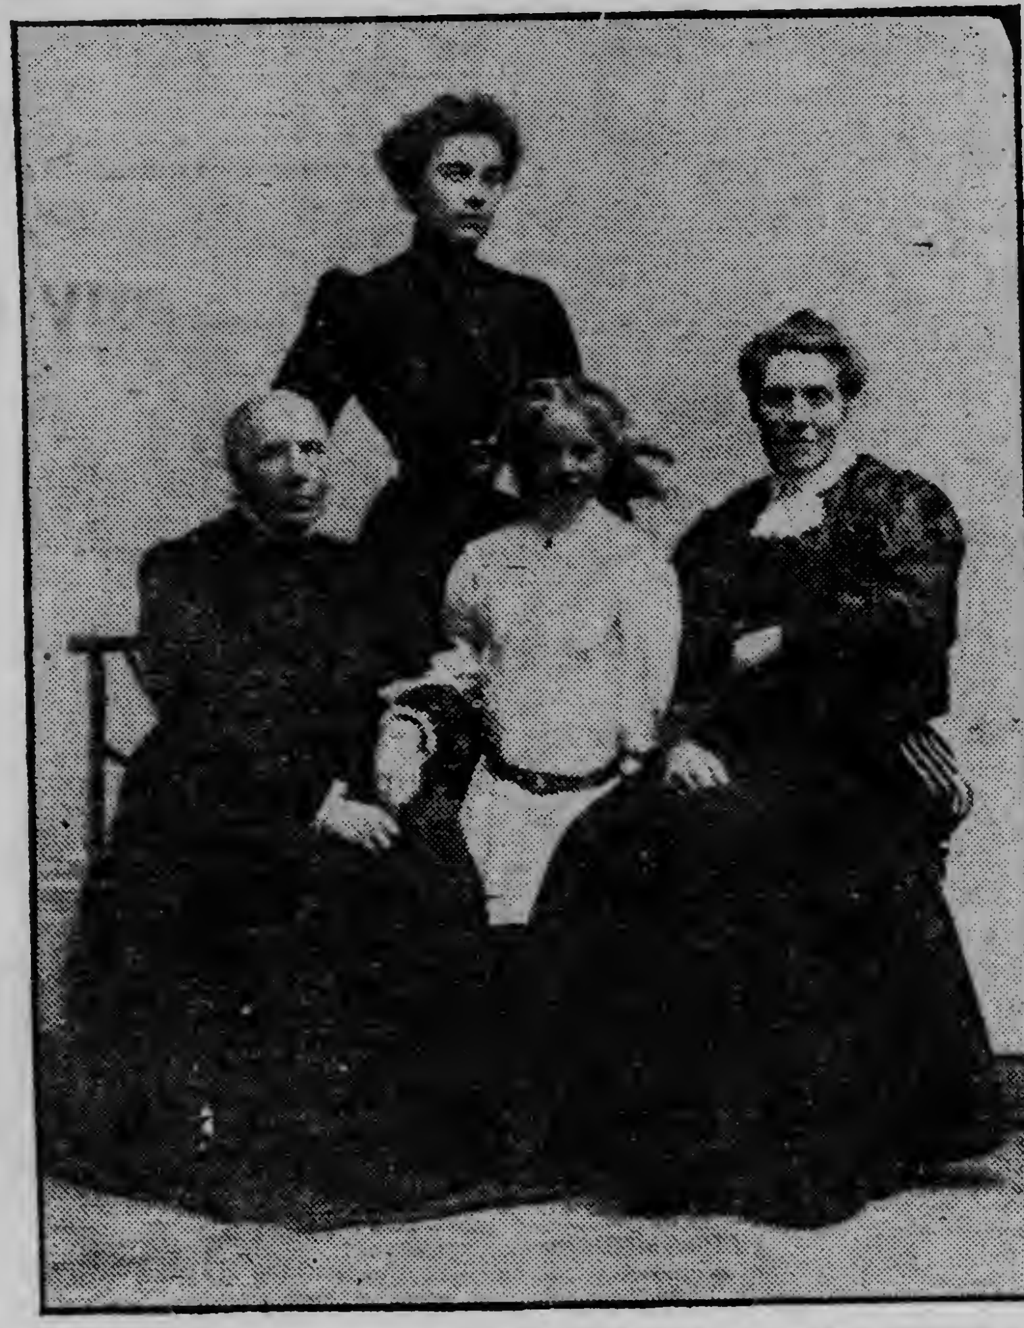
Another irregularity, which has existed in the plat surveys at West Duluth, is the overlapping of some of the divisions. In one instance at Oneota, where Sutphin's addition adjoins Haringotn's, the overlapping is considerable, and within the past few years has been the cause of lawsuits.

"A man, who owns property in these divisions," said Mr. Patton, "is up in the air. If he builds a stone foundation on what he believes to be his own property, he may find out that he is a few feet over on his neighbor's lot. Even, if he is fairly satisfied that he is right, his neighbor may not see things that way. The only solution of the problem is to have the city establish the monuments."

L. A. Barnes, alderman from the Eighth ward, says that he may bring the matter before the council.

Another matter, which Mr. Patton, former city engineer, believes should be looked into, is the destruction of monuments by contractors. Mr. Patton says that this is an outrage, and the offenders should be punished. Many valuable corners have been lost by the destruction of monuments by contractors and private parties. These monuments, he says, are often dug up out of the street by workmen and are thrown aside, as if worthless. In some instances, people run across them in cellar excavations, and they are thrown away.

FOUR GENERATIONS ARE REPRESENTED IN FAMILY



There are four generations represented in the family of Adolph Anderson, assistant city building inspector. Mr. Anderson lives at 707 North Fifty-ninth avenue west.

Mrs. Helena Nelson, aged 76, is at the head of the four generations. She formerly lived in West Duluth, but moved to a farm near Barnum twelve years ago.

Ann Olson, her daughter, is 49 years of age. She also lives near Barnum. Mrs. Christina Anderson, wife of Adolph Anderson, is 30 years old and her daughter, Mabel is 10. The picture was taken last winter.

TWO MORE MILLS TO BE STARTED

Virginia & Rainy Lake and Mullery-McDonald Will Begin Cutting.

Monday two more sawmills will start operating at West Duluth.

The Virginia & Rainy Lake mill will start up in full blast with two shifts, employing 250 men and before the season is over expects to cut 40,000,000 feet of lumber. There are plenty of logs on hand to commence work. A number of repairs have been made while the mill has been shut down.

The Mullery-McDonald mill, formerly the Red Cliff, will also commence operations Monday. Empoyment will be given to about 250 men and two crews will work day and night.

The Alger-Smith mill has been in operation for about two weeks.

SUIT CASE THIEF GETS SIXTY DAYS.

The man arrested yesterday afternoon by Lieut. Wilcox for the theft of a suit case from the Palmer house, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Grand avenue, proved to be an old acquaintance of the Duluth police. At West Duluth he gave the name of John Olson. When he was brought to headquarters he changed it to Sever Hockenson, and in police court this morning it came out that he was a former old timer whose label used to be Iver Often. He entered a plea of guilty and went over the hill for the next sixty days, being unable to pay a fine of $75 and costs.

BENEFIT PARTY FOR GAUTHIER FAMILY.

A surprise party was given Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Craig, 4013 West Rene street, for the benefit of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Gauthier, who lost their home by fire. A large sum of money was presented to them by many Superior and Duluth friends. About sixty guests were present. Dancing and music were the amusements of the evening.

A cousin, Zivko Wojich, resides at Biwabik. He will come to Duluth to take charge of the funeral arrangements. The body was removed to the Filiatrault undertaking rooms.

SUPERIOR

SERIOUS CHARGE MADE BASIS OF DAMAGE SUIT.

W. E. Hurst, a prominent South end business man, was yesterday made the defendant in a $25,000 damage suit, which promises to be of a sensational nature. Hurst is charged with taking indecent liberties with Isabella Wolinski, a 14-year-old girl employed at one time in his office. The trial will be held at the next term of the circuit court.

Floyd Will Lecture.

Father Floyd of Duluth will deliver an address on "Irish Ideals" tomorrow evening at the Sacred Heart auditorium at an entertainment under the auspices of the Superior division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. Preparations are being made to take care of a large crowd.

BAXTER GETS CONTRACT ON SOO LINE EXTENSION.

Fred A. Baxter of Superior has been awarded the contract for the construction of six miles of track at the Superior end of the Frederick extension of the Soo line. The general contractors are Foley Bros. of St. Paul. It will be necessary for the road to spend considerable money in constructing a steel bridge and trestle across the Nemadji river and adjoining lowlands. The bridge will probably be about 2,000 feet long.

COUNTY BOARD FAVORS RECIPROCITY MEASURE.

The county board at its meeting yesterday afternoon declared in favor of the Canadian reciprocity pact. There was only one dissenting vote, that of W. W. Andrew. The attitude of Congressman Lenroot on the proposition was severely criticized.

Chairman Rossiter was re-elected. He outlined to the board members a plan to advertise Douglas county by publishing a pamphlet which shall include written articles by each of the country members of the board relative to the farming advantages in his particular town. Other data with reference to the county will also be compiled, according to the plan of Mr. Rossiter.

More Storage Tanks.

Two more steel storage tanks for the distributing plant of the Standard Oil company will be built this spring. Bids for the work were received yesterday and the contract will be awarded soon. The tanks will each have a capacity of about 3,000,000 gallons and the cost will run well up into the thousands.

Schmidt Quits Firm.

Louis Schmidt has severed his connections with the firm of Schmidt Bros. & Hill, well known railroad and dock contractors. It is understood that W. F. Hill has bought out the interests of Mr. Schmidt and will run the business alone. Mr. Schmidt will take a trip abroad.

WITNESS HELD FOR PERJURY

Following his admission on the witness stand that he had lied when he swore out a complaint against a saloon keeper for keeping open on Sunday, Walter Cook was this afternoon placed under arrest and a charge of perjury will be placed against him.

Cook swore out a complaint against Victor Michalek, a bartender at 115 West First street, claiming that he had been given liquor there on Sunday. When placed on the stand this afternoon in municipal court, he retracted the statements sworn to in the complaint, and he was promptly placed under arrest on a perjury charge.

The police will push the case against him, as they say the cases of witnesses backing down on statements made in complaints and disappearing after the persons complained of are arrested, are becoming too common.

DR. N. I. RUBINKAM ARRIVES IN CITY.

Dr. Rubinkam has gained a wide reputation in the West as a lecturer. The Rubinkam association is a very active organization in Chicago, containing about 500 members. Dr. Rubinkam delivers weekly lectures to the members on the literature of the drama. It was formed eight years ago. He is also the author of several books and a number of essays.

ON THE IRON RANGES

FAYAL SCHOOL PUPILS WILL HAVE SCHOOL FACILITIES

EVELETH SCHOOL DESTROYED BY FIRE TUESDAY.

Eveleth, Minn., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The pupils of the Fayal school which was destroyed by fire yesterday will only temporarily suffer because of lack of facilities as preparations are on foot to provide the boys and girls a place to study and recite. New books have been ordered, and it is planned to have the three upper grades of the school transferred to the high school building, the high school students to occupy recitation rooms. The M. E. church may be used by the high school commercial department. The assembly room which seats 144, will be used by the 154 pupils of the Fayal school upper grades. The commercial room will be also used by the Fayal students, and over 250 of them will be accommodated at the high school. The remaining pupils of the lower grades of the burned school, will be accommodated at the other school buildings. No classes will be abandoned, and the regular school program will again be in force next week.

Spruce School Catches.

While the firemen were at the fire yesterday sparks from the chimney of the Spruce school ignited shingles on the roof of the building causing a small blaze. The fire was discovered by a passer-by, and the pupils notified. They vacated the building in 30 seconds. The fire was also noticed by employes of the Spruce and Adams mines, who led by School Director Capt. Thomas H. Davey, managed to extinguish the fire with chemicals before the arrival of the fire department.

A peculiar incident in connection with the Fayal school fire, occurred at the fire hall, Monday afternoon, the firemen having quite an argument concerning what route should be taken to the Fayal school if that structure was to catch on fire.

MODEL TOWN OF HIBBING

Village Council Plans to Bring Improvements in Very Many Ways.

Garbage and Curfew Ordinances Among Those to Be Well Enforced.

Hibbing, Minn., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—By special direction of the council, Hibbing will be a model town during the coming summer if the rules and ordinances being put into effect are enforced. There will be a rigid enforcement of the garbage ordinance.

At the recommendation of the health officer, Dr. Adams, a new and more comprehensive ordinance was passed at the meeting of the council last night which provides for the collection and removal of all garbage and refuse from houses, restaurants, stores and stables. The city will purchase special fly-tight garbage cans and sell them at cost to the citizens. The residents will not be forced necessarily to purchase cans from the city, but they will be forced to use fly proof receptacles and to keep them closed.

The penalty for failure to comply with the ordinance is a maximum fine of $100, or ninety days in jail.

To Enforce Curfew Ordinance.

At the request of certain women who appeared before the council, the curfew ordinance will be enforced during the summer. The fire whistle will be blown every night in the future to denote that it is time for all the good young people to be in bed, or anyway off the streets. One long blast will be blown on the whistle to sound the curfew, as the old fire bell is not loud enough to serve the purpose. Another ordinance that received attention is the one restraining the use of fire crackers and fireworks in the village limits. A new ordinance was drawn up by Village Attorney Robert Stratton at the request of one of the councilmen, but the old one was found to answer the purpose and the recorder was requested to notify the police department to see to the rigid enforcement of the law. The ordinance provides for a safe and sane Fourth. Trustee Barret said that as long as the old ordinance answered the purpose there was no need to make new ones, and only in cases where the old laws do not go far enough were new ones passed. Capt. Wearne remarked it was not so much the laws as the way they were enforced that really mattered. "I don't care as long as they are enforced," said the captain at the close of the discussion. The mayor was of the same opinion except that sometimes a new ordinance received a great deal more attention from the general run of people than an old one patched up, at which remark Trustee Barrett said, "All right, tell the newspapers they are always ready for news, and it all helps the good cause along."

To Repair Sidewalks.

Steps were taken to repair the sidewalks and roadways. At the instigation of Trustee Cox the matter was taken up and the much needed repairs to the sidewalks in the business parts of the city will be made as soon as the property owners have received proper notice. Mr. Cox pointed out that the council would be liable in case of accident through defective sidewalks or roadways, and that the matter needed prompt attention.

Information will also be collected as to cost and best material for the paving of Third avenue. No definite action was taken by the council as regards the paving of the street last night, but the recorder was instructed to gather data and see just what would be the most suitable material for the purpose and then bids will probably be called for. It is almost certain that the main business street will be paved throughout its full length, North street to new D., M. & N. depot, about sixteen blocks, during this year. Capt. A. Wearne mentioned in this connection the desirability of having in all sewer and water connection before the work was commenced.

Some Reports Presented.

The police court report for the week ending April 22 showed total cash receipts of $546.01, and was one of the heaviest for the present year. The report was read and accepted at the council meeting last night.

The monthly report of Fire Chief McIlhargey for the past month showed total loss by fire of $760, and total insurance on property damaged at $22,500, while the total valuation stood at $44,500.

Steps are being taken to take the wife and five children of Jacob Pine to the county poor farm at Duluth, pending other and more permanent help. The husband skipped out some time ago and left the woman and children in dire distress. One other case of want was reported from one of the mining locations and was referred to the township of Stuntz. The party referred to was Mrs. Driscoll and her four children.

RANGE CITY HAS PLENTY OF COIN

Financial Condition Shows That Virginia Is in First-Class Shape.

Virginia, Minn., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city is all right financially, according to the report of the auditing committee based on the expert accountant's investigation of the city affairs, and presented to the council last night.

The mayor was authorized to appoint a committee consisting of all the aldermen and three citizens to report upon the advisability of buying the light and water plants for which, $560,000 is asked.

The following appointments by Mayor Hawkinson were promptly confirmed:

Library board, C. E. Hendrick and Mrs. E. M. Dorway.

Member of police and fire commission, E. D. McNeil.

Member of park board, W. J. Schulze.

Paving Decided Upon.

It was decided to pave these thoroughfares this year: Wyoming, Mesaba and Cleveland avenues; Cedar, Poplar and Spruce streets.

Assistant Health Officer J. B. Chalmers reported that an injunction was imminent against the city for placing garbage on the so-called "North Side," the residents there having informed him that they would not stand for any more garbage dumping by the rest of the municipality.

The council some time ago passed a levy for an incinerating plant in the sum of $20,000. It is expected the protest of the North side people will push the council faster toward finding a site therefor.

The police and fire commission was directed to obtain a patrol wagon.

EVELETH ODD FELLOWS OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY.

Eveleth, Minn., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Odd Fellows observed the ninety-second anniversary of the founding of the order, last evening at Monitor hall with an appropriate program. JOKER IS STUNG.

Theft of Stuntz Township Officer's Hat Cost $10.

Hibbing, Minn., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The next time Earl Lenore feels funny and wants to perpetrate a practical joke he will not select John Munter, treasurer of Stuntz township as his victim as one experience with that official proved sufficient.

Monday evening in a spirit of fun, he declares, Lenore snatched the hat from the head of Mr. Munter, and made off with it down the street. Mr. Munter gave chase, overhauled the practical joker and then swore out a complaint against him for larceny, had him arrested and locked up. Judge Brady fined the offender $10 and costs. Lenore is a fine looking young fellow and claimed that he was a peaceable citizen when sober, but admitted that he was an undesirable when drunk. He has been before the court before, and Judge Brady dismissed him with a warning not to appear before him again.

The gravel is being hauled for the cement work, which will proably include a three or four-foot foundation wall, and a floor. This work, however, will not start until the weather is entirely safe for cement mixing.

Contributions are coming in slowly, and the executive committee is not going very far ahead of them, as the officers believe in keeping the operations within a conservative basis.

DECIDES CHURCH CASE.

Judge Templeton Rules in Icelandic Church Difficulty.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge C. F. Templeton has decided the Pembina county church case in which the majority of the congregation of the Thingvalla Icelandic church severed connection with the Evangelical Lutheran synod of the Icelandic Church of America and were sued by the minority for title to the church property. The decision is in favor of the defendants. The judge based his decision on the fact that defendants as majority of unincorporated body were entitled to the church property and also had right to withdraw from the synod.

MONTANA HORSES GREAT RUSTLERS

Bronchos Turned Loose in Polk County for Winter Take Care of Selves.

Crookston, Minn., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—That a herd of twenty-six Montana horses could run loose on a range in Polk county all winter without having a spear of hay or a drop of water and come out in the spring in good condition can hardly be credited even by a resident of the section. But that is just what took place the past winter on the Nault range about twelve miles east of Euclid where Mike Nault, a well known character has been herding cattle the past fifteen yars.

He drove the Montana bronchos, which however, are different from the common broncho, having been bred up better, to his Polk county range on the old Pembina trail last fall. He did not have a particle of shelter for them excepting what they found for themselves in the small groves found in the vicinity, and still he did not lose a single head.

This spring the bronchos came out in good shape, the only thing noticeable about them being a particularly thick coat of hair, which was also longer than that of the ordinary sheltered horse.

This spring he leased them all out to farmers and they are all at work, having been gotten into shape for work with a little exercise and a small amount of grain.

During the entire winter they browsed on the tall swamp grass, which could not be reached in summer time, and ate snow for moisture. He did not even have sheds for the shelter of the animals during the hardest weather. They foraged for themselves and received absolutely no attention except to see that they were rounded up at night and they corralled themselves generally.

The animals did not cost Mr. Nault one cent to winter with the exception of a little salt.

Pentoga, Mich. Fire.

Marquette, Mich., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Iron county advices report a fire at Pentoga, a lumbering town on the Menominee river, resulting in the destruction of R. F. Gibbs & Son's general store and an adjoining building. The property destroyed included the postoffice. The total loss is $12,000, of which $10,000 is on the Gibbs holdings. The property was insured in part. It is not known how the fire originated.

What the Face Always Shows

Always One Thing Noticeable in Faces of Winning Men.

The sparkle in the face of the man who is successfully forging his way, whether he be poor or rich, is like the sparkle in the diamond. It is the sputtering of the live wires within him, the tingling of his nerves, and these always show in his face. More than this, it shows in his poise, speech, expression, manner, health and in the ruby of his cheek. He is always able to do more work than he has before him, instead of always seeking an excuse for not doing the work he has.

All that keeps you alive and going is the power of your nerves. Keep them always strong, and you will never be sick, and never unhappy.

There is one nerve-invigorator which every man or woman should always use, because it is wonderful in its work—Make-Man Tablets is the name. They invigorate every nerve-cell in the body in a lasting way, and enrich the blood to a remarkable degree.

If you are run-down, or suffer from Kidney or Liver Trouble, Insomnia or Rheumatism, Make-Man Tablets will do more good than several month's vacation.

Make-Man Tablets are sold at all druggists at 50 cents a box. If you want to try them before buying, just drop a line to the Make-Man Tablet Co., Make-Man Building, Dept. 13, Chicago, Ill., and they will send you a trial treatment absolutely free.

Sold and recommended by all leading druggists and A. E. Swedberg, White Swan Drug Store, 3 East Superior street; also 2015 West Superior street.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

IS STABBED OVER GIRL

Louis Grande Loses Life at Soo During Fight With Knives.

Italian Alleged to Have Dealt the Fatal Blow Eludes Capture.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a free-for-all fight on the Portage avenue bridge near the heart of the city nearly one dozen Italians bouted last night over the love of a 16-year-old girl until one of them fell fatally wounded.

It was while the crowd of men were on their way down town to attend a theater that the fight over pretty little Rosa Carmi occurred. As they stood on the bridge the argument became heated. A few moments later stilletos were flourished on all sides and the combat that spelled death was on.

One Fatally Stabbed.

Just as Louis Grande fell with a trio of stab wounds through his heart and lungs, the police swooped down on the crowd. Five of the fighters were captured. The others, including Frank Gentiloros, who is said to have cast the fatal thrusts, escaped. Grande died while being hurried to a hospital.

Sheriff Bayliss, with a force of deputies and the aid of Chief of Police Swart of this city, and the Canadian Soo police are searching for Gentiloros.

WESTHOPE MAN IS AGAIN HELD

North Dakotan Alleged to Have Fired Brother's Store Now Accused of Theft.

Bottineau, N. D., April 26.—Ed Dufault, the Westhope man who was rearrested a few days ago after being once discharged on grounds of insufficient evidence connecting him with the suspicious burning of his brother's jewelery store, was given a hearing yesterday and bound over to the July term of the district court on a charge of larceny. His bonds were fixed at $2,500, but he has not yet been able to secure it.

After Dufault's first discharge he was taken into custody in Grand Forks when found disposing of jewelry to the amount of $1,000 which he carried in two small grips. Bottineau county authorities were communicated with but he was finally released without any charge. He was no sooner out of the toils again when the Bottineau sheriff decided that the man knew more about the burning of the store than he had disclosed and immediately went to Grand Forks after him. He has told several stories as to how he secured the jewelry.

TRUSTEE KIDNAPED TO ADOPT LICENSE

"Wet" Element Resorts to Extremes to Control Detour, Mich., Council.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The three "wet" trustees aided by the "wet" president of the village of Detour kidnaped John McAdam, one of the "dry" trustees Monday night in order to control the council and again put the village in the "wet" column after a year's drouth. The council was equally divided and no licenses could be granted as long as the "drys" persisted in remaining away from the meetings and they boasted that the town would have no saloons for a year at least.

McAdam put up a desperate fight but was forced to remain away until the licenses had been put through and bonds accepted. The two liquor dealers have arrived in town and secured red cards from the county treasurer. On the same boat was a committee of "drys" bound for the county seat to get legal advice on the action of the council.

FEW DAYS NOW CURES DRINK HABIT

Where Formerly It Took Weeks It Now Requires But Three Days to Effect a Perfect Cure.

In the treatment of alcoholism, the remarkable results obtained by the administration of the Neal Three-Day Liquor Cure have long been recognized. The old custom of placing alcoholic patients under from four to six weeks' treatment, with the necessary loss of time and money, is a thing of the past.

Three days are all that are required to cure drunkenness—either periodical or habitual—at the Neal Institute in St. Paul, 676 Dayton ave., and the cure is effected without the use of dangerous hypodermic injections or injurious drugs.

Another desirable action of the treatment is the rapidity with which the general system is restored to a normal condition. From the very first dose all craving for alcoholic stimulants is destroyed and a perfect cure is effected in only three days' time. It has been demonstrated that there is no such thing as a "secret cure" for drunkenness, and you are taking great risk in adminstering these remedies.

If you are afflicted with the drink habit and really want to be cured, write to the Neal Institute Co., corner Belknap and Seventh St., Superior, Wis., for their free booklet, giving full information and a copy of their contract and guarantee bond. It will be mailed to you under a plain sealed envelope and everything will be strictly confidential. You can be treated at the Superior Institute, or at the St. Paul, Minn., Institute, 676 Dayton avenue, or the Minneapolis, Minn., Institute, corner Fourth avenue south and Seventh street, whichever happens to be most convenient to you.

IS SAVING LIVES EVERY DAY.

If every advertiser told the truth it would make advertising infinitely more valuable. Too many do not.

Benetol advertising is absolutely truthful; in fact, does not tell all that Benetol can do. That is left to the physician or medical journal in which marvelous things are told of what it has accomplished.

When it is said that "Benetol is saving lives every day," just exactly that is meant, no more, no less. Physicians and surgeons tested Benetol in extreme, even last resort cases, and have indorsed the results. In the family, properly used, Benetol eradicates all poisonous germs from the home and body, removes all infection wherever it can be reached almost immediately. Benetol is the only mouth wash and douche that will kill germs. If any others claim they can, make them show government drop tests. Benetol has its proofs for you ready to submit. It challenges all others.

Let us demonstrate to you just what a marvelous thing Benetol is. Get a trial bottle now. They are free while they last. About very bottle is wrapped vitally valuable information. Read and keep the printed circular. It may save a life in your family some time. We assure you that Benetol stands alone. There is nothing like it at any price. No family should be without a bottle constantly on hand. The makers of Benetol have hundreds of letters telling of lives saved or made happy, and in the mass of thankful correspondence, NOT ONE LETTER WAS ASKED FOR.

Although Benetol is the most marvelous antiseptic ever discovered the price has been placed within the reach of all. It is so cheap that even the very poor can have its benefits always near. Don't delay securing some of this modern safeguard. Call at once and get a trial bottle.

HERE'S TRUE BEAUTY FOR EVERY WOMAN

Noted Chemist and Writer Tells of Simple Methods Employed to Renew Beauty.

(F Howarth Dryden in Toilettes.)

"The stern laws of nature must not be ignored if beauty with all its youthful purity and richness is desired. Powders and cosmetics must be discarded and soaps for shampooing should not be countenanced. Bear these things in mind, then gently assist nature when she calls for help and you can glory in true beauty.

"Many fine toilet helps have been discovered through laboratory research, among which are these:

"FOR STRINGY, LIFELESS OR BRITTLE HAIR employ this tonic:

½ pint water.
1 ounce beta-canthol.

"Mix alcohol with water, then add beta-canthol. Massaging the scalp freely with this induces a thick growth of soft, silky, radiant hair. To get best results, the scalp should be frequently shampooed with eggol. This not only keeps the scalp sweet and healthy, but overcomes itchiness, excess oil and dandruff.

"FUZZ OR HAIRY GROWTHS can be quickly and permanently removed if a simple delol paste is used. Get an ounce of delol and mix enough with water to form a paste; apply and let remain two or thre minutes, then rub off and wash carefully. Seldom is it necesary to employ it twice:

"A YOUTHFUL GLOW TO THE SKIN follows the use of a plain amarol retiring lotion, made as follows:

1 pint hot water.
2 ounces amarol.

"Dissolve amarol in water and when cool it is ready. Using this freely causes blackheads, pimples and blotches to disappear, and the skin will lose its oily, shiny or lifeless conditon and take on that mystic charm of true beauty. It also prevents chaps, roughness, tan or freckles."

GETTING CLOSE TO LORIMER.

One of the most striking things about the dirty mess being investigated at Springfield, Ill., is the way in which the skirts of William Lorimer have been kept clear of any shadow of complicity in the bribery and corruption which was practiced to secure his election. The "blond boss" has been spared at almost every turn, the most that has been charged against him heretofore being only in the voicing of suspicions, and declarations that with his knowledge of political affairs and methods he could hardly have been as innocent in the matter as he claimed to be. But the muck is getting nearer and nearer to the senatorial draperies, and it was through the testimony of W. H. Cook of Duluth that the new view of the matter came about.

In his testimony before the committee at Springfield, Mr. Cook told of a telephone conversation that Mr. Hines held with somebody at Springfield while in his (Cook's) room at the Grand Pacific hotel. In that conversation Hines used the words:

"I will be down on the next train, prepared to furnish all the money that is required. Now don't stop at anything; don't leave anything undone."

"He repeated it over three or four times," according to Mr. Cook.

With whom was Hines talking at that time? Mr. Cook thought it was with Governor Deneen, but Mr. O'Brien, who was in the room at the time, thought it was ex-Governor Yates. Neither of them knew who it was, though both made guesses.

But now comes C. F. Wiehe, Hines' brother-in-law and his associate in the lumber business, a man with whom Hines evidently worked in securing the election of Lorimer, and who is in a position to make, at least, a pretty shrewd guess as to what conversations Hines would be having, and also to guess pretty accurately who the other party might be if he could but know the nature of the conversation. And Mr. Wiehe's guess as to the identity of the man at the other end of the wire that led from the Grand Pacific hotel is that it was William Lorimer.

What of Lorimer's boasted innocence? What of the clean hands of the "blond boss?" To be sure Mr. Wiehe did not say positively that he knew it was Lorimer whom Hines told he would "be down on the next train, prepared to furnish all the money that is required." Wiehe was neither in the room nor, probably, on the wire, at the time of the conversation. But Wiehe knew what was being done, and who was doing it. If he had not been close to the center of things he would not have been sent on a midnight errand by Hines to get Cook and O'Brien out of town, or at least to warn them to dodge the process servers. Neither would he have realized that Hines "talked too much," a criticism which he freely made of his brother-in-law.

All this being true, there is something intensely significant in the fact that when Wiehe heard of the conversation Hines held over the telephone at the Grand Pacific hotel, he thought it must have been held with Lorimer. But it is a sad, sad blow to the "blond boss'" claim to absolute innocence in the affair, for if Wiehe thought it must have been Lorimer, he must have known that Lorimer was posted.

It is interesting, too, to speculate on Hines' reasons for wanting to get Cook and O'Brien out of reach of the Lorimer investigation. At that time Hines himself was not being mentioned in it. What was being done centered about Lorimer himself. Did Hines think the two Minnesota men suspected that Lorimer was the man he talked with from the hotel room? Perhaps, or perhaps it was only for the sake of general precaution that he wanted to get them out of the way. But if that was the case he showed remarkable haste about the matter.

The new developments are getting closer to Lorimer himself than anything heretofore brought out. Will they be the means of proving him to have had full knowledge of the bribery that was being practiced in his behalf?

PUTTING A LID ON CRIME.

While various American cities are wrestling with the problem of the "crime wave," seeking means to call an effective halt on stabbing and shooting cases, Ontario has found a way that ought to bear good fruit, if the promises of the officials are carried out. According to a proclamation published in the Ontario Gazette, "it is made illegal from this minute for any person to buy, sell or carry concealed or openly any revolver, dagger or other dangerous weapon without a police permit." The proclamation is accompanied by a declaration by the attorney general to the effect that the law will be "carried out even to the uttermost" within his jurisdiction.

This is in line with a policy heretofore advocated by The Herald. There is no reason why the average man should go armed. These are days of well lighted streets and general police patrol. Such attacks as occur on citizens may be described as sporadic. Incidents of that nature are not so common as to justify the carrying of weapons as a means of defense, and it is on a plea of the need of means of self-defense that a majority of those who bear weapons justify such action.

But it is not these alone who would be affected by such a promulgation and enforcement as this of the Canadian officials. It would serve also to head off the persons against whom these seek to defend themselves. Make the sale, purchase and carrying of such things subject to police supervision and permission, and there would be immeasurably less possibility of the development, not only of the boy bandit, but of that class of older citizens who go armed for aggressive purposes. Then no man or boy could secure a dangerous weapon without first satisfying the police of his need of it, and he could not purchase one except from a dealer in whom the police had sufficient confidence to issue him authority to make such a sale. This would constitute a double check on the acquisition of dangerous weapons, and there would also be the possibility of punishing any violator of the law. Only a few days ago a Duluth dealer showed a willingness to sell a dangerous weapon to a boy under 18 years of age. With such a rule in force as this in Ontario it would be possible to put it out of the power of such a dealer to sell such articles to anybody.

There are innumerable arguments in favor of such a provision, and the greatest of them all is the fact that it would operate to protect human life, and check crime. American cities would do well to copy this Canadian action.

THE SITUATION IN THE SENATE.

At this distance it is a trifle hard to see just what anybody is going to gain out of the bitter struggle that is going on in the national senate. The insurgent Republicans, of course, hope to gain power in the committees, but they cannot get that, apparently, except through a party caucus, and in the party caucus they are hopelessly outnumbered by the regulars. The only thing they can do is to fool around awhile longer and then submit under protest, and a protest, under such circumstances, isn't worth the time it takes to frame it.

Of course there is one other course open to the insurgents, and that is to carry the fight to the floor of the senate, and there, by an alliance with the Democrats, overcome the regular faction. Evidently, too, that is just what the regulars are hoping the insurgents will do. It would be pleasant for the regulars to go into the next campaign and point to such an alliance. In that way, perhaps, the regulars hope to gain something out of the present situation, but even such a gain as that is comparatively small, in view of the results of the struggle. And as far as the insurgents are concerned, they would not gain anything at all. And meanwhile the country is looking on and the house is doing its duty.

One thing, however, has come to light as a result of the senatorial situation, and that is that the insurgents are really and truly planning secession from the Republican party in the next campaign. There has been a pretty general understanding before this that some such action was contemplated, but this demand that they be recognized as, virtually, a third party in the construction of committees has been equal to a service of notice on the country that the campaign intention has solidified. Who will be chosen to head the new party is not known as yet, but there are indications that it will be La Follette. Certainly the Wisconsin man would be willing to flirt with such a proposition.

But the campaign is a year away, and there is another session of congress to be held between now and the party conventions. Why not go ahead with the nation's business now, and postpone the politics until a more propitious season? The people would appreciate it more than they do this game that is being played at present, and by that same token it would be the best kind of politics for all concerned.

AN EXAMPLE OF VALUES.

The other day some hard-working young men went from house to house in Duluth, carrying bundles of pamphlets and stopping at every dwelling to place one of these pamphlets in a mail box or lay it on the porch or "catch" it under a doormat or between the door and the sill. The pamphlets contained advertising matter intended for perusal by the residents of the house. Their compilation and publication cost the men back of them a pretty good sum, judging from the makeup and number of the pamphlets, and then there was the additional cost of distribution. It was an advertising scheme, and an old and tried one at that. Its adoption proved that the men who adopted it believed in the value of advertising in the homes.

These young men were followed at a distance of some half block or so by a party of "kids." The kids spotted every pamphlet and "nailed" it. They took them from mail boxes, took them from porch floors, pulled them out from under mats and doors. They made a clean sweep and accumulated several armfuls of the pamphlets. Then they lugged the accumulation off to a vacant lot and built a good sized bonfire out of them.

What good did the men who put up the money for the pamphlets get out of them or their distribution? Absolutely none. Their knowledge of the value of advertising went for nothing because they did not use good methods. They tried to reach the interior of the homes in a way that is almost sure to fail. The pamphlets made good bonfire material, and that was all they did accomplish. Had they been handbills instead of pamphlets they would have appealed to the youngsters as equally good for building a fire. They were thrown on the porches or placed in the mailboxes without the knowledge or expectation of the people in the house, and there was nothing to prevent their falling into the hands of the boys. And even if they had got into the hands of the householders their receipt would have been accompanied by a mental or verbal complaint at the cluttering up of the place with such matter, and the recipient would have been prejudiced against them and their contents from the start.

All of which helps to establish a fact that every experienced and wise advertiser already knows—that the way to reach the people effectively is through the columns of a home newspaper, a medium that is watched for and taken into the house and read. Distribution of circulars and pamphlets from house to house furnishes the small boys with material for bonfires, and furnishes the older folks with material for kindling blazes in stoves and furnaces and fireplaces.

But the home newspaper gives a medium for getting information before the people in an accepted and admittedly forcible way. It is the best form of advertising because it brings the surest and best results. It is the form that is used by the man who knows the advertising business and can discriminate as to the values of various methods.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CRUELTY TO HORSES.

To the Editor of The Herald.

In the city of St. Paul a single horse was beaten and urged, and dragged the overloaded wagon up the hill, but in doing so I saw him get on his knees numerous times, arise again and beat the pavement for a foothold, till one shoe was thus torn off. This driver sent him straight up instead of beating across the street from sidewalk to sidewalk. Some say, "Oh, what is a horse!" I say, "With feelings and sense like a man, though he is unable to say what his trouble and pains are."

I have driven in the big woods and have never seen the cruelty there is in the city. I was forced to watch a horse die once, and the fellow would not let me shoot him. The poor beast lay on the hard ground forty-eight hours with a leg so inflamed he could not rise. The Bible says, "Love thy neighbor," but I pity him instead. My policy for an aged or wounded animal is sudden death.

Then again, I saw a smart superintendent of a large lumber company trying to have men cure the forebone on a valuable horse. This bone lies nearly buried in the large one on the hind leg, impossible to mend, and these men kept him clear off the floor in slings for six weeks and finally they let him fall and then shot him.

THE PEOPLE VS. ORGANIZED THUGGERY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Thank you for your very excellent editorial on "The McNamara Case." It was both timely and opportune. If this kidnaping is permissable under the law, either in the state of Indiana or in any other state, then it certainly is time that the people take cognizance of the law. It certainly does not bespeak a high grade of intelligence or of civilization for any community to tolerate or to remain passive when so flagrant a violation of decency and justice takes place.

The meeting that has been called for Thursday night at Kalamazoo hall is intended, not as a socialist or trades union propaganda affair, but for the purpose of initiating a movement that shall be national in its scope to provide a safeguard against similar attempts at railroading men from state to state without a fair and public hearing. Resolutions will be presented and discussed bearing directly upon this question. The issue in this instance is no longer that of the single individual, McNamara, but that of the people versus organized thuggery. Private detective agencies ought to be prohibited by law from functioning as so-called guardians of human rights. If state and national governments are not competent to deal with lawbreakers, then it is time for the people to wake up to that fact—if it is a fact.

REFORMS, LIKE CHARITY, SHOULD BEGIN AT HOME.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Sir: If the Commercial club ever decides to go after the smoke nuisance in this town, it ought to get the big stick in action against the man responsible for the chimney at the Commercial club. It is one of the worst offenders in town.

There is a bunch of stokers in this burg that ought to be taught how to fire a furnace, Mr. Editor. I believe we have a smoke ordinance, but it is not enforced. M. P.

American Gems.

The 1908 product of American gems was worth $416,063, and the 1909 value was $534,380, says the Geological Survey. The increase is due chiefly to larger outputs of turquoise, tourmaline, variscite, chrysoprase, californite and kunsite. The production of a number of precious stones, as beryl, garnet, peridot and topaz, showed a decrease in value. The output of turquoise matrix and turquoise was more than seventeen tons, that of variscite three and a half tons, and that of tourmaline two and a half tons.

Benitoite is a beautiful new gem that in some respects resembles sapphire. It has been found only in San Benito county, California. Californite is compact, massive vesuvianite and resembles jade in hardness, texture and color. It has been found at a number of localities in California and should be a popular gem. Chrysoprase has been mined at a number of places in California, where a large quantity of beautiful gem material has been obtained.

A new emerald locality has been discovered in Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico and Texas. Turquoise is generally found in arid or desert regions, where mining is difficult. New Mexico, California and Arizona were formerly the chief sources of turquoise, but during the last few years Nevada has been one of the principal producers.

Cost of a Lawsuit.

New York World: Michael Donnelly of Albany, who in 1889 sued his brother-in-law, P. J. McArdle, for a bill of sale involving $158,000, which suit has been in the courts ever since, has made public this table showing the cost and other features of it:

Period of litigation (years)...	22
Number of trials	7
Total number of trial days....	97
Number of lawyers	93
Number of justices	40
Number of witnesses	249
Number of justices who have died	16
Number of lawyers who have died	13
Number of witnesses who have died	42
Donnelly counsel fees	$ 163,500
McArdle's approximated expenses	200,000
Estimated cost to county, salaries, etc..................	65,000
Amount involved	158,000
Costs and disbursements	20,000

Mr. Donnelly and his brother-in-law were in the iron business when they went to law. Six times Mr. Donnelly's complaint was dismissed, but each time the higher courts reversed the judgment. Mr. Donnelly has been advised that H. A. Gildersleeve, the referee, had reported that his share of what was left came to $41,000, with $20,000 for counsel fees. Mr. Donnelly says he will not accept it.

London's Taxicabs.

New York Times: London has a taxicab strike due to the determination of cab owners and cab drivers to make more money. The drivers, it seems, have been pocketing the extra sixpence paid for every passenger more than two in each cab, but they declare that they could not otherwise make enough to live. The owners want the extra sixpences, and they also want to charge tenpence instead of eightpence for the first half mile. That is to say, they ask 20 cents for a service for which 50 cents is willingly paid in New York, and feel that with that charge permitted they could pay their drivers better wages and still make a good profit. If New Yorkers could get a good cab service for twice the price London cab owners are striving to establish they would feel grateful. We may be sure that the difficulty will soon be settled in London, but New York's dream of an inexpensive and efficient cab service is as far as ever from realization.

Rewards of Georgia Journalism.

Abbeville Chronicle: The editor and family return thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carswell for a nice lot of sausage and chitterlins, also to Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Taylor for sausage and a setting of thoroughbred white Plymouth Rock eggs.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

A Day of Reckoning Coming.

Warren Sheaf: The legislature has adjourned—that at least, is something to be grateful for. It has been the stormiest as well as the most incompetent in the history of the state. While some meritorious laws were enacted it failed completely to come up to the standard which the people of the state had expected. Reapportionment, state development and real progressive legislation received a black eye at its hands. No real strong, unselfish and inspiring leader developed in either branch, and much valuable time was consumed in aimless talk and in petty wrangles and quarrels. A day of reckoning is bound to come when the people of the state will pass judgment on its sins of omission and commission. If an election were held at once very few of the members could hope to be returned.

Cannot Be Leaders.

St. Cloud Times: The Times is opposed to any anti-reapportionment, or any anti-income tax senator becoming the leader or advisor of the Minnesota Democracy! A federal income tax was indorsed in both the last national and state platforms, and reapportionment was indorsed in the state platform of 1909! Legislators who are false to party pledges and doctrine are not the men for party leaders.

A Do-Nothing Band.

Little Falls Transcript: In having made a record of nothing accomplished, the Minnesota legislature of 1911 stands out with not a rival for the honors in sight. Aside from R. C. Dunn's good roads bill and the abolition of capital punishment, the amount of needful legislation passed at the session just closed is very small. The people demanded reapportionment, the platforms of both leading parties pledged it, but the legislature did not pass it; and the voice of the people will have to be keyed a little higher two years from now. For doing the things that should not have been done and leaving undone those things that should have been done, the state legislature of this year is a shining and brilliant example.

Effect of Tariff Walls.

Sleepy Eye Herald: Tariff walls have built up gigantic and colossal fortunes, created great combinations of wealth and power in the hands of a few manufacturers in the United States, and at the same time have ground down the masses and made life miserable, especially in the large cities and thickly settled sections of the country. A protective tariff has kept up the cost of living and also the cost of what the people wear to an unbearable extent that reciprocity will solve. The proposed reciprocity agreement with Canada and the United States has been arrived at which places on the free list cattle, horses, sheep, hogs, poultry, wheat and other grain, fresh vegetables, and fruits, hay, milk, butter, eggs and all kinds of fish and timber. Secondary food products and manufactured articles are also put on reduced rates between both countries. President Taft has promised that reciprocity with Canada will not injure the producers of the Northwest and we hope he is right.

Too Small Calibre.

Two Harbors Journal-News: The majority of the members of the present legislature have proven themselves a miserable failure. They were not of broad enough calibre to legislate for a whole state. They have fostered and promoted a feeling of sectionalism that will require years to overcome.

Redeeming Its Pledges.

Middle River Pioneer: The Democratic house of representatives promptly passed a bill providing for publication of all campaign expenses before election. Thus is one of the planks of the national Democratic platform redeemed so far as the house is concerned. It is also announced that the representatives will make short work of the measures for the direct election of United States senators and the revision of the tariff downward, all of which were promised in the platform. This will be in such marked contrast to the action of the late Republican house that it augurs well for Democratic success in the next presidential campaign.

Humbugging the Farmer.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel: The American farmer has been getting protection that does not protect. That's the reason the McCall Canadian reciprocity bill cannot hurt him. The protectionists have been humbugging the farmer for thirty years. The study of the grain markets from day to day since this reciprocity agitation started proves that the agricultural protection is and has been a humbug. But it will open the farmer's eyes and being the most influential voter in the land he will lose no time in demanding that the tariff be taken off highly protected stuff that he has to buy. Canadian reciprocity is an opening wedge. It opens the way. And it opens the eyes of the American laborer, the most numerous and most powerful voter in the nation. That's the reason the standpatters are opposed to it.

Useless to Force It.

Morris Sun: Governor Eberhart has refused to call an extra session of the legislature to take up the reapportionment bill again. In this he was right. The senate has given unmistakable evidence that it does not want to pass such a measure, and it would be useless to try to force the issue.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Baltimore American: "Well, is Mrs. De Style making an honest living at her dressmaking?"

"She's had to, since they stopped smuggling operations."

Baltimore American: "Why is the British Unionist who opposes home rule like the congressional insurgents here?"

"I don't know. Why?"

"Because they can't stand Pat."

Punch: Lady (wanting some wallflowers for bedding out)—Have you any "bleeding warriors"?

New Assistant (inexperienced in floral nomenclature)—Well, ma'am, our foreman has two boys in the scouts.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "And what did papa say when you asked him for my hand?"

"I'd gladly tell you, but I'm afraid you'd never respect his opinion any more."

Washington Star: "Has your wife a perception of humor?"

"I think so," replied Mr. Meekton. "The tired look she always has when I start to tell a joke shows that she recognizes it at once."

Judge: "Mamma, who is 'at funny man?"

"That, my child, is a policeman."

"Why does he frown out his tummy?"

"Hush child! He thinks that is his chest."

Christian Register: "Tell me," said the newly rich lady, as they were discussing points of pronunciation, "do you say 'the Rhine' or 'the Rhone'? I hear it both ways."

Life: "What kind of Christmas presents does Balder give?"

"Excellent. Why, some of those he gave ten years ago are still going the rounds as bridge prizes."

Washington Star: "Those Kentucky feuds are terrible affairs," said the New Yorker.

"Yes," replied the Louisville man; "but their manifestations are only occasional and they don't give the police any more real trouble than a taxicab strike."

Chicago Tribune: "Yes," said Mrs. Lapsling, "Johnny is getting along splendidly at school. He has almost finished alimentary arithmetic."

AMONG THE BULLS.

Manchester Guardian: The en-Irish attorney general's delightfully mixed metaphor at Bootle about the milch cow which distilled golden sovereigns is another proof that one should not use a metaphor unless one really means it. The house of commons produces a rich crop of these weeds of oratory. When Mr. Bryce, our ambassador at Washington, was Irish secretary, he amused the house by describing the Irish local government board as "a malignant fairy which steps in off its own bat." It was an Irish member who, after pointing out that the Irish Land league was losing public support and had to practice economy, went on to say: "But, sir, the well is running dry, and they think that by putting in the pruning knife they can bring more grist to the mill." Another Irish Unionist described a concession to the Nationalists as "the first stitch in the dismemberment of the empire." Mr. W. Field, who has something of a reputation for this sort of thing, once said: "The right honorable gentleman shakes his head—and I'm sorry to hear it," and on another occasion, speaking on a bill relating to the shipping of cattle across the Irish Sea, he begged his fellow members "not to look at the subject from a livestock point of view."

But even the most practiced speakers sin in this way at times. The present prime minister, usually counted among the most lucid and logical of debaters, once affirmed that "redistribution is a thorny subject which requires delicate handling or it will tread on somebody's toes," and the leader of the Unionist party once spoke of "an empty theater of unsympathetic auditors." Even Mr. Gladstone, replying to an opponent in the house who shook his head at some statement attributed to him, said: "No, no; it will not do for the hon. member to shake his head in the teeth of his own words." Lord Curzon, another extremely lucid speaker, was once betrayed into saying, "Though we are not yet out of the woods, yet we have a good ship," and Sir W. Hart Dyke, in complimenting Mr. Lowther, said that he "had caught a big fish in his net—and went to the top of the tree for it." Lord Midleton, then Mr. Brodrick, informed the house of commons, when it was settling down to discuss the affairs of the army, that "among the many jarring notes heard in this house this subject at least must be regarded as an oasis."

Scattering Golf.

London Globe: As everyone is well aware, the Briton takes his sports with him wherever he goes. In some out-of-the-way corner of the globe you will see a man arrayed in a sketchy costume laboriously picking up stones from a patch of ground he fondly imagines will make a cricket pitch or a tennis court, and he will enjoy the games played under such adverse conditions even more than an exciting match on the best of grounds at home.

But golfers who indulge in their favorite pastime at the uttermost ends of the earth regard exciting interludes as a part of the game. There are links in the northern portion of South Africa where one eye has to be kept on the ball while the other looks round for any stray lion that may be about. Deadly snakes are another form of peril that some golfers have to face. A player at Sydney once drove a ball into a hole, and when he tried to pick it out drew forth a snake instead. A portion of the links at Tientsin are reported to consist of a Chinese graveyard, although this is difficult to believe, as the Chinese do not like foreigners to interfere with their graves, and in any case playing among tombs seems rather a gruesome pastime. In India earthquakes have to be reckoned with. Most golfers have heard of the famous game in which a movement of the earth severely handicapped the player who had all but won a certain hole. He got to within a foot of the hole, whereas his opponent could get no nearer than three yards. The latter played first, and, as he approached for a putt, to his astonishment, the balls that had stopped dead began to move, his own kindly rolling towards the hole and eventually falling in, while the better-placed ball went in the opposite direction, and did not stop until it had rolled some four yards away!

The Flag of Fort Sumter.

Peleg D. Harrison of Manchester, N. H., in a communication to the New York Sun, says: "The flag that was flying over Fort Sumter during the bombardment was brought to New York city by Maj. Anderson, and upon the request of Secretary of War Stanton he retained it and placed it in the vaults of the Metropolitan bank of that city, from which it was taken and raised by Maj. Anderson over Fort Sumter on April 14, 1865, the fourth anniversary of his evacuation of the fort. The flag was brought back to New York city, and following the death of the widow of Maj. Anderson, on Feb. 25, 1905, in compliance with a stipulation in her will, this flag, with another that Anderson had at Fort Sumter, was on March 27, 1905, presented to the war department, Washington, D. C."

The Model Boy Scout.

Westminster Gazette: One of the principles of the Boy Scout movement is to do a good turn to somebody every day, and in this connection the founder of the brigade, Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, has been telling a good story that he had heard in Canada. He said that a Boy Scout woke up one night and remembered that he had not done a good turn that day. He lay for a time thinking and very unhappy about it. Suddenly he heard the noise of a mouse in a trap in the room, and a bright idea struck him. He got out of bed and gently took the mouse out of the trap and gave it to the cat.

BOARD WILL MEET FRIDAY

Reclamation Commission Preparing to Begin Tests in Northern Minnesota.

Members Hope to Demonstrate That Work Should Be Extended.

"We hope to get such results with the appropriation given that the work will be greatly extended at the next session of the legislature," said W. R. McKenzie of Bemidji, a member of the state reclamation board, before he left yesterday for St. Paul to attend the first meeting of the board, which will be held Friday.

The state reclamation board and an appropriation of $8,000 for its use were provided for in one of the few pieces of constructive legislation passed by the legislature in the session which recently closed. The board is empowered to partially clear the tracts of land to be disposed of to settlers, the plan being in the nature of an experiment.

Governor Eberhardt appointed on the board W. H. Brown of Warren, A. J. McGuire of Grand Rapids and Mr. McKenzie.

By clearing twenty acres on eighty-acre tracts and disposing of them to settlers, who can enter upon the land and begin cultivation immediately, it is believed that the state would aid greatly in the development of Northern Minnesota at no cost to the state, as the cost of clearing a portion of each tract could be spread over the whole tract. The board will work on that theory as far as the appropriation will allow and the results will be submitted for the consideration of the next legislature.

MACKENZIE IS COMING

Secretary of Development Association to Have Office in Duluth.

Will Urge All Counties to Send Representatives to Meeting.

W. R. MacKenzie, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association, will establish an office at the Commercial club here next Monday and for the following month he will be one of the busiest men in Duluth. If earnest endeavor in preparation can accomplish that end, the meeting of the association in Duluth June 1 and 2, will be the best meeting since the organization was formed.

The meetings at Crookston and Brainerd were representative of Northern Minnesota, but the Duluth meeting will be more so, if such a thing is possible. Mr. MacKenzie will urge every county organization to send its strongest men as delegates and to have a full representation here.

Although the organization is still in a formative stage, it has already accomplished good work. That reapportionment did not carry in the last session of the legislature was due to no fault of the association, for earnest, conscientious work was done for the measure in which Northern Minnesota was so vitally interested. Much was accomplished, however, and plans will be mapped out at the coming meeting, not only to obtain measures Northern Minnesota wants at the next session of the legislature, but reapportionment as well.

Mr. MacKenzie will get busy as soon as he establishes his office and will spread through the thirty counties of the association the fact that the Duluth meeting is important, that important matters will come on for consideration and on county interested in its own development and that of the entire northern part of the state should fail to be represented.

Local plans will be mapped out as rapidly as possible. It is expected that the business sessions will be held at the Commercial club rooms and that the Armory or the Lyceum theater will be engaged for one big mass meeting.

LITTLE WORK FOR COUNTY BOARD

Settlers in Embarrass Want Division of the Township.

As yet there is but little work on the schedule for the regular monthly meeting of the county commissioners which will be held in the board room at the courthouse May 5.

There is a petition which was filed with Clerk J. O. Walker of the county board this morning asking that the township of Embarrass be divided. The petition is signed by the residents of the town of 60-14. The township of Embar: --- embraces both 60-14 and 60-15.

The settlers claim that as things stand, but little has been accomplished in the matter of improvements and it is their opinion that it would be for the advancement of both sections if the town could be divided.

There are on file with the clerk numerous road petitions, the usual number of applicants for liquor licenses, applications for the dividing of certain school districts and other matters of local importance.

At the last meeting of the county board the jail committee was continued and whether or not it will have another report is not known. The committee appointed to investigate the conditions of Memorial hall reported at the last meeting and the report was referred to the house committee which is drawing up a set of regulations for the old soldiers. It is probable that regulations of some kind will be adopted at the meeting.

The commissioners will also take action on the question of a range county attorney. Edward Boyle was recommended by County Attorney John H. Norton and it is probable that the recommendation will be endorsed.

IS INJURED IN RUNAWAY

Peter Larson Thrown From Buggy—Wounds Not Serious.

Peter Larson was thrown from his rig when his team ran away on Woodland avenue last evening, and sustained severe bruises and cuts. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital, but his condition is not serious.

He was driving with his two sons, 15 and 13 years of age. The whistle of the street car is said to have frightened the animals, which made such a sudden jump that Mr. Larson was thrown out. The boys retained their seats, and escaped uninjured. The team was stopped when the horses ran into a tree. They were unhurt.

ORIGINAL BAUDETTE SETTLER IN DULUTH.

Thomas Cathcart, Sr., the first settler on the old townsite of Baudette, Minn., is visiting in Duluth. He homesteaded the present townsite of Baudette but did not get title to all of the land. He owns eighty acres between the old and the new townsites of the village and he is now disputing with the Canadian Northern the ownership of forty acres, which are a part of the original townsite of Baudette.

Baudette is growing rapidly, said Mr. Cathcart, and there are many settlers taking up homes in the region along the international boundary.

Green Room Gossip.

Duluth people know but little of the private life of Miss Maude Leone, the popular stock actress, who opens at the Lyceum this evening for a short engagement in "All of a Sudden Peggy," her greatest success.

There has never been anything printed about Miss Leone's charitable work, but she is much interested in the work of the Associated Charities in this city, and has investigated several cases reported by the society.

She believes that people, in order to be happy, must have something more than enough clothes to cover their backs and enough food to stop the inward craving.

"How long since you visited the theater?" has been one of her most common questions. In many cases it has been years. The members of the family have promptly been sent theater tickets. In other families she has provided little luxuries that they do not often have.

There will be matinee performances of "All of a Sudden Peggy" Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. The engagement closes Sunday evening.

"Did you ever try to teach a dog to walk on his hind legs?" asked the young man who bills himself as Adonis at the Orpheum this week. "Some dogs can't seem to walk on their hind legs. Almost any dog can be taught to hop along on his hind legs, but very few of them ever learn to walk.

"It is especially difficult to teach a dog to walk upstairs. Probably ninety-nine out of 100 will hop upstairs, when you try to teach them to walk, and the little dog I have with me is one of the very few that I have seen that will do the trick.

"The dog was picked up on the streets of Paris. It followed Henri French home one evening, and he took the little animal and trained it to be one of the best performing dogs on the vaudeville stage."

Adonis is an equilibrist and gymnast, and his act with the little dog is one of the most attractive on this week's bill, being a real novelty in its line. It has caused much favorable comment among Orpheum patrons this week, something that an acrobatic act rarely does.

The wonderful feats performed by the four Londons at the Empress this week are causing a great deal of comment among the theater-goers of the city. These athletes have a thrilling and sensational act. The women in the act are tossed about as though they were rubber balls, and taking into consideration the limited space in which they have to work, their feats are most difficult. The Londons have one of the greatest casting acts in the world, and there is not a circus in the country but what has made them flattering offers, but the four Londons are meeting with such great success in vaudeville, that they hesitate to desert it for the big tops. The Four Dancing Bugs are also presenting a dancing act that outshines anything seen in this line at the Empress for months. They are experts at both hard and soft-shoe dancing, and present an eccentric number that is eccentric. They feature their team dancing.

As a whole, this week's show is one of the best on the circuit.

The program of the photo-play at the Lyric theater changed today. For the rest of the week "In Zulu Land" will be the feature of a strong bill of picture amusement. For a comedy film "His Best Girl's Little Brother" is said to be one of the the funniest things ever thrown on the canvas. There are a number of other interesting films, dramatic, educational and humorous, and an illustrated song.

The bill at the Odeum will change Thursday. "The King of the Road" will be the feature. "Their Mother-in-Law," a story in which two of them figure, will provide the comedy of the program. There will be other pictures and an illustrated song.

SEIP STRONG FOR COMMISSION GOVERNMENT.

"One very important step remains to be taken by Duluth—the adoption of the commission form of government," wrote Albert N. Seip, a former Duluth resident, to H. V. Eva, secretary of the Commercial club. Mr. Seip congratulated the club on the good work done during the past year and urged that every effort be made to secure the commission form of government for Duluth. Mr. Seip lived in Duluth for a number of years and is now a resident of Washington, D. C. He still has large property interests in Duluth.

STEAMSHIP MEN IN CONFERENCE

May Have Something to Do With Trouble of Company With Holland.

Berlin, April 26.—Representatives of the North German-Lloyd, Hamburg-American, Holland-Amerika and Red Star steamship lines and of the North Atlantic shipping conference are in session here today. Albert Ballin, director-general of the Hamburg-American, and others who were approached refused to discuss the purpose of the meeting but from the fact that the English lines were not represented it was conjectured that it might have to do with the recent trouble between the Uranium Steamship company and the government of Holland.

The conference will be continued tomorrow. The Uranium is a British company and not embraced in the steamship pool. On March 1, its director, Rudolph B. Tinsley, was expelled from Holland on the ground that despite the orders of the minister of the interior, he had persisted in trying to land Russian emigrants at Rotterdam, after Germany had refused to permit their passage through the latter country, unless they had the necessary passports. Mr. Tinsley subsequently transferred the Uranium office from Rotterdam to Antwerp, and later the German government gave permission for 650 emigrants returning to Russia from the United States and who had been held up on the Dutch frontier, to proceed by train for their destination. In the course of the dispute between Holland and the Uranium, officials of the latter intimated that they were being placed at a disadvantage in the matter of trans-Atlantic traffic and to the benefit of rival lines in the pool.

FARMER KILLS HIMSELF AFTER QUARREL WITH WIFE

Eau Claire, Wis., April 26.—William Geodecker, a well-known farmer residing in the town of Pleasant Valley, committed suicide Monday evening at his home by taking strychnine.

Outside of stating that he had taken poison Geodecker had little or nothing to say as to his reason for the act. He did not seem to suffer much and death came quietly.

Mrs. Geodecker threw a little light on the case by stating that she and her husband had a quarrel near noon Monday but that it did not amount to anything. He had worked in the field in the forenoon but in the afternoon he called on one of his neighbors and returned shortly before supper. Eating an early supper he retired to his bedroom and the first she knew of his taking poison was when her daughter came and told her what her father had told her.

When he called the girl to him he gave her his pocketbook with the remark that she should keep it to remember him by.

DID HINES TELL LORIMER HE HAD ALL THE MONEY NEEDED?

TALK OVER TELEPHONE

By Hines to Springfield Related By W. H. Cook of Duluth.

William O'Brien Was Also Present and Tells Same Story.

Wiehe Makes Admissions That Partly Corroborate Cook's Statement.

EDWARD HINES.

WILLIAM LORIMER.

Springfield, Ill., April 26.—C. F. Wiehe, brother-in-law of Edward Hines, Chicago lumberman, admitted before the senate bribery investigation committee yesterday that Hines sent him on a midnight mission to the Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago in an effort to have W. H. Cook and William O'Brien, Minnesota lumbermen, evade Cook county process servers at the time the Lorimer scandal first berame public in May, 1910.

Wiehe's statement followed and to a certain degree corroborated a sensational recital by W. H. Cook of Duluth, Minn,, who said he was in a room in the Grand Pacific May 26, 1909, with William O'Brien and Edward Hines when Hines telephoned to some one called "governor" at Springfield. During this telephone conversation Cook said that Hines declared to the "governor" that he (Hines) was ready to take the next train to Sprinilgeld with all the money necessary to effect William Lorimer's election to the United States senate. Lorimer's election occurred later that same day.

O'Brien Tells Same Story.

M. B. Coan, investigator of the committee, testified he had interviewed William O'Brien of Duluth within the past week and that O'Brien told practically the same story as Cook, only differing in that O'Brien got the impression that Former Governor Richard Yates was on the Springfield end of the telephone at the time Hines talked from the Grand Pacific hotel. Wiehe admitted further, on cross examination, that Hines was with O'Brien and Cook at the hotel on May 26, 1909, holding a business conference.

Following the recital of Cook before the investigating committee, Governor Deneen issued a statement in which he said he had never at any time held such a conversation with Hines.

Former Governor Yates also denied having had any such conversation. Wiehe told the committee that he, although not present in the room when Hines got the Springfield call, believed Hines talked to William Lorimer from the Grand Pacific hotel.

Wiehe said he knew that Hines had "put in" several long distance telephone calls to Springfield on that day but did not know who Hines was calling. Hines, at a previous hearing, testified that he talked with Governor Deneen on that morning from Continental and Commercial National bank.

The Hines Conversation.

Cook related the conversation as he remarked it as follows:

"Hines took the receiver out of my hand and he spoke in the telephone. He said 'hello, hello, hello, is this you?' "

" 'Well I just left President Taft and Senator Aldrich last night in Washington. Now they tell me that under no consideration shall Hopkins be returned to the senate. Now I will be down on the next train. Don't leave anything undone. I will be down on the next train, prepared to furnish all the money that is required. Now don't stop at anything, don't leave anything undone. I will be down on the next train,' or words to that effect.

"He repeated it over three or four times."

On this same point of the Grand Pacific hotel conversation by Hines, Wiehe testified:

"Why, the conversation was substantially or practically as follows: 'Have just talked with the governor on the long distance telephone and he assures me he will do what you ask. You know that the administration—you know what the administration wants. Now, leave no stone unturned to be elected. I will get down to Springfield if necessary in the morning,' and when he got through talking he turned to the room and said: 'I have just been talking to Senator Lorimer.' "

Wiehe said he (Wiehe), Cook, O'Brien, Isaac Baker and Hines were in the room at the time. Almost a year later, according to the testimony of Cook and Wiehe, Cook and O'Brien were again at the Grand Pacific hotel. The Lorimer story was then being printed in the Chicago newspapers.

Cook testified that Wiehe came to him and O'Brien at midnight saying that Hines declared process servers were looking for the Minnesota men to subpoena them before the Cook county grand jury as witnesses in the newly opened bribery probe.

"Wiehe said Hines had got him out of bed to warn us to leave Chicago at once," testified Cook.

Feared the Newspapers.

"Wiehe declared to me and O'Brien that he was greatly concerned for Hines and feared that those 'damned newspapers' would get Hines for his part in Senator Lorimer's election."

Cook declared that Wiehe repeatedly urged the two Minnesota me to leave Chicago and their state that night.

Wiehe, when he took the stand, denied that he had suggested that Cook and O'Brien leave Chicago or the state, but admitted that he urged them to evade the process servers, whom he had been told were looking for O'Brien and Cook.

"I thought it foolishness on the part of Mr. Hines at the time," said Wiehe, "but I was simply carrying out his orders.

"That was all. Mr. Hines did not get me out of bed, either. I found his 'phone call waiting me at my home when I returned from the theater."

The testimony of Wiehe and Cook furnished the chief feature of the day before the committee.

Wiehe asked to question Cook and was allowed to do so.

He charged Cook with trying to blackmail Hines and the Weyerhaeuser lumber interests.

Cook admitted that he had sent a letter to the head of the Weyerhaeuser concern and also to Hines, in which he threatened to tell what he knew of the Lorimer matter, unless they agreed to settle a fight among the stockholders of the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company.

Cook's Story in Detail.

W. H. Cook testified in part as follows:

"Did you have a conversation with Edward Hines in the month of May, 1909, or about that time?"

A.—"Yes."

Q.—"That was shortly prior to the senatorial election in Illinois?"

A.—"Yes."

Q.—"Where did that conversation take place?"

A.—"Grand Pacific hotel, Chicago."

Q.—"Who was present at that conversation?"

A.—"Henry Turrish of Duluth, Minn."

Q.—"Do you know where Mr. Turrish is now?"

A.—"I understand he is in Oregon."

Q.—"What is his business?"

A.—"Lumberman."

Q—"Was he associated with you and Mr. Hines in that lumber business?"

A—"No, Mr. Turrish is not interested with us."

Q—"What was said by any of the parties named participating in that conversation?"

A—"Mr. Hines was going through the lobby and he saw Mr. Turrish and myself standing there. He stopped and spoke to us. Mr. Turrish asked him how he was getting on down in Washington. 'Oh,' he said, 'I am having a hell of a time.' He said: 'Now there is, for instance, old Stephenson. After I elected him, he has gone down to Washington and started working there for free lumber.' He said: 'I had a terrible time getting him lined up.' Then he went on and told about what a time he had had with the Southern Democrats. He said he would have them all lined up today, and tomorrow they would flop and he would have to go and fix them all over again."

Q—"What else if anything, was said at the hotel conversation?"

Had Seantorship Fixed.

A—"Mr. Turrish asked him how they were getting along down here, with the senatorial deadlock. 'Well," he said, 'it is all fixed.' He said: 'I will tell you confidentially, Lorimer will be the next senator.' He said: 'We had Boutell fixed for the senatorship. He had promised to work to keep the $2 tariff on lumber, but,' he said, 'when the lumber schedule came up before the house ways and means committee, he was working for free lumber.' He said: 'Immediately I took it up with Senator Aldrich and so decided that we had to have another man, a man whom we could depend on. It was decided that I should have a talk with Lorimer. I did. Lorimer has agreed to stand pat. He will listen to reason. I have got it all fixed; he will be the next senator from Illinois.' That was the substance of the conversation."

Q.—"And that conversation occurred in the presence of yourself and Mr. Turrish?"

A.—"Yes."

Q.—"In that conversation the name of Mr. Stephenson was mentioned. What Stephenson was that, Mr. Cook."

A.—"Well, I couldn't say. I inferred it was Stephenson from Wisconsin. I don't know for sure."

Q.—"Did you have another conversation with Mr. Hines subsequent to the conversation of May, 1909?"

A.—"Why, Mr. William O'Brien of St. Paul and myself met Hines, I think it was somewhere along the 24th or 25th of that same month, May."

Q.—"Where did that conversation take place?"

A.—"Why we made an appointment to met Hines at the Grand Pacific one morning. Hines was to meet us there shortly or as soon as he could get up there from the Pennsylvania special, which arrived there at 8:45 o'clock in the morning, I think."

Q.—"Who is William O'Brien?"

A.—"William O'Brien is a lumberman, lives in St. Paul, with business in Duluth, Minn."

Q.—"Was he identified in some way with this Hines Lumber company, of which you spoke a short time ago?"

A.—"Virginia & Rainy Lake company. Mr. O'Brien is vice president of that company."

Q—"Well, now, when Mr. Hines came to the Grand Pacific hotel that morning, what was the first thing you did, or the first thing that was said, as you now recall it?"

A—"Mr. Hines came in the Jackson boulevard entrance. I met him in the lobby. He asked for the number of one of our rooms, either one or the other. He said he had a long distance call he wanted to talk over the long distance and he could go right up there and get the call in my room."

Mr. Cook then related the conversation previously quoted.

William O'Brien Present.

Q—"And who was present in the room during that conversation besides you and Mr. Hines?"

A—"William O'Brien and either Mr. Wiehe or Mr. Baker, I am not positive which."

Q—"Now did you have any subsequent conversation with Mr. Hines in reference to the Illinois senatorial election or with any other person?"

A—"Oh, something about a year after that."

Q—"Well, tell the committee what occurred when Mr. Wiehe came to the hotel that night at about midnight."

A—"Mr. O'Brien and I had been to a theater. We came back to the hotel shortly after 11 o'clock and sat down and had a smoke. And we smoked there for some time, and I says, 'Bill, it is about time to go to bed' and I looked at the clock and it was just 12 o'clock. He says, 'I guess that's right.' We were just about starting for bed and Mr. Wiehe came in. He seemed to be very anxious that we should get out of town, told us if we did not get out of town that night, they would have us before the grand jury the next morning. He said that Hines had called him up out of bed and told him to get down and see us, Lorimer had called him—that is, Hines—and told him we were in town, and for God's sake to get us out.

Q.—"Do you remember anything else?"

"Hines Talks Too Much."

A.—"Yes. Mr. Wiehe sat down after a while and we had a little further conversation. I think O'Brien made the remark that 'the papers seemed to be chasing Hines pretty hard' and Wiehe says 'yes, they will get him. Hines talks too much.' He says, 'all the office force gets there from daylight to dark is keep still, keep still, keep still, don't say a word. Every damned newspaper reporter that comes along, Hines will give him two columns.' "

Q.—"Anything else you recall as to that conversation?"

A.—"No sir."

Q.—"Was anything said with reference to the impossibility of catching a train out of town at that hour of the night?"

A.—"Oh, Mr. O'Brien asked Wiehe. 'How do you expect we are going to get out of here this time of night, no train leaving here now?' and there were some further remarks about certain people not being very scared of the grand jury even if they were pulled up. That was about all."

Q.—"That is, you intimated to him that neither you nor Mr. O'Brien were afraid of appearing before the grand jury?"

A.—"Something like that."

Q.—"Where did you meet Mr. Hines about three weeks later when you say you met him?"

A.—"I met him by appointment in Mr. McCordic's office, 921 The Rookery."

Q.—"Did you talk with Mr. Hines on that occasion?"

A.—"Yes, as soon as we got out into the hall, Hines spoke to me about a story purporting to be somewhat similar to the conversation which he carried on over the long-distance telephone from my room in the hotel about a year previous. He says: 'Now, this story comes from some telephone operator, some girl,' he says, 'and they have got it all mixed up.' Says he: 'The way they have got it is that I was talking at your office in Duluth with ex-Governor Yates at Springfield, wherein I told him I would be down on the next train prepared to furnish a million dollars to elect Lorimer.' He said: 'You know that was not Yates at all I was talking with,' he says; 'it was Deneen.' "

Told to Keep Mum.

"And then he went on to caution me about keeping very quiet about such a story and about the conversation. He said that if it ever came out that it would be betraying the confidence that President Taft and Senator Aldrich put in him, that he never could go back to Washington, he never could look either of those gentlemen in the face again, and that it would compromise some of the best people in the city of Chicago and the state of Minnesota."

Q.—"Is there any difference in your version of these several conversations and Mr. O'Brien's version of the same?"

A.—"Why, the only difference that I can recall is that my impression was that Hines was talking over the telephone to Governor Deneen; O'Brien always claimed it was Governor Yates."

Q.—"That is the telephone conversation in the room of the Grand Pacific hotel?"

A.—"Yes, sir."

A.—"In May, 1909?"

A.—"Yes."

Other Witnesses.

Witnesses examined yesterday in addition to Cook, Wiehe, Coan and Abbott, included Congressman Ira J. Copley of Aurora, John M. Pfeffers, former private secretary to Albert J. Hopkins; B. A. Johnson, publisher of a lumber trade paper at New Orleans; S. J. Cusson, general manager of the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber ocmpany, and James H. Harper, a Duluth, Minn., insurance man.

Johnson, Cusson and Harper testified that they were aboard the Winnipeg flyer between Duluth and Virginia, Minn., on the night that C. F. Wiehe is charged with having said he paid $10,000 to help elect Lorimer. All three declared that they were with Mr. Wiehe at that time and denied that he had made any such statement.

Denied by Hines.

Chicago, April 26.—Edward Hines said last night that the testimony given by W. H. Cook, before the Helm committee was untrue.

"The assertions are not based upon facts and are utterly untrue," he declared. "Mr. Cook may have heard that I had talked with Governor Deneen over the long distance telephone on the day he specified, but Governor Deneen has stated no conversation such as is alleged took place, and if the governor's denial and mine are not sufficient, the absurdity of the story upon its face ought to dispose of it.

"As to Cook's tale about my alleged connection with the election of United States Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin, it is absolutely untrue. I have not been in Madison since several years before the election of Senator Stephenson. The reliability of Mr. Cook's statement in the case of Senator Stephenson may be judged by the character of his statement of the alleged telephone communication with Governor Deneen.

"This man for some time has been trying to injure me and I denounced him at a meeting of the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company, March 1, at Virginia, Minn., and would not allow him to remain on the board of directors."

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SOX FAIL TO BUNCH HITS

Slug the Ball But Do Not Score Enough Runs to Win.

Cummings and Worman Are Roughly Handled By Rockford Nine.

Rockford, Ill., April 26.—Failure to turn hits into runs proved the undoing of the White Sox yesterday against Rockford, and the Illinois team won a slugging match by a score of 15 to 11.

Holstrom and Miller rapped two outside the lot and Cummings, Johnson, Meniece, Worman and Leber all gained a two-bagger apiece.

O'Brien is not at all discouraged with the training trip defeats. "We have played a different team every day," says O'Brien, "and with different men in the lineup each day we cannot expect to make an unbroken record for victories. These games are for training purposes and it is a great deal better to lose these contests than to start the season dropping games while trying your men out."

Pitchers Cummings and Worman showed good speed and have fair control for early reason form. Doar, the Spooner recruit, is still catching and playing good ball. Doar has developed great speed on the bases.

The weather here is ideal. Better baseball training weather was never had than was enjoyed yesterday. There were 500 people out to the game.

The score by innings:		R.	H.	E.
Rockford	0 0 0 0 3 2 0 3 7	15	17	3
Duluth	3 0 0 0 1 1 1 3 2	11	17	4

Batteries—Burke and Reidy; Cummings, Worman and Doar.

RALLY BY RED SOX FALLS ONE SHORT

McCulloch Tries to Stretch Double to Triple and Fails.

Fond du Lac, Wis., April 26.—A ninth inning rally by Superior was halted when McCulloch, visiting first baseman tried to stretch a double into a triple after having driven Hoffman home ahead of him. Fond du Lac won, 4 to 3. Rowley, who started pitching for Fond du Lac, had the visitors eating out of his hand. Lind and Stoll, who followed him, were hit hard. Lehy for Superior pitched good ball. Score:

Fond du Lac	1 0 0 1 1 0 0 0 1	4	7	1
Superior	0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 2	3	8	4

CAMNITZ HOLDS CARDINALS SAFELY AND WINS GAME.

St. Louis, Mo., April 26.—Pittsburg turned the tables on St. Louis yesterday, defeating the locals, 9 to 4. Camnitz was effective throughout. Evans made two home run drives over the right field fence. Score:

		R.	H.	E.

BUNCHED HITS IN EIGHTH INNING WIN FOR CUBS.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 26.—A triple and a single in the eighth with a man on base allowed Chicago to score barely enough runs to win from Cincinnati yesterday, 5 to 4. Chicago knocked Fromme out of the box in the first inning. Keefe, who relieved him, was taken out in the seventh to allow an emergency hitter, while Burns, who finished the game, was hit hard. Foxen pitched well until the eighth, while Brown, who finished up, was not very effective, but Cincinnati fell short owing to sensational fielding by the visitors. Manager Griffith was ordered off the field for arguing with the umpire. Score:

Chicago	2 0 0 0 0 1 0 2 0	5	9	1
Cincinnati	0 0 0 0 0 1 1 1 1	4	9	1

BARGER IS STRONG AND PHILLIES DROP ONE.

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 26.—Brooklyn broke its losing streak yesterday and the same time stopped the winning career of the Philadelphias by taking a hotly contested game, 4 to 3. Cy Barger returned to the box after a week's absence due to an injured finger and held the visitors safe until the ninth, when they rallied. Brooklyn had secured too good a lead, however, and held the victory largely through a sensational running catch by Davidson. Moore's wildness was mainly responsible for Philadelphia's defeat. Score:

CHRISTY MATHEWSON HOLDS DOVES DOWN.

New York, April 25.—Mathewson outpitched Flaherty yesterday, New York winning a briskly played game from Boston, 3 to 1. Tenney's men, although they made four errors, fielded sensationally. Score:

WEIRD SLUGGING MATCH IS WON BY THE TIGERS.

Detroit, Mich., April 26.—In the weirdest game and the fiercest slugging match played here this season, Detroit defeated St. Louis 11 to 9, thereby taking the third straight game of the series. Covington, who replaced Cavot in the fifth, marked his major league debut by striking out La Porte, Clake and Schweitzer. Cleveland and Detroit play a postponed game here today. Score:

WHITE SOX BUNCH HITS ON FALKENBERG.

Chicago, April 26.—Chicago tied Cleveland for fifth place in the pennant race by winning the final game of the series, 5 to 2 yesterday. The local team bunched its hits off Falkenberg, and after acquiring a single, double and triple in the seventh inning, Blanding was sent in. This is the third consecutive game which resulted with the same score, with Cleveland winning two of them. Callahan broke his finger in an attempt to catch Stovall's fly, and retired. Score:

BOSTON WINS FIRST GAME FROM NEW YORK.

Boston, Mass., April 26.—Boston won the first game of the season with New York yesterday, 5 to 3. Fisher went wild in the third and on two hits and two bases on balls, allowed three runs. Warhop finished the game for the visitors. Wood's pitching and Speaker's home run were the features. Score:

ATHLETICS CELEBRATE FLAG RAISING WITH VICTORY.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 26.—Washington was defeated here yesterday, 11 to 2, all the visitors' pitchers being ineffective. The pennant, which Philadelphia won last season, was unfurled for the first time, in the presence of a large crowd. Before the game there was a band concert and a parade in which Governor Tener, President Johnson of the American league, and President Noyes of Washington, and both teams participated. The pennant was hauled to the top of the flag pole by Governor Tener and Manager Mack, of the home club. The game was featured by the hard hitting of Murphy and Baker, the former getting five safeties and each batsman putting the ball over the fence for a home run. Score:

Philadelphia	0 1 0 1 2 6 0 1 x	11	16	1

Batteries—Hughes, Gray, Sherry and Ainsmith and Street; Coombs and Lapp. Umpires—Connolly and Mullin.

SOME CHANGES IN THE GAME LAWS

The following laws were passed by the recent legislature, which will effect sportsmen:

Limit on deer cut from two to one.

Universal big game license, to be issued only three days before the season opens and to cost $1.

Big game must have shipping tag from license attached as soon as killed.

Big game heads and hides taken by non-residents may be shipped out of the state for mounting and tanning.

Non-residents must take out license costing $1 to fish with hook and line in Minnesota waters.

Bird license separated from big game license, still costs $1 and only required for hunting outside of the county in which the hunter resides.

Nets set for rough fish must be lifted once a week and game fish released.

Closed season on Mississippi rough fish abolished.

Pelts in possession of fur dealers must be from animals legally trapped or shot.

The important changes in the law which failed of enactment were that postponing of the bass season opening to June 15 and the law prohibiting the spearing of fish by artificial light.

TEAM COLLIDED WITH AUTOMOBILE

Insurance Company Wants $350 From Owner of Horses.

The London Guarantee and Accident company wants $350 from Steve Matijas for driving a team of horses into an automobile insured with the company.

The company claims that although the auto was stopped on the right side of the road, Matijas drove a heavy rig into it, smashing the fenders and rendering it almost unfit for use. In his answer the defendant claims negligence on the part of the auto driver. He claims that he was the one who suffered damages and asks in a counter claim the sum of $1,000.

INCIDENT CLOSED.

Meyer Says Beers Affair Is Settled in Navy Department.

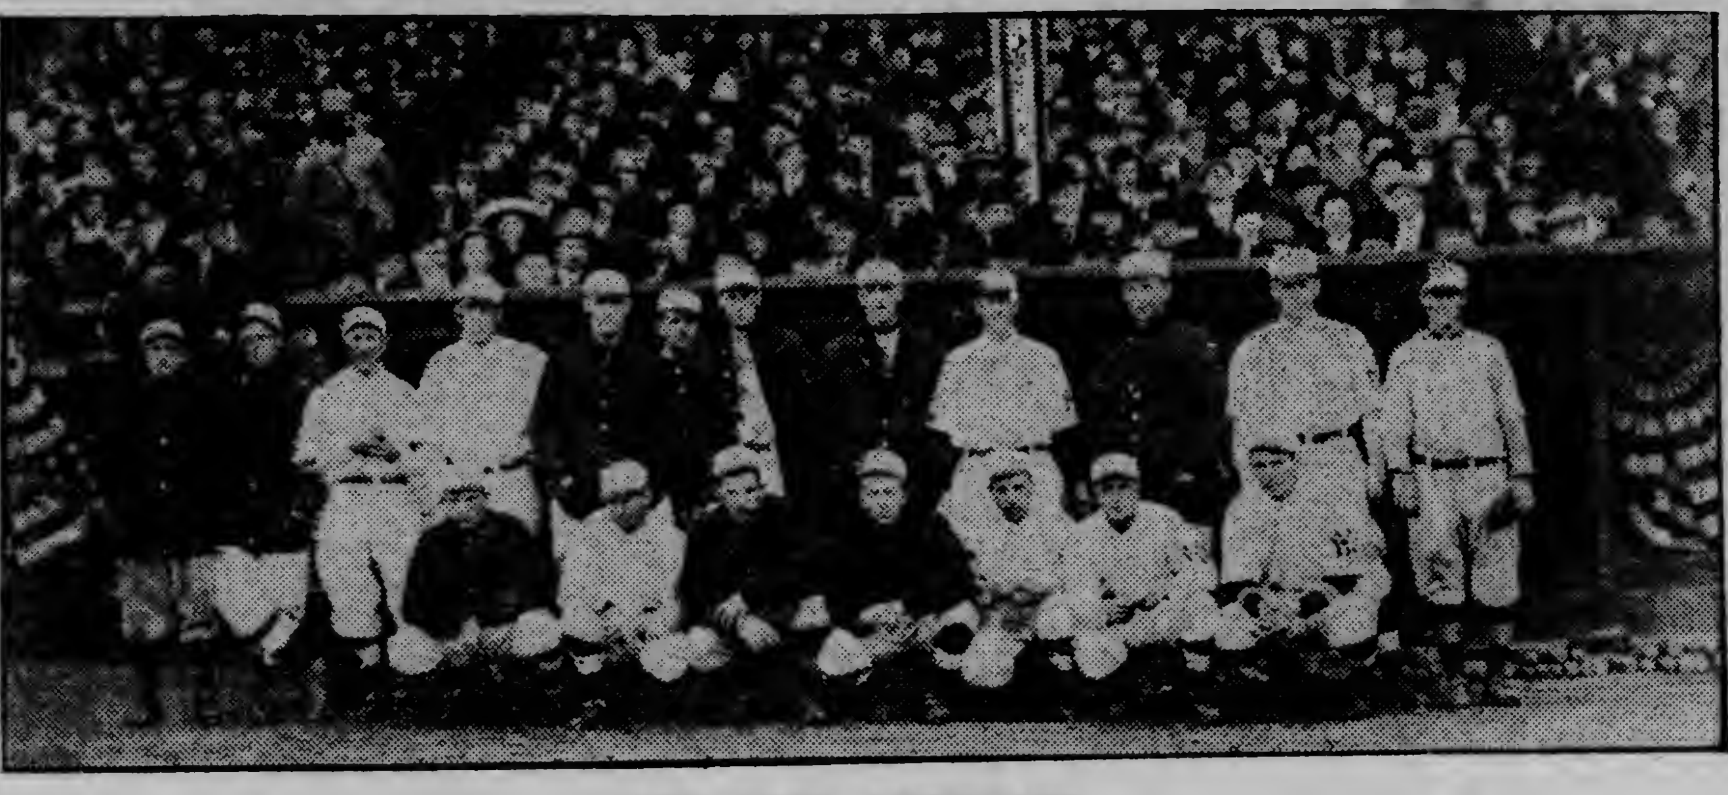
Washington, April 26.—"The incident is closed as far as the navy department is concerned and it would seem due to the young lady and her family that they be spared the annoyance of further publicity," declared Secretary of the Navy Meyer yesterday in a letter to Representative Korbly of Indianapolis, in connection with the latter's request for further information on the recent incident at the naval academy relating to Miss Beers.

Complying with the congressman's request for the correspondence in the case, Mr. Myer sent him a copy of memoranda received from Supt. Bowyer. The secretary, however, declined to make its contents public.

Mr. Korbly's letter asked for the facts in the case; Mr. Myer replied that they were as reported to the representative in his answer to Mr. Korbly's first letter.

Mr. Meyer said that the dance was a private subscription hop, paid for by the cadets.

THE CAMERA'S STORY OF THE OPENING OF THE BIG LEAGUE BASEBALL SEASON



NEW YORK AMERICANS.

THE WASHINGTON TEAM.

FLORAL GIFTS FOR HAL CHASE.

The opening of the American league season in New York took place April 21 at American League park. The Yankees entertained the Washington team and were defeated by a score of 1 to 0. Russell Ford, the Yankees' star, pitched for his team and Robert Groom pitched for the Washington team. A floral tribute was presented to Capt. Hal Chase by his many admirers in the form of a gigantic basket of flowers. City Chamberlain Hyde threw out the first ball, which opened the season. Chase presented practically the same lineup as last season with the exception of shortstop and third base. These positions were filled by Hartzell, formerly of the St. Louis Browns, at third and Otis Johnson at shortstop. The Washington team presented several new faces in its lineup and put up a great article of ball. The crowd was not as large as was expected, but threatening clouds early in the afternoon kept thousands away. The Hilltop park was in holiday dress and the grand stands were decorated with bunting and flags.

S.S.S. A PERFECT CURE FOR SCROFULA

Scrofula belongs to the type of diseases known as blood poison, and is a trouble usually manifested in childhood. It is often an inherited condition springing from some specific disease of ancestors. The ordinary symptoms of Scrofula are swollen glands about the neck, sores and ulcers on the body, scalp diseases, skin affections, weak eyes, poor physical development, etc.

The disease being deeply rooted in the blood, often attacks the bones if the poison is not removed from the circulation, and this should be seriously considered in the case of any child who shows symptoms of having scrofulous blood. Some persons who inherit Scrofula reach maturity before the trouble develops, but being bred in the circulation, the disease is bound to show itself in some form. Frequently a debilitating spell of sickness which depletes and weakens the system offers a favorable opportunity for the disease to manifest itself. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only method of treatment that can be of any value; the scrofulous poison must be removed from the circulation.

S. S. S. has cured thousands of cases of Scrofula. It is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and by going down into the circulation and ridding it of the scrofulous germs, and enriching the blood by the addition of healthful corpuscles, S. S. S. cures the disease permanently. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy, and is perfectly safe for children. If you or your child have any symptoms of Scrofula, begin the use of S. S. S. at once, and get the destructive disease forever removed from the system. Book on the blood, and any medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.

Two years ago my infant, 4 months old, developed a scrofulous condition. The enlarged glands of the neck suppurated and discharged pus. The child was treated by a doctor, but did not improve. I put it on S. S. S. as directed by your physician, and it took but a short time for S.S.S. to make a perfect cure.
Goldsboro, N. C. GILES HINSON.

I inherited scrofula from my ancestry, and was under treatment of physicians for quite a period at different times, but their treatment did not do me anything like the good S. S. S. did last winter when I took it. It builds up the general health in every way, and in addition to being an excellent blood purifier, it adds to its success as a remedy for scrofula.

ANNOUNCES COMMITTEES

Gallinger Presents List Approved By Regulars to Committee.

La Follette Protests and Will Take Matter Higher Up.

Washington, April 26.—The split in the Republican ranks which threatens Republican supremacy in the senate assumed grave proportions today when the regular Republicans flatly refused to meet three demands of the progressives. These demands were that Senator La Follette be given a place on the committee on interstate commerce; Bristow on foreign relations and Cummins on finance. Coupled with these demands was the one that Mr. Bourne be appointed to the appropriations which was granted.

The meeting of the committee on committees today was brief and reported to have been somewhat acrimonious. Senator Gallinger, chairman of the committee, laid before it a completed list of appointments to the various committees. Whe nit was discovered by Mr. La Follette that only one of the four final progressive claims had been allowed, he immediately announced his complete disapproval of the tentative list.

"I reserve the right to object further," he said, "because I consider we have been treated unfairly and unjustly."

On a vote to adopt the Gallinger list, the committee divided 7 to 4, the four progressives voting solidly. The caucus which meets at 3 o'clock probably will support the regulars and the fight then will be carried into the open.

ALL-STARS WOULD PLAY FITWELLS

Deposit $50 to Apply as Side-Bet on Game for Sunday.

The All-Star baseball team members of this city think they have a cause for complaint against the management of the Fitwell baseball aggregation.

The members of this team have deposited $50 with the sporting editor of The Herald for a game with the Fitwells to take place at Athletic park next Sunday afternoon.

The All-Star team claims that after their game in Superior with a Superior team last Sunday, they were approached by the Fitwell management and asked for a game. The management of the clothing house team offered to play for a side bet of $50 and the winner take all the gate receipts. The All-Stars interviewed the Fitwell management this morning and they claim that they were turned down on the original proposition made by the management of the clothiers.

The All-Stars want a game for Sunday. They say they prefer the Fitwells to anyone else and will make the bet any size to cinch the contest.

The line-up of the two teams follows:

All-Stars—	Position.	Fitwells—
Schaeffer	c	Bonski
Cummings	p	Talbot or Johnson
Sturm	1b	Larsen
McCauley	2d	Swanstrom
Olson	s. s	Young
Summers	3b	Nelson
Taylor	l. f	Krickstrom
McGraw	c. f	Wricklund
Wendlandt	r. f	Gunderson

TWIN CITY BOWLERS COMING TO DULUTH.

Two Twin City bowling teams will invade Duluth next week for a series of games with local teams.

The Capitols of St. Paul are coming and one of the strong Mill City aggregations, probably the Imperials, will be here.

A number of contests have been arranged with local teams. The Fitgers and the Three Winners will probably be the first to play the visitors.

While in the city the Twin City men will be the guests of local bowlers and several entertainments are being planned for them.

Season Opens at Wheeling.

Wheeling, W. Va., April 26.—The Wheeling baseball club and the Fort Wayne team of the Central league opened the season here today. The city buildings were decorated with flags and bunting. The batteries will be Doak and Murray for Wheeling, and Smith and Onslow for Fort Wayne.

Morris Not Matched.

Tulsa, Okla., April 26.—Frank B. Ufer, manager of Carl Morris, today denied the report that Morris would meet Al Palzer of New York in a 20-round match here on July 4. Ufer said the two men were under no agreement to fight at any time.

ALLEGED SOO SLAYER HAS BEEN CAPTURED.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 26.—(Special to The Hearald.)—Luigi Grande, suspected of having stabbed and killed Frank Gentilerose in a quarrel here last night, was captured at Rudyard at 11 o'clock today and brought to the county jail. The alleged murderer hit the trail for the country after the stabbing and walked all night.

WORK IS RESUMED ON ALABAMA PLANT.

Texas Lumberman Dead.

Houston, Tex., April 26.—W. H. Norris, president of the W. H. Norris Lumber Company and one of the best known lumbermen in the country, died at his home in this city yesterday. He was 43 years old.

BEAVERS OF COLORADO.

Denver Republican Enos Mills of Estes Park, Colorado's self-taught naturalist, is an ardent champion of the beaver, and has written convincingly in proof of that animal's benefit to the country as a conservationist. From many years' study of the beaver and his works Mr. Mills is convinced that a vast amount of good has been done by this industrious animal, whose dams have retarded the floods that otherwise would have swept down the mountain sides and denuded the slopes of soil and trees.

The survival of the beaver is one of the interesting stories of the West. It was the beaver that lured the first trappers to the Far West, and that resulted in the first real exploitation and trail blazing in the land that was known as the "great American desert." The beaver was hunted by roving bands of company men and free trappers for many years.

Many great fortunes were built on a foundation of beaver pelts. The romance of the West centers about the beaver. Only for the ceaseless search for that valuable animal the world would have known little of Carson, Bridger, Fitzpatrick, the Sublettes, Ashley and other heroes of the wilderness, whose names will figure long in Western history.

In spite of the price that was put upon his head, the crafty beaver has managed to survive in encouraging numbers. In Colorado, where there is no open season, beaver colonies are increasing. Occasionally the beaver makes himself a local nuisance by flooding some ranchman's hay meadows, but in general he is conducting himself as an upbuilder and not a destroyer.

NEW SOURCE OF RUBBER SUPPLY.

Peru Today: Until within the last few years the principal sources of rubber could be divided into two zones, that of the Amazon, comprising Peru, Brazil and Bolivia, and the African, which includes the Congo and Eastern Africa.

New countries have now entered the market, competing formidably with South American rubber. To illustrate the advance in production, let us take as an example Ceylon, whose exportation of rubber has increased progressively from 3,353 kilos in 1901 to 597,000 kilos in 1909. Large areas are also being planted in Java, Sumatra, Borneo, Malasia and the Straits.

Eighty Wounded Have Been Brought Into City of Mazatlan.

Nogales, Mex., April 26.—It is reported that a battle of serious proportions between the Mexican federals and insurgents has occurred near Mazatlan, the big port on the Pacific coast, in the state of Sinaloa.

Eighty wounded are said to have been brought into Mazatlan from the scene of the battle.

Will Extend Armistice.

El Paso, Tex., April 26.—Francisco I. Madero, Jr., the Mexican insurrecto leader, today reiterated his expressed willingness to extend the existing armistice when it expires next Friday, if peace negotiations appear to be under way.

Madero, discussing peace prospects at his hotel in Juarez, also stated that railroads leading south of Juarez will not be repaired pending the conclusion of the armistice, unless they are in the hands of the insurrectos.

Protest By Mexico.

London, April 26.—The Mexican government has communicated to the British foreign office a formal protest against the action of Capt. Vivian of the British sloop Shearwater in landing marines at San Quentin, Lower California, which action is described as an interference in the internal affairs of Mexico.

Announcement to this effect was made in a brief dispatch received at the foreign office today from T. B. Hohler, British charge at Mexico City.

Mr. Hohler stated that the text of the protest was going forward by mail and no action in the matter will be taken here pending the receipt of the text and also the explanation of Capt Vivian, which he has mailed to London.

BLUNDERS OF AUTHORS.

New York Press: Absorbed and interested in the evolution of a plot, many an author sacrifices truth and draws pen pictures that are absolutely weird and historically inaccurate, and the review of some recent books revealed some entertaining examples.

A story published recently, where the scene is laid in Indianapolis, has a paragraph which reads: "He left the house at midnight and, hurrying to the quay, boarded a European steamer." At latest accounts Indianapolis was not yet a seaport, but if congress continues with river and harbor improvements that story may yet be true to fact.

A story of adventure, by an author whose books have sold very largely, contained a hero who placed a note to his sweetheart in a bottle and dropped it in the ocean off the coast of Brazil. In the narrative that bottle is washed on the shore of the Mediterranean just twenty minutes later and lands at the feet of the young lady in question. There is a chance that the wireless companies may adopt this bottle scheme and save time in the transmission of messages.

One author in describing a particularly showy team of horses wrote: "They were richly caprisoned with gold monograms on their corners." If he had remembered to put blankets on those horses before he riveted on the initials it might have added to their comfort. In a detective story by the same author we find: "When he saw the detective the culprit's teeth chattered and he kept the table between them." The mouth that held those teeth with the table between them must surely have been capacious.

But all the blunders are not confined to the more recent writers, for the ancient worthies were quite as flagrant sinners. Milton's line, "Thick as autumnal leaves that strew the brooks in Vallombrosa," are familiar to every one, but, as a matter of fact, the Vallombrosa forests are all of pine trees, so that there are no leaves, and pine needles do not fall in the autumn, but toward spring. Again in "Comus" he writes:

"And in the violet embroidered vale
Where the lovelorn nightingale
Nightly to thee her sad song mourneth well."

Unfortunately for the poet, the male nightingale alone sings and the female is voiceless.

Another classic writer who allowed his meter to get the better of his sense was Pope, who wrote:

When first young Maro, in his noble mind,
A work t' outlast immortal Rome designed.

He had overlooked the fact that if Rome was immortal nothing could outlast it. But neither of these are any worse than the story of Pharaoh's daughter finding the infant Moses among the bulrushes on the banks of the Nile. As a matter of fact, bulrushes do not thrive in Southern latitudes and there are none along the banks of the Nile.

In his youthfulness and meager education may be found some excuse for Keats writing:

Like stout Cortez, when, with eager eyes,
He gazed at the Pacific.

Almost every schoolboy today knows that Balboa discovered the Pacific ocean and that Cortez was nowhere near it.

Even old Izaak Walton, who, because of his life spent in the open air, should have known better, also confounds the male and female nightingale, and in his "Compleat Angler" writes: "But the nightingale, another of my airy creatures, breathes such sweet, loud music out of her instrumental throat."

Dr. Samuel Warren, in that voluminous three-ply novel, "Ten Thousand a Year," made this remarkable assertion: "The astonished Yahoo, smoking, as well as he could, a cigar with which he had filled all his pockets." That passage was shown to a critic who is an inveterate smoker, and his comment was that a cigar of such dimensions must certainly have been a Pennsylvania stogie.

Sir Walter Scott, in his "Heart of Midlothian," moralizes thus: "Our simple and unpretending heroine had the merit of those peacemakers to whom it is promised as a benediction that they shall inherit the earth." Possibly Sir Walter did not know his Testament as well as he might or he would have recalled that it is promised that not the peacemakers but "the meek shall inherit the earth."

A case of misquotation that has become chronic is revealed by a passage in Habakkuk. The passage really reads: "Write the vision and make it plain that he may run that readeth it." The vision was a warning and the reader was to run from danger, but Cooper misquoted it by saying: "He that runs may read," signifying that it easily read in haste, and this version has survived.

Another instance of rewriting a quotation into something of entirely divergent meaning is afforded by the passage from Butler's "Hudibras," which really is: "He that complies against his will is of the same opinion still." Many a writer has misquoted that into "A man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still," as if a man that was convinced could possibly be of the same opinion as previously.

Theodore Roosevelt made a series of three misstatements in three words when in one of his books he referred to the Revolutionary patriot Thomas Paine as a "filthy little atheist." As a matter of fact, Paine was not dirty, being noted for his excessive neatness and even accused of being fastidious: he was not little, being as tall as Mr. Roosevelt, and he was not an atheist.

In a speech Mr. Roosevelt made an equally curious historical blunder, and succeeded at the same time in making a misquotation when he claimed that Washington in his farewell address said: "To be prepared for war is the most effective means to promote peace." Washington really said nothing of the sort at any time. In his first annual message to congress he said: "To be prepared for war is one of the most effective means of preserving peace." There is a wide difference of meaning between "one of the means," and "the most effective means," and an equal divergence between "promoting" peace and "preserving" it. Furthermore the first message was delivered seven years before the farewell address.

Clergymen are equally sinners with the rest, and the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, in a flowery sermon, declared that Cromwell and his troops sang the long-meter doxology, "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," and then went forth to win a righteous victory, but unfortunately for the value of the alleged illustration, the long-meter doxology was written in 1697 and Cromwell was thoughtless enough to die in 1658, nearly forty years previously.

A particularly bad case of misapplication is afforded by the tablet that was placed on the wall of a New York church to the memory of its dead pastor. It read: "Pastor of the church from Nov. 3, 1867, to Sept. 17, 1898. There remaineth therefore a rest for the people of God."

NOVEL PANCAKES.

An astonishing variety of novel pancakes is described by an English housekeeper who gives some of the recipes in the Queen. She says that it is most important that all eggs should be fresh, well beaten, and in some instances the whites and yolks should be beaten separately. The pan must be perfectly clean and should be warmed before putting in the fat for frying. Butter or sweet lard may be used for frying. Among the unusual recipes she gives are the following:

Apple Pancakes—Make a rich batter as for Dublin pancakes. Have ready one-half pound of apple sauce. Take two omelet pans with butter in each; pour into each pan the same quantity of batter. When one side of each is cooked spread upon one enough sauce to cover it, then take the second pancake and place it down side up upon the apple sauce. Do this until the whole of the batter is used. Dish and send each pancake to table as it leaves the pan dusted with caster sugar.

Cream Pancakes——Six eggs, one pint of cream, four ounces of sugar, a glass of white wine, half a grated nutmeg. The eggs must be well beaten and sieved and the whole made into a stiff, smooth batter with cornflour and ordinary flour to the consistency of pancake batter. Spread a little butter over a hot pan and pour into it enough batter to make a thin pancake; turn with care. These may be spread with any preserve or served with any juice or wine sauce.

Dublin Pancake—Six eggs, one pint of cream (or milk may be used, allowing an extra ounce of butter), a grated nutmeg, two ounces of butter, a glass of white wine, one-half pound of dry flour. Whip the yolks and whites of the eggs separately. Pour the wine, nutmeg and butter just warm into the flour and stir well. Put in the yolks of the eggs, well beaten. Lastly add the cream carefully, with the whites of the eggs beaten to a snow. When of a smooth batter it is ready to use. Should the batter not be thick enough add a little more flour. Serve with warm jelly or half lemons and a sugar.

Almond Pancake—Make a batter as above. The almonds must be blanched in sherry or brandy for twelve hours before putting in a mortar. Remove the skins from the almonds and put the kernels into the mortar with a tablespoonful of orange or rose flower water to prevent them oiling. When well pounded add them to the batter. Drop the mixture from a spoon cook and turn. Dish and dust with caster sugar; pass a redhot salamander over each for one minute.

Savory Pancakes—Oyster Pancakes—Have ready a dozen bearded oysters, heat them in their own liquor, together with a gill of stock. When blanched and plump put them aside upon a dish and make a rich batter seasoned with pepper, salt and minced parsley. Take each oyster, dip it into the batter on a skewer and put it into the boiling fat. Take up and drain upon kitchen paper. Dish the pancakes and garnish with tufts of watercress. Serve with half lemons and cayenne.

Chicken Pancakes—Remove all the skin and bone from the breast of a cold roast chicken and mince it very finely. Put it into a stewpan with one ounce of butter. When thoroughly heated put the pan on one side. As soon as the chicken is cold stir in a gill of cream. Season with pepper and salt, then add one teaspoonful of Lemco. When thoroughly dissolved make a good batter, pour the batter into a well greased pan. When one side is done lay upon it a tablespoonful of the mince and cover lightly with more batter. Dish and set in a hot oven or before a good fire, so that the batter will rise high. It will then be ready for table. Serve with half lemons and cayenne. These should be taken to table as they leave the oven.

Spanish Pancakes—Cut a French roll into finger lengths and soak them in heated butter, then fry lightly in butter, after which leave till cold. Dust with minced parsley, season with ground cinnamon, pepper and salt. Dip each into thick batter and fry quickly. Place a blanched and curled anchovy on each slice and serve garnished with chevril.

Potatoe Pancake—Boil three potatoes, and mash them well with a lump of butter, some milk and three beaten eggs. Mix all together, season with pepper, salt and a grate of nutmeg. Again beat for ten minutes. Put a good quantity of lard in a pan and drop the mixture from a spoon into the boiling fat. Do not turn them, but hold over each a red hot salamander. Dust with grated ham or grated yolks of hard-boiled eggs.

Mushroom Pancakes—Have ready some mushrooms skinned and stalked. Cook them nicely in butter. When blanched, pour into the pan, well greased, enough batter to make a thin pancake. When one side is done spread the top with the mushroom mixture, well seasoned. Have ready a pancake cooked upon one side. Place it brown side up over the mushrooms. Set in the oven for three minutes. Send to table at once.

Cheese Pancakes—Make a thin batter with cream and yolks of eggs well beaten; season with pepper and salt and a minced shallot. Stir all together, then throw in enough cheese to make it of a thin consistency. Fill a forcing pipe with the mixture and force it through into a pan of boiling fat. When cooked serve dusted with finely minced parsley. Do not turn these. Set in the oven one minute before dishing. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over them.

MODEST LONDON CLUBS.

The Gentlewoman: There is still a very marked contrast between the unobtrusive of the really distinguished clubs of long standing and such wondrous erections as the new mammoth building in Pall Mall.

Those who do not know their London if walking eastward from Marlborough house would scarcely notice the modest little door with its glass panels and round lamp which admits to the Marlborough club; yet here the highest in the land, from the king downward, are quite content to congregate day by day under comparatively simple conditions.

The Guards' club, exactly opposite, is scarcely if at all more conspicuous, nor do such select symposia as the Travelers, Brooks or Arthur's in any way (to use a commercial simile) "put their goods in the front window." The Turf club is of imposing dimensions, and occupies, of course, a fine situation in Piccadilly, overlooking the Green park, yet here, as well as at the Bachelors' club further westward, a distinguished simplicity and utter absence of all ostentation is the invariable rule.

LIFE.

We plough the field, we plant the seed,
We labor many a day
To cultivate the growing crop
And keep the weeds away.
We toil through summer's sultry heat,
with weariness and pain,
And then some trickster comes along
And gathers in the grain!

We save our dollars, one by one,
With old New England thrift.
We gather up a hoard at last
(The process isn't swift)
And then we take it to the place
Where brokers "put" and "call."
We buy some lovely gilt edged stocks,
And so we lose it all.

It makes no odds how hard we try,
Or work with hands and wit,
There's always some one standing by
To grab the benefit.
Still, it's your part to do your best.
And labor like a man;
But watch the shysters mighty close,
And beat them, if you can!

PLUMES FOR CORONATION.

London Express: Preparations are being made already by the ostrich feather importers to meet the increased demand for plumes which is expected for the coronation season.

The weight of feathers is increasing with every sale at Mincing lane and at the last bimonthly sale, which has just finished, the weight offered was 115,500 pounds, against 104,000 pounds in July.

Although the prices showed a decline on the average, the setback is only temporary, and already large orders are being received in the warehouses of Aldersgate street, where the ostrich feather dealers congregate.

"The trade in ostrich plumes," one of the foremost merchants said, "is like the trade in diamonds. Its volume has depended hitherto on the prosperity of America. When things are good in America then trade is good for us.

"We are looking, however, for an improvement now, for ostrich plumes are likely to be the fashion next spring

"The abolition of the large hat in favor of the small turban shaped hat has meant a considerable loss to us, as the feathers used in the small hat are chiefly small tail feathers instead of the large, sweeping wing feathers."

What the public knows as plain "ostrich feather," a representative learned, is known by many names in the trade.

They are classified as follows:

Whites—Wing feathers.
Femina—Feathers from female birds.
Byocks—Black and white from male birds.
Boos—Tail feathers.
Spadonnas—Chick feathers.
Blacks—Body feathers.
Drabs—Female body feathers.
Floss—Feathers closest to the skin.

They vary in price from £42 downward, but of course many feathers go to the making of one expensive plume, for new feathers are joined on to the existing feather to obtain the desired length and droop.

DRAMA, DUKES AND DUCATS.

In a list of American actresses and chorus girls who have married men of wealth or members of the aristocracy, the New Idea Woman's Magazine puts Edith Kingdon, now Mrs. George Gould, first.

Then comes the marriage of Oscar Lewisohn to Edna May, and of his younger brother, Jesse, to Edna McCauley. August Belmont and Eleanor Robson are now a happy married couple, and Ethel Barrymore, "the most engaged girl on the stage," became the bride of Russel-Griswold Colt.

Two more actresses who married rich men are Millicent Willson, the wife of William Randolph Hearst, and Minnie Ashley, who married William Astor Chanler. Amy Busby married Eugene Lewis, a New York lawyer, and Gladys Willis married Samuel Insull, who is at the head of Edison's electrical enterprises in the West, and is a very rich man.

In the matter of titles the American actress has proved equally irresistible. Camille Clifford is now the Hon. Mrs. Henry Lyndhurst Bruce, and some day she will be Lady Aberdare. Connie Gilchrist, Sylvia Storey and Rosie Boote are now addressed as the Countess Poulette, the Countess of Orkney and the Marchioness of Headfort. Anna Robinson became the countess of Rosslyn a few years ago, and Eva Carrington wedded Lord de Clifford. Frances Belmont, one of the famous "Floradora Sextette," is now Lady Ashburton.

HUNTING WITH FERRETS.

Newburgh News: Rabbits and partridges have been more plentiful this year in this section than in many years. Every day hunters can be seen returning to the city with their hunting coats and bags fairly loaded down.

The rabbits around the country have become so plentiful in the last few years that the farmers asked to have the laws taken off ferrets in order that they could be partially exterminated, as they were doing considerable damage to their peach and pear trees. The change in the laws was made and ferrets can now be used for hunting purposes. There is such a demand for ferrets for hunting purposes that their retail price has increased over half, and dealers are reaping a harvest, males selling for $3 and females for $3.50.

THE MEGILLAH.

The American Hebrew: Purim has developed into a festival of many aspects in modern Jewish life. It is the time when the rich remember the poor, when friends remember one another, when children learn that religion has its processional and amusing aspects, and when the position of Jews in the dispersion is seen to be typified in the Biblical narrative.

But perhaps the most characteristic feature of the festival is the reading of the Megillah both in the home and in the synagogue service. The narrative thus read or told is one of the most striking and most effective stories of the world, even regarded as a story. It records the ups and downs of interesting persons and appeals thus to what Stevenson calls the aleatory instincts of mankind.

It is well known that servant girls are especially pleased to read the dime novel which tells of the rise in fortune of one of their own class, who marries a marquis or a millionaire, according to the locale of the story. So, too, we all care to read of the rise in fortunes of a deserving young man who becomes the right hand of a great merchant or a prince.

A similar interest attaches to the careers of Esther and Mordecai in the narrative of the Megilah, of which we can never get tired. The Book of Esther has of course another interest for us. It records a crisis in the career of the Jewish people and tells how this was averted by the self-sacrifice of the Jewish maiden raised to the dignity of queen and of her relative who became vizier or its equivalent.

Times have so far changed that great events of this kind are not likely to be influenced so closely by single personalities, but Jews at least have always loked forward to some such helper as Mordecai. Every one who knew the late Dr. Herzl recognized in him just such a type of a man who could speak his mind in the presence of kings on behalf of his people. And there may come a time when even the czar or the king of Rumania may have to defend himself in presence of some representative Jew.

Thus the Book of Esther, besides being an interesting story in itself, has roots deep in Jewish feeling and Jewish history, and it gives something of the glow of romance to the festival.

LARGE FAMILIES IN IRELAND.

Westminster Gazette: To have a large family in Ireland is always looked upon as a special mark of the Divine blessing, and in connection therewith Mr. Robinson tells a good story He was dining once at a house in Tipperary when a card was brought in by the butler and sent round the table.

A tramp had two children in a perambulator, with seven others round him, at the door. He was looking for help and this was his modus operandi. He called at each gentleman's house and the card with the following inscription was handed in:

Dear Friends—Having obeyed the Divine command to increase and multiply I am unable to support my already too large family. Your kind aid and assistance will be welcomed. Truly yours, PATRICK KEENAN.

This ingenious man always got help.

LUXURY OF FRENCH PRISONS.

Court Journal: Last week I spoke of the intelligent deputy who is hoping to introduce the cat o' nine tails into France. Today comes to light facts showing the luxury in which French apaches live when they are the guests of the state. The French criminal is taken to a prison called Fresnes palace, and here he is housed far better than any common French soldier, though the latter may have served his country ever so valiantly, while the former has supposedly done the reverse.

The cells are steam heated at an always level temperature, and statistics show us that in a garrison and a prison each holding the same number of inmates, where in 1909 the consumption of coal for the garrison was eighteen wagonloads, the prison consumed 300 wagonloads full. So to quote Clement Vautel, our brave French soldiers "shiver around a fire meagerly fed with a few pieces of coal from time to time, while our criminals stretch themselves in lazy luxury before a cosy hot steam pipe."

ANNUAL.

Along about the last of May
A lover gay rode down this way
And paused but long enough to say
"I love you" to his lady.
Along about the first of June
He sang his tune and gained his boon
And parted from her all too soon—
Alas! and lack-a-dadee!

Oh, that's the way the ditties go
That seek to show the weight of woe
That simple little maidens know
Who trust a total stranger.
And simply maidens softly sigh
And loudly cry that they would die
Before they'd cast a tender eye
On things that threatened danger.

But that's a silly way to do,
O maiden true, I swear to you;
Permit the fickle swain to woo;
Let this your sorrowing sex cheer—
Another one will come today,
(Whate'er they say, life's not all May)
And, even though he rides away,
Another's coming next year!

ATLANTA'S EGG HUNT.

Columbian Magazine: The annual egg hunt at Atlanta, Ga., is a unique celebration, instituted by the authorities of that city several years ago for the delectation of its juvenile population. On the Saturday before Easter, Grant park, one of the city's most popular breathing places, is closed to the public and in the shrubbery and grass are hidden some 40,000 or 50,000 candy eggs, one of which is gilded.

At noon on Easter day, when the band strikes up "Dixie," the throngs of waiting youngsters are admitted and the hunt for the eggs begins. The foruntate finder of the gilded egg is presented by the city with a goat, harness and wagon as a prize. The eagerness with which the children prosecute their search is a source of infinite amusement to their grownup guardians who accompany them and there is a concerted rush for drinking fountains and refreshment stands when the hunt is over.

SIGN A RELIC OF PARIS SIEGE.

Wide World Magazine: Paris is a city of curious singboards, one of the most remarkable ones representing a tobacconist's sign at 55 Rue du Chateau-d'Eau, which has been here ever since 1870. It is riddled with holes made by the bullets of the Prussians, and the occupant of the shop states that so far as he is aware, it is the only public relic of the Franco-Prussian war in evidence in the streets of Paris today.

"My sign," he added, "brings me plenty of customers. You have no idea, monsieur, of the number of English and American tourists who pass this way and drop into my place for a cigar or a box of matches, merely in order to have a word with me about my bullet riddled enseigne. I wouldn't part with it for anything."

ANIMALS THAT GO MAD.

The Forum: In Paris of a list of 1903 of all kinds of animals which had bitten people and which were suspected of being afflicted with rabies, there were as many as 833 dogs; of the remaining animals in this official list there were 247 horses, 6 cats and 7 others of the various domestic animals. It will be seen from this that the dog is not the only offender, though he leads all others by a large plurality.

In Prussia, that country of statistical delight, there are numerous instances, officially listed, of bites from rabid cattle and even from that mildest of animals ordinarily, the deer. As regards Russia one would naturally suppose that wolves would figure largely as a source of danger in biting other animals and man. Russian statistics substantiate the correctness of this supposition.

GOOD FELLOWS, BUT—

Los Angeles Times: Claude Grahame White, the English aviator, praised at a dinner in New York the good-fellowship of Americans.

"The American woman is regarded abroad as an angel," he said. "The man is admittedly a good fellow, but an angel he is far from being.

"You've heard of the Frenchman, perhaps, whose sweetheart spent the summer in America? After her return the poor Frenchman seemed quite blue.

"'What's the matter with you?' a friend asked.

"'I am worried,' the other muttered, 'about my fiancee. You see, since her return from America, she kisses so much better than she used to.'"

HOW FAR HAVE YOU TRAVELED?

Strand Magazine: Have you ever counted up the number of steps which you have made in the course of one day—in going to business, in walking from one room to another at home, and so on, throughout the course of the day?. If you will take the trouble to do so, you will be surprised to find what a distance you have covered without realizing it. Multiply this distance by 365, and you will find that it will not require many years before you have made up the 25,000 miles which is equal to the circuit of the globe. Most people would certainly be surprised if they were informed that during the course of their lives they have walked a distance as great as the length of the equator. Yet, however sedentary we may be, however little inclined to gain the reputation of a globe-trotter or of an Alpine climber, most of us have, unknown to ourselves, covered a distance equal to the full circuit of the earth, or a climb to the highest mountain peaks in the world. More than that, we have accomplished a task still more colossal. Without having had occasion to explore the unknown regions beneath the crust of the earth, we have descended as far as the depths of the most unfathomable abysses, even as far as the very center of the earth.

PREPARE TO DEFEND MEN

Los Angeles Union Leaders Hold Protracted Conferences Night and Day.

District Attorney Ready to Arraign the Prisoners at Once.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 26.—Officers of the local branch of the International Association of Bridge & Structural Iron Workers held protracted conferences last night and today with other union officials of this city and San Francisco, over the defense of the arrested men.

District Attorney John D. Fredericks is ready to proceed with the arraignment and trial at once. Mrs. D. H. Ingersoll and one or two other witnesses from San Francisco are here to testify whether they believe James McNamara is the "James B. Bryce" whom they knew in San Francisco, and as one of the purchasers of the dynamite used in Los Angeles.

"Bryce" is under a grand jury indictment charging the murder of twenty-one men who lost their lives in the destruction of the Times plant. Much depends upon whether McNamara is identified as "Bryce."

David Captain and "Cockey" Schmidt, indicted with Bryce as purchasers of the dynamite, are still at large.

Word received here from the officers on the train bringing the prisoners West is that all three accused men are confident of their ready release.

It was expected that the men would not come by train directly to Los Angeles, but would be taken off somewhere between San Bernardino, sixty miles out, and this city, and brought here by automobile.

The men will be locked in separate cells in the county jail. Extra guards have been posted there by Sheriff Hammel, both in the corridors of the prison and surrounding the building. Sheriff Hammel has arranged for an alarm bell to be placed in a room in the jail occupied by four officers, constantly on duty. Two other deputy sheriff will watch directly over James McNamara and McManigal, who will be locked up near each other, and a third will keep guard day and night over John J. McNamara in another part of the prison.

McNamara Hired Barn.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 26.—D. Jones, an iron worker in whose barn at the western edge of the city, sixteen sticks of dynamite and two quarts of nitro-glycerin were found last Saturday, later was examined by the grand jury today.

Jones, in a statement to the police, had declared that he knew nothing of the dynamite and that he rented the barn to J. J. McNamara.

Following Jones, Patrick Dugan, also a member of the iron workers' union, testified.

FRANCIS B. CLARKE DIES IN PORTLAND

Word was received today that Francis B. Clarke, formerly president of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle, died Monday at Portland, Or. Mr Clarke retired from active duty about a year ago, because of ill health. The news of his death will come as a great shock to Duluth railroad officials and many other Duluthians who knew him.

Mr. Clarke lived in St. Paul for about thirty-five years and was popular and active in railroad and land circles. He was made president of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle when it was organized about two years ago by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific. He was a close friend of James J. Hill.

After serving as general freight and passenger agent of the Wisconsin Central at St. Paul for about ten years, he went into the service of the Omaha, and was general traffic manager from 1878 to 1892. He was located at Superior, Wis., for three years, as manager of the Consolidated Land company.

September, 1895, he was made general traffic manager of the Northern Steamship company, and served as general traffic manager of the Great Northern from 1896 to 1904.

He was succeeded as president of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle road by George Barton French, brother-in-law of C. W. Gordon of St. Paul. John F. Stevens is now president of the road, together with the old affliated Hill lines on the Pacific coast.

The Will of John Sundeen Is Admitted to Probate.

The will of the late John Sundeen of this city was today admitted to probate. Mr. Sundeen left an estate valued at about $30,000, and it all goes to his wife, Annie S. Sundeen. There is about $26,500 in real estate and about $3,500 in personal property.

The will of John Heden was also admitted to probate. His estate was valued at about $1,500.

Judge Gilpin has settled an important question which arises frequently in probate court. He has ruled that even though an account be outlawed, the whole account is opened up again when a payment is made on it.

The question arose in the claim of George A. Gamble against the estate of George Gamble. The claim amounted to $1,983.80. Years ago the money was owned, but the account was outlawed. The debt was of nearly nineteen years' standing. About a year before his death Mr. Gamble paid $100 on account. Judge Gilpin decided that this opened the account again and he allowed the claim.

George A. Gamble and George Gamble were brothers.

SURVEY ASKED TO CO-OPERATE

State Drainage Engineer Ralph Lays Matter Before Director.

Washington, April 26.—(Special to The Herald..—George Ralph, state drainage engineer, is in Washington to confer with Director Smith of the geological survey in regard to securing government co-operation in the preparation of hydrographic maps of the water power and topographic maps of the drainage areas of Minnesota.

The Minnesota legislature has appropriated $25,000 for this work and desires that the geological survey set aside a similar amount from its general fund and conduct the work.

Mr. Ralph also is asking that another edition of geological drainage maps of ceded Indian lands of the state be issued, adding to the new issue a map of the unceded Indian lands in the vicinity of Red lake.

SAY THEY SAW COWAN DRUNK

Two More Witnesses Testify at the Impeachment Trial.

Bismarck, N. D., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A fight over the admission of evidence tending to prove new facts in connection with incidents of alleged drunkenness upon the part of Judge Cowan involved the court of impeachment this morning to such an extent that for a few moments the session became remarkably noisy, with several members participating in a debate in which rather curt remarks as to the manner of conducting the trial were made, Senator Hookway making a suggestion that the court would rather have evidence than arguments. By a vote of 23 to 20, such evidence was finally admitted.

Andrew Tuft of Rugby declared that he had seen Cowan during both the January and June terms in Rugby, and that on both occasions he had seen him under the influence of liquor.

W. K. Greenleaf of Grand Forks testified that he had seen Cowan in Devils Lake on general election day, and that he had the appearance of a man trying to walk straight, and that he was making his way slowly and carefully.

COPPERS UNCHANGED; TRADING LISTLESS

Values Advance and Then Decline—Steel Report Bearish.

The copper market opened about on yesterday's levels and then went forward. The pressure on Steel did not materialize until late in the session. The report on earnings in the last quarter was bearish. The copper metal situation is stronger, but the effect was lost today on account of the confidence of bears and their disposition to sell on the early hard spot.

Boston wired: At the annual meeting of the Calumet & Arizona Mining company, held in Bisbee yesterday, the stockholders ratified and approved the merger of the Superior & Pittsburg and Calumet & Arizona properties which was authorized at a special meeting held last February. A large majority of the Superior & Pittsburg Copper company stock has been deposited with the State Street Trust company, Boston, under the terms of the merger, and this stock will be exchanged for Calumet & Arizona shares on the basis of one Calumet & Arizona share for three and a half shares of Superior & Pittsburg upon receipt in Boston of formal vote taken by stockholders at yesterday's meeting, a matter of but a few days. The 1,500,000 shares of Superior & Pittsburg will shortly be stricken from the unlisted department of the Boston stock exchange and the 428,571 additional shares of the Calumet & Arizona stock issued for Superior & Pittsburg shares will be listed in their place. The first dividend of the consolidated company is due for payment in June and there is considerable speculation as to the ability of the company to continue the $4 a year rate maintained by the Calumet & Arizona for the past three years.

M. G. Phillips of the Chicago-Vermilion Development company was here last night on his way to his home in Minneapolis. He said the shaft on the Chicago-Vermilion property on the Vermilion range is down sixty-two feet. Commercial ore is expected at a depth of 125 feet.

WIEHE BREAKS LOOSE AGAIN

Threatens to Shoot a Photographer of a Chicago Newspaper.

Springfield, Ill., April 26.—Christian F. Wiehe broke loose from his enforced restraint yesterday afternoon, when he drew a revolver and threatened to shoot a photographer for a Chicago morning newspaper.

The encounter took place near the statehouse as Wiehe was walking toward the St. Nicholas hotel, where he is staying. He had been lounging around the courthouse all day and was known to the photographer, who trained his camera on him.

"Drop that camera or I'll shoot you full of holes," shouted Wiehe, drawing the revolver.

HOW ARTIFICIAL FURS ARE MADE.

La Nature: The raw pieces of pelt are frozen and the skin carefully shaved off, thawed and sent to the tanneries to be made into leather. The frozen fur which remains is allowed to thaw slightly at the bottom, so that a small part of the hair is freed from ice. This thawed portion is then covered with a solution of rubber, which is allowed to set.

The result is that large seamless pieces of fur are obtained much cheaper than those which come with the natural skin. These same artificial furs are said to be more lasting than the real, because they are immune from the attacks of moths.

BULLS RUN IN SHORTS

Crowd Sells Wheat and Then Is Forced to Get Under Cover.

Kansas Report Construed Both Ways—Rains in Southwest.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 26.—Wheat advanced slightly today in a trading market. The crowd got short early in the session and the longs then applied sufficient muscle to drive them to cover. The same tactics were repeated that have been popular for some time.

May wheat advanced ⅝c and July went forward 1c. The crowd sold the latter delivery heavily after receiving Coburn's estimate of 90,000,000 bu of wheat for Kansas, and was compelled to cover. Cash wheat was 1c over May. Durum gained ⅛c, oats closed unchanged. Rye was up 1c and barley declined 5c.

Linseed was weaker. The weakness was pronounced at Winnipeg when efforts were made to sell seed that had been kicking around for want of buyers. It had been held for seeding purposes. May linseed lost 2½c and July declined 2c. September closed unchanged. There were sales of September at $2.04 and $2.05. Plata seed was higher, being quoted for April-May shipment at $2.23, including 4 per cent for impurities.

Wheat cables were higher but values declined on this side on account of rains in Oklahoma and Nebraska. The Kansas state report issued by F. D. Coburn, secretary of the agricultural board, indicated a crop of 90,000,000 bu and an abandonment of 23 per cent of the acreage. The figure on abandonment was considered bullish but the estimate on the yield was construed as bearish. The trade was inclined to doubt that so much acreage will be abandoned. The area that will not be harvested, however, is not in the region where the yields are made. The foreign markets construed the report to indicate a crop of from 75,000,000 to 80,000,000 bu.

The market was a trading affair and the application of muscle toward noon caused the market to rally from the depressed level and values climbed to yesterday's close and went slightly higher. There was some profit-taking then by scalpers and the market seemed top-heavy.

Bulls who have hoped for a crop scare have been disappointed. The winter wheat generally is in good condition and spring wheat is being seeded under favorable circumstances. Showers were scattered in North Dakota last night and unsettled weather is predicted for tonight in the three Northwestern states. The prospects of a crop scare are remote.

Roumanian reports are bullish, many fields being plowed on account of winter killing. The weather is now seasonable.

The cash demand was dull and the flour trade was reported as fair.

MARKET GOSSIP

King of Toledo, Ohio, wired—Kansas April wheat condition, 78.5; government gave April 75, indicating 90,000,000 bu; state report last December, 75; April and June, 76. Acreage abandoned 23 per cent against 30 per cent a year ago. Acreage sown was 6,950,000 acres; largest except 1906. Report is based on 5,330,000 acres which remain. Barber, Harper and Summer counties suffered heaviest loss.

Chicago Tribune: It is understood some of the local millers are negotiating for a cargo of No. 1 northern, to be brought here from Duluth. This would have no special significance, as a few cargoes of spring wheat are usually brought down by lake nearly every spring to fill milling requirements. In general the cash demand continues slow for wheat here and at outside markets. Mills in the interior are getting all the wheat they need, as a rule, without coming to the leading terminal markets. Foreign bids were out of line.

A Minneapolis message to Barrell said that South Dakota advices indicated an increase in the spring wheat acreage of about 10 per cent and about the same as last year of durums and velvet chaff.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—The wheat market at the opening was influenced by the weakness in Winnipeg and the lower closing at Buenos Ayres yesterday and values were ¼d lower. Following the opening there were free covering by shorts, especially in the distant months and prices advanced ¼@½d with offers light. With exception of Plata spot grades were steady at the opening and unchanged with Manitoba's firmly held and an improved demand. There were no cargoes off coast and those awaiting orders were in fair request and the continent continues to absorb rather freely. The Kansas state report was privately cabled late yesterday and caused support here and reports from Roumania were less favorable. At 1:30 p. m. the market was firm and unchanged to ⅛d higher than yesterday.

The corn market opened with May ¼d higher and July ⅛d higher and during the morning a further advance of ⅛@¼d occurred with further covering on the fewer American offers and covering by yesterday's sellers. Arrivals are light and stocks small. Cargoes—Wheat arrived off coast nil, awaiting orders, 13; wheat in distant positions, quiet; holders unchanged but there is a limited demand. Liverpool spot—Wheat steady, unchanged to ½d lower; Plata half lower. Corn, quiet; unchanged to 1d decline; Plata 1d lower.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Conflicting Views on Crop Reports Unsettles Wheat Prices.

Chicago, April 26.—Conflicting views in regard to the Kansas crop report unsettled the wheat market today, but most operators inclined to a bearish idea of the document. Accordingly a decided sag in the price level ensued. The bull contention which was accepted at Liverpool but not here, took the ground that the report made a showing much less favorable than had been expected. On the other hand, Chicago traders gave notice chiefly to the fact that the condition stated, 78.5, was better than previous figures and that the acreage abandoned was 7 per cent less than a year ago. Opening prices were ⅝c lower to ¼c up. July started at 86⅞@87¼c, the same as last night to ⅛c down, and fell to 86½@86⅝c.

Denials of a big private settlement in the May option led to a sharp rally. The close was firm, with July ½c net higher at 87½c.

Small receipts and good cash demand made corn firm until the influence of wheat weakness caused a reaction. July opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c higher at 52⅜@52⅝c, and declined to 52¼c.

Later the market reacted with wheat. The close was firm, with July at 52⅝@52¾c, a net gain of ½c.

Support in oats was limited, but the market held fairly steady in the face of lively selling. July started unchanged at 31½c and touched 31⅝c.

Heavy sales of lard by a leading packer carried down provisions. First transactions were at last night's figures to 10c below, with July delivery $16.15 for pork, $8.22½ for lard and $8.20 for ribs.

Cotton Market.

New York, April 26.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 6 to 14 points this morning on an active general buying movement inspired by higher cables and unfavorable weather in the South, including reports of heavy rains in the Southwest. Realizing was heavy, but offerings were well absorbed by a broadening demand on the advance which was led by new crop positions, with July selling up to 15.33 and October to 13.21, or about 14 to 19 points net higher. Numerous private wires were received from the South complaining of delayed planting, and with the outlook for more or less generally unsettled weather, there was not only active covering of new crop positions, but also fresh buying through commission houses, while the old crop was influenced by the firmness in Liverpool and talk of a continued improvement in spot demand.

Spot closed quiet; 20 points higher. Middling uplands, 15.35; middling gulf, 15.60; sales, 147 bales. Futures closed steady; closing bids: April, 15.10; May, 15.15; June, 15.20; July, 15.25; August, 14.99; September, 13.80; October, 13.30; November, 13.23; December, 13.20; January, 13.18; March, 13.29.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Market Rises Steadily After Opening and Shows Much Breadth.

Attempt to Depress United States Steel But Rally Follows.

New York, April 26.—United States Steel was sold heavily at the opening of the market today by traders who took advantage of yesterday's disappointing quarterly report to make a drive at the stock. On the first sale of 4,000 shares, it declined ½ and on several other large sales dropped to 73, as compared with 73¾, last night's close. Within a few minutes, however, it recovered most of its loss. The majority of the other market leaders declined fractionally. Amalgamated Copper, Lehigh Valley, American Smelting and Chesapeake & Ohio lost ½.

Initial prices were about the lowest recorded during the first hour, the market thereafter rising steadily, with Union Pacific, Reading, United States Steel and other favorite stocks selling fractionally above yesterday's closing. The fertilizers showed considerable strength and the whole market acted in a manner that seemed to indicate that there was a good foundation of buying orders on all recessions. Great Northern preferred and American Cotton Oil gained 1, American Agricultural Chemical 1¼, Wisconsin Central 1¾ and Brooklyn Union Gas 2 points.

Interest centered around United States Steel. Trading in the shares was very large and attempts to depress them on account of the unexpectedly low earnings disclosed in the report issued yesterday, were at first successful. The increase in earnings reported for each successive month of the quarter, bringing up March earnings to a figure almost twice those of January, was regarded by many traders as indicating a better state of affairs than was assumed at first, and the stock obtained good support, rallying quickly. Reading and Union Pacific were especially strong, the latter on intimation of excellent March earnings. The market showed considerable breadth, a number of specialties making notable gains, particularly the gas, electric and telegraph stocks. Bonds were firm, with a heavy demand for Lake Shore 4's of 1931, which were up a point.

The market closed irregular. The Canadian group of stocks and some of the coalers and Southern issues were in good demand in the closing dealings and advanced strongly. Business increased all around, and there was a further marking up of some of the representative stocks. Amalgamated Copper was under some pressure at the end and sold at the lowest of the day, causing some sympathetic recessions in the active group.

THE CZAR AT THE THEATER.

New York Sun: For the first time in seven years the czar of Russia recently went to the theater in St. Petersburg, where he saw a French company playing "Arsene Lupin." Andre Brule, who played the title role, says: "It was only at 7 o'clock that I received official notice of the czar's coming. The colonel in command at the theater gave me a thousand warnings—to be ready for the exact moment the czar entered, never to look toward the side where the imperial box was, to pay no attention to the hundred strangers I should meet in the wings and behind, whose duties would be at once apparent to an Arsene Lupin.

"The stage setting was to be modified. The czar's box was on the side toward which I always throw the imitation bomb in the fourth act and point my revolver in the third. All this had to be changed. The bomb is rubber and the revolver tin, but—you understand."

The czar sent for Brule and congratulated him and the company.

"Your majesty will, I hope, enjoy the end of the piece as much as the first three acts," Brule said.

The czar smiled. "On condition nobody tells me the story beforehand," he said.

The czar shook the actor's hand in saying good-by.

"An energetic, long and sympathetic handshake," the actor describes it. "One thing struck me, the emperor's extraordinary look. His blue eyes have a look at the same time freezingly cutting and velvety, 'The eyes of a hypnotizer,' Grand Duke Boris said afterward when I told him my impression."

THE EYE AND VOICE.

Chicago Tribune: A physician in London, Dr. William Martin Richards, has had occasion to observe a relation existing between the eyes and the voice and has recently made a statement of two cases that came under his treatment where actresses who had lost their voices completely, recovered them when treated for defective eyes and fitted with proper glasses.

He tells of one young woman in whose family eye diseases were hereditary who found herself at the age of 22 losing her voice. Her eyes were found to be in need of attention and when she had been supplied with glasses she promptly recovered her singing voice.

When she discarded the glasses some time later and her eyes were once more neglected her voice also relapsed into a husky state that precluded all singing. This practitioner has observed a number of similar cases, and the discovery of the relation between the eyes and the voice should certainly be valuable to stage folk and others who depend largely upon their voices for their status in the world.

FOUND THE MISSING PIG.

Greenville, Ky., Sentinel: One day, about a month ago, A. J. Nichols missed a pig that would weigh about fifty pounds from his bunch of hogs. The hogs were in an inclosure, and Mr. Nichols looked the field over carefully, but failed to find the missing pig. He concluded that it had gone into some of the thickets and died. One day two of his sons were at work in the field when their dog treed something in a hollow log. Going to where he was, they cut into the log with an ax, and found the lost pig. It had been reduced to a mere skeleton, was blind, and unable to stand. The boys took the pig to the house, and it appears now that it will recover from its long fast, though its eyesight will not be restored.

A PHILIPPINE VOLCANO.

Manila Times: The central or main crater of Taal is nearly round, its diameter on an airline north and south is 6,233 feet and the east-west diameter 7,546 feet. The edge of this crater is somewhat irregular, but is nowhere broken through its highest point standing at only 1,050 feet above sea level and its lowest at 426 feet.

It is said that Coshima, in Japan, is the only other volcano of similarly low altitude. Within the rim are two hot pools, known respectively as the yellow and the green lake, and a little active cone above fifty feet in height, from which escape steam and sulphurous gas in varying quantities.

In the smaller lake every few minutes the water in the center is blown up like an immense bubble, which, rising above the surface finally bursts, revealing a black orifice and causing the boiling and very turbulent water to assume all imaginable colors. The aqueous vapor escaping is sufficient to form a broad smoke-like column which is visible especially during the night and in the early morning.

At some distance and before reaching the edge of the crater, wher a view of the bottom can be obtained, the rumbling sound produced by the escaping vapor, under the influence of the mysterious subterranean forces, can be heard like than of an imemnse boiling kettle.

The greatest eruption of Taal took place in 1754. It consisted of only fragmental ejecta, but these were sufficient to destroy four villages lying about the lake. "The ash," Semper says, "has now indurated and a new growth of bamboo and palms has sprung up around the projecting ruins." Father Buenuchillo wrote also a pathetic description of this eruption, from which the following is taken:

"The eruption began on May 13 and did not end till Dec. 1. During this time the intensity and aspect of the eruption were continually changing. It was 200 days of devastation and ruin for the inhabitants, to whom the time must have appeared an eternity. During this terrible time the four principal towns of the laguna of Bombon disappeared, viz., Sala, Lipa, Tanauan and Taal, with the numerous villages around them."

It is impossible to describe the beautiful coloring effects caused by the different mineral deposits on the walls and cliffs of the crater.

As the lake is fed from underground springs and no surface water drains into it, it is as clear as crystal and much cooler than sea water and has an abundance of fine, hard fleshed fish which are highly esteemed by the Filipinos of the region. They are game fish and some reach a size that makes their capture with light tackle a matter of some difficulty.

The clear water of the lake has another marvel that is well worth seeing. Some comparatively modern eruptions of the volcano covered some towns, in two of which only the church roofs are visible. Others are completely submerged and on days when the surface of the lake is unruffled once can look down into the streets of these submerged towns and see the fish dart through doors and windows of once populous barrios. The water is twenty-five feet deep, but so clear that every detail is visible.

HOW TO COOK VENISON.

Queen: The prime joint of venison is undoubtedly the haunch, though a shoulder or neck of venison properly cooked is a very toothsome dish; the loin is best cut up into chops and cutlets, the breast being only suitable for soups, ragouts and pies.

When it is possible to do so venison should be hung for at least a fortnight before being cooked, which will not only improve its flavor but will render it so digestible that persons of quite weak digestions may safely eat it, though for them it will be best plainly roasted and served with a plain gravy.

When roasting a shoulder or neck of venison be sure to cover it well with slices of fat (mutton fat for preference), as it has none or very little of its own, while the basting of all venison joints should be continuous or the flesh will be apt to eat somewhat dry.

PRINT A HERALD WANT AD--AND RENT THAT GOOD-ENOUGH-FOR-ANYBODY HOUSE OR APARTMENT

HOUSEKEEPERS' WANTS

It has become quite the proper thing for the modern housekeeper to make liberal use of The Herald Want columns.

When in search of some article of use, when seeking to exchange something that she desires to replace, the housekeeper of today will write or telephone a Want Ad to The Herald.

In preparing Wants, state plainly just what you have to sell or exchange, or what you want to buy; you are assured a host of readers and the chances are that many of them will be directly appealed to by your Want.

Many a prudent housewife has developed an excellent business instinct as the result of Herald Want Ad experience.

CORPORATIONS MAY BE COMPELLED TO PAY LARGE SUMS IN FINES

As Result of Indictments on Charges of Rebating and Conspiracy.

Suits Likely to Be Brought to Recover Penalties Prescribed.

Dan Hanna, D. T. McCabe and R. L. Ireland Among Indicted.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 27.—Following the indictment yesterday on charges of rebating and conspiracy of four railways entering Cleveland, D. T. McCabe, fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and Dan R. Hanna, president, and R. L. Ireland, second vice president of the M. A. Hanna & Co., United States District Attorney W. L. Day announced today that summons immediately would be served on the indicted corporations, and at least one of the indicted individuals. Mr. Hanna said he would appear before the clerk of the United States district court today and give bonds for his appearance in court.

Mr. Ireland is at present in the Bermudas, while Mr. McCabe is thought to be in Pittsburg. Mr. McCabe is already under subpoena.

Mr. Day also announced that suits likely will be brought to collect from the indicted parties and corporations penalties provided for in the Elkins act. Triple the amount of money proven to have been rebated can be collected by the government. It is Mr. Day's opinion the cases will not come to trial before the 1911 fall term of court. All legal proceedings for the present will take place before United States Judge Killitts of Toledo.

Contract Caused Indictment.

A contract was made on Jan. 25, 1909, between the Pennsylvania Railroad company and M. A. Hanna & Co., and signed by Dan R. Hanna and R. L. Ireland, representing M. A. Hanna & Co., and D. T. McCabe, representing the Pennsylvania, forms the basis of the indictments against Hanna, Ireland and McCabe.

This contract, unearthed by C. R. Marshall, special agent of the department of justice, provided that in consideration of the Pennsylvania Railroad company leasing to M. A. Hanna & Co. its docks at Cleveland and Ashtabula the latter should organize the Ohio & Western Pennsylvania Dock company for the purpose of loading and unloading iron ore; and that after the payment of certain tariffs allowed by the law, the remaining surplus from the earnings of the dock company should be divided by it at the end of each twelve months among the consignees of ore.

It was also provided that in case of any contingency not "herein foreseen,"

SOUTHERN STORM HAS PASSED OVER

Telegraphic Communication Still Paralyzed and Traffic Interrupted.

New Orleans, La., April 27.—Following a steady downpour of rain lasting thirty-six hours, accompanied by strong winds and high tides, the storm, which, yesterday and last night threatened serious damage along the Louisiana and Mississippi coasts, had abated early this morning and bright sunshine greeted New Orleans today. No lives were lost in the storm and the property damage was not heavy.

Telegraphic communication along the gulf coast east of New Orleans is still partially paralyzed and today there was continued interruption of traffic on the Louisville & Nashville and Illinois Central railroads.

Four spans of the Louisville & Nashville railroad bridge between Dunbar and Rigolets were carried away by the high tide last night and three other spans are several feet out of line. A temporary structure is being built today and efforts will be made to operate trains over this line tomorrow.

EX-CONVICT ONE OF THE ROBBERS

Martin Thorson Arrested for Participation in Hold-Up in Jewelry Store.

Chicago, April 27.—Martin Thorson, an ex-convict, was identified today by seven of the nine victims of the daring noonday jewel robbery which occurred yesterday on the Northwest side as the member of the bandit crew who stood guard in the back room over the bound and trussed clerks and patrons while the three other robbers looted the store.

It developed today that Thorson's arrest followed information given by the federal authorities, who had been following a daring band of postoffice and jewel thieves for several months. Postoffice inspectors were on their way to Thorson's rooming house to arrest him as a member of that band when he left the place in an automobile, said to have been the one used by the robbers, and an hour later the theft was reported.

OPPOSED TO FREE LIST

Regular Republicans in Senate Will Let Reciprocity Bill Pass.

Then Will Take Stand Against All Other Tariff Legislation.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 27. — A Washington special to the News says: The regular Republicans in the senate have practically agreed on a program for this session. They intend to let the Canadian reciprocity agreement go through and then stand out against all the other tariff legislation proposed by the Democrats of the house of representatives. They have no thought of permitting the free list bill or any bills revising schedules of the existing tariff law to be put through the senate at this session.

Not all the regulars by any means are in favor of opening the way for the passage of the Canadian reciprocity bill, but Senator Crane of Massachusetts, the "whip" for the Republicans, has made a canvass which convinces him that the president can, with the help of the Democratic senators, push Canadian reciprocity through the

FOUR HUNDRED MEN FIGHT FOREST FIRE

Town of North Adams, Mass., Threatened By Destruction From Flames.

North Adams, Mass., April 27.—All through last night 400 men fought a woods fire at the top of Pine Cobble mountain which, starting three days ago near Williamstown, threatened the western section of this city. Fully 3,000 acres of land have been burned over. During last night numerous small fires broke out within the western limits of North Adams, but they were quickly extinguished by the citizens. Several summer cottages on the mountainside were threatened.

By digging wide trenches and felling trees the amateur fire brigade succeeded in dividing the oncoming rush of flames, and at dawn it was hoped that the danger to North Adams had been averted.

Hotel Burned.

Allentown, Pa., April 27.—The Hotel Wahnetah at Glen Onoko, built by the Lehigh Valley Railroad company a quarter of a century ago at a cost of $60,000, was destroyed by a mountain fire late last night. The hotel was well known to summer tourists and preparations were under way to reopen for the coming season.

HAS EIGHT BULLETS IN BODY, BUT MAY RECOVER.

Geneva, N. Y., April 27.—Frank Farchisa is in the hospital here with eight bullets in his body, but physicans believe he will recover. Farchisa was ambushed during the night while on his way home by unknown persons and shot. He says he has no idea who his assailants were.

NEW RATES ON CEMENT OVERRULED

Commerce Commission Refuses to Allow the Proposed Advances.

Statement of Carriers That Charges Are Too Low Not Agreed With.

Few Advances in Certain Territories Are Granted Roads.

Washington, April 27.—Refusals of the interstate commerce commission to permit the principal railways of the West to advance their rates on the transportation of cement, for the reason that the carriers are alleged to need additional revenue, is the feature of a decision handed down today in the important Portland cement case.

General advances of from ½ cent to 5 cents a hundred pounds in rates on cement were proposed by the carriers in trans-Missouri territory to become effective Sept. 1, 1910, and affected a territory which produces approximately two-thirds of the Portland cement made in the United States.

Cement is a commodity of comparatively low grade in transportation, but in commercial bulk is exceeded only by coal, iron ore and grain. The advances proposed were attacked by producers and shippers and pending an investigation the commission suspend-

NEW SYSTEM OF SMUGGLING

Promises to Approach in Magnitude Famous Sleeper Trunk Frauds.

Washington, April 27. — Secret agents of the customs service have discovered a system of smuggling expensive gowns and women's clothing from Paris, which promises to approach in magnitude the famous Sleeper trunk frauds.

Under-valuations and fraudulent manifests are said to be the means the suspected ones have used to carry on their work.

Evidence in the possession of Chief Wilkie tends to indicate that some of the smugglers convicted and fined in the trunk frauds are the leading spirits in the new scheme. Raids which custom officers planned to make today in New York and Chicago were expected to uncover quantities of the smuggled goods with values running into several thousand dollars.

ARREST OF TILDEN TO BE FOLLOWED BY HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

Warrants Signed and Officers Go to Chicago to Make Service.

Lawyers for Both Sides Meet and Plan Form of Procedure.

Service Will Be Made on Friday and Writ Will Follow.

Springfield, Ill., April 27.—Lieut. Governor John G. Ogelsby this morning signed the warrant for the arrest of Edward Tilden, W. C. Cummings and George M. Benedict, ordered yesterday by the senate. Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms Hatfield at once departed for Chicago.

The warrants were not signed last night because Lieut. Governor Ogelsby and Attorney John J. Healy of the committee desired to hold a conference regarding the legal form of the papers. At Mr. Ogelsby's suggestion, the warrants as drawn by the committee were redrafted to make more secure certain legal technical features.

It is rumored here that habeas corpus proceedings probably will be brought before Circuit Judge J. A. Pettit.

To Be Arrested Friday.

WOULD ABOLISH THE U. S. SENATE

Socialist Senator From Wisconsin Introduces a Radical Resolution.

Washington, April 27.—Victor Berger of Milwaukee, the Socialist member of congress, in a resolution introduced today not only proposes to abolish the senate, but aims to strike from the hand of the president the veto power and take from the courts authority to invalidate legislation enacted by the house of representatives. All this is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution, which if petitioned for by 5 per cent of the voters in each state, shall be submitted to a general referendum.

"The senate has run its course," said Mr. Berger, after his threatening document had been dropped into the hopper on the speaker's desk. "It must some day, as with the British house of lords, yield to the popular demand for its reformation or abolition."

Washington, April 27.—On account of ill health Senator Frye of Maine today tendered to the vice president his resignation as president pro tempore of the senate. The senator is confined to his apartment and his friends, because of his advanced age, are apprehensive. It is probable that Senator Gallinger will succeed him as president pro tem.

POSTMASTER RESIGNS

Ellis, postmaster at Everdell, Wilkin county, Minn., has resigned and the postmaster general has asked Representative Steenerson to recommend a successor. Petitions are on file for the appointment of John C. Wolters, and Mr. Steenerson will favor him if the county chairman is agreeable to his appointment.

CLARENCE DARROW ENGAGED TO DEFEND UNION PRISONERS

Prominent Attorney Who Figured in Moyer-Haywood-Pettibone Case.

Identification of Alleged Dynamiters to Be First Move of Prosecution.

Burns Expected at Los Angeles With Great Mass of Evidence.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 27.—Clarence Darrow, the Chicago attorney who figured prominently in the defense of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, has been retained as chief counsel for John and James McNamara and Ortie McManigal, the alleged dynamiters.

The first steps for the defense of John J. McNamara, his brother, James B. McNamara, and Ortie E. McManigal, the trio of union labor men charged with a series of murders by dynamiting, are looked for today.

A conference of the accused men and their attorneys, C. M. Hilton of Denver, and John Harriman of Los Anles, may be held after the scheduled meeting of James B. McNamara and Mrs. D. H. Ingersoll, the San Francisco lodging house keeper, to ascertain if the latter can confirm the belief she formed yesterday that McNamara is the man who lived in her house under the name of J. B. Bryce. This is scheduled for the county jail, in the presence of county officials.

Another important identification which officers expect is that of Ortie McManigal as the man who occupied a room at the Hotel Rosslyn here last December, arriving on Dec. 19 and departing on the 26th, the day following the dynamite explosion at the Llewellyn Iron works.

Officials say that George Hart, one

PULLMAN CAR IS DESTROYED

One Man Burned to Death, Two Others Seriously Injured.

Rocky Mount, N. C., April 27.—A Pullman car of the Atlantic Coast line's Palmetto limited, northbound, was destroyed by fire here early today and resulted in the death of J. Probstein of New York, and the injury of Flagman J. C. Russ and Mail Clerk William T. Ireland, who are in the hospital badly burned.

The fire was started by an explosion. Gas leaking from a tank ignited by the lantern of the flagman, who was investigating a noise which he thought escaping air.

BURNED TO DEATH WHILE SLEEPING

Two Lodgers Lose Lives When Dwelling House Is Destroyed.

Philadelphia, April 27.—Two men were burned to death early today in a fire that badly damaged the dwelling and grocery store of Charles K. Dewes. The victims were Andrew Harrigan, 55 years old, and James Johnson, 40 years, lodgers, who were asleep on the second floor of the house when the fire started.

QUAKER CITY MEN MAY GO ON STRIKE

Philadelphia Street Car Workers to Demand an Increase in Wages.

Philadelphia, April 27.—An important general meeting of Division 477 of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Workers will be held tonight in the Labor lyceum, where methods to secure an increase in wages from 23 to 28 cents an hour will be discussed after the executive board submits its report. C. O. Pratt and P. J. Shea, members of the international board, will be in attendance. It is stated that the question of whether the union carmen employed by the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company shall go on strike if the company refuses to grant the increase will be decided, although none of the leaders would discuss that phase of the situation in advance of the meeting.

The company controls all of the street railway lines in Philadelphia and employs about 3,500 motormen and conductors. It has not entirely recovered from the strike of a year ago. Its affairs are undergoing rehabilitation and a proposition is now before the city council for the authorization of a loan of $10,000,000, the city being a partner in the company's affairs and its consent therefore being necessary for the loan. Then the men claim they should get a portion of this money.

LABORER SHOOTS UP COURTROOM

Fires Five Shots, Wounding Prisoner and a Woman Spectator.

Lincoln, Neb., April 27.—Grant Hursh, a laboring man of Lincoln, 41 years old, created a panic in the criminal branch of the district courtroom yesterday afternoon when, without warning he drew a revolver and fired five shots at Thomas Hawkins, scarcely fifteen feet distant. One of the shots struck Hawkins in the hip, another wounded Mrs. Hazel Rye in the leg and three others went wild. Bailiffs seized Hursh and took the weapon from him. The court was in an uproar, lawyers and witnesses dropping behind benches and chairs as the shooting began and women screamed hysterically. Judge Frost adjourned court.

The case on trial was that against Dr. W. R. Townsend, charged with performing a criminal operation. Miss Dosea Hursh, a sister of the would-be slayer, the complaining witness, was giving her testimony, in the course of which she named Hawkins as the man who had wronged her, and said he had taken her to the doctor. It was just as she had concluded her testimony that Hursh arose from a seat in the spectators' section and began firing. He was taken to jail and his two victims to the hospital. Their wounds, it is thought, are not dangerous.

DULUTH AND TWIN CITIES AT WAR ON RATES TO BORDER

Twin Cities Win Temporary Victory in the Preliminary Skirmish.

Northern Pacific Forced to Restore Higher Schedule of Rates.

Claiming that conditions do not justify the order of the state railroad and warehouse commission to the Northern Pacific railroad that the freight rates from the Twin Cities to International Falls and intermediate points be lowered or that the former schedule of higher rates from Duluth be restored, members of the Duluth traffic commission appeared before the state commission Tuesday and presented their case. The commission took the matter under advisement and a decision is expected soon. In the meantime the order has become effective and the higher rates over the Northern Pacific, which were effective before Jan. 8, went into effect again today.

The Duluth people take the stand that the Northern Pacific should be allowed to meet the short line competition of the Canadian Northern, which runs into International Falls, and that under the operations of the long and short haul clause of the law, the towns south of International Falls should also enjoy the lower rate. It is claimed that the lower rate is not a discrimination against the Twin Cities and the advantages which Duluth receives are due to Duluth's losation.

The Superior Commercial club has made complaint to the interstate commerce commission against the increase in rates, which becomes effective today, and has asked that a hearing be held to determine whether the increase is justified by conditions.

The towns affected by the change in rates are: Northome, Mizpah, Gemmell, Margie, Big Falls, Grand Falls, Waukanha, Wisner, Happyland, Littlefork, Nakoda and International Falls.

Duluth's Case.

Following is a statement of Duluth's case by G. Roy Hall, secretary of the Duluth traffic commission:

"The Duluth, Missabe & Northern, and Duluth, Ranly Lake & Winnipeg railways have a short line from Duluth to International Falls. The former rate from Duluth to Rainer was 76½ cents, first-class. The rate was a combination of locals to and from Virginia. The rate from Minneapolis to International Falls over the Northern Pacific, Minnesota & International and Big Falls and International Falls railways was 79.3 cents.

"The rates north of Virginia on the Rainy Lake road were higher than the schedule of reasonable and maximum terminal rates prescribed by the railroad and warehouse commission in the state of Minnesota, and this higher basis was permitted to be charged by the Rainy Lake road because of the difference in the commodity business on that line and the short mileage of the road.

"When the Canadian Northern interests acquired the control of the Rainy Lake road, they reduced the rates on their line from Duluth to Ranier, making the first-class rate from Duluth to Ranier 60½ cents. The Rainy Lake road also has an entrance into International Falls, bringing it into competition with the Northern Pacific interests at that point.

"The Northern Pacific railroad on Jan. 8 reduced the rate from Duluth to International Falls to 60½ cents to meet the competition on the short line and under the long and short haul provisions of the law, these rates became maximum rates at intermediate points on the Minnesota & International and Big Falls & International Falls roads south of International Falls. The rates from Minneapolis remained at 79.3 cents. The Minneapolis traffic commission complained to the state railroad and warehouse commission that this change in rates constituted a discrimination against the Twin Cities, and the commssion ordered the Northern Pacific railway either to reduce its rates from Minneapolis to International Falls and intermediate points so as to preserve the old differentials or to advance the Duluth rates.

"The Northern Pacific accepted the latter alternative and has published a supplement to their tariff, advancing their rates from Duluth to International Falls and intermediate points to the former basis of 76½ cents. The new tariff becomes effective today.

"In the fight which was waged by the Twin City interests against the Cashman bill, they pointed out that it was a general practice of the carriers in the state of Minnesota to meet the short line rates at common points and to observe the long and short haul clause of the law, and that the operation of the Cashman bill would eliminate competition and advance rates at intermediate points. In this case, the Minneapolis traffic commission has taken the opposite stand, maintaining that rates should be made to regard short line competition, so as to meet the rates of the short line at the common points, and to apply the long and short haul clause would create discrimination against them. In other words, it is perfectly clear to meet short line competition and apply the long and short haul clause on traffic from the Twin Cities, but it is discrimination when the same principle is recognized in Duluth traffic.

"The rates via the Rainy Lake railroad to International Falls plus the rates to Nakoda, Littlefork and Happyland are lower in some cases than the rates via the Northern Pacific railway. When the Canadian Northern has completed its line into Duluth, it will be quite proper for the railroad and warehouse commission to order that line to use the schedule of reasonable and maximum distributing rates from Duluth to International Falls and intermediate territory, as the Canadian Northern line from Duluth to International Falls will be the main trunk line and heavy traffic will be handled, owing to its being the main line between the Head of the Lakes and Western Canada. When those rates are enforced, the new rate from Duluth to International Falls will be 44.3 cents, first class, and the combination rate on International Falls will make the rate to Big Falls on the M. & I. 69.3 cents first class.

Lower Rates Justified.

"The Northern Pacific railway would therefore be justified in asking the railroad and warehouse commission for permission to reduce their rates from Duluth without being called upon to reduce them from all other points on their line.

"An advance in rates between different points does not of itself establish undue discrimination. There is perhaps no question better settled by the decisions of the supreme court of the United States than this. An examination of the authorities shows that the courts have gone very far in maintaining this principle and establishing the fact that each rate must be considered in and of itself as applied to the conditions under which it is made and with regard to comparisons with other rates.

"It has been uniformly held that the discrimination prohibited by the interstate commerce act is undue and unreasonable discrimination and the final test to be applied in determining whether or not a prescribed rate is just is whether or not it is just in and of itself as applied to the traffic which it covers.

"The rates via the Northern Pacific railway between both Duluth and the Twin Cities, on the one hand, and International Falls on the other hand, are apparently, considering the differences, reasonable rates. But the short line from Duluth to International Falls creates different circumstances and conditions and the Northern Pacific railway should be justified in meeting short line competition from Duluth. This would not mean that the reduced rates from Duluth to International Falls via the Northern Pacific railway would necessarily be reasonable rates, but rates forced by competition.

"The rates from the Twin Cities to International Falls, not being subject to modifying conditions, can only be attacked as unreasonable in and of themselves. The advantages accruing to Duluth from its location are justly ours."

MARINE NEWS

RATES NOT YET SETTLED

Boat Owners Hope There Will Be No Reduction From Last Year.

Many Big Shippers Not Yet in Market for Tonnage.

The ore shipping season has been open a week or more, but the carrying charges for single trips or for the season have not been fixed.

The rate question will probably be settled this week, but chartering will be light, as a number of the big shippers will not be in the market for tonnage. The leading boat owners are hoping that the carrying charges will hold at the 1910 figures, but some of the shippers report that tonnage has been offered at lower rates and that a cut will be made.

There will be less ore covered by lake freight contracts this season than there has been for a number of years and some of the big shippers that operate fleets will be practically out of the market for vessel capacity during the early part of the season. A large number of vessels that are owned by ore firms will not be placed in commission until next month and until all the vessels of that class are provided for there will not be much demand for wild capacity.

The Pittsburg Steamship company only started one boat last week, but ten steamers of that big fleet went into commission this week. The steamers Baker and Buffington sailed from Cleveland for South Chicago and the steamers W. P. Palmer, H. C. Frick, H. H. Rogers, Van Hise, Siemens Stephenson and Crawford are up-bound from Lake Erie ports. The steamers Frick, Rogers and Crawford have coal cargoes and all the others go light for ore. Seven or eight of the steamers of the fleet will be started each day until they are all in commission, which will be early next week.

The steamer J. H. Wade reached Buffalo Tuesday with the first ore cargo for that port this season. A number of cargoes will be delivered at Lake Erie ports today.

The Cleveland coal shippers yesterday lined up some vessel capacity to load this week, but tonnage for early loading is scarce and there is a good supply of coal on hand. No more season contracts have been announced and it is not likely that any more business along that line will be done this week.

The grain markets are quiet and no charters are reported. Vessel men have been loading for $2.50 from ports at the Head of the Lakes to Lake Erie in lumber. The demand is light and it was reported yesterday that some business was done at $2.25.

DAVIDSON SHIPYARD WILL BE BUSY THIS YEAR.

Bay City, Mich., April 27.—Capt. James Davidson's shipyard, the largest for the building of wooden vessels on the lakes, is in full operation with work in sight to last through the entire season of navigation. The Shenandoah and Orinoco of the Davidson fleet are now undergoing extensive repairs, and other boats of the same fleet will be brought in as rapidly as work is cleared away. The Davidson fleet of wooden vessels, the largest single fleet on the lakes before the advent of the steel trust, is being maintained year by year in almost perfect condition.

TWO SENT TO PEN.

Fourth Man in Ear-Slashing Case Pleads Guilty of Assault.

A message from Buffalo yesterday announced that Jack Norton was given an indeterminate sentence of not less than three and one-half nor more than seven years in state's prison. Norton was found guilty by a jury, Saturday morning, of complicity in the assault on Edward S. Fraser, non-union sailor, whose ear was cut off in Buffalo last June.

Harry Moran, the fourth man alleged to have been implicated, entered a plea of guilty of assault in the second degree, and was given an indeterminate sentence of not less than two and one-half and not more than five years in state's prison.

Charles Armstrong, alias Meyers, and Robert Cochrane were previously convicted and sentenced.

NEW DRYDOCK AT PORT ARTHUR IN COMMISSION.

The steamer Dunelm has been placed in the new drydock of the Western Drydock & Shipbuilding company at Port Arthur for repairs. The Wallace interests of Cleveland and Capt. James Whelan of Port Arthur are interested in the new dock. It is 700 feet long 77 feet wide at the entrance and 125 feet wide at the top. It is lined with concrete. The shops comprise a general machine shop, punch sheds, compressed air plant and extensive electrical equipment. Repairs can be made with facility to the largest vessels on the Great Lakes.

A boiler shop, foundry and pattern shop will soon be added to the equipment of the dock. In a comparatively short time the company will be enabled to build the largest lake-going vessels.

STRIKE IS A DEAD ISSUE

Only Sign of It in Duluth Is a Lonely "Sandwich Man."

Whether It Is Called Off or Not, Matters Little, Say Owners.

Reports that the strike of the lake seamen has been called off, have received no verification or denial here. As a matter of fact, Duluth vessel agents have refused all along to recognize that there was a strike, and as a consequence, have taken little notice of any developments. With most of the vessel owners of the lakes the strike has been a dead issue for the past year, and now the report that the strike has been called off and the subsequent denial of this report have aroused little interest here.

"There are more than enough men to man all the boats on the lake at the present time," said a prominent vessel owner this morning. "The strike has been a matter of indifference in lake marine circles. With more than enough men willing to work to man all the vessels in service at the present time, only the leaders of some of the unions have the least interest in the progress of the strike. The carrying of a sign by an old man who has been parading the Bowery has been the only visible sign that a strike was going on.

"At the Lake Carriers' association office it will be found that there are plenty of men to carry on the vessel business of the Great Lakes. There are men around the office at the present time looking for work. It is believed that there are many union men working. In the face of such conditions, any announcement regarding the strike of the lake seamen comes as a matter of small importance. The strike has been over for some time, according to the viewpoint of the vessel men, and there is not very much to say in the matter."

At the local Lake Carriers' association Duluth branch office there are a number of men at the present time waiting for work, with only a few of the vessels out for the season so far, and with an uncertainty as to the number of boats that will be out.

Little Grain in Sight.

The are few grain cargoes left at the Head of the Lakes at the present time. Today the Truesdale left for Fort William in search of a grain cargo, there being no offerings here. There has been no change in the rate and no cargoes offered.

MANY FAMISHED ELK HAVE PERISHED.

Mammoth Hot Springs, Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., April 27.—Famished elk perished by hundreds while attempting to cross the Gardiner river, the melting snows disclosing more than 600 carcasses in the stream.

For fear of contaminating the stream, which furnishes water for persons living along its course, the carcasses are being removed, 300 being taken yesterday from the water by cavalrymen.

The loss of elk this winter was due to the heavy snows. A thaw, followed by cold weather, caused a coating of ice to form, through which the elk could not break to find grass. Scores of deer are also found dead.

THIS is the store that first raised women's ready-to-wear apparel to the custom tailored standard in Duluth!

We talked hand-worked bust shapings, hand-turned corners and other hand finishings long before other stores of the community woke up to the idea of offering custom tailoring, in the made-up garment.

We do not claim to be the only store that can furnish custom made garments—that in itself would be absurdity, for the market on custom tailoring cannot be cornered—but we do claim that we furnish the same caliber of garments, made according to the same hand-tailored standard, as a suit or coat made to your measurements by your private custom tailor—and more than that, the best tailor skill and talent of the country is being usurped by high standard tailoring organizations such as furnish Gidding custom-mades.

And when it comes to the matter of price our prices are less than the single-handed tailor can ask, and less than other stores are asking for the same caliber of goods—the test of this is verified by the fact that we've done a phenomenal business on custom-tailored garments this season—in fact repeated shipments from our New York buyers already show double the number of garments we had first anticipated—and it's comparison that has done the work!

Lighting Talks

NUMBER 3 DULUTH, APRIL 27, 1911

FACTS AND FAIR PLAY

The building up of an Electric Lighting business in a city like Duluth is a big undertaking, requiring close application and hard work through a long period of time.

It has taken a great many years, and also an enormous expenditure of thought, energy, labor, and money, to bring the Duluth-Edison Electric Company to its present state of efficiency in the providing of SATISFACTORY SERVICE.

For many years this company has been pioneering for this community—breaking new ground, leading the way for the growth and development of the city.

For many years it was problematical whether this Electric Lighting business could succeed in Duluth. For years this company received no return at all on its investment of money, time, and work. It has been a long and hard struggle to achieve success. But we builded on our faith in the future of Duluth; and our single aim has always been to DESERVE success.

We know that as this company treats you, just so you will treat the company. We know that the good-will of the community is absolutely essential to the prosperity of this company. So the only sensible policy for this company is to treat every customer fairly and squarely, and to provide the BEST POSSIBLE SERVICE at the lowest rates commensurate with the best service.

We guarantee a "SQUARE DEAL" on every transaction. And all we want from the Public and from the City is a Square Deal in return.

It is our purpose in these "Lighting Talks" to give you the FACTS about this business. We are doing this, because we believe in the SPIRIT OF FAIRNESS that animates the American People. We are confident that when YOU and YOUR REPRESENTATIVES IN THE COMMON COUNCIL know and understand the FACTS, we shall receive perfectly fair play.

Remember, we have not built up this Electric Lighting business to abandon it in a day. This business is not up for sale. This company cannot be forced out. No matter what happens, we are in this business HERE TO STAY.

There's more to tell you about this Watch for "Lighting Talk" No. 4, in next Saturday's Herald.

DETECTIVE GIVEN A RUN

Chases His Man Through the Woods at Fond du Lac.

Treasurer of Zim School District Charged With Embezzlement.

After an exciting chase through the woods at Fond du Lac, Nat Naslund, treasurer of School District No. 31, at Zim, Minn., was captured by a private detective and was today taken to Virginia, Minn., where he will stand trial at the May term of the range district court on a charge of appropriating the funds of the school district to his own use. He is said to be short about $800.

It was discovered some time ago that Naslund was short in his accounts, it is claimed. The matter was promptly brought to the attention of the bonding company, and private detectives were employed to hunt him down. He had disappeared from the village of Zim and no one knew where he was.

Yesterday the man from a local detective agency who was detailed on the job got word that he was at Fond du Lac. On arrival at that place he recognized Naslund from a picture he had seen at his home at Zim. Naslund was some distance away, but on catching sight of a strange man, he started to run. This was the beginning of a long chase through the woods, which ended only when, on gaining on his man, the detective yelled to him that he intended to shoot. Naslund gave up at once.

Fitzhugh Burns, the St. Paul manager of the American Bonding company, accompanied Naslund to Virginia, where he swore to the information, and the case was left in the hands of the May grand jury, which will meet on the range next week.

The bonding companies are having a good deal of trouble with men in the county, it is said. There have been several cases of embezzlement, and they are now making determined efforts to bring every man who misappropriates funds entrusted to his care, to justice.

It is thought by the bonding company that Naslund took more than $800. The matter has not been thoroughly investigated as yet, however.

WILL BUILD THIS SEASON

Mesaba Railway Company Will Be Ready to Begin Construction Soon.

Financing By Firm Which Promoted Great Northern Power Company.

The Mesaba Railway company, which contemplates the building of an electric railway connecting the towns of the Mesaba range from Hibbing on the west to Gilbert on the east, is not yet completely financed, but Oscar Mitchell of Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell, attorneys for the promoters, believes that the company will be completely financed soon and will then be ready to begin actual construction as soon as franchises are obtained from the range towns.

At the meeting of representatives of the different muncipalities at Eveleth yesterday, the city attorney and one member of the council of each town were constituted a committee to draft a uniform franchise to be adopted by the towns and offered to the company, giving assurance of good faith and ability to build a line. The meeting was called on the initiative of the municipal bodies and was held so that each town might know how every other town stood on the traction proposition.

"We have not yet applied for franchises, and do not intend to do so until we are certain that the financial backing has been obtained and the company will be able to go ahead with construction as soon as the franchises are granted," said Mr. Mitchell, on his return from Eveleth this morning. "We will assist the range committee in drafting its franchise, however, and will have the franchises introduced so that by the time we have done our part in getting the company ready to begin construction the towns will have done their part in providing the franchises.

"Our company is the only one now organized to take in all the towns of the range. I understand that one company is working on a Virginia to Gilbert proposition and another has a proposition at the other end of the range, but we are working independent of them. Aurora and Biwabik are somewhat disappointed that our plans do not take them in, but that will come in proper time. When the business warrants, an extension will certainly be made to those towns."

The Tucker-Anthony company, which had charge of the financing of the Great Northern Power company, is financing the Mesaba Traction company and is said to be meeting with success in interesting Eastern capitalists. Good reports have been made on the financial possibilities of the line. The stocks and bonds are being placed and when they are all placed, the company will be ready to go ahead.

The company has had a survey made of the proposed route and has spent considerable money in preliminaries. That, in the opinion of Mr. Mitchell, shows that the company is acting in good faith and intends to build the line this summer.

Silberstein & Bondy Co.

Friday—The Coat Sale

The Greatest Values in Separate Coats We Have Ever Offered.

This was another of Mr. Silberstein's fortunate purchases in New York last week. The manufacturer who makes most of our classiest and most stunning coats offered us every remaining Spring Coat he had at substantially our own price. He did not limit us just to fancy or extreme styles, but let us have his latest novelty coats as well as plain tailored styles in black, navy, tan, gray, serges and novelty mixtures. Judge the values by the silk dresses we offered yesterday (those of you who were here to share in the dresses)! You will be amazed at the prices quoted, considering the high quality and style of the coats.

$15, $19.50 and $29.50 are the sale prices for coats that would sell regularly for $25 00, $29.50 and $45.00.

The Terms of This Coat Sale Are the Same as Yesterday's Sale

No coat will be laid aside, sent on approval or exchanged. Customers having regular charge accounts may have their purchase charged; to all others the terms are strictly cash. Every coat will be out on special racks, to be examined and selected by any who come, whether merely to look or to buy.

Tomorrow Night We Will Announce Our Great Suit Offering!

Never so Many Dresses Sold in Our History

Yesterday was a milestone in the store's history of dress selling. It seemed as though everybody was here, and not one went away disappointed in her purchase, or the magnitude of the values offered. We told you yesterday how the Fashion Manufacturing company, the largest silk dress house in the world, had closed out its entire stock of 600 dresses to Mr. Silberstein and three other buyers to whom the lot was offered. Big inroads were made into our stock by yesterday's selling, but there is still a varied and ample assortment to pick from. This is without question the greatest dress selling event the season has had or will have. Pretty Pongee, Messaline and Poplin Dresses at $12.75 that would bring $20 regularly; Chiffon Dancing Dresses in delicate evening shades, and Foulards of neat and refined patterns that sell regularly at $35, for $19.50; beautiful gowns of Crepe de Chine, Foulard, Marquisette and Lace at $24.75 that regularly would cost you up to $45 and $50.

MANY TAKE CHANCES IN PERSONAL INJURY LOTTERY

Suits Aggregating Nearly $50,000 Are Filed in District Court.

Dynamite Explosions, a Vicious Ox and Automobile Figure in Cases.

Personal injury actions for sums aggregating nearly $50,000 were filed with the clerk of the district court this morning. They will be tried at the May term of the district court.

The largest one was that of Oscar Johnson, who asks $25,475 from John Runquist for injuries alleged to have been received while working as a laborer for Mr. Runquist on an improvement which was being made on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad tracks near Hibbing.

He claims that Mr. Runquist was negligent in that the fuses furnished for setting off dynamite caps were not long enough. He claimed that he did not have time enough to get away. He claims that he will never again be able to work as a laborer.

Fred Johnson asks $1,155 from Hagstrom brothers, loggers, claiming that he was forced to drive a vicious ox, which ran away and in so doing injured him. He says that he was not informed of the habits of the ox and that therefore the logging concern was negligent. The ox had a habit of running away and he claims that he should have been warned when he was put on the job.

Alina Levela, administratrix of the estate of Emil Levela, asks $5,000 from the Oliver Iron Mining company for the death of her husband which she claims took place while he was at work at the Sibley mine, near Eveleth, last October. The death, she claims, was the result of a premature explosion.

John Defeir asks $2,000 from the Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company for injuries alleged to have been sustained when the end of his pick flew off and hit him in the eye. The tool, he claims, was furnished by the company and he claims that it was negligent in that proper tools were not furnished him.

Edward Olson wants $5,200 from Edward Swenson for having been caught under a quantity of earth that caved in while he was working in Swenson's gravel pit near Spirit lake.

DARROW DENIES HE HAS BEEN RETAINED.

Chicago, April 27.—Attorney Clarence Darrow again today denied that he had been retained as counsel for the labor union men accussed of being dynamiters. Mr. Darrow said:

"As I said before, I have not been retained as attorney for the men arrested. I had a talk with the officials of the union in Indianapolis as was published before, but I was not engaged at that time nor have I been since—either in the capacity of private counsel, chief counsel, advisory counsel or any other capacity."

Hanna Gives Bonds.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 27.—Following his indictment yesterday on charges of rebating and conspiracy, Dan R. Hanna, president of M. A. Hanna & Co., today appeared before Clerk Carleton of the United States district court and gave bond to appear in court when summoned. Bond was placed at $5,000.

FRECKLES GONE

"Simple Remedy from Boyce Drug Store Removed Them," Says Society Lady.

"The best skin specialists told me that nothing would remove my freckles and that I would carry them to my grave," said a well known society woman, "but I fooled them all with a new drug, othine—double strength, that I bought at Boyce Drug Store, which cleared my skin and gave me a fine complexion."

The action of othine is really remarkable, for when applied at night, many of the freckles disappear entirely by morning, and the rest have begun to fade. An ounce is usually all that is needed, even for the worst case.

Be sure to ask Boyce Drug Store for the double strength othine, as this is sold under a guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.

HOPES SURGEONS MAY SAVE LIFE

Helen Daly Is Being Rushed to New York for Operation.

St. Paul, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special train, with Miss Helen Daly, daughter of the late Marcus Daly, the "Copper King" of Butte, Mont., on board, passed through St. Paul, rushing the young woman to New York city, where should she reach it in time, an operation will be performed which, it is hoped, may save her life.

The utmost secrecy is maintained about the nature of the young woman's ailment, but it is known that she is in a dangerous condition and her brother, who accompanied her, expressed the greatest solicitation about reaching New York as quickly as possible.

When the special stopped in St. Paul for a few minutes, a St. Paul physician stepped on board. It is said that he will accompany Miss Daly to New York, together with another physician from Butte, Mont., where the journey started. There are also several nurses on board.

The special left Butte, where the Dalys live, at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, over the Puget Sound extension of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. The train is running on as fast a schedule as conditions will allow, an attempt being made to maintain an average of at least forty-three miles an hour on the Puget sound division. This is the fastest time yet made on that line.

It is expected the train will reach Chicago about 1:30 o'clock.

BAD FIRE AT AMHERST, N. S.

Plant of Canadian Car & Foundry Company in Flames.

Amherst, N. S., April 27.—A fire which up to 11 a. m. had caused a heavy loss and was then unchecked, broke out today in the local plant of the Canadian Car & Foundry company, one of the largest car shops in Canada. The blaze originated in the blacksmith shop, destroying the building with its contents.

The flames spread to the machine shop adjoining and then communicated to other buildings of the plant. Aid was summoned from Moncton. The entire plant of the company is insured for nearly $700,000, of which $100,000 is placed on the blacksmith shop and machine shop with their contents.

MUST SHOW NO FAVORS

"Use Common Sense and Fairness" Is Instruction to Assessors.

Annual Farce of Assessing Personal Property About to Begin.

"Use common sense," is one of the important instructions which will be given by Assessor J. A. Scott to the deputies who will start out May 1 to make the personal property assessment of the city.

The assessor says that he wants them to be as fair as possible, and as far as it is within their capabilities, to assess all alike, showing no favors. He realizes that, at the best, it is impossible for any one to make a just personal property assessment in Duluth or any other city, but he wants it as equitable as it can be made under adverse circumstances.

The deputies who have received notices of their appointments wil report at the office of the assessor in the basement of the city hall Saturday morning for final instructions. They were given a short talk by the assessor last Saturday in the council chambers, and the bulk of what they are expected to do was explained to them. The work has been reduced to a system, each man being assigned a certain territory. Records of what has been done in the past have been kept in the office of the assessor, which will enable the men in the office to carefully check up each day's work. If any of the deputies do much loafing it will not take long to ascertain the fact, and it will take still less time to inform them of it. It is estimated that about three weeks or a month at the outside will be required to make the assessment.

The criticism against personal property assessments has been becoming steadily stronger in the city. The sentiment against what is a recognized farce is very pronounced, and the city authorities are hoping that it will not be long before it will be abolished altogether. They feel that too much injustice is being done, as the stocks, bonds and jewelry of the wealthier class are secreted while the poorer man has all his possessions in sight and pays upon all he owns. It is impossible for him to escape his share of the personal property tax, as is done by those who have big holdings of this world's goods.

WILL SPEAK TO JOBBERS ON THE SCIENCE OF SALESMANSHIP

Arthur Frederick Sheldon, instructor of salesmen, will speak before the jobbers of Duluth and their friends at the Commercial club May 5. The quarters available will seat 300 and the seats will be apportioned among the jobbers who will give them to their friends, salesmen and customers.

The personality and work of Mr. Sheldon make him one of the most remarkable figures in the American commercial world. The "Story of a Great Idea" would be a good title for a sketch of his career, because his twenty years of business experience were simply years of training for the work which has made him a national reputation as an educator of business men.

Seven years ago he started with an idea that salesmanship could be reduced to a scientific basis and taught. Now he is the president of a correspondence school which has enrolled more than 44,000 students, he has laid the foundation of a great commercial university, directs a publishing plant, edits a magazine, lectures on business science and manages a farm between tasks.

Near Libertyville, Ill., he owns a large tract of land, the site of the university which he is planning. The first of the university buildings—the administration hall—is completed. The work of the correspondence school is being continued from offices in this building and the Commercial university work has been started.

The school of salesmanship and business building, the commercial university and the publishing plant will form a single institution for business education along the lines laid down by Mr. Sheldon. It is his belief that most education is ineffectual because, while it gives knowledge of facts, it does not always develop the ability to use them. He plans to enlarge the scope of this training, to produce more evenly balanced, accurately trained business men, believing that it is possible to prepare a man for his business in as definite a manner as for the practice of medicine or law.

The emphasis which Mr. Sheldon placed on the importance of high ethical standards, and of character in business has had very marked effect in increasing the growth of honest business methods in this country, and with the establishment of the university this work will have even larger results.

Much interest has been aroused by the ideas which Mr. Sheldon advocates. While they were sufficiently novel when first introduced to overturn several of the cherished traditions of the business world, they have been indorsed by many of the leading business men of the country, and by the success of the school which was founded to teach these ideas.

He has analyzed the problem of salesmanship from the standpoint of the student—(he is a graduate in law from the University of Michigan)—and of the salesman, based on the experience of more than twenty years of work on the road and as a sales manager. By showing that the sale enters into almost every human transaction, and that there is a law in every sale, and by putting that law into definite formula, Sheldon has been a pioneer in the field of business instruction.

ARTHUR F. SHELDON.

Mr. Sheldon's philosophy includes not only the training of salesmen, but the laws of ethics and economy which lie at the base of business success.

Mr. Sheldon's work as a lecturer, as an educator and as an executive are all a part in furthering the doctrine that if the individual is right his work will take care of itself that for better business there must be better men, and that the power of development is present in every man.

A Job on the Plumber.

When your water freezes inside the house, don't send for the plumber until you have tried a very simple device. Turn the faucet upside down, after letting out what water will run. Open the faucet and pour in boiling water from the kettle. If you will put in a little salt before boiling water it will help greatly. When your own pipes are in bad shape, try golden grain belt beers at meals. You will be astonished at the tonic effect and digestive aid. WEST END

WILL COMBINE TO GET BRANCH

West Enders in Earnest in Fight for Better Post-office Facilities.

All civic organizations of the West end—the West End Commercial club, the West End Hillside Improvement club, the Sixth Ward Business Men's club and the French Naturalization club—may concentrate their efforts in getting a branch postoffice for the West end this spring.

The agitation for a branch office and a more adequate delivery service for that district of the city between the Point of Rocks and the ore docks, was started two years ago by the West End Commercial club. It has never been acted upon officially as yet by the other organizations.

Sentiment at the West end, is strongly in favor of the proposed branch. A better delivery and collection service is also wanted. It is claimed that in some districts of the West end, where there have been two deliveries, the service has been cut down to one. They want the old service restored and protest against any further curtailment of the service.

The West End Commercial club has had promises from the postal authorities, but they have been vague. Last year the West enders were told that the postoffice department was spending too much money and economy would have to be enforced, so that there was little chance of securing an improvement in the service. In spite of this another effort will be made again this spring to revive the matter.

WEST END MILL IS SCORCHED

Blaze at Ouellette & Baxter's Plant Does $1,000 Damage.

Fire this morning damaged the Ouellette & Baxter sash and door factory, Garfield avenue and Michigan street, to the extent of $1,000 and for a time threatened the plant with destruction.

The blaze started from a spark from the stack, it is thought. It caught in the tramway between the boiler house and the mill, but was checked before it got into the machinery of the factory.

In the mill, the ceilings were scorched and burned through in places. Had not the blaze been checked so promptly, it is probable that a serious conflagration would have resulted.

Fire company, No. 2 responded to the alarm, and later a second alarm was turned in.

SPAIN PROTESTS TO THE MEXICANS

Claims That Six Subjects of King Alfonso Were Assassinated.

Mexico City, April 27.—Spain, through her minister to Mexico, Bernado de Cologan Y. Cologan, has made formal protest to the foreign office against the assassination of six subjects of King Alfonso in the state of Puebla last Monday.

With the registering of Spain's protest Mexico now finds herself in diplomatic controversies with three nations as the result of incidents growing out of the revolution. It is believed, however, that the difficulties with the last two, Spain and Great Britain, will not involve anything more serious than the formal exchange of notes.

The incident that has resulted in the Spanish representations occurred on the Atencingo hacienda, in the state of Puebla, the property of Angel Diaz Rubin, a Spaniard. A small band of rebels swooped down upon the office of the hacienda, where nine of the employes, all Spaniards, were gathered. They forced their way into the room and demanded 5,000 pesos. They were told they could have no money. The rebels then began an onslaught upon the Spaniards with machetes, it is said. The latter fled. The rebels called after them: "Run, for we are going to shoot," it is reported. The rebels did shoot and six of the nine men fell fatally wounded.

Minister de la Barra extended the assurance that his country would do all in its power to punish the guilty persons and expressed his deep regret that such an incident should have occurred.

Regarding the Shearwater incident, the foreign office expressed the opinion that landing of marines at San Quentin, in Lower California, by Capt. Vivian, would be satisfactorily explained by Great Britain.

Minister de la Barra stated that the note sent to England was calculated to show the consideration which Mexico feels for Great Britain, although insisting upon the maintenance of Mexico's rights.

The government is not ready to announce the names of the men who will represent the government in the peace negotiations and no statement as to where the meeting will be held.

THREE SAVED BY PILE OF SAND

A pile of sand this morning saved the lives of Peter Perfette, Gilbert Nordeen and F. Hagen.

The three men were employed in the work of remodeling the building occupied by the Gray-Tallant company. They were working on the second story, when in some manner the plank on which they were standing became dislodged, and all three men fell to the basement nearly forty feet below. They struck on a pile of sand, and escaped with but minor injuries. They were all taken to St. Luke's hospital, but will probably be able to leave the institution in a very short time.

SEEKS WINONA PLANT.

Minnesota-Wisconsin Power Company Makes City an Offer.

Winona, Minn., April 27.—The newly incorporated Minnesota-Wisconsin Power company has requested the Winona city council to grant it a franchise to string wires and furnish power in Winona, the power being obtained from the plant on the Red Cedar river. The Minnesota-Wisconsin Power company had made advances looking to the acquirement of the plant of the Winona Railway & Light company, which now has no competition here, but these negotiations are off until the bondholders of the La Crosse Water Power company, which has developed the water power at Hatfield, Wis., determine what the future of that company shall be, it being expected by President Ferris that all difficulties will be adjusted and a reorganization will take place. The result will not be known, however, for thirty days.

DRIVE HORSE INTO CAR.

Three Ironwood, Mich., Drunks Damage an Automobile.

Ironwood, Mich., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—As R. W. Shand, agent for an automobile, was demonstrating his car Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Best, at the corner of Marquette street and McLeod avenue, they saw a horse and single rig approaching, driven by three drunken Finns. Mr. Shand was going about three miles an hour, and in order to give the men plenty of room to pass, drove his car close to the curbing. Instead of turning their horse away from the auto the men drove their horse into the car, the horse climbing onto the sidewalk. One of the Finns was thrown into the front seat of the car and received several cuts. The wind shield was smashed to pieces and the lamps bent out of shape.

Mr. Shand offered to settle out of court with the men, but before he could come to any agreement policemen arrived and placed them under arrest. At the hearing on Tuesday the three men pleaded not guilty. They are still locked up.

LONG LIST OF CHARGES

Applicant for Divorce Says Husband Overlooked No Indignities.

Claims He Fed Whisky to Baby, Until It Was Intoxicated.

Alleging nearly every indignity on record in the divorce department of the St. Louis county courts, Mrs. Mamie Daniels Austin, 34 years old, filed a petition for a divorce from her husband, Joseph Austin, 35 years old, this morning, with the clerk of the district court.

Mrs. Austin claims habitual drunkenness, cruel and inhuman treatment and threats to kill; alleges that she was turned out of her home at night; states that her husband is possessed of an ungovernable temper; alleges that he breaks furniture, thows dishes, calls her vile, indecent and unrepeatable names; gives the children beer and whisky to drink; strikes and abuses them; and that on different occasions he has struck her and on one occassion that he dragged her through the streets.

Mrs. Austin who claims to be the mother of five children of whom the eldest is 7 years old, states in her complaint that she was married in Duluth during the month of October, 1900.

She gives instances of inhuman treatment. She claims to have been turned out of the house at night on several different occasions. While intoxicated and while angry, she says her husband has taken out his vengeance on the furniture. He throws dishes, breaks the furniture and even demolished the cook stove on one occasion, she claims.

She states that he accused her of improper conduct with other men and that several times he has threatened to kill her. At one time he insisted that the children eat a second dinner, threatening to kill them all with a butcher knife if they refused.

At one time he came home with a quantity of whisky and he insisted on feeding it to Merten, 3 years old, until the baby was intoxicated, she claims.

On March 3, she alleges that he first drove her out of the house and then chased her through the streets until he caught her. He then dragged her through the streets and blackened her eye, she claims.

She asks that she be given a divorce and be awarded the custody of the children.

Lillian G. Conn, 32 years old, asks a divorce from Walter A. Conn, 36 years old, on a charge of desertion. They were married in Muskogee, Indian Territory, during the month of May, 1899. To Cure Sore Bunions Treatment Marvelously Quick for This and all Foot Troubles.

"Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of hot water; soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. (Less time will not give desired results.) Repeat this each night until the cure is permanent." All pain and inflammation is drawn out instantly and the bunion soon is reduced to normal size. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off and will stay off. Sore, tender feet and smelly, sweaty feet need but a few treatments. A twenty-five cent package of Calocide is usually sufficient to put the worst feet in fine condition. Calocide is no longer confined only to doctors' use. Any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. This will prove a welcome item to persons who have been vainly trying to cure their foot troubles with ineffectual tablets and foot powders.

INTERNATIONAL UMPIRE

To Settle National Disputes, French Statesman's Theory.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 27.—That disputes betwen nations should be settled by an umpire as disputes between rival American baseball teams are settled, was the keynote of an address delivered by Baron D'Estournelles de Constant, the French statesman, before the students of the University of Minnesota.

Baron D'Constant spoke of the wastefulness and destructiveness of war.

"You have your great American baseball," the baron said. "When you have troubles and disputes you do not start boxing with each other. Though sometimes they almost end in fights, self-control and discipline prevail and the matter is settled. Why not do the same in war?"

PRESIDENT IN NEW YORK

Taft Opens Greatest Exhibition Ever Given By the Blind.

Large Number of Engagements Keeps the Executive Very Busy.

New York, April 27.—The plight of the sightless, his pride in the militia and the call of the Hungarian Republican club brought President Taft to New York last night. Invitations from the Associated Press, the Methodist Social union and Aeronautical society will keep him here till midnight tonight, busy with formal and extemporaneous addresses.

Standing last night on the stage of the Metropolitan opera house among a group of distinguished guests, including Associate Justice Hughes of the United States supreme court, Governor Dix and Mayor Gaynor, the president touched a button which flashed a light from a large papier-mache lighthouse, opening what is said to be the largest exhibition of the work of the blind ever held.

Among the 3,000 persons at the meeting were hundreds of sightless to whom was denied the spectacle which the great gathering afforded and the marvels of their own handicraft which were placed on public exhibit.

The president occupied a chair made by a blind upholsterer, and to which a delegation of blind people led him.

Before the president spoke Joseph H. Choate read a letter from United States Senator Gore, the blind statesman of Oklahoma, expressing regret at not being able to attend, and praising the work which the association for the blind is doing.

The president devoted a great part of his address in urging further effort toward the prevention of blindness among infants and children.

Miss Holt, secretary of the New York Association for the Blind said the association had come in contact with more than 7,000 blind persons and had helped hundreds of them to become telephone operators, barbers, stenographers, cooks and laundresses, wireless telegraph operators, carpenters and salesmen, while many had risen to professional life.

At the exhibition, a special demonstration of athletics was given by the boys from the Pennsylvania institution for the instruction of the blind. President Taft was so much interested in this that he waited after his speech to see what the boys could do.

From the blind exhibit the president went to the Seventy-first armory where he reviewed the militia.

The Sixty-ninth regiment also demanded Mr. Taft's presence, and he dropped in upon them at dinner at the Hotel Astor for a few minutes before proceeding to the Hungarian Republican club dinner. Shortly after 11 o'clock the president reached the Cafe Boulevard where the dinner was held and as he was thoroughly hungry, he sat down at once to dine amid a deafening ovation.

An incident of honor in connection with the president's visit was the presentation to him, at a reception of the military order, of a gold jeweled badge representing honorary membership in the order. The president said he believed the honor had come to him in the capacity of commander-in-chief of the army and navy.

The Sound Sleep of Good Health.

Can not be over estimated and any ailment that prevents it is a menace to health. J. L. Southers, Eau Claire, Wis., says: "I have been unable to sleep soundly nights, because of pains across my back and soreness of my kidneys. My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock, my general condition is greatly improved, and I know that Foley Kidney Pills have cured me. All druggists.

POLITICIANS VISIT TAFT

tor of the port of New York, would take occasion to pay their respects.

Several other political leaders were likewise expected to see Mr. Taft before he left the home of his brother, Henry W. Taft, where he spent the night, to attend a lunch at the residence of Henry Clews early this afternoon.

Mr. Taft's speech at the dinner of the Hungarian Republican club was delivered about 1:30 o'clock this morning. His nearest approach to this record of lateness was during his swing about the country in 1909, when one night in October his boat was late in reaching Baton Rouge, La., and he spoke in the public square of that city about a half hour after midnight.

President Taft's speech tonight on Canadian reciprocity, it is understood, is to be the first of a series of speeches to be delivered while the bill embodying the reciprocity agreement is before the senate, and will be made in the hope of influencing favorable action by that body upon the reciprocity measure.

senate, and so under the circumstances the Republican majority is willing that it shall go through.

Will Not Consent to Move.

The inside talk among the regular Republicans now is that the Canadian reciprocity bill will be disposed of by the middle of June, and that the senate, by giving notice to the house that it will not, under any circumstances, consider additional tariff legislation at this session, will bring about an adjournment of the present session. The Democratic leaders in the house talk as if they will never consent to this proposed program of the Republican senators.

They say congress will be held here until December, and the special session merged into the regular session unless the senate shall take up the free list bill and other tariff bills that will be sent over to it in due time.

Willing to Take Responsibility.

The regular Republican senators hold to the view that the house, after seeing the futility of holding congress in session, will agree to an adjournment. Apparently the high tariff Republicans of the senate are perfectly willing to take the responsibility of holding up the Democratic tariff legislation. What the outcome will be no one can foresee at this time.

Many observers are coming to believe that the Democratic house will finally consent to an adjournment, after making it clear to the country that the responsibility or failure to act on the tariff rests with the senate.

Only Few Votes Not Sure.

The Democrats have made a careful canvass of the house of representatives on the free list bill and are convinced that not more than ten or twelve Democrats will vote against the measure.

The insurgent leaders say they alone will furnish nearly forty votes in favor of this Democratic measure. There are also some Republicans from the farming districts of the Middle West that voted against the Canadian reciprocity bill who intimate that they will vote for the free list. The argument which they are using is that the Canadian reciprocity bill when finally put into effect will be detrimental to the farmer, and that, therefore, they should vote for the free list bill, which will admit harvesting implements, barbed wire, cotton bagging and other manufactured articles wherein the farming population is interested, in order to compensate the farmers in a way for the injury the reciprocity measure may be expected to inflict on the American agriculturist.

Clark Disagrees With Root.

Speaker Clark does not agree with Senator Root that congress is likely to adjourn by June 1. At the White House today, where he said he had talked "neighborhood gossip" with Mr. Taft, Mr. Clark declared that nobody in the world knew how long congress would be here.

"I know as much about it as Senator Root, and he knows as much about it as I do," said Mr. Clark.

"I have attended two special sessions of congress called to revise the tariff which lasted into August. There you are."

Charge Political Capital.

Republican members of the house committee on ways and means have come out in a sharp criticism of the Democratic farmers' free list bill. They declare it is a transparent effort to make political capital. They say:

"The pending bill was ordered reported not only without investigation but without the semblance of considertaion by the committee. It was stated in the committee that it would reduce revenue about $1,500,000, and it is now admitted that it will cut down the revenue by more than $10,000,000, and later admissions are likely substantially to increase this amount.

"The measure was christened by its authors the farmers' free list bill, and it represents a transparent attempt at the manufacture of political capital. In view of the title which its friends have given it, it would at least have been proper to investigate the effect it is likely to have upon the agricultural interest.

"The president of the United States felt it his duty to call congress in special session to consider the Canadian reciprocity bill. That bill has already been acted upon by the house, and instead of bringing forward tariff bills, ill considered or not considered at all, for the purpose of administering political soothing syrup to particular classes of population, the undersigned are of the opinion that the interests of the farmers and of everybody else will be subserved if the country is spared from further political exploitation and further tariff legislation at the present time and adjournment is taken promptly after the reciprocity bill shall have been finally acted upon."

Deposit National bank and Cashier William C. Cummings of the Drovers' Trust & Savings bank, on charges of contempt of the Illinois senate, will not occur until tomorrow, it was announced today by their attorneys.

Former Judge Nathaniel C. Sears, counsel for the men, whose refusal to offer as evidence before the Helm investigating committee, the books of their banks, covering a period before and after the election of United States Senator William Lorimer, is the basis for the summary action of the state senate, said today: "Former State Attorney John J. Healy, for the Helm committee and I, have reached an understanding as to the procedure that will obtain, and this is it

"We understand the sergeant-at-arms of the senate or his deputy will arrive in Chicago late today. He will wait until tomorrow and then Mr. Tilden and the other two gentlemen will notify the deputy they are ready to accept service on the warrants and will be awaiting its server at whatever place he designates. The formality of arrest will be gone through with, and we then will repair directly to some judge yet to be selected and a habeas corpus writ will be sought and argued at once to gain time.

"Action after that will depend upon the outcome of the habeas curpus proceedings. But there will be no action until tomorrow."

Senate Orders Arrest.

Springfield, Ill., April 27.—Edward Tilden, Chicago packer, and William C. Cummings and George M. Benedict, president and cashier, respectively, of the Drovers' Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago were ordered arrested on a contempt charge by the Illinois senate shortly after 6 o'clock last night. The vote was 40 ayes to 7 nays. This action was taken on recommendation of the senate bribery investigation committee after Tilden, Cummings and Benedict, through their lawyers, had refused to produce Tilden's personal bank accounts for the months of May, June, July and August, 1909.

The committee believes these bank accounts will show evidence of the use of money in the election of William Lorimer to the United States senate. Tilden had submitted an affidavit before the committee stating that these accounts show nothing directly or indirectly bearing upon the election of Lorimer. He also had offered, in a letter to the committee, to allow one member to examine the bank accounts.

HIS MEMORY IS POOR.

William O'Brien Does Not Remember the Hines Conversation.

St. Paul, April 27.—"I was present in the room and heard the conversation over the telephone between Edward Hines and a man they called 'governor,' but I don't remember what the conversation was."

This statement was made here by William O'Brien, president of the Putnam Lumber company, whose name was mentioned at the Lorimer inquiry at Springfield as having overheard a telephone conversation between Edward Hines and some one called "governor" at a Chicago hotel.

"Mr. Hines was in the room in the Grand Pacific hotel, Chicago, occupied by Mr. Cook and myself, when he was called over the long distance,' said Mr. O'Brien.

"Mr. Cook answered the telephone call and told Mr. Hines that some one calling himself the 'governor' wanted to talk with him. I remember that Mr. Hines talked with the 'governor' for several minutes, but I don't remember what he said.

"Later on when they were stirring up the Lorimer case, Mr. Wiehe came to Mr. Cook and myself and asked us to keep out of the way of the process servers, as an effort might be made to subpoena us as witnesses. We were not subpoenaed but made no especial effort to evade the subpoenas. We went about our business in Chicago as usual.

"They can't subpoena me now, of course, as I am in Minnesota, but they sent a man here a short time ago and wanted me to make an affidavit as to what I heard.

"I told him that I remembered nothing of the conversation and could he of no value to the committee as a witness.

"It may be that Mr. Cook has a better memory than I, for he seems to remember what was said. But I don't, and that is all there is to it."

STIRRED BY COOK'S STORY.

Washington Interested in Hines' Connection With Stephenson.

Washington, April 27.—The testimony of W. H. Cook before the Helm investigating committee at Springfield attracted special attention at the National Capital because of the fact that it drags the energetic Mr. Hines into the Stephenson election case in Wisconsin as well as the Lorimer election. Senator Stephenson said the matter was one about which he had nothing to say for the reason that he knew nothing about it.

That Mr. Hines took a great interest in the campaign of his fellow lumberman, Stephenson, for election to the senate has been no secret to observers here. When the possibility of bringing the Stephenson case before the senate was presented, it was related that Mr. Hines' secretary boasted in the Pfiester hotel in Milwaukee the Saturday night before the senatorial deadlock at Madison came to an end that he could name the ballot on which Stephenson would be elected.

Futhermore, it is said, he hit it exactly. The Madison deadlock had continued for several weeks, Stephenson's election finally resulting through the absence of two Democrats, which made his supporters a majority of those present and voting.

During his many visits to Washington, especially while the Lorimer case was before the senate, Mr. Hines frequently conferred with Mr. Stephenson. They are personal friends, and their business interests are mutual.

In his campaign for the primary nomination for senator, Stephenson, according to his sworn statement, spent considerably in excess of $100,000. This was understood to have been his personal contribution, although it was understood that lumber interests aside from his own favored his candidacy.

ed them, first until Nov. 1, 1910, and subsequently until July 1, 1911.

The points of destination to which the proposed rates apply cover a wide range of territory extending from Illinois and Tennessee on the east to the Rocky mountain territory on the west and involve rates throughout the country.

Some Advances Sustained.

In the opinion promulgated today, which was prepared by Commissioner McChord, some of the advances are sustained and many of them are disapproved. The commission did not accept as decisive the statement of the carriers that present cement rates are so low as to be unremunerative and that the commodity does not bear its just proportion of the burden of transportation, the testimony on that feature being regarded as "very meager."

Approval of the increases is given the proposed rates from Portland, Colorado to all destinations; from Kansas City territory and points in Kansas and Oklahoma to points in Texas and from Bonner Springs and Yocemento, Kan., to various points in Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Wyoming and New Mexico.

"With these exceptions," the commission says, "the propriety of the new rates has not been shown."

The remaining rates appear to be materially higher than they were for a long period and "the carriers are requested to withdraw them forthwith." If they should not comply with the commission's request before May 15 an order will be isseud to maintain existing rates for at least two years.

Burns in Chicago.

Chicago, April 27.—William J. Burns, the detective who brought about the arrest of the men charged with dynamiting the Los Angeles Times building, and who was arrested in Indianapolis on a charge of kidnaping the prisoners, is in Chicago resting from his strenuous experiences of the past week and preparing to go to Los Angeles and prosecute the men he arrested. Mr. Burns brought with him from Indianapolis two suit cases full of evidence, documentary and otherwise. He laughed at the kidnaping charges, and said he was known as a sympathizer with union labor.

"All talk of a 'frame-up' in ridiculous," said the detective; "anyone who knows me knows better. I'm a labor man and I'm sorry the men I arrested were connected with a labor union. I expect to be in Los Angeles within a week or so."

Three in Jail.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 27.—John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers association; his brother, James B. McNamara and Otto F. McManigal, the alleged dynamite conspirators accused of blowing up the Times newspaper plant last October in which twenty-one men were killed, are in the county jail, in separate cells, surrounded by extra guards.

Their arrival yesterday after a journey in irons from Indianapolis and Chicago, signalizes the beginning of what is expected to be a desperate legal struggle. District Attorney John D. Fredericks said last night that the formality of arraignment would now await the convenience of the defense.

O. N. Hilton, counsel for the Western Federation of Miners, who came here to join counsel for the defense, stopped all efforts when he received a telegram from President Ryan of the Iron Workers' association saying that all matters pertaining to the defense of the international secretary and his reputed confederates were in the hands of Indianapolis lawyers.

Identified By Woman.

Conspicuous in the crowd was Mrs. D. H. Ingersoll, the woman who is expected to play an important part in the prosecution. Mrs. Ingersoll is the keeper of the San Francisco boarding house in which the man known as Bryce stayed prior to the destruction of the Times building. James McNamara, according to the authorities, is held as Bryce, the man who is alleged to have laid the infernal machine that blew up the newspaper plant.

The woman was there to identify him and she did so, notwithstanding he held his unshackled hand before his face. He appeared little like the printed descriptions sent out when the indictments were found. Thin and pale, he appeared unlike the 160-pound man described in the official circulars. Mrs. Ingersoll will again confront him in the jail tomorrow morning.

In front of the Los Angeles jail, another large crowd had assembled and here the officials again had to fight their way through the crowd.

At no time was there the slightest evidence of anger on the part of the crowds or a disposition to justify the expressed fear of the officers that an attempt might be made to rescue the prisoners. Union buttons were plentiful, but the men wearing them were as quiet and orderly as those who displayed no emblems of organized labor.

TO RAISE FUNDS FOR INSTITUTES

Meeting at Fargo to Arrange to Continue Instruction to Farmers.

Fargo, N. D., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representatives of the leading commercial bodies of the state are arriving for tonight's meeting to arrange for raising funds to continue farmers' institute work.

This action is being taken at the call of President Hardy of the Fargo Commercial club and because of Governor Burke's veto of the legislative appropriation for farmers' institutes. Great credit is given institute workers for improved farming methods in vogue in the state and necessity of a continuance of the effort for instruction for new settlers is pointed out. Appropriations already have been made by several clubs and there is no doubt but tonight's meeting will be effective.

TO STOP SOIL DRIFTING.

North Dakota Farmers Urged to Spread Wheat Straw.

Fargo, N. D., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The soil on the well tilled North Dakota farms is almost like an ash bed. The dry weather following the summer fallowing and fall plowing last year with the discing and dragging this spring has reduced the soil to a well pulverized condition.

As a result, the loose soil drifts easily. The summer fallowed land is the worst, fall plowing next and spring plowing least of all. The officials of the agricultural college are advising farmers who own soils that drift badly to spread wheat straw lightly over the land. This catches and holds the earth. It has long been a habit of some farmers in sections where the land was a loose sandy loam, to plow frequent furrows across the fields to act as breaks to the drifts.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Dr. Nathaniel I. Rubinkam of Chicago gave his first lecture of a series of three at the Endion M. E. church this afternoon, under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club. The subject for today was "Tennyson and Darwin." A number of tickets have been sold and the course promises to be one of the greatest treats of the season. Much interest has been displayed over his coming.

Dr. Rubinkam, who is lecturer for the Rubinkam Association of Chicago, is en route to the Pacific coast, where he expects to remain until late next fall, perhaps until December. He will probably engage in literary work there, which his course of Sunday lectures in Chicago does not give him time for when at home.

Some informal affairs will probably be given for him while he is a guest in Duluth. He is now a guest of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Walker of 2107 East First street and will also visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Hugo, 2407 East Third street.

SCOTCH PROGRAM SUCCESS

John McGuckin Pleases Audience of About 300.

An audience of about 300 Scots, men, women and young folks, enjoyed the "Real Scotch Nicht," at Steinway hall last evening given under the auspices of Clan Stewart, No. 50, O. S. C. John A. McGuckin of St. Paul, known as "The Harry Lauder of St. Paul," was the principal attraction for the evening.

Mr. McGuickin though not in especially good voice gave his songs with an easy humor and pleasing personality. He had a varied number of costumes which added atmosphere to his songs. Among some of his numbers were "Piper McFarlane," "The Lea Rig," "I Loved Her Ever Since She Was a Baby," and "The Weddin' o' Sandy MacNab."

Piper Colin Thomson opened the program with a bag-pipe solo and Chief Robert Ferguson made a few opening remarks.

Miss Bartholomew sangs two songs which were exceptionally good and she was enthusiastically encored.

J. H. Matheson sang a gaelic song "Theid Mi Gad Amharc," which was well received and Misses Nina and Lily MacAskill played a duet of old Scotch airs in medley form.

Simon Clark made a few witty remarks on "Pawky Scotch Wit," which the audience enjoyed and four clansmen in Highland costumes of various kinds danced a reel to bag-pipe music played by Piper Kenneth McGregor.

Little Miss Helen McLeod did the "Highland fling" with grace and agility which were enthusiastically applauded and the program closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the audience. After the program the floor was cleared and an informal dance enjoyed.

The Kitchen

Cake Without Eggs.

Ingredients: A pound of flour, three-quarters of a pound of mixed fruit, two ounces of peel, half a pound of sugar (fine), a quarter of a pound of butter, a teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, a teaspoonful of mixed spice, a tablespoonful of syrup, and half a pint of sweet milk. Method: Cream butter and sugar, stir in the syrup, add flour (into which the soda and spice have been thoroughly mixed). Add milk gradually, then fruit, and mix and beat well. Line buttered cake tin with buttered paper, and bake in a cool oven. This cake is much liked by old and young, and is inexpensive.

Orange Biscuits.

Have you tried these? They are very nice. You require the whites (only) of four eggs, one-half pound of ground almonds, one pound powdered sugar and the grated rind of two oranges. Beat the whites to a stiff froth, and add to them the sugar, almonds and grated rind of the oranges. Beat well, and drop on stiff white paper, which you have previously well sprinkled with sugar. Bake for a few minutes in a slow oven.

Carrots and Turnips.

A nice "macedoine" can be made of these, as follows: Clean four large smooth carrots, and simmer them for a quarter of an hour. Prepare six turnips and twenty button onions, chop all up and fry in two ounces of butter, with a teaspoonful of sugar for five or six minutes. Shake well and fry again until the whole are covered with a kind of glaze. Pour over them half a pint of white sauce, season with pepper and salt, and serve very hot.

Finance in the Home

By CARA REESE.

Now you see you have taken in money without touching money. Somebody owes you a dollar and pays back the dollar by handing it over to another party whom you owe.

It is this process which is so bewildering to the lay mind in the domestic realm. It is this process which causes considerable heated arguments in the best regulated families. Mother borrows a dollar from pater familias and pays back the dollar by spending it in purchase of daughter's headgear, and liquidates with the pater by calling attention to the fact that he is delinquent in daughter's spending money.

Or some one else borrows cash from a member of the family, but later pays the small bill at the door and then informs the party of the first part that money matters are square. This is a case where you take in money without touching the money or without getting a grip on the door receipt either. Lots of obligations are squared off this way. The small house borrowings are liquidated by selling the scores of the one who loaned carfare, church change, or the emergency shortages. In other words, when you loan small change within the home circle, you are sure of getting it back promptly, but without fingering the cash.

Most folks like the "feel" of money. This is why there is reluctance sometimes in handing out dimes, quarters and "halfs" in the sanctity of the fireside. This is why the same dimes, quarters and "halfs" are tenderly squeezed and bidden a fond farewell ere they pass from possession. That fond crush is the last. You will be paid back squarely and righteously, but you will never finger the cash.

Sometimes there is a tangible evidence in the shape of an itemized statement, to wit: "borrowed from the pater, one dollar. Disbursed the same, two nickels daily for his carfare, one dime in the pew on Sunday paid for spearmint, sodas, etc., in the corner drugstore; no balance remaining." Another case of taking in money, a call lona as it were, but without touching money.

The great majority of the empty-pocket citizens and wage earners are those who are taking in cash continually, but are spared the trouble of fingering the same. It is a long cry from poverty. Though the itching fingers may not find the price of a meal in the pocket, yet there is wealth to your credit. There is money coming in regularly, though you are denied the seeing or the feeling of it.

It is the same in gigantic business operations, or when wealth is fabulous, moeney comes in, and money goes out, but no fingers ever touch it and no vision is manifest. There is really no money after all. Itemized statements endeavor to keep accounts square and to catch up on the imaginary. But the real thing is no more in evidence than the coin which belongs to your empty and obliging pocket. It a part of the great scheme of buying and selling to take in money without touching money. It is all part of the family plan, to take in money without touching money; be gentle with home borrowers.

Pay As You Go

By VIRGINIA HARLAN.

"I pay cash down for everything," said a girl the other day, "and then I know exactly where I am." What a sensible way to go along. How much misery has been wrought by folk who run into debt. Of course there are certain things in housekeeping for which it is most inconvenient—and perhaps hardly possible—to pay for down on the nail, such as milk and bread, for these necessities are nearly always paid for every week.

But with nearly everything else in the eatable line it is far the sounder principle to secure goods in exchange for money over the counter. Rent and taxes, of course can only be settled at regular times, and the danger of running up bills lies in this—that shopkeepers sometimes make an immediate and sharp demand for payment just as rent or tax day fall due, and the consequences may prove disastrous.

The first thing for the girl to do who wishes to keep out of debt is to buy only those things which are necessary and pay for them with ready money. It is far better to sacrifice little fineries of dress, or small luxuries in food, if these cannot be bought with ready cash.

The business girl should exercise the habit of economy by making up her mind to set aside a little money every week for the current expenses during the working days, and she should most rigidly adhere to that fixed sum. It is often tempting, if one is well-known at a store, to be induced to buy this or that when the clerk declares with a smile that the amount can stand over, and that the goods will be delivered.

Such procedure has many a time led to ruin. If the much desired article cannot be paid for at the time, let it go. Keep on the right side of your bank balance. Don't, when pay day comes, have to say, "I've mortgaged nearly all my salary and simply must pay the bills."

That is the sort of thing which means the beginning of trouble. It may take a long time to get straight again.

If you can't afford new clothes, don't run up bills. It is the little things that have a way of mounting up so; a few odds and ends at the dry goods store; a week or two's vegetables at the grocer's; a few pounds of meat at the butcher's and so on. Had all the things been paid for at the time, the money probably might never have been missed, but when all the bills come in at the same time the amount looks big.

Pay as you go, and it will pay you.

When You're in Company

By MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

Politics, religion and all topics specially interesting to gentlemen, such as the turf, the exchange or the farm, should be excluded from general conversation when ladies are present.

Long argumnts in general company, no matter how entertaining to the disputants, are to the last degree tiresome.

Anecdotes should be very sparsely introduced, unless they are short, witty and appropriate.

Proverbs should be as carefully used as puns; and a pun should never be perpetrated unless it rises to the rank of witticism.

It is always silly to try to be witty.

It is not polite to interrupt a person when conversing.

Refrain from the use of satire, even if you are master of the art. It is permissible only as a guard against impertinence, or for the purpose of checking personalities or troublesome intrusions. Under no circumstances whatever should it be used merely for amusement's sake, to produce an effect, or in order to show off one's wit.

It is extremely ill-bred to whisper in company.

A gentleman looks but never stares at those with whom he converses.

The names of any person, present or absent, to whom reference is made, should be given if possible.

Place should always be given to one's elders.

Death is not a proper subject for conversation with a delicate person, or shipwreck with a sea captain's wife, or deformities before a deformed person, or failure in the presence of a bankrupt; for, as Heine says, "God has given us speech in order that we may say pleasant things to our friends." We should let it be the object of our conversation to please, and in order to do this we should not converse on subjects that may prove distasteful to any person present.

THE EVENING STORY

ELLSWORTH'S SISTER

By F. Booth.

Ellsworth and Ellen Walker had still a natural abhorrence of the art of diving, but one day Ellsworth took his courage in his hands, and in the presence of this twin sister, Ellen, mounted to the lower diving board of the bathing pool and plunged headlong. Their father had promised them 50 cents when they made their first successful efforts. This Ellsworth had just accomplished, and his sister, Ellen, was a witness of the heroic venture.

The Walker twins had feared the water with a terrible fear since they were 6, when a capsized boat had brought both so near to drowning that four doctors and over an hour's work on each had been necessary to revive them.

Mr. Walker, at one time a champion swimmer, and always a water lover, had labored through their childhood to rid them of this fear, and for three years both boy and girl swam with pleasure at their farm. But neither would enter the sea, and neither would put a head under water, so great was the impress left by their childhood's terror. Ever since they had learned to swim, there had been a standing offer of 50 cents for a dive off the bank or springboard.

And now Ellsworth had earned his prize. His prompt offer to share with Ellen—as promptly refused—could not comfort her for being beaten.

The next day Ellen put on her bathing suit with a grim determination. No matter what it felt like, she would stand on that board and go off, head first. She walked slowly down to the bathing place with Ellsworth, and climbed the high bank, along which ran the new road recently thrown across the little valley.

This road was sixty feet above the stream, on top of a raw earth bank, pierced in its center with a huge brick culvert, through which the stream ran. When the creek was in flood, as it was for weeks in the spring, the culvert entrance was covered.

The "dead line," beyond which parental injunctions prevented swimmers from venturing, was marked by a huge willow and the bathers willingly enough stayed above it, although it was a common boast among the boys that they would like to swim through the culvert in flood if their parents would let them. The length of the culvert was 150 feet.

Ellen was not thinking of culverts today. It was of the dark green under-water and the head-first plunge.

After Ellsworth had taken a very gentle and shallow dive off the low springboard to the water, now close to it because the stream was high, Ellen walked cautiously out and stood on the end of it. Thrice she gathered herself to dive and thrice she lacked the courage. Then she sighed, turned and walked off the board and down the path beside the stream.

Few noticed her. But Ellsworth saw, and, understanding, swam after her. Without thinking he passed the dead line. He shouted his sister's name, but she did not hear. Ellsworth, with that strange affinity twins often have for each other, felt Ellen's distress almost as if it were his own. Forgotten the dead line, forgotten the culvert and the swifter current running under it, forgotten all thought of parental objections, until the shadow of the bank lay across his face. Then, as he sighted Ellen sitting miserably alone at the foot of the steep bank and called to her, he saw the nearness of the bank and felt a movement in the water.

"Here!" he said to himself. "This won't do!" and started swimming for the shore.

But even as he tried the current ran stronger and, strive as he might, he was pulled toward the embankment and dangerously close to the little swirl in the surface which he knew showed the wherabouts of the covered culvert.

He called on his sister, but this time it was a cry of terror. She heard, looked up in time to see her brother's white and despairing face and the struggle he was making—looked up in time to see his head go under and a bubble or two come to the surface and to know that he was in the culvert.

For an instant Ellen was frozen with horror. During that instant her mind was blank. Then it worked at lightning speed. Ellsworth was exhausted. It took more than a minute and a half for anything to go through the culvert. Ellsworth had neither breath nor strength—he would be unconsicous in a few seconds. Besides, Elsworth's suit might catch on something in the culvert—maybe he would not come through.

It was this which decided her. It had taken but a second for these thoughts and reasonings to flash through her mind; it took less for her to throw herself bodily into the water and swim the distance.

Down she went, head first into the blackness. "I'll get through—I'll—get —through—" rang through her mind, even as her head down breast stroke became feebler and feebler. There was a roaring in her ears and a sudden return of terror which had waked her throughout her childhood—the terror of that experience of her early days.

Ellsworth was her last conscious thought. From then until the current carried her forth, she had only a confused impression of a great weight on her breast, a tearing at her throat, and a noise like that of a thousand hammers at her ears. Then, a blinding burst of light, a gulping, choking gasp of air and water, a terrible coughing spell, a wild but sure grasp at some sun bleached hair bobbing in the water beside her, and she pulled herself feebly to the shelving bank, in her grasp a well loved, tousled head.

How she managed to drag the limp, wet form up on the bank, how she turned it over, and, both arms about its waist, held it, drooping, for the water to run out of the filled lungs; whence came the endurance to kneel across it and work slowly and steadily; first, hard pressure on the chest, then, wide flung arms above the head, she never knew.

She only knew that she must count, slowly, four seconds to the breath, that she must press, and press hard, on the chest, contracted, and fling the arms wide and stretch them well, to inflate it; she knew only the hard pounding of her heart, the "one—two—three—four" of her count, all the blinding pain in her own head, until the limp body between her knees gave a convulsive twitch and coughed.

Then Ellen came to herself again, and uttered a glad cry.

"Ellsworth—Ellsworth — breathe — boy—breathe!"

She took up the steady work again. Finally a weak voice said, "Oh, I'm so sick!"

And then Ellen broke down and cried, and never understood how a sudden crowd of pallid bathers gathered, nor why she was being petted so by clammy skirted girls and banged upon the back by equally clammy and greatly excited boys.

Mr. Walker knew the whole story before night. And grateful as were his quiet words of praise to his "girl fish" for her courage, it was Ellsworth's words which she cherished most.

"Girls may not be supposed to have as much courage as boys," he said, "but my sister has more than any boy I know."

THE LIQUOR DRINKER AND HIS BUSINESS.

Absolute Importance of His Brain Being Cleared Up.

It is frequently very important that a person under the influence of alcoholic stimulants should become sober as soon as possible. Business affairs may be neglected or social engagements forgotten during the period of drunkenness, and it often devolves upon friends of the habitual drunkard to assist him to possession of an unclouded brain and clear intellect and see to it that his appearance is at least respectable. Experience has taught that no institute extant other than the Neal Institute in St. Paul at 676 Dayton ave. has ever been successful in treating drunkenness in less than four weeks' time. It makes no difference how long a man has been drinking, how much or little he drinks, or what he drinks. the Neal teratment has never failed to cure in three days' time and without the use of dangerous hypodermic injections or injurious drugs. Just bear in mind that there is no such thing as a "secret cure" for drunkenness, and you are taking great risk in administering these remedies.

If you are afflicted with the drink habit and really want to be cured write to the Neal Institute Co., corner Belknap and Seventh streets, Superior, Wis., for their free booklet giving full information and a copy of their contract and guarantee bond. It will be mailed to you under a plain sealed envelope and everything will be strictly confidential. You can be treated at the Superior Institute, or at the St. Paul, Minn., Institute, 676 Dayton avenue, or the Minneapolis, Minn., Institute, corner Fourth avenue south and Seventh street, whichever happens to be most convenient to you.

BALL CLUB'S FATAL FIRE

Ralph Lane of Grand Rapids Perishes in Burning of Bayne Hotel.

Was Asleep in Upper Room When Hotel Catches Fire Late at Night.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ralph Lane, aged 35, married, a well-known resident of this village, lost his life last night in the burning of the Bayne hotel at Ball Club, a small place about twenty miles west of here.

The hotel, a two-story frame, and the adjoining saloon, both belonging to Frank Bayne, were destroyed. The fire started in the saloon about midnight. The origin of the fire is not known, but it is believed to have started from a burning cigar or cigarette stump thrown carelessly to one side in the saloon.

Saloon Had Been Closed.

The saloon had been closed about an hour when the fire broke out. The flames had gained rapid headway when discovered and the hotel could not be saved. An effort was made to arouse Lane, who was sleeping in a second-story room, but the smoke and flames prevented and he perished. His badly charred body was recovered from the ruins and will be brought here for interment. The deceased has a wife and a 5-year-old son living here. He was a brother of Mrs. I. D. Rasmussen, wife of the clerk of court. His parents also live here.

Lane was employed by Gilbert & Finnigan, cedar dealers of this place, and had just gone to Ball Club to inspect cedar for the firm when he lost his life.

PULLS FIRE ALARM TOO STRENUOUSLY

Ironwood, Mich., Man's Failure to Send in Alarm Properly Causes Fire Loss.

Ironwood, Mich., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A barn, adjoining the Marine street home formerly owned by Capt. Dan Sullivan, who now resides on the Mesaba range, was destroyed by fire Monday night about 10:30 o'clock. A man tried to turn in the alarm, but evidently did not know how, as one pull on the alarm rings the number in the fire hall, and the man kept pulling the alarm, in this way no distinct number could be heard, and the fire department were out trying to locate the fire. When finally they discovered where it was, they could not save the barn. The fire originated from a bon fire left burning in the alley nearby earlier in the evening.

FORMER RECORDER FOUND NOT GUILTY

Jury in District Court at Grand Rapids Acquits W. C. Yancey.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under instructions of Judge B. F. Wright, the jury in the district court that has been hearing the evidence in the case against Former Village Recorder W. C. Yancey of this village, charged with grand larceny, returned a verdict of not guilty yesterday afternoon and the case came to a sudden and unexpected end. The court's ruling was based largely on the showing of defendant's counsel that the state had failed to make out a case.

Experts in bookkeeping had been called at a heavy expense as it was estimated that the trial was costing Itasca county $200 a day. County Attorney R. A. McOuat prosecuted the case and was assisted by Russell L. Moore of St. Paul, special assistant to the attorney general. Early in the trial it was apparent that the state's case was weak. When Judge Wright realized that there was little or no chance of conviction, upon motion of George H. Spear, counsel for the defendant, he directed the jury to render a verdict of not guilty.

From the first Yancey has maintained his innocence. He intends to remain in Grand Rapids and will probably resume the real estate and abstract work in which he was engaged before becoming recorder.

RANGE TOWNS TO STAND TOGETHER

Eveleth Meeting Results in Agreement to Grant Uniform Traction Franchise.

Eveleth, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The towns of the Mesaba range will stand together on the proposition of granting a franchise to a traction company to connect the important centers, as a result of the meeting held here yesterday afternoon of officials of the various towns.

President A. C. Osborn of the Virginia council presided and Judge W. A. Masters of Chisholm was secretary. Chisholm, Hibbing, Mountain Iron, Virginia, Eleveth, Aurora, Buhl and Biwabik were represented.

Oscar Mitchell of Duluth, representative of the Tucker-Anthony company, Boston, spoke on behalf of the Eastern capitalists interested in the project. It is planned to build the road from Hibbing to Gilbert, covering over thirty-six miles, including the cities of Virginia, Eleveth, Chisholm, Gilbert, Hibbing, Lucknow and Buhl. Two surveys of the proposed route have been made, while the promoters have had bond experts, engineers and others investigate the proposition to ascertain the feasibility of the project, with encouraging results, which will make it possible for the road to commence building as soon as the financing is completed, if suitable franchises are granted. Range people will be allowed to take stock in the company, and directors will be had in the towns connected. The road will be of heavy construction, and run as an interurban line patterned after the Twin City electric roads. A franchise has been received from the county board of commissioners, while it is also known that no ore bodies lie beneath the land to be traversed by the road.

Will Cost Over $1,000,000.

It is estimated the road will cost over $1,000,000, and according to E. C. Thomas, who manages a road in the East for the capitalists interested and who will build the proposed road, it will be possible to complete the range line in four months. The company will lay pavement, which will be necessary in many of the towns. Direct lines will be run through the towns and side tracks and cross lines installed where business warrants their installation. Two Duluthians have invested $100,000 in the project, and the promoters are very confident that they will be able to install the road this year if granted suitable franchises.

Village Attorney Robert Stratton of Hibbing stated that he was from Missouri in regard to the proposition which aroused much applause. His remarks were colsely followed. Representatives of all towns present spoke, and all were in favor of granting franchises to the company meaning business. Editor Yarick of Aurora, said Biwabik and Aurora were desirous of having the road extend west of Gilbert.

An executive session of the members of the governing bodies of the range towns was held, at which the aldermen agreed to grant a uniform franchise to a legitimate company which would faithfully undertake the work of installing a traction road. The city and village attorneys met in executive session and passed a resolution to the effect that one representative of each range council be chosen to meet with the attorneys to draft a suitable and uniform franchise, which will be submitted to the councils for ratification and passage, the same to be altered according to the conditions of the towns affected.

How to Make Complexion Satiny

(Modes and Toilettes.)

"Don't smother the skin's pores with powder!" is the warning of Arline Keen, a well known authority on beauty. "A good lotion will do more to promote an ideal complexion," she says, "than anything else, and if an original package of mayatone is dissolved in eight ounces of witch-hazel, you will have the finest thing obtainable for the skin.

"The use of a mayatone lotion clears and beautifies the skin and gives to any complexion that exquisite satiny appearnce and smoothness so much admired.

"Aside from being a complexion beautifier, mayatone prevents the growth of hairs, and protects the skin from harsh winds and changing weather. Using it guards aginst tan, freckles or sunburn."

JUDGE BRADY HAS THIRTEEN CASES

Unusual Number of Derelicts Rounded Up Before Hibbing Judge Wednesday.

Hibbing, Min., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Brady of the municipal court put in a busy day yesterday, thirteen cases being brought before him, ranging all the way from carrying concealed weapons to common drunk.

It cost Matt Ucali $25 and $4.75 costs to be caught with concealed weapons in Brooklyn yesterday. Two other men were charged with trying to hold him up and also with being suspicious characters, and were each fined $25 and $3.75 costs. They were John Olson and his brother, Oscar. The weapon which was found on Ucali was a pistol with a bore large enough for buck shot, and a barrel like a small shot gun. The gun is now in the custody of the police department.

Deserved Whipping.

Judge Brady handed out some very caustic remarks in sentencing W. J. Vail to a fine of $20 and $3.75 costs for drunkenness. The man is married and has a family of five children and recently lost a good position through drink.

The judge remarked, "It is a pity that there is not a whipping post in this town, so that you could be tied up and every honest person that passed could have a crack at you, to try to teach you what the responsibilities of a married man are."

Iver Lund, an old-time Norwegian, who has been around this country for nearly twenty years, was brought into court yesterday, charged with being drunk. The man said he was sorry and that he really would not drink again if he was let off this time. The judge allowed him to go on suspended sentence.

Henry Mattson drew a fine of $1 and $4 costs; Matt Olson, $5 and $3.75 costs; James Boyton, $5 and $3.75 costs, and John Breshi, David Mattson and Henry Hauta, $1 and $5 costs each.

He is a brother to Mrs. Close, Mrs. Deese, and Miss Grenier, of the Mesaba Ore, and all are very well known in Hibbing, and considerable anxiety is felt regarding his condition.

CORPORATIONS MAY BE COMPELLED TO PAY LARGE SUMS IN FINES

the agreement "shall be terminated."

The government will contend that this contract constitutes an overt act, and a conspiracy. It and vouchers showing rebates aggregating hundreds of thousands of dollars will be introduced as exhibits in the government's case.

In event the government brings suit for penalties under the Elkins act, the indicted corporations may be compelled to disgorge several million dollars. In one instance alone the government claims that the Ohio & Western Pennsylvania Dock company paid a check for $50,111.93 to the Carnegie Steel company. As the government case covers a period of six years, and makes defendants of dock companies operated by four railroads, this amount will be swelled immensely.

Dan Hanna Indicted.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 27.—Thirteen indictments on a total of 110 counts charging four iron ore carrying railroads entering Cleveland with rebating and alleging that two of the railroads and three individuals were guilty of conspiracy to violate the Elkins law, were returned by the federal grand jury here late yesterday. The railroads are the Pennsylvania company, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, the Bessemer & Lake Erie and the New York, Chicago & St. Louis (Nickel Plate).

Dan R. Hanna, president, and R. L. Ireland, second vice president of the M. A. Hanna company, and Dr. L. McCabe of Pittsburg, fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania company, each were indicted on one count, which charges the M. A. Hanna company has an alleged contract with the Pennsylvania company whereby the Hanna company is said to have rebated to shippers profits of the Ohio & Western Pennsylvania Dock company, a subsidiary concern of the Hanna company. The dock company, which is included in the indictment, leases and operates docks owned by the Pennsylvania company at several Lake Erie ports.

The M. A. Hanna company is one of the largest iron ore, pig iron, coal and coke concerns in the country.

Check Exhibited.

One of the exhibits before the grand jury shows the alleged payment to the Carnegie Steel company of $50,111.93 as a part of the earnings of the dock company. The check reads:

"To the Carnegie Steel company, debtors, for your proportion of remaining surplus earnings of ore shipped from Pennsylvania company dock, year ending March, 1909, as per statement below, $50,111.93."

District Attorney W. L. Day announced following the filing of the report that "large and important suits" would be begun immediately.

"The cases are interstate commerce commission cases brought to insure that published ore shipping rates are effective. The government will seek to show that the indicted railroads owned docking facilities in Ashtabula, Ohio, and Conneaut, Ohio, harbors; that these were operated by companies which were in effect "hired by the railroads; that the railroads paid excessive rates to the docking companies for loading and unloading iron ore; that the loading companies paid over a portion of the money thus received to the shippers and that the whole constitutes a conspiracy in violation of the Elkins law."

Penalty for Rebating.

The penalty for rebating is a fine of not less than $1,000 nor more than $20,000, with imprisonment not to exceed two years. The penalty for conspiracy is not to exceed a fine of $10,000 and imprisonment not to exceed two years. In addition under the Elkins law the government has the right to bring civil suit for three times the amount of money rebated.

It would be possible, in case of conviction, for the government to collect many millions of dollars.

The investigation leading up to the action of the grand jury was started several months ago and is the first government inquiry into ore transportation methods in the lower lake region. The matter was brought to the federal grand jury's attention three weeks ago.

District Attorney Day and his assistants, Attorney Joseph G. Fogg and J. S. Bachman, Attorney J. H. Marble for the interstate commerce commission and R. C. Marshall for the department of justice, conducted the case. About forty witnesses were examined before the grand jury, including officials representing the railroads and ore companies from the lakes to Kentucky.

Among these were representatives of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company, Pittsburg; the Carnegie Steel company, Pittsburg; the M. A. Hanna company, Cleveland; the Wheeling Steel & Iron company, the Ashland Iron & Mining company, the American Steel & Wire company, and the National Tube company.

Dan R. Hanna at his home in Ravenna, Ohio, denied that the M. A. Hanna company was guilty of rebating.

"We have been doing business in our customary way and in accordance with long established usages," he said. "The check to the Carnegie Steel company was not a rebate."

R. L. Ireland is making a tour of the Bermudas. He is expected home in a week.

D. C. Moon, general manager of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad company, denied the charges and said that his company will fight them.

The Maroni is owned by the Compagnie Generale Trans-Atlantic and was built only two years ago. She registers 2,000 tons net. The freighter was last reported arriving at Fort De France, from Havre on April 5.

This Simple Tonic Great Health Aid

(From Denver Press.)

The first signs of warm weather—spring fever, poor appetites, pale, sallow, pimly faces and that tired, drowsy, overworked feeling—remind us of the urgent need of taking preventive measures to ward off sickness and givs us energy and good health. At this season of the year no one should neglect taking a good tonic to purify the blood and build up the body with strength and energy.

No better tonic can be had than the good old-fashioned one made at home at small cost by dissolving an ounce of kardene in one-half pint alcohol, adding one-half cup sugar and hot water to make a full quart.

A tablespoonful before each meal will do wonders for those who feel "all gone" after the strain of winter or who feel sick and yet don't know just what's the matter.

Catarrh of Throat.

Mrs. W. Pray, 260 12th St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I was afflicted for two years with catarrh of the throat. At first it was very slight, but every cold I took made it worse.

"I followed your directions, and in a very short time I began to improve. I took one bottle and am now taking my second.

"I can safely say that my throat and head are cleared from catarrh at the present time, but I still continue to take my usual dose for a spring tonic and I find there is nothing better.

"Words cannot express how thankful I feel for my cure, as I did not know the comfort of a good night's sleep till now. I was continually bothered with my breathing. I could scarcely breathe through my nose at all, but now I go to bed and sleep the whole night through without any trouble. I hope my letter will convince some one of the great good Peruna has done me."

Running Ear.

Mrs. J. C. Dacus, Danville, Arkansas, writes:

"I have had a running ear since I was about three years old. It had become very offensive, notwithstanding I had tried several physicians without any benefit whatever."

"My father meeting a neighbor who told him that his wife had been cured by Lacupia and Peruna, then wrote to The Peruna Medical Department, asking advice. He was told that I had catarrh of the middle ear, or otitis.

"They recommended Lacupia and Peruna, and after using three bottles of each I find myself entirely cured. The discharge and offensive odor are both gone, and I can hear as well out of that ear as the other."

A Woman's Remedy.

Mrs. E. T. Gaddis, Marion, N. C., writes:

"Before I commenced to take Peruna I could not do any hard work without suffering great pain.

"I took Peruna and Manalin, and can say with pleasure that it has done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken. Now I am as well as ever. I do all my own work and it never hurts me at all.

"I think Peruna is a great medicine for womankind."

TO BEAUTIFY RIGHT-OF-WAY

Iron Range Road Will Make Park Along Its Line.

Carrying Out Promise Made to Lakeside Club Members.

The Duluth & Iron Range railroad has started the parking and fencing of its right-of-way between Forty-third and Fifty-fourth avenues east. When completed, a great improvement will have been made to that vicinity. The ground is being broken under the plow and will be seeded and sodded. Ornamental fences will be put up, and artistic flower beds and tastefully arranged shrubs will be planted along ten blocks of the right-of-way.

The railroad is doing the work in accordance with a promise made to the Lakeside club, which has been active in the interests of the lake shore suburb. In the past there has been some complaint made of the barrenness of the right-of-way through which the railroad passes, but the work which is now under way will completely change this. When the improvement has been finished it is expected that the place will be one of the prettiest spots in the city.

A pilgrimage of the congress to Mount Vernon as guests of the Washington Cathedral council was arranged for the early afternoon.

FARGO DEMANDS MONEY.

Fargo, N. D., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city of Fargo has made a demand on the county of Cass for about $4,000 for money collected by the county of special assessment tax levies. The custom has been for the counties to hold out 1 per cent on all collections made for cities. The supreme court holds they are not entitled to such a sum. The funds have been running for many years. Interest is also asked.

COMMON CAUSE OF DULL HEAVY EYES

(From Boston American.)

"Eye remedies are of little avail in brightening the eyes except in purely local conditions," writes Mme. Mirabeau, the celebrated Parisian beauty specialist. "In the majority of cases where the eyes are heavy and lustreless, this is a symptom of a deep-seated organic trouble. Usually it is accompanied by pallor or emaciation, backache, more or less head pains, dizziness at times, and often the functions of skin, stomach and bowels are deranged.

"Women often neglect such a conditon because of delicacy in consulting a physician. Any woman can easily remedy this trouble by using a douche, made by dissolving a teaspoonful of alatone in a quart of warm water. This stops mucus accumulations and odor at once. Used three times a week, it keeps the parts perfectly healthy and cleanly. You can get alatone in any drug store in original 4-ounce packages."

OLD LANDMARK WILL BE TORN DOWN TO MAKE ROOM FOR NEW RAILROAD

OLD SHIRT FACTORY BUILDING, GRAND AVENUE.

One of the old landmarks of West Duluth is being torn down this week to make way for the new line of the Canadian Northern railway. It is the two-story frame structure at Fifty-fourth avenue west and Grand avenue, familiarly known as the old shirt factory.

The building was erected back in the boom days, about 1890. It was originally intended for a store and flat building, but none of the store spaces was ever rented and the building was idle for some time.

When the Irving school was the only school at West Duluth, this structure was used for school purposes for one year, to take care of the overflow from the Irving building. In 1901, M. S. Shore & Co. purchased the place and remodeled it for a shirt factory. The plant operated in West Duluth for six years and then moved.

Four years ago, H. H. Hewitt, formerly of West Duluth, now of Superior, purchased the place for about $3,000. He spent considerable money in remodeling the whole building for a tenement house. Even after that, the building was idle most of the time. When the Canadian Northern bought its right-of-way through West Duluth, it paid $7,500 for the building.

Workmen this week are tearing the place down. It is rumored that the site may be that of the new Canadian Northern depot, but this has not been officially confirmed.

ESTIMATE IS TOO HIGH

West Duluthians Think Getchell Road Should Cost Less Than $22,000.

Engineer's Figures Cover Work of Grading, Graveling and Guttering.

West Duluth Commercial club members, who are interested in the new Getchell road project, are not satisfied with the estimate of the city engineering department submitted to the council. According to this estimate, the job will cost $22,000. Some people at West Duluth believe that it can be done for half the price.

The figures submitted by the city engineers call for the grading, graveling and guttering of the new thoroughfare. The new Getchell road provides a more suitable thoroughfare between West Duluth and the farming districts and Proctor.

J. J. Frey, a member of the special committee appointed by the Commercial club to boost the project, says that a private engineering firm is preparing an estimate of the cost, which will be submitted to the club tomorrow evening. He was not sure of what the figure would be, but declared that it would be a material reduction from the one given by the city engineers.

At $22,000 the cost would be almost prohibitive, says Mr. Frey. At the last meeting of the West Duluth club, when the estimate of the city engineer was announced, it created much discussion and led to the securing of another estimate from other engineers.

WILL EXPERIMENT WITH PEA GROWING.

Douglas county may be converted into an important pea-growing section, if tests which are made this year, produce results.

Farmers near Wentworth have signed contracts with a concern at Alpena, Mich., in which they agree to plant sixty acres of peas, the firm promising to take the crop at from $1.40 to $1.60 per bushel.

In order to make a success of the project, it will be necessary to raise at least fifteen bushels to the acre. Experiments have been carried out on a small scale with much success and there is no doubt but that the crop this year will come up to expectations.

APPEALS TO THE COURTS

Duluth Doctor Deprived of His License By State Board.

Says Reason for Action Was That He Advertised His Business.

Dr. John Carlton Duckworth of this city has appealed to the district court from the action of the state board of medical examiners, which, a few days ago, revoked his license. Judge Cant has allowed a stay in the action until a hearing can be held.

A few days ago Dr. Duckworth was summoned to St. Paul to appear before the board and show cause why his license should not be revoked. He was accused of unprofessional conduct, which he claims consisted of advertising his business.

Dr. Duckworth at once sent several Duluth attorneys to St. Paul to attend the hearing. They appeared before the board at the time stated in the summons, and had with them a reporter to take notes on the meeting.

The attorneys were told that no legal action had been begun and that the summons was sent to Dr. Duckworth, not them. They were excluded from the meeting which followed, he claims, and it was at the meeting that it was decided to revoke the Duluth man's license. The board, he says, would make no statement as to who the complainant had been, and refused to discuss the matter, it is claimed.

In an affidavit filed with the papers in district court this morning, Dr. Duckworth states that he received his diploma from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Keokuk, Iowa, in 1894. He came to Duluth from Des Moines in March, 1911. Ever since his graduation, he claims that he has been engaged in hte practice of medicine.

Upon coming to Minnesota he was issued a license by the state board of medical examiners, he says. This license gave him the right to practice in this state.

ASKS OFFICER TO ARREST HIM

Sergeant John Roberg's kindness of heart, which prompted him to buy a meal for a young fellow down on his luck, enabled the officer to make an important arrest today. Repenting of his crime and tired of "being wanted," J. F. Wilcox, 19 years old, for whom the officer bought the meal, confessed that he had embezzled $100 from a bakery firm by which he was employed in Philadelphia. He is now being held at the police station and the Philadelphia authorities have been notified.

The sergeant was walking along the street when he noticed the young fellow, who appeared bright and intelligent. His clothes were of good quality, though shabby, and he had all the marks of a man "on his uppers." The officer stopped Wilcox and questioned him. The boy was hungry and the sergeant went good for a meal. While he was eating, Wilcox broke down and asked the officer to arrest him. He said he was tired of wandering around, hungry and in constant fear.

NURSES ARE OUT OF WORK

Many practical nurses are out of employment in Duluth at the present time, according to a nurse who has been engaged in that line of work in the city for many years.

She estimated that there are as many as forty who are open for engagements. This is said to be partly due to the healthful condition of the city, and partly to the desire of people to cut down expenses as much as possible.

This condition is corroborated by the officials at the health department. They state, however, that this is not true of trained nurses, saying that they are rather scarce, if anything. The difference between the two is that practical nurses have gained their knowledge by experience without taking a training school course, whereas the others have. They generally find employment in cases of sickness, where technical knowledge is not highly essential.

The health of the city is generally good. There are no epidemics of contagious diseases prevalent, and the records at the health department show that cases are growing steadily less. Scarlet fever heads the list with thirty-three cases. Most of these are in the West end and West Duluth. There are eight cases of diphtheria, a few of typhoid fever and none of small pox. The last of the small pox patients was discharged nearly two months ago. As has been usual in the past, the cases of this disease which have been cared for here in the last year were contracted on the outside.

ALLEGED PERJURER GIVEN FREEDOM.

Walter Crook, who was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of perjury in connection with the arrest of Victor Michalek for keeping the saloon at 115 West First street open on Sunday, was released last evening. The county attorney didn't think that the evidence in the case would be sufficient to secure his conviction.

The police have been troubled with men who have sworn out complaints of this nature, and then either disappearing or changing their stories when placed on the witness stand. In the future they will take steps to make examples of complainants who act in that manner wherever possible.

HOT AFTER POT HUNTERS

Game Warden Thomas Storey and his deputy, G. H. Huseby, are hot on the trails of the pot hunters who have been shooting ducks out of season up the St. Louis river.

It is claimed that the birds have been settling on the river in large flocks, and that many Duluth and Superior men have been taking advantage of the fact to kill large numbers of them.

Yesterday morning the game wardens accompanied by a game warden from Wisconsin, caught two hunters red handed. They brought them into court in Superior, where they paid fines of $20 each.

Local hunters have expressed considerable indignation at the practice and declare that the men who have been shooting the ducks out of season ought to be given a straight jail sentence instead of a fine. They declare that it is hard enough to get good hunting during the open season of the fall, without spoiling the prospects by killing them at this time of the year. They also claim that if the ducks are frightened away at this time by hunters they will shun these feeding grounds when the Southern flight starts in the fall.

The game wardens are also after illegal fishermen on the river.

COULDN'T SELL HINES LUMBER.

An interesting phase of the Lorimer-Hines situation is the recent resignation of one of the leading officials of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company. He is said to have offered as an excuse for the shrinkage in lumber sales that it was a difficult proposition to sell lumber while the name of Hines was before the country in a position that no man would envy.

He was told that he could resign and he promptly told Hines that he would, and quit.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: APRIL 30. Jonah iii, 1-iv, 11: God's Pity for the Heathen.

THE CONNECTION.

The story of Jonah is a wonderful revelation of some essential truths, whether it is actual history, or a parable like the story of Dives and Lazarus or the Prodigal Son or the Good Samaritan. It had been regarded as actual history till recent years. It was possible, for all things are possible with God. If He can make a man and a great fish, He can make the fish swallow the man and keep the man alive, inside the fish, for three days. It is of the highest importance that we allow God to have the power that really belongs to Him. But it may be a parable, to teach us that God is the merciful Savior of all men and that the man who knows God, holds that knowledge in trust for those who know Him not. It was hard to get Jonah to do right, almost as hard as to get some of us to live up to our responsibilities.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Penitent Heathen. iii, 5-10.

"And the people of Nineveh believed God; and they proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them. And the tidings reached the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, and laid his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, and sat in ashes. And he made proclamation and published through Nineveh by the decree of the king and his nobles, saying, let neither man nor beast, herd nor flock, taste anything; let them not feed, nor drink water; but let them be covered with sackcloth, both man and beast, and let them cry mightily unto God; yea, let them turn every one from his evil way, and from the violence that is in his hands. Who knoweth whether God will not turn and repent, and turn away from His fierce anger, that we perish not? And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil which He said He would do unto them; and He did it not."

1. MERCY.—God was the God of all the nations. The Jews were selected to pass His blessings on. Abraham was distinctly told he was to be a blessing to all the world. But most of his descendents thought they were chosen to have privileges that would relieve them of responsibilities for others. The mercy God felt for the sinning people of Nineveh was typical. They were the enemies of His people, Israel, and yet He sends one of those people to Nineveh with His call to immediate repentance.

2. RUNAWAY.—Jonah didn't want to preach to Nineveh, chiefly because of intense race hatred and vindictiveness against an active, powerful enemy. He ran away and tried to get as far off as possible, to distant Tarshish, which is modern Spain. But he made the mistake of thinking he could run away from God. We know how he was returned and preached to Nineveh. The city was very large, an aggregation of several cities, with a wall sixty miles around, and it took Jonah three days to get around it, preaching as he went, that it was to be destroyed in forty days. It ought not to have been hard to pronounce the doom of his well hated enemies and possibly he enjoyed it a bit.

3. REPENTANCE.—Their sudden repentance was truly Oriental and in harmony with the means used to produce it. Consider the man himself who preached, a stranger with a message from a God; a man from Israel, over whom was the great God whose works they had heard of; a man who had come up out of the sea, the very place where their God lived, for they worshiped Dagan, the fish god. They were swept, as with an electric storm. There were two miracles, the preservation of Jonah and the repentance of those heathen. If a miracle, usually, seemed adapted to certain conditions, then, the treatment of Jonah was reasonable, in its adaptation to God's purposes. It it irrational and a distinct sign of mental obsession, to consider this miracle impossible.

II.

The Angry Prophet. iv, 1-5.

"But it displeased Jonah exceedingly, and he was angry. And he prayed unto Jehovah, and said, I pray thee, O Jehovah, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my country? Therefore I hasted to flee unto Tarshish; for I knew that you art a gracious God, and merciful, slow to anger, and abundant in loving kindness, and repentest Thee of the evil. Therefore now, O Jehovah, take, I beseech thee, my life from me: for it is better for me to die than to live. And Jehovah said, Doest thou well to be angry? Then Jonah went out of the city, and sat on the east side of the city, and there made him a booth, and sat under it in the shade, till he might see what would become of the city."

1. DISAPPOINTMENT.—Jonah felt it keenly. His word seemed false, if God did not keep His word and destroy the wicked city. He felt the disgrace. Beside he really wanted it done. He would have watched the destruction with complete satisfaction, so it seems. The cause of his anger was in himself and not in God's mercy. He was a prophet and ought to have known that God's promises and predictions were conditional and there was nothing God was aiming at so much as the repentance of the wicked and nothing He liked to do as much as to forgive the penitent. It was Jonah's disgrace that he did not feel that way.

2. FRANKNESS.—It is to his credit that he owned up and said that he was afraid God would do just that way and spoil his scheme for revenge. That was the reason he did not want to come on this mission. It was very kind in God to simply ask him if he thought his conduct was consistent. For answer he went to a hill, built a booth out of rushes and watched to see if the city would fall. He was not subdued, not yet. Wait.

III.

The Patient God, 6-11.

"And Jehovah God prepared a gourd, and made it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a shade over his head, to deliver him from his evil case. So Jonah was exceedingly glad because of the gourd. But God prepared a worm when the morning rose the next day, and it smote the gourd, that it withered. And it came to pass, when the sun arose, that God prepared a sultry east wind and the sun beat upon the head of Jonah, that he fainted, and requested for himself that he might die, and said, It is better for me to die than to live. And God said to Jonah: Doest thou well to be angry for the gourd? And he said, I do well to be angry, even unto death. And Jehovah said, thou hast had regard for the gourd, for which thou hast not labored, neither madest it grow; which came up in a night, and perished in a night; and should not I have regard for Nineveh, that great city, wherein are more than sixscore thousand persons that cannot discern between their right hand and their left hand; and also much cattle?"

Through the gourd, that sprang up suddenly and was cut down by the worm and withered by the sirocco, God teaches him that if he pitied an insensate gourd, he should surely pity the penitent people, especially since there were so many ignorant and helpless ones. Jonah really felt more sorry for himself than for the gourd, which sheltered him. He had learned his lesson, however, and all who read the story have learned the lesson of the universal kindness of God and His will that men should help the erring and wicked back to righteousness.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

Throughout this book there is a very marked recognition of the real moral worth and sensitiveness of conscience to be found among heathen people. We meet it first in the opening chapter, in the description of the behavior of the heathen sailors in the storm. The panic fears—the disintegration—the superstitions of paganism are set forth in frank, vivid sentences; but over against this, it is obviously the design of the story to illustrate, from the sailors, the instinct of prayer, the recognition of God, the patient generosity, the fear of blood-guiltiness which are to be found in heathendom. All this is emphasized in the third chapter, in the story of the Ninevite repentance. The religious susceptibility is represented as issuing from the barest word of God, and as a bond uniting the whole body of the people and manifesting itself even in their treatment of animals, whom they deal with as in some sort of inarticulate sympathy with man and not simply made for man's use. All this, men who are the children of religious privilege have always found it hard to believe. Jonah is the type of the mind blinded by religious advantage and by race-hatred to the true worth of humanity in heathen lands. He is typical of the attitude of the Jew, perhaps especially of the post-exilic Jew; but his counterpart today is as often to be found in the Gentile as in the Jewish world.—Ross.

Nineveh, in recent years, has become famous because of the work of Layard, the explorer. His mission of exhuming the long-buried monuments of the past was altogether honorable. Jonah's mission 2,800 years before was more honorable still. He was looking for living souls saved from the debris of sin and idolatry. One who carries the light to the living is greater than he who brings to light the deeds of the dead. This was the spirit of the great Livingstone.—Pollard.

PERTINENT QUESTSIONS.

1. In what ways does God warn the wicked today?
2. For what reasons and how far are good people responsible for bad people?
3. Why do we always think of God as speaking our language, with our own local accent?
4. What is meant by God's repenting and changing His purpose of judgment?
5. Who is the real Jonah, today?

ISSUE CALL TO WORKING MEN

Meeting of Protest Will Be Held in Kalamazoo Hall.

A call to working men, both union and non-union, has been issued for this evening. They will meet at the Kalamazoo hall for the purpose of entering a protest against the methods used in the arrest of James J. McNamara, secretary of the International Bridge and Structural Workers union on a charge of having been implicated in a plot as the result of which the Los Angeles Times was destroyed by dynamite some time ago.

Local union and non-union men are said to be indignant over the arrest of McNamara. The arrest has stirred the ire of workig men all over the country, it is said, and meetings of a like character are being held in other cities.

The call for the meeting reads as follows:

"An infamous and most damnable out-rage—one that should make the blood of every workingman boil, be he unionist or non-unionist, has been perpetrated. The arrest and kidnaping of James J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Bridge & Structural Iron Workers upon a charge of complicity in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times—and the statement which bears all the evidence of deliberate 'plant' aimed to destroy a labor organization which is known to have been staunch and true to the interests of its membership—deserves the immediate serious consideration of every self-respecting person who still has a speck of red blood in his veins".

CHALLENGE BY BIG EATER.

Has Devoured 60 Eggs and 100 Oysters at a Sitting.

Rockland, Mass., April 27.—Thomas F. Curley, Rockland's champion big eater, has issued a challenge, backed by $500, to the heavy feeders of New England. His challenge is this:

"I will wager any part of $500 that I can devour a larger quanity of eggs, oysters or lobsters at one sitting than any self-styled champion in New England."

His friends aver that Curley is the most popular man in town as well as the biggest eater. While surrounded by friendly waiters he has performed his well attested feats of eating five dozen boiled eggs at a meal, devouring thirteen big red one-pound lobsters at another sitting, and on a third occasion putting down one hundred oysters on the half-shell and calling in vain for more.

Perhaps there is someone else who can beat one or all of these records. If there is, Mr. Curley is anxious to see him. He thinks that he himself has by no means done his best.

CONDEMNED TO DIE IN TWO MONTHS

Unless She Submitted to a Dangerous Surgical Operation, Josie Milan Must Die.

It has been proven so often that dangerous surgical operations can frequently be avoided by using the new "united" system of treatment as used in Duluth only by the United Doctors at their institute located on the third floor of the Columbia building that nearly every one knows that it is a fact.

Yet here is a case which is so remarkable that it will be of interest. This patient was positively told that she would be dead within two months unless she was operated upon immediately. She was not operated upon; the two months is past and she is not dead but thanks to the United Doctors' treatment, is on the road to recovery of health and writes the following letter for publication:

"Danville, Ill., Jan. 4, 1911.

"About three months ago I was taken sick and, being unable to leave home, was compelled to call in a local physician. He doctored me for several weeks, and, after calling in another physician for consultation, they decided that an operation was necessary in my case in order that I might live. I was told by these doctors that unless I had an operation, which would necessitate my going to the hospital and staying there several weeks, I would not live two months.

"This decision on their part frightened me so much that within a few days, with the help of friends, I was taken to the office of the United Doctors, of whom I had heard so much, in order to consult with them. The doctor there informed me that an operation was not necessary and that while it would take considerable time to get me well, I could eventually be cured without an operation.

"The two months in which I was given to live without an operation have now passed, and under the United Doctors' treatment I feel that within a short time I will be fully recovered. JOSIE MILAN,

SEVEN SENATOR BILL TO COURT

Twelve Reasons Alleged to Keep Measure Off Election Ballots.

Minneapolis, Min., April 27.—No less than twelve reasons are alleged by Representative Charles R. Fowler of Minneapolis as grounds for an injunction to restrain the placing of the "seven senator" amendment on the ballots at the next general election. Boiled down, the reasons are that the bill was passed contrary to the rules of the legislature; that it was not signed by the governor, and that it violates the equal rights guarantees of the federal and state Constitutions. On constitutional grounds the case may be taken even to the supreme court of the United States.

Mr. Fowler does not ask for a temporary injunction. The amendment has already been published in the session laws, and the suit is only to determine whether the amendment shall be printed on the general election ballot. The injunction is directed against Julius A. Schmahl, secretary of state, who will be represented by George T. Simpson, attorney general. The state has twenty days in which to file an answer, after which the case will be set for a hearing in the district court of Hennepin county. George H. Selover appears as attorney for Mr. Fowler, who is absent from the city on business. Mr. Fowler assisted in preparing the complaint and his partner, Judge W. A. Kerr, was also consulted.

The case will go to the state supreme court, regardless of the way it is decided in the district court. It may even be carried to the supreme court of the United States, as there are questions in it involving the federal Constitution. The appeal to Washington cannot be taken, however, unless the state supreme court grants a writ of error.

Mr. Fowler sues as a taxpayer and sets forth that submissions of the amendment would cost the state at least $2,500. That is only a means of getting into court, however. The real grounds of the suit are set forth fully in the complaint.

MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT HAS JACKOLA TAKEN TO COURT

Wooing of Duluth Physician Objectionable to Wealthy Widow.

Released on His Promise Not to Annoy Her Any More.

DR. JOHN JACKOLA.

New York, April 27.—Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont appeared in police court late yesterday and on the promise of Dr. John Jackola a worker for women's suffrage, that he would not annoy her further with unwelcome attentions, consented that a magistrate's summons for him be dismissed. Dr. Jackola, who holds degrees from both the University of Washington and the University of Chicago and until recently was a practicing surgeon at Duluth, talked freely of the case here today, after reading a statement given out by James McMahon, secretary to Mrs. Belmont.

"Dr. Jackola," Mr. McMahon said, "has paid persistent attentions to Mrs. Belmont for four months. His attentions include repeated attempts to see Mrs. Belmont, the sending of roses with verses inclosed and a number of notes. A letter he sent last week was the culmination of the matter. Mrs. Belmont decided that the only thing for her to do was to go to the courts."

"I am surely surprised at Mrs. Belmont's actions," said Dr. Jackola, when he had read the statement, "but I should have nothing to say, unless a statement for her had been given out first. She received the roses I sent her with my poetry and I have her acknowledgements and thanks in a safety deposit vault."

"In one of your letters did you address Mrs. Belmont as divine goddess" the caller asked.

"A Divine Goddess."

"Such an expression may well have been in one of my notes," Dr. Jackola answered. "I have admired Mrs. Belmont ever since I saw her two years ago, when we crossed the Atlantic on the same ship. I thought she was the most remarkable woman I had ever seen and I believed I was privileged as a man to make advances to her. But we did not speak; there was no common friend on board to introduce us.

"I believe all this would not have happened if the notes I sent Mrs. Belmont had not been opened first by a secretary."

The doctor explained how his admiration led him to seek an introduction to Mrs. Belmont; how he met her secretary, was invited to speak on woman suffrage here; did so, and soon afterwards was presented to Mrs. Belmont. One of the doctor's stanzas follows:

"Permit these adorable roses say,
Each fragrant petal (Sic) keep repeating,
Oh, lovelier, sweeter far you are than they,
And sweeter than my heartfelt greeting."

Society Out in Force.

Society gathered in force in the West side court to hear the charge Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont had brought against Dr. John Jackola, for disorderly conduct, aired.

Mrs. Belmont appeared in court promptly at the hour set and took a seat in the rear of the courtroom. There were a number of cases ahead of hers and she seemed to take great interest in them.

Mrs. Belmont was attired handsomely and wore a large purple hat. Dr. Jackola was also on hand promptly and held down a seat on the opposite side of the courtroom. He had nothing to say, and only occasionally stole a glance at the woman whose affections he tried to win, and who had him haled to court to cool his ardor.

Mrs. Belmont waited for two hours, when her attorney, Herbert Reeves, stepped up before Magistrate House and said his client did not wish to press the charge. If Dr. Jacola would agree not to annoy her in future, she would be satisfied with a dismissal.

Dr. Jackola said he was sorry he had annoyed Mrs. Belmont and would never do so again. Magistrate House informed him that if he allowed the divine passion to get the better of his judgment that way again, he would send him up for six months.

A Reliable Medicine—Not a Narcotic.

Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in which I have great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house." All druggists.

GEN. THEODORE BINGHAM

Appointed Chief Engineer of Bureau of Highways of Manhattan.

New York, April 27.—Gen. Theodore Bingham, former police commissioner of New York City, has been appointed chief engineer of the bureau of highways of Manhattan by Borough President McAneny to succeed George W. Tillson, who was recently transferred to Borough President Steer's staff as consulting engineer in place of R. C. Creuzbaur, who resigned under pressure.

General Bingham's new position pays $6,000 a year.

Since resigning from the police department, two years ago, he has been practicing his profession of private engineer in a downtown office, with Daniel C. Slattery, his former secretary, as an office manager. Gen. Bingham is an experienced engineer, with two years of active duty in the army to his credit. He was retired from the national service on a pension, after losing a leg in governmental construction work.

The appointment of the former police commissioner to a position in civil service by President McAneny is taken as an indication that the latter is not entirely under the influence of Mayor Gaynor as critics have asserted.

WILL BE IMPORTANT MEETING.

The meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association to be held in Duluth June 1-2 may easily be the most important yet held by that organization. The first two sessions were marked by great interest and earnest effort, but the association at that time was in more or less of a formative state, and while it could adopt resolutions and make recommendations, there was little of a definite nature that it could turn to. The legislature had yet to pass on any of the proposals of the association, and more important than all else, the attitude of the greater part of the state toward the association was not definitely known.

With the opening of this Duluth meeting the delegates will face a much more clearly defined situation. The legislature has acted favorably on some of the suggestions of the association, though it saw fit to reject reapportionment and other measures much desired, and the other parts of the state have given recognition to the good intentions of the association and the fact that it is indeed working for the welfare of Minnesota instead of purely in the interests of the northern counties.

This means that the delegates to the Duluth meeting will be in a position to advance with a better understanding of what is before them, with a clearer knowledge of the part which the association is to be allowed to play in matters of general interest to all Minnesota. Under the new conditions the meeting should be marked by even greater enthusiasm and should attract even more interest than attended the previous excellent sessions.

There will be several matters for the association to consider at the coming session that are new questions for that body to take up. One of the most important of these is the best means for getting the most good out of the new farm school that is to be established at Duluth. That institution can be made of great value to the entire northern section of the state if the people are given proper opportunities to understand the work to be done. It is not a purely Duluth proposition, and the Development association can do much to add to the importance of the work of the school. The subject should be thoroughly discussed at the coming meeting.

Another matter that is certain to come up is the question of an interstate fair at the Head of the Lakes. This matter was broached by the Superior Commercial club and was discussed by a committee of the Duluth Commercial club. That committee, for reasons stated in its reply to the Superior club, advised that no attempt be made to hold such a fair this year, but that the matter be presented to such organizations in the states of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan as might be able and willing to help make such a fair a big success. Among the organizations specifically mentioned was the Northern Minnesota Development association, and that body probably will be furnished with a statement of the Superior plans during this meeting. There is little question that the success of the undertaking would depend to a great degree on co-operation from such bodies as the Development association, and the delegates probably will have a chance to thrash the matter out in the June meeting.

With Secretary Mackenzie already on the ground, preparations for the sessions will soon begin to take definite shape. Duluth will greet the delegates heartily, and will do her best to see that they have a pleasant and profitable time during their stay in the Zenith City.

TRADITION VS. PROGRESS.

In a communication to The Herald, G. G. Hartley last night presented a forcible argument in favor of adopting the work farm plan in St. Louis county in place of the present jail system. He pointed out not only the detrimental effect of the jail plan on the men who are sent there for thirty to ninety day periods, but the feasibility of adopting the scheme in the county, both as to the expense involved and the possibility of a return to the county on whatever sum might be invested in the farm plan.

It is significant that such men as Mr. Hartley are taking an active interest in this proposition. It means that the humanitarianism and progressiveness of the farm plan as compared with the jail system are taking hold; that St. Louis county people have among their number influential citizens who are considering the public welfare and are willing to go to some trouble to say what they think, and help to bring about the reformations that they see to be needed.

If his letter amounted to nothing else, Mr. Hartley's effort would have been worth while because it makes a specific proposition. One of the few objections that have been raised to the farm plan has been in the form of the question, "Where could we get the land for such a farm?" Mr. Hartley answers this conclusively by declaring that he knows of a 200-acre site within the city limits that is available for such purposes at a reasonable figure.

The only reason on earth for the continuance of the county jail system is that it has been in existence for years, that it is a matter of tradition with the people that offenders should be made to spend so many days or weeks or months in jail. There have been abuses of the system, some wilful and some unintentional, and every once in a while some city or county has to have a disgraceful mess aired in the cleaning up process. Yet the system that bred these disgraces has been continued and is in force today.

As to its value to the county and to the city, the jail system is not to be compared with the farm plan. The one means close confinement under conditions that, at their very best, sap physical and mental strength, and the other means healthful exercise in the fresh air, with a corresponding building up of body and mind. There is all the difference between the two that there is in the extremes of stagnation or retrogression, and progress. The plan is passing beyond the experimental stage, and is demonstrating its practicability. It is a good thing for the prisoners and a good thing for the community.

St. Louis county never will have a better opportunity to adopt the farm plan. The present jail not only is admittedly inadequate to meet the demands of the jail system, but has been condemned by state authorities. The county has got to do something, and do it now. What is it going to do—bond itself for half a million or more dollars to put up another jail that in turn will prove inadequate, perhaps before it is paid for, and continue the iniquities inherent in that system? Or spend something like 10 to 20 per cent of the cost of a new jail in the installation of modern and progressive and valuable methods of handling the petty criminals and drink victims?

There could be no better time for St. Louis county to break away from the hoary traditions and prove itself up to date and progressive. Give the farm scheme a fair hearing, anyway. It will prove itself worthy of at least a trial, and inasmuch as the land secured for that purpose will be as marketable twenty years from now as it is today, the county will stand to lose little if anything by the experiment, with the probability that it will find itself the gainer in wealth and in the character of its population.

LABOR AND THE "DYNAMITERS."

One of the most significant paragraphs in the Associated Press report of the reception at Los Angeles of the three men arrested in the East on a charge of dynamiting the building of the Los Angeles Times was the following:

> At no time was there the slightest evidence of anger on the part of the crowds, or a disposition to justify the expressed fear of the officers that an attempt might be made to rescue the prisoners. Union buttons were plentiful, but the men wearing them were as quiet and orderly as those who displayed no emblems of organized labor.

It is to be presumed that the officers thought their expressions of fear were justified, or they would have given vent to no such expressions. But it must be remembered that the general run of labor union membership in this country is not addicted to violence. There are hotheads in every community, men who have more sentiment than sense, more energy than enlightenment, and these, as well as those with better balanced mentalities, become members of labor organizations just as they become members of other bodies. And once in awhile they break out of the restraint alike of public opinion and the wishes of the other union men, and then there occur incidents that work to the discredit of the organizations which these men claim to represent. It is such men as these, and the "fool friends" of labor, who bring such organizations into disrepute.

The dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building, like the dynamiting of any other place where there has been a conflict between employers and employes, not only did great and senseless damage to property, but it gave the enemies of organized labor an opportunity to attack that system. It is to the interests of the unions more than of any other body of men that the guilty parties in that affair be run to earth and punished. There are many things that have directed suspicion toward McNamara and his fellow prisoners. The best thing that can be done is to give them a fair trial, and the labor men of Los Angeles know that. Any attempt at "rescue" would only serve to bring organized labor into disrepute and at the same time prejudice the cause of the prisoners. The Los Angeles men know that, too. And they acted on that knowledge.

It is one thing to resent the railroading of an accused man to jail or to another state, but quite another thing to try to prevent the law's taking its true course in the trial of accused persons. There are some members of labor bodies who will fail to distinguish between the two, but the rank and file will not be so strongheaded or so foolish. The Los Angeles men showed the right spirit, showed true common sense. Their action was a credit to the organizations whose emblems they wore, and will help, more than anything else could, to establish sympathy for their cause.

DON'T FORGET REGATTA WEEK.

While you are laying your summer plans don't forget Regatta week—July 20-22. If you are expecting visitors from out of town, try to have them here at that time. If you are planning to go away for a few days yourself, make the time before or after those dates, so that you can be here to enjoy the races and other festivities of the occasion. There will be contests of various kinds for you to watch, and there will be amusements in which you can take part. It will be worth while. Don't miss it.

As planned by the Boat club, Regatta week is to mean a good deal more to Duluth than just a meeting of the crews from various cities for contests on the water. It is hoped to make it a real carnival time. Duluth is entitled to a good deal of attention and patronage from other parts of the country during the summer months, and the events planned for Regatta week will be calculated to impress that fact on outsiders.

Duluth has been attracting more and more attention during the last few years, especially among those people who want to get away from the uncomfortableness of hot weather in sections less favored than the Head of the Lakes. The hay fever colony has been growing steadily, and the demand for summer homes is greater every year. Every outsider who spends a summer in Duluth turns booster for the city, and this Regatta week program is a first class excuse for getting some new material here that will join the army of boosters. This is your chance. Get behind the movement, and help it along. Make Regatta week a time for getting your friends and relatives to this city, and show them what real comfort is. You will enjoy their visit, and will be doing a good thing for Duluth and your friends at the same time.

HOUSES AND PATRONAGE

By SAVOYARD.

Champ Clark is reported as favoring the proposal of Senator Heyburn to apropriate a large sum with which to acquire title to all the real estate in Washington between the capitol grounds and Fifteenth street, and between Pennsylvania avenue and the Mall. At present the government owns a great deal of land in this locality, and it is very well understood that it is soon to own all of it, and the intention is that for a solid mile Pennsylvania avenue shall have grand public buildings to ornament its south side.

John Wanamaker set this scheme on foot when he was postmaster general in Ben Harrison's cabinet, and congress thought him visionary and extravagant, though the land could then have been had for one-half what it will fetch now. At that time the treasury was groaning with a surplus and the G. O. P. went through its great stunt of revising the tariff "up," and we had the McKinley tariff of 1890, which sought to seduce the South by means of tariff duties on her raw materials.

And even now, when real estate in this town has greatly increased in market value, it would be an excellent trade to buy this land, for there is nothing more certain than that it is destined to become public property, and covered with public structures. For years and years the government has been robbed by landlords in the District of Columbia. It is an easy and certain way to get rich in this town to build a house and rent it to the United States, which is rapidly becoming a government by commission. The department of commerce and labor is in a rented house, owned by an opulent citizen, who collects every five years enough in rents to pay for the structure. The interstate commerce commission, the civil service commission, the new commerce court, and other like annexes of the government are in rented quarters, and so is the department of justice.

When I first came here, now thirty-one years ago, the pension office found room enough in which to transact all its business on the second floor of a dry goods store at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue. Ten years later the pension office required the largest department building in Washington. I see it daily, and always recall the debate between Calhoun and Webster in the senate when the bill to establish the interior department was considered, and it is a curious fact that on that occasion Jefferson Davis, then a senator from Mississippi, suported Webster in a speech equal to that of Webster himself. But to read the speech of Calhoun in that debate is to read prophecy. He spoke like a sage, Webster like a politician. Calhoun was defeated in his opposition, and the interior department was carved out of the treasury department, and by 1892 the pension office, a mere bureau of the interior department, cost the people annually more than three times the total yearly expenditures of the government when the interior department was formed.

And in addition two other departments have been hewn out of that same interior department. They are agriculture, and commerce and labor. Within ten years yet another department will be added, the chief of which will have a place in the president's council.

Verily, the civil service of the United States expands like a gourd vine and cumbers the earth. When I first came here the big building west of the White House was approaching completion and the state, war and navy departments were housed in it. Now the entire structure is scarce big enough for the navy department alone, and ground is already purchased south of the avenue for a new state department building. Doubtless it is true that an indiscreet, or even a reckelss private citizen can build a house cheaper than the government; but it is the more prudent economy for the government to build than to rent.

What a pity it is that a government cannot be carried on without agents known as civil service officials and civil service employes. Here is a Democratic congress, the first one in sixteen years, with a little dab of patronage, and there are enough office-seekers here to absorb it ten times over. The majority got along swimmingly in the organization and in the political program, but it will be a miracle if it does not go all to flinders over the miserable little bit of "patronage." Do you recall Proctor Knott's delicious satire on the paving of Pennsylvania avenue, that surpasses the Duluth speech itself in delighted fancy and rollicking humor? He takes a glance at our then comparatively diminutive civil service, and has a deal of rapturous fun with the public functionary whom he sees leaving his home and all the delights of domestic tranquility to immolate himself on the altars of his country like a very Hector of Troy, who goes out to fight Achilles. He pursues this man to the office of the disbursing clerk pay day, and sees him sitting at "a miserable repast of sea turtle and champagne." Get it and read it. The Duluth Herald ought to print it.

Logan Carlisle, who had as much sense as his father, and more than his father had at his age, thought that it was the duty of congress to enact a law that nobody would be employed in the appointive civil service until he had shown to the exclusion of a reasonable doubt that he would starve to death in private walks.

One of the most brilliant jackassities wrought by the Democratic party was when it forced the war with Spain. McKinley did not want it, neither did Mark Hanna, but it saved their bacon. The administration was in despair owing to the hordes of office-seekers that descended on this town like the swarms of Egypt that plagued the subjects of Pharaoh. But here came the old Democratic jackass with both hands full of relief.

Thousands of places were thus made for Republican office-seekers, who had resolved to vote Democratic the next election, with all their kin, friends and neighbors, but the president and Mark Hanna ceased to walk the floor at inauspicious hours of the early morn when the war came on.

What a pity that politics is encumbered with that deadly fungus, "spoils," in our country. In England it gives no concern; but it is the bane of our system in this free republic.

Life tenure would be an excellent and an effective remedy. Then congress would not seek the president of its party every morn to find out what he wants done.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

MAKE A HOME FOR THE WRENS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The house wrens are in town searching for homes and provisions for the summer. Please allow me to suggest to the boys that they place a box at some convenient place about the "kitchen porch," or near the flower beds or gardens for their abode. They like to be near the people living in the house, though they prefer to be seen and not handled.

Any old box will do, fruit cans, etc. The main point is not to make the hole over an inch in diameter and perfectly smooth, with a suitable perch of some kind for the bird to alight on before entering the box. If the hole is over an inch in diameter it would permit the sparrows to enter the boxes and destroy the wren's nest.

A good plan is to secure the box or can by nailing or wiring it to lattice work or rafters on inside of the kitchen porch as the birds like to be near the folks about the house and convenient to the flower beds or garden where they can secure insects.

Sunday I carried an old box to the country and gave it to a boy who immediately made the hole in the end of it an inch in diameter and fastened it on the inside of the porch. Before I left the place a couple of wrens had called to inspect the house and I have no doubt they have already taken up their abode in this box where they can rest in peace away from the attacks of the sparrows. I know of a family in Duluth who cut a small hole in a can and for four or five years the same family of wrens occupied it as a domicile.

Remember the main points are to make the hole in the box for ingress and egress only one inch in diameter and place the box in proximity to your own dwelling. The above data was acquired from the field agents of the agricultural department and is therefore reliable.

BIRD LOVER.

Duluth, April 26.

An Indignant Captain of Industry.

New York World: William Burgess of Duluth testified before the Helm investigating committee that Christian F. Wiehe, secretary of the Edward Hines Lumber company, admitted that he gave $10,000 toward a fund to elect William Lorimer United States senator.

When a depraved Chicago newspaper reporter asked Mr. Wiehe if he contributed this money, Mr. Wiehe replied: "It's none of your business whether I did or not. The newspapers of Chicago ought to be crucified. I'd like to shoot the whole bunch of newspaper men in Chicago."

Of course it's nobody's business. Matters have reached a pretty state in this country if a few modest captains of industry cannot contribute to a slush fund to send a great statesman like William Lorimer to to the senate without having investigating committees and newspapers prying into the transaction.

Ever since 1896 it has been fully understood that all political corruption funds raised by big business are devoted to saving the national honor. He had to be saved, and now the representatives of a ribald people have the impudence to cross examine the patriots who contributed the money. That sort of thing is enough to make a captain of industry ashamed of his American citizenship.

The H. C. of L.

Judge: "Yes, sir," says the salesgirl, "candy has gone up a quarter on the pound."

Regretfully the young man walks away and calls at another shop.

"Yes, sir," explains the salesgirl there, "flowers have gone up this week. Roses are $1 more on the dozen."

With a doleful look the young man leaves the shop, murmuring to himself.

"The higher cost of loving will work many hardships."

To the Point.

Toledo Blade: In time of trial, said the preacher, what brings us the greatest comfort?

"An acquittal!" responded a lowbrow, who should never have been admitted by the usher.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Punch: Host—Have a cigarette, old man?

Guest—No, thanks—I've chucked smoking—too effeminate, don't you know.

Chicago News: "Thomas," said the professor to a pupil in the junior class in chemistry, "mention an oxide."

"Leather," replied Thomas.

"What is leather an oxide of?" asked the professor.

"An oxide of beef," answered the bright youngster.

Washington Star: "I shouldn't be surprised to hear it at any time that our friend who dabbles in fluffy finance has lost his mind."

"Are you an alienist?"

"No. I'm an expert accountant, and I have been going over his books."

New York Press: "What is a reign of terror, pa?"

"A terrible rain, my son."

Baltimore American: "When the officials visited the prison a convict knocked against the governor accidentally, and what do you think the man said?"

"What?"

"He said, 'Pardon me.' And the governor answered, "That lets you out.'"

Fliegende Blaetter: Wife—Darling, I want a new gown.

Husband—But you had a new one only a short time ago.

Wife—Yes, but my friend Ellen is to be married, and I can't wear the same dress as I wore at her last wedding.

Toledo Blade: "Do you think I am really your affinity?" asked Solomon's nine hundred and eighty-fifth wife, coquettishly.

"My dear," said the Wisest Guy, "you are one in a thousand."

He got away with it, too.

Fliegende Blaetter: "Why, what are you crying for?"

"Oh, my sweet Azori was lost a week ago."

"Well, haven't you heard anything of him?"

"Yes, there he is. Some one has just returned him anonymously, but—stuffed!"

Period (.)—A small dot indicating finality. Disregarded by female punctuaters.

Semicolon (;)—A mark used to set off the forty-three competent parts of a Henry James sentence.

Apostrophe (')—A tiny character denoting possession. Obsolete with the ultimate consumer.

Per Cent Mark (%)—A Hebraic character indicating the amount of interest the pawnbroken can be expected to take in the tale of your woes.

Eiofghti'"7&"X—Linotype profanity induced by assaulting the wrong key.

Dashes (— — —)—A series of horizontal marks used as a spur to the reader's imagination when the author runs out of appropriate emotion. E.g., "Heavens—" she gasped. "Why—What— Who would—"

Exclamation Point (!)—A screamer used at the close of Speaker Cannon's terse sentences.

Parallel Columns—A device used to confound a peerless leader by comparing the sageness of later years with the indiscretions of his youth. Also used as a check on plagiarism.

And there you are.

A crowded car,
A woman plain,
She stands, and there

A loud-voiced fan,
A crowded car;
The team's at home,
And there you are.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

The supreme court of Louisiana has decided the famous lottery case in favor of the lottery company. The legislature, by a two-thirds vote in each house, passed a bill proposing a constitutional amendment granting a charter to the lottery company, which was to pay an annual tax to the state of $1,250,000. The governor vetoed the amendment, and the secretary of state refused to promulgate it because the governor's signature was missing. Thereupon the company made application to the court for a mandamus. The mandamus was refused and an appeal was taken to the supreme court, which has now given a final decision in the company's favor. The court stood 3 to 2. The election takes place next April, and an exciting political fight between factions of the Democratic party will result from the court's decision.

Marie Stone, prima donna of the Bostonian Opera company, will retire from the stage at the end of the season, which closes at Albany on June 6.

Rev. E. E. Tyson of the Second Baptist church, was taken seriously ill yesterday and was unable to attend the evening service, which was conducted by Boston W. Smith.

This morning's wind and rain storm was the most severe seen here in recent years. Considerable damage was done to property. The frame work on Sargent's old coal dock at Sixth avenue west was blown down, and the loss is estimated at $3,000. Mr. Richard's house at Lester Park was carried off its foundations and practically demolished. It was a new building, still under construction. Patterson's annex boat house on Minnesota Point, which he purchased from the Y. M. C. A., was taken off its foundation and carried a short distance into the bay, the waters of which now nearly reach the roof. A house belonging to Peter Gilley on Central avenue, West Duluth, was also blown down.

D. McCall has been appointed street inspector by the West Duluth council.

Mrs. Carrie Nygood has purchased the Lake View hotel on Second avenue east, West Duluth, and will take possession the first of May.

Albert B. Guptill and John J. Skuse, attorneys, recently of Fargo, have located here under the firm name of Guptill & Skuse, to look after extensive land matters in which they are interested.

Otto, the 11-year-old son of Camille Poirier, the Superior street boot and shoe merchant, was kicked yesterday by a horse while walking behind it in the stable. His jaw was broken and his face was badly cut.

Clifford W. Clark, senior member of the firm of Clark Brothers, returned with a bride from Council Bluffs, Iowa, last evening.

H. W. Prince, who has been ill with typhoid fever, is now very low with pneumonia.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Restricting Representation.

Alexandria Post News: We cannot believe that the voters of this state will ever ratify the action of the legislature in passing the bill proposing a Constitutional amendment to limit the representation of state senators in the large city to seven members. The average voter's sense of justice is too strong to permit him to support such a proposition, even though he should be the gainer by the adoption of the amendment. What valid argument can be advanced in support of a measure which, in granting the right of representation, distinguishes between the citizen of the country district and the city? Shall the majority of the people of today take from the majority of tomorrow the right to govern?

Not so Important Now.

St. Cloud Times: And now the Honorable Do Nothing, who has been legislating for the people for the past ninety days, and has been swelled up by his own importance to beat "Bob Smiley's frog," has reached home, and a great realizing sense of littleness comes over him. It comes over his constituents, too.

Do Not Like the Truth.

Red Wing Republican: "Uncle Joe" Cannon is trying to play even now by scoring the newspapers. It is always so with the transgressor in public life whose way has been made rough because the simple truth has been told about them by the press. The next thing in order is a speech by Senator Lorimer along the same line

One Consolation.

Perham Enterprise: The candidates who were defeated for the legislature last fall can now thank their stars that they are not responsible for the bad eminence attained by the legislature of 1911.

Not Good Democracy.

Appleton Press: Congressman Hammond's reason for voting against the reciprocity treaty, viz., that it would be against the interests of his district, may be Republicanism; it may even be good insurgentism, but it most certainly is not good Democracy. The party of Jefferson is not founded upon such narrow principles. If Hammond ever becomes governor of Minnesota it will be by virtue of Republican votes.

Any Connection?

Sauk Center Herald: A man 47 years old, living in Southern Minnesota and within six miles of a railroad all his life, took his first ride on the "tooty cars" one day last week. Wonder if there's any connection between that occurrence and the back number attitude of Southern Minnesota senators on reapportionment.

Value of Good Roads.

Rothsay Enterprise: A good country road is always to be desired and is a source of comfort and convenience to every traveler. Good roads attract population, as well as good schools and churches. Good roads improve the value of the property so that it is said that a farm lying five miles from market, connected by bad roads, is of less value than an equally good farm lying ten miles away from market, connected by a good road. A larger load can be hauled by two horses over a good road than by four over a bad road. Good roads encourage the greater exchange of products and commodities between one section and another.

Results Wanted.

Cannon Falls Beacon: The progressives in congress will do well to remember that it is the progressive movement that the people have embraced and not any particular coterie of leaders. The people are not specially interested in the game of politics; what they want is results; results largely without reference to who produces them.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: There's a kind of man who thinks people will take pompousness to be power.

When a woman is away from home she can even get homesick for the family quarrels.

We can nearly always see when a mistake is being made unless we are the ones who are making it.

A man who swears off drinking seems to think the purpose of it is to see if he can't swear on oftener than he did off.

When a girl makes up her mind to marry a man an easy way for him to escape is by getting run over by a railroad train.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: A generous man doesn't give his friends away.

Men who mean no harm are not necessarily harmless.

And many a tombstone inscription is too good to be true.

The farce comedy that fails to make a hit is no laughing matter.

Ever notice that a lecturer always comes highly recommended?

When cuteness develops into insolence it is time to get your gun.

Be sure you are a good loser before participating in a game of love.

Give any man half a chance and he'll say something he will regret later.

Gossips believe all they hear, and what they don't hear they take for granted.

Men acquire a taste for liquor and tobacco and women acquire a taste for olives and love.

The wrinkles caused by worry are the result of worrying over something that worry could not help.

If a man is troubled with indigestion it is a waste of time to try to convince him that the world is growing better.

Weather was probably invented by his Satanic majesty so that people would have something to growl about when there was nothing else at hand.

Adventures of a Joke.

Boston Transcript: A few months ago the folowing jest appeared in the Transcript's humor column:

"Litigant (to lawyer)—Your fee is outrageous. Why, it's more than three-fourths of what I recovered.

"Lawyer—I furnished the skill and legal learning for your case.

"Litigant—But I furnished the case.

"Lawyer—Oh, anybody can fall down a coal hole."

Our little bit of fun went the rounds of the American papers and finally reached Engand. This is the shape in which it appeared in one of the English weekly papers. Students of differentiation in national humor please note:

LEGAL CALCULATION.

"Litigant (to lawyer)—Your charges are outrageous, sir. Why, they are actually two-thirds of what I recovered.

"Lawyer—Well, that's all right. I furnished the legal knowledge and skill that won your case.

"Litigant—But I furnished the case.

"Lawyer—Oh, it was easy to provide the case! And allowing that you did furnish the case, I still maintain that I am entitled to two-thirds of the profit. Three things were necessary to recover damages—one, a case; two, legal knowledge; three, skill in pleading. Thus, as I provide two of the essentials and you only one, my claim to two-thirds the damages is only fair."

It's a trifling matter, of course; but somehow we regret the loss of the coal hole.

It Pays to Advertise.

Southwest: Paderewski arrived in a small Western town about noon one day and decided to take a walk in the afternoon. While strolling along he heard a piano and, following the sound, came to a house on which was a sign reading:

"Miss Jones. Piano lessons 25 cents an hour."

Pausing to listen, he heard the young woman trying to play one of Chopin's nocturnes and not succeeding very well.

Paderewski walked up to the house and knocked. Miss Jones came to the door and recognized him at once. Delighted, she invited him in and he sat down and played the nocturne as only Paderewski can, afterward spending an hour in correcting her mistakes. Miss Jones thanked him and he departed.

Some months afterwards he returned to the town and again took the same walk.

He soon came to the home of Miss Jones, and, looking at the sign, he read: "Miss Jones. Piano lessons $1 an hour. (Pupil of Paderewski.)"

CLOUDY

'Tis enough to give one the giggles to see the weather man miss twice in succession. It must make him kind of peeved like, but he ought to be used to it. There was nothing doing in the shower line last evening or today, although there were a few threatening clouds hanging around a good part of the time. The sage on the hill loses a little of his positiveness and comes across with a "probably showers" predition today.

Fair but chilly weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:59 and it will set at 7:12 this evening, giving fourteen hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The low pressure condition overlying Wyoming and Eastern Montana has caused showers over Southern Minnesota, the Upper Michigan peninsula, Eastern Nebraska, Western Iowa, Missouri, the lower Mississippi valley, Western Utah, Nevada, Northern California and Southern Idaho during the last twenty-four hours, besides warmer weather over Rocky Mountain, Central and Eastern states. Freezing weather has developed over Alberta and British Columbia in connection with higher pressures over that section. Unsettled weather will continue at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours with a good chance of showers in the meantime."

General Forecasts.

GOOD COMEDY AT THE LYCEUM

Miss Maude Leone Opens in "All of a Sudden Peggy."

As whimsical, impulsive and rebellious Peggy in "All of a Sudden Peggy," Miss Maude Leone, assisted by her associate players, opened a short engagement at the Lyceum theater last night before an audience which extended full sympathy and which was heartily amused with the events that were created to furnish fun.

The play was put on under the personal direction of Miss Leone. While the play was a little late in starting, the audience was well repaid for the delay, for the three acts of rapid fire comedy went with more than ordinary ginger.

"All of a Sudden Peggy" is a rollicking comedy. There is just a suspicion of heart interest—enough so that the play does not become a farce.

As Peggy, Miss Leone does some of her best work. Her Peggy is a smart, saucy, mischief making girl, who always does the unexpected. She is continually in trouble and the many complications are extremely funny to spectators. Miss Leone keeps things moving every minute during the short three acts and situation follows situation in such rapid succession that good and wholesome amusement is the result.

Because she didn't want to marry a man whom her mother had selected for her, Peggy decided that the best way out of it was to marry her mother to the man. There was nothing doing in this respect as long as Peggy remained at home, so she left a note, saying she had eloped with another man. The scheme worked well and it was but a few hours until the older people had decided to walk down the path of life together.

In the meantime Peggy was in all kinds of trouble. The man with whom she was supposed to have eloped, didn't know anything about it. He very nearly gave the whole matter away before he saw Peggy, but she finally got to the city in time to prevent it.

Mrs. Annie Adams plays Mrs. O'Mara, Peggy's mother. She gets all out of the part that is in it. Miss Helen Aubrey is very reserved, dignified and at times shocked as Lady Crackenthorpe. James Rennie is very acceptable as Jimmy Keppel, the man selected as one of the principals in the eloping scheme by Peggy, and whom she afterwards decided to marry.

The play will be repeated every night for the rest of the week with matinees this afternoon, Saturday and Sunday. The engagement closes Sunday evening.

Green Room Gossip.

Frank Calverly and Al Raymond, who are at the Orpheum this week, disguised as German comedians, and engaged in mutilating the King's English to the delight of vaudeville patrons, have a "side line." They not only maltreat the language "as she is spoke," but they also misuse it in print, and every Sunday the two vaudevillians turn out from one to two columns of German comedy for the New York American.

Here is the line of "dope" they turn out:

Raymond—"Would you say anything to your vife if you saw her in a harem skirt?"

Calverly—"If it was a muddy day, I'd tell her to turn them up at the bottom."

Raymond—"Do you believe in women's rights?"

Calverly—"Yes, und lefts, too."

The readers of the American devour the column every week, and Raymond and Calverly frankly admit they would do worse than that for money, if necessary. "I vill explode to you vy ve do it," said Mr. Raymond. "Ve need the money, ain't it Frank?"

"You haf explanationed the difficulty completely," said Mr. Calverly, as he affixed a German goatee to his chin. "I don't care any more for money than for my right eye."

"To be born fearless is to be born with a possession of inestimable value. But it can be pushed to the point where it becomes foolhardiness." This remark was made by the senior member of the Four Londons, the English acrobats who are the spotlight attraction at the Empress this week. "The man was never born who could honestly say he was absolutely without fear. Acrobats who daily take their lives into their hands—who are possessed of magnificent strength and nerves like iron, if pushed to the wall, will admit a fear about some small thing as foolish, well, as a mouse. However, there are individuals with so much daring that they deserve to be called fearless. The great acrobats belong to this class. And yet, frequently in their lives they are seized with a fear—a pulling back from their work. In such cases it is not wise for a performer to go on. To be sure, many will laugh and insist that it is merely nervousness. However, the accidents show that many tragedies might have been averted if the athlete had only harkened to that little warning, intuition, premonition or just plain 'hunch.'"

The morality man, which is now enjoying a refreshing revival on the dramatic stage, has found its way to the photo play houses and this week the Odeum is showing one of these uplifting dramas. "Tho' Your Sins be as Scarlet," is a morality play that has won instant attention and admiration from Odeum patrons, and it is one of the best films shown at the house in many weeks. "A Knight of the Road" is a dramatic film dealing with a tramp who cannot overcome the wanderlust. "Their Mother-in-law" furnishes the comedy and "That's When Life's One Grand Sweet Song," is the illustrated song.

"In Zululand," is an unusually entertaining film at the Lyric for the last half of the week. It is a Selig film dealing with the trip of a young Englishman into South Africa and the settings are unique and beautiful. "The Haven of Refuge is a beautiful dramatic film, and "Spriggins Took Lodgers," and "His Best Girl's Little Brother," are comedy films. I. S. Mistachkin sings "I'd Like to be Loved by a Boy Like You."

SUNNY MONDAY

For the Finer Fabrics

IF you ever tried to wash your fine laces and fabrics with ordinary yellow laundry soap, you know it's simply out of the question.

All yellow laundry soaps contain rosin, and rosin is injurious to finer fabrics.

Sunny Monday contains no rosin—that's why it is white. It also contains a wonderful dirt-starter which saves rubbing and spares your clothes.

Sunny Monday washes in hot, cold, lukewarm, hard or soft water.

It's really the only safe soap for finer fabrics.

MANY SETTLERS COMING THIS YEAR

Population of Iron Range Colonies Will Be Greatly Increased.

If the inquiries received by the Duluth & Iron Range land department can be taken as a criterion, the number of new settlers on the company's lands in this region will be greatly increased this summer.

Th Iron Range has established several colonies. The most flourishing is at Meadowlands, this county. The population of Meadowlands is more than 600, including 200 children. Eight years ago there were only fifteen people on the site of Meadowlands.

A vote will be taken by the citizens of Meadowlands next Saturday on the question of authorizing a bond issue for $9,000, with which to build a graded consolidated school of four rooms. The Iron Range has agreed to give a ten-acre tract as a site for the school and grounds. The state would be compelled to give $1,500 toward the project and annual assistance in the sum of $1,500 The school would also receive the funds raised by a tax levy of 5 cents an acre on all of the land in the township. This would include every acre, as the Iron Range voluntarily placed all of its St. Louis county land on the tax list of the county some time ago.

The proposed school would have an agricultural and manual training department and the girls would be taught domestic science. It is expected that the proposition to build the school will be overwhelmingly ratified.

OLD SOLDIERS' HOME IS CLEAN

Health Commissioner Hall Waxes Enthusiastic Over Accommodations.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 27.—Sanitary conditions at the Minneapolis Soldiers' Home are splendid, declares Dr. P. M. Hall, city health commissioner, who made a personal inspection of the institution following complaints made by the inmates to Senator Manley L. Fosseen, the city health department and other officials. Dr. Hall, accompanied by Chief Sanitary Inspector H. M. Brown of the health department, made a thorough examination of the buildings and will at once submit a detailed report to the board of trustees. The report will recommend no changes, Dr. Hall declaring that he is unable to suggest any.

"We went all over the premises," said Dr. Hall. "There are a lot of cottages, each with its bathroom and toilet facilities. There are three separate kitchens and three dining rooms. We visited the engine room and laundry and made a special inspection of the bakery in connection with one of the kitchens. Everywhere conditions were satisfactory. We were surprised to find everything in such excellent sanitary condition. And they were not cleaning, but clean.

"The ventilation is ample. Not only are there specially constructed airshafts in working order but an abundance of windows and each one provided with a Pullman ventilator where there is danger of a direct draft striking any of the old people. The odor peculiar to hospitals which is often found in institutions of this kind was entirely absent.

"We paid attention to the methods of waste and garbage disposal and found absolutely nothing that the management should be ashamed of."

Referring to charges that the inmates of the home are not supplied with clean towels, Dr. Hall said that he found individual towels in every room and others in abundance and failed to find a single soiled towel. Before visiting the home he expressed doubt of the satisfaction of any inspection announced in advance in the newspapers.

"The brass band and limelight accompaniments do not add to the success of a sanitary inspection," he said. After he returned from the home he declared he had seen no evidence of any effort to hide anything.

"We went from the attic to the basement of every building," he added, "stepped into every room, peeked into every closet, and are convinced that the institution is a model of sanitation."

Holds Weapon Muzzle First and Is Seriously Wounded.

Walhalla, N. D., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Poking a gun into a hole butt first, to push a fire of brush further into the hole, in the effort to smoke out a wolf, resulted in William Moran, aged 17, being seriously wounded near here. The weapon went off and the shot struck his right arm, almost stripping it of flesh. The arm may be saved.

GOLD BRICK MAN CAUGHT

Man Alleged to Have Swindled North Dakotan in Mill City.

Arrested on Another Charge in Los Angeles, Identity Becomes Known.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 27. — James Caddegan, charged with being one of two men who sold H. F. Chaffee of Amenia, N. D., a "gold brick" for $25,000 in this city Oct. 13, 1909, has been arrested by the Los Angeles police on advices from Chief of Police Michael Mealey.

He is being held for further advices and a Minneapolis detective will be sent for him.

E. W. Chaffee, son of the Amenia man, has positively identified Caddegan as "John Armstrong," alias John Moore, who sold his father two worthless brass discs at the Beaufort hotel, 122 Third street south.

The arrest came in consequence of another charge against the prisoner. He was arrested in Los Angeles March 30 charged with attempting to swindle Mrs. Ida H. Kendall of Toledo, Ohio, of $12,000 in a gold brick scheme. He was released on bail and the Los Angeles police sent information broadcast over the country. One such circular came to Chief Mealey, who suspected Caddegan's identity with Armstrong. Notice to H. F. Chaffee immediately followed. His son, E. W. Chaffee, huried to Los Angeles. Caddegan was apprehended again, and Young Chaffee declared unequivocally that he was the same man, the Los Angeles police say.

Swindler Got $25,000.

The gold brick swindle was a remarkably clever piece of criminality. Armstrong and a confederate, W. H. Harper, posing as an assayer, planned the trick with minute attention to detail.

Armstrong first appeared at Chaffee's home in Amenia, N. D., representing himself as a gold miner with property in Alaska. He said he was in search of an uncle, but the uncle's name had only one final "e." Using this means to introduce himself to the millionaire land owner and his family, he turned the conversation to two solid gold bricks which he claimed to have in his possession, but with not the slightest apparent intention to sell them. The Chaffees, father and son, became interested. They learned from Armstrong that he was in need of money and besought him to sell them the gold, which he represented to be worth $40,000. But Armstrong was loath to sell, apparently. Finally he consented to open negotiations, but proposed that all parties take a trip to Minneapolis, where the discs could be assayed and their value indisputably ascertained.

Test Looked All Right.

The two Chaffees and Armstrong arrived in Minneapolis Oct. 13, 1909, and went to the Beaufort hotel. There Armstrong introduced to them W. H. Harper, whom he represented to them as an assayer. Scrapings were taken from the discs, inclosed in an envelope and analyzed at a jeweler's. They were pronounced to be pure gold, but young Chaffees' belief is that the envelope was switched, one of true gold being substituted for one of brass.

The money, $25,000 in cash, was paid over.

The four had luncheon together and then the swindlers cleverly gave the Chaffees the slip. When this was discovered, a hasty examination of the discs was made by the younger Chaffee and their worthless character became soon apparent.

Quick search was made at the Beaufort hotel, but the swindlers could not be found.

Chaffee, Sr., offered a reward of $2,000 for the arrest and conviction of both men, or $1,000 for either of them.

MANY OLD LOGS ARE DESTROYED

Belonged to Backus-Brooks Company and Were Banked Near Northome.

Northome, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seven big rollways of old logs belonging to the Backus-Brooks Lumber company, which were banked on the south shore of Bartlett lake eight or nine years ago and left there until practically valueless, caught fire Sunday night in some unknown way and burned to the ground. The destruction of these logs proved "good riddance of bad rubbish" to the village as they were piled up right at the foot of Lake street and obstructed the best part of the lake shore.

While hurrying to the fire Cashier M. C. Engelking of the First State bank quite badly wrenched his left ankle which incapacited him for a few days.

The Wilcox Bros. Lumber company sawmill started up Monday morning for the season's sawing. The Wilcox company put in a fine bunch of logs during the winter.

Large shipments of the free seed furnished by the state were received here the latter part of last week and the first of this week and distributed among the applicants. Settlers say that the distribution of the seed will prove a God-send.

CANNING COMPANY OF GILLETTE, WIS., FAILS.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 27.—The Warren Canning company of Gillette, Wis., has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. The company says its liabilities amount to $42,750 and the assets to $33,155.

According to the petition, $18,090 of the liabilities are unsecured. Among the largest claims against the company is one for $17,000 of Mrs. D. E. Comstock of Green Bay, all on notes given by the company.

SAFE IS DUG UP; LONG IN GROUND

Eau Claire Workmen, Excavating for Building, Strike Rust-Eaten Strong Box.

Eau Claire, Wis, April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—While excavating for the Y. M. C. A. building on the site of the old Hart house, workmen unearthed a heavy iron safe buried some six or eight feet in the ground and near the C. W. Cheney company office. The safe was opened, but nothing was found therein. The composition of which the safe was made was quite soft from its long burial in the damp ground, while the iron portions were badly rusted, hence little trouble was experienced in opening the doors.

Old Timers Start Guessing.

Reminiscences of the early pioneer days were brought to mind with the unearthing of this safe, which must be over half a century old. Some of the old timers recalled that a large mercantile establishment once stood on the ground where the safe was found, also that a jewelry store stood there at one time, a fire wiping out that and other buildings some thirty or forty years ago. The only man who could tell anything about the safe was George Ritzinger. He says that fifty-two years ago he opened a meat market in a building which stood just where the safe was found, and that the safe was standing in the cellar of the store when he took up quarters there. How long it had been there before that time he did not know, but he says that it was pretty old at that time, hence it is safe to say that it is considerably over fifty years old.

RED LAKE RIVER MILLS ARE WAITING FOR LOGS.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ice in the Red Lake river has disappeared and the river is clear from the source at the great Red lakes to East Grand Forks, where it empties itself into the Red river. Not enough rain has yet fallen to raise any of the larger streams to what is designated as driving stage, and as a result the loggers are failing to get their supply of material to the mills. The local sawmill depends on this Red Lake river for its supply, and this season no logs have yet been boomed out of the Red lakes into the river.

Between this city and Crookston, on the Red Lake river, are some 30,000,000 feet of logs hung up on the rapids and shallows. These were run down last season, and on account of the low water incident to the dry summer, never arrived at their destination at Crookston and East Grand Forks. Several large crews of drivers are engaged now in moving them, but more copious rains must fall before they can be driven successfully. By May 15 it is expected that the Soo railway will be hauling logs from Bemidji to this city. This will keep the mill running for some weeks and will help tide the situation over until the lake drives arrive.

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Duluth Citizens Show the Certain Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Duluth citizen says:

Mrs. J. E. Kennell, 324 N. Twentieth Ave. W., Duluth, Minn., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have given entire satisfaction in our home. About a year ago a member of our family was so crippled with his back that he could hardly straighten. This person had much pain and lameness in the kidneys and there were other troubles in evidence which plainly showed what was wrong. Doan's Kidney Pills were publicly recommended and a supply was procured. This remedy brought relief and thus proved its merits."

Strong List of Candidates Out for Central High School Team.

Outlook Good for Strong Nine—Schedule Being Arranged.

The Central baseball candidates are getting their first tryouts this week and from the present outlook expect to develop into a very fast team.

About thirty candidates were out yesterday with several men for each position. The pitching department, which has been the cause of considerable worry, will be picked from Greenfield, Brown, MacLaren, M. Harris, and possibly Nolte. Mat Brown has been showing up especially well and with a little more control should be a fixture.

Kelly, Nolte and Spencer are all good catchers. Spencer will be used in the field and Nolte in the infield, with Kelly to do the receiving.

Nolte will probably play the first sack if Kelly catches. Le Duc and King are also showing form at first. Waldron, of last year's team, is not expected to be out this season. If he should come out he will make a good fight for the initial sack.

Wharton, M. Harris and Ward Brown are putting up a good fight for second. Wharton has the advantage of last year's experience and should land the job.

E. Harris, Boyle, and K. Harris are the short stop candidates.

Greenfield held down the third sack last year and will do so this season if he is not used in the box. Johnson, Brown and Currie are also trying for third.

Spencer, Jeronimus, Kerns, Wasgot, Paul, Stillman, Hillman and Young have been showing form in the field and it is difficult to pick from these candidates.

Coach Shilling was out with the team and expects to pick a fairly fast team from the above candidates.

Mr. Gibson and Lloyd Le Duc are arranging a schedule and already have promises of a very successful season. The management is considering the matter of awarding sweaters to the first team men at the end of the season.

AMERICANS UNABLE TO PLAY IN ENGLAND.

New York, April 27.—In answer to a cablegram received from the English Lawn Tennis association inviting the American team to play the preliminary matches for the international cup in England, during coronation week, the following message was cabled this afternoon by Dr. Dwight, president of the United States National Lawn Tennis association:

"Must decline. Hope to meet you in New Zealand."

The American association has found it impossible to organize a team which can go both to England and New Zealand this year, so in all probability the preliminary matches for the Davis cup, as well as the finals will be placed in Australia, where the cup is now held.

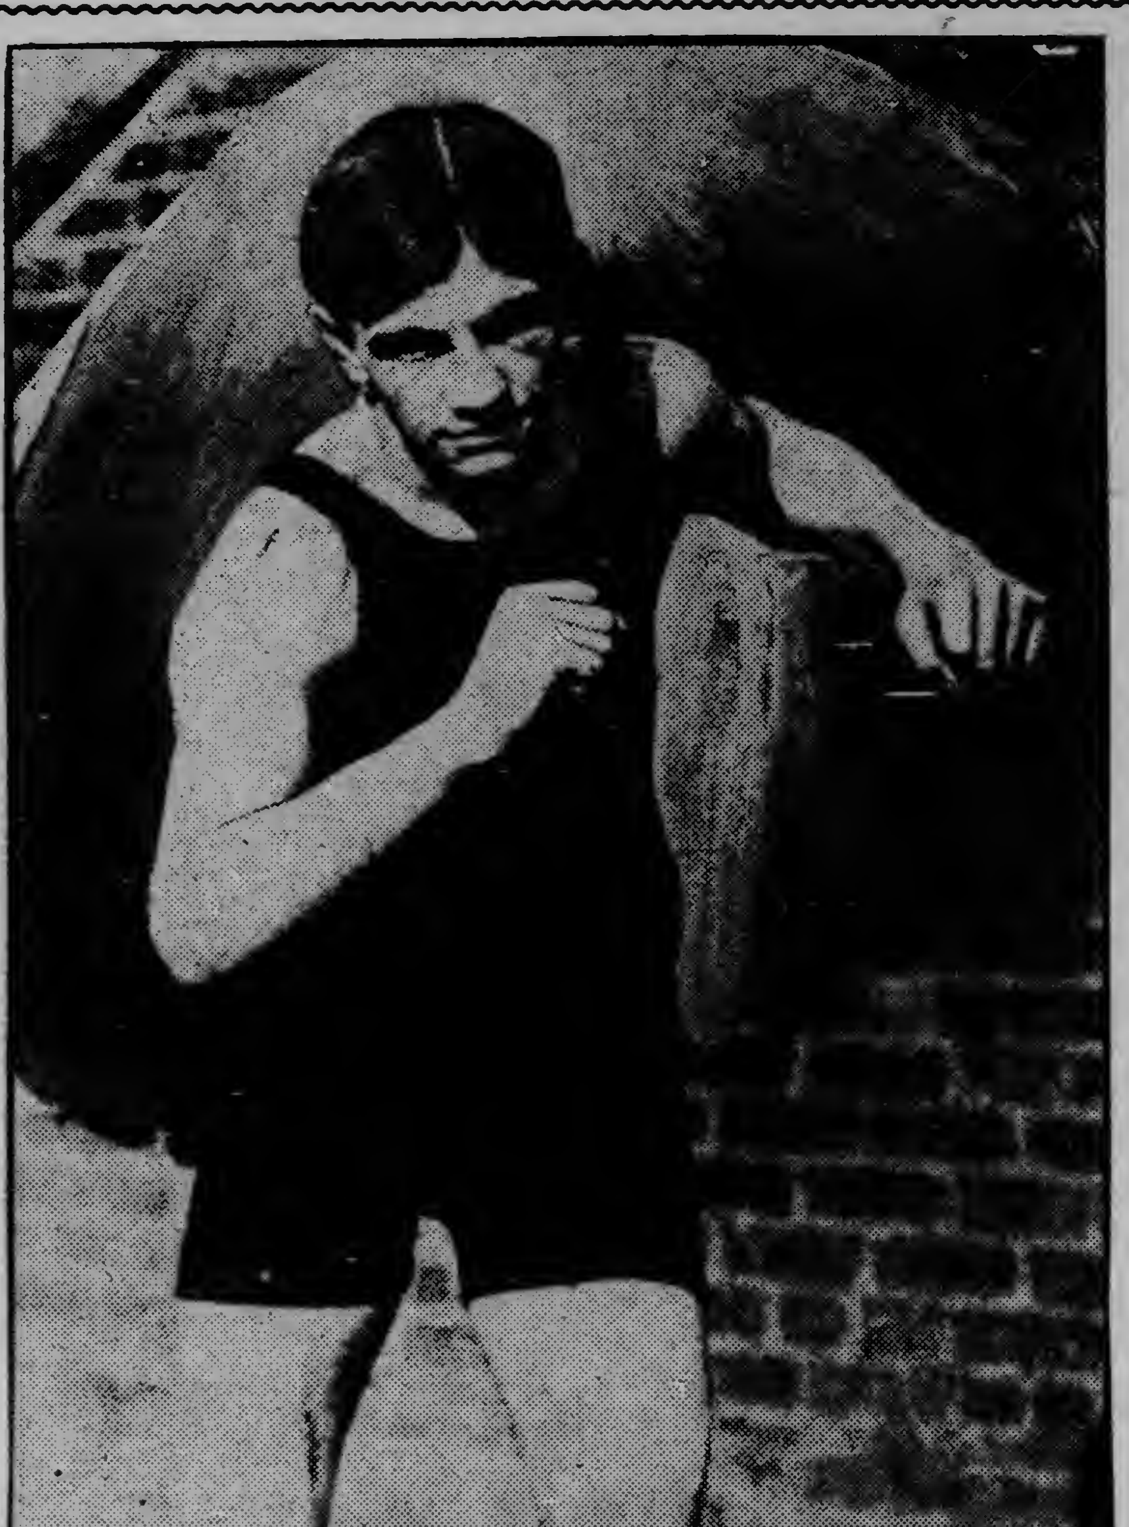
WOLGAST DISPOSES OF "ONE ROUND" HOGAN IN LESS THAN TWO ROUNDS



AD WOLGAST.

New York, April 27.—Ad Wolgast of Michigan stepped from the ring at the Madison Athletic club last night still lightweight champion of the world.

In the second round of what was to have been a ten-round bout, he caught "One Round" Hogan of California a terrific left swing to the jaw, followed by a heavy right to the wind and instantly had Hogan in distress. A moment more and the latter's seconds threw up the sponge.

Quick to see his advantage, when he had dazed Hogan, Wolgast followed him up relentlessly. He poured in a steady volley of right and left swings to either side of the jaw, rocking Hogan's head, beating down his guard, and driving him helplessly around the ring. Hogan stood swaying from side to side, his hands hanging limply against his thighs, while Wolgast pounded his bloody face and still Ad could not seem to land the decisive punch. But after a little more than a minute and a half of the second round, Hogan turned his back on the ring and faced his own corner and acknowledged defeat. He lifted his hand to his seconds and they signalled to the referee that they conceded the fight.

Hogan May Quit Ring.

Before entering the ring Hogan announced that if he should be beaten decisively he would never fight again. Before the second round it seemed as if he would prove worthy of his nickname. He found little difficulty in stabbing the champion with an effective straight left and, swinging to the jaw with a heavy right-hand sweep, had Wolgast for a moment rocking and dazed against the ropes. But Wolgast's wonderful powers of recuperation came to his rescue. He rallied, fought back again and at the bell was smiling. When the second round opened he was as fresh as ever.

Wolgast's fight was at close range. He was willing to take punishment for a chance to get at close quarters, where he could rip in short heavy punches to the wind and close uppercuts. At the ringside were James J Jeffries, former heavyweight champion of the world; Young Griffith, formerly lightweight champion of the world; "Knockout" Brown, Abe Attell, Owen Moran, Freddie Welch, Tommy Murphy, Packy McFarland and Leach Cross.

In the semi-final Joe Blum of Philadelphia won cleverly from Frankie Fleming of Canada.

Hogan Starts Well.

Round 1—Both men rushed into a clinch. Wolgast played for the chin with short uppercuts. Hogan stabbed the champion with four lefts. They exchanged punches and in the clinches Wolgast shot short uppercuts to the jaw. The champion was willing to take the straight left for a chance to get to close quarters. Hogan hammered Wolgast with hard rights and lefts. Wolgast seemed dazed. The house went wild, but Wolgast rallied and the bell found him smiling. Both men were bleeding from the mouth.

Round 2—They rushed into another clinch. Hogan took a heavy left hook to the jaw and was dazed. Wolgast followed his man vigorously, putting rights and lefts to the face. It was a slaughter. Wolgast bored in constantly, and with hard lefts and rights to the wind and jaw had Hogan so dazed that he could barely hold up his head. The California boxer reeled from one corner of the ring to the other, trying feebly to ward off Wolgast's vicious attacks. His knees wobbled under him, and as he staggered toward his corner he lifted his hand in mute appeal to Referee White. He could go no farther. Hogan's seconds then threw up the sponge and Referee White waved Wolgast back to his corner. The round lasted two minutes.

DETROIT TEAM LOOKS FASTER THAN THE 1910 AGGREGATION

Chicago, April 27.—Looks very much as if the Tigers would be in the hunt for that American league pennant this year. Mind you, this isn't saying they will win it. They may not even be the runners up in the race, for it's a long grind between now and the close of the season. Nor is it fair to judge them by one game. If it was, about every fan who saw them wallop the White Sox in the opening game of the year on the South side would agree that the race was settled and the Tigers had won.

But Jennings seems to have a stronger ball club than he had last year, and even then his men were in the hunt just as long as anybody else save the Athletics.

Jennings believes that he has strengthened his team where it needs strengthening the most—on the mound. He pitched a youngster named Ed Lafitte in the first game of the Chicago series, and if ever a man pitched beautiful ball this fellow did. He held the Sox to five hits. He broke into major league company before the largest crowd that he ever saw, and many believe there were at least 30,000 fans present. He was compelled to overcome a lead of two runs and was up against the man who bears the reputation of being the star of the Sox pitching staff. Now, those were some handicaps, yet the youngster overcame them.

If Lafitte is anywhere as near as good a pitcher as his first game indicates he will strengthen the staff a whole lot. But, of course he is not the only string to the bow of the red-haired leader. Jennings has an idea that George Mullin will be a much better pitcher this year than he was last. Mullin is between twenty-five and thirty-five pounds lighter than he was a year ago. You will notice it the moment he gets on the slab. If you were among the thousands present at the opening game you must have noticed the difference in the appearance of the big fellow. And Mullin has an idea that the loss of the weight did him no harm. He has pitched two games and won them, and this also would indicate that he suffered none when he dropped the weight.

Lively and Irvington are two other pitchers of whom Jennings expects great things. Then he has a southpaw named Mitchel that he believes will make good. These four young pitchers have Jennings so that he is unable to determine whom he will let go, and he may hang on to all.

Willett, who is no longer a recruit, also is showing better condition right now than the others. Jennings figures that these men will carry the team easily until hot weather, when "Wild Bill" Donovan will hit his stride.

Jennings also figures that Gainor, the recruit first baseman, will do the Tigers much good this summer. Gainor is being carried because of his ability to field the position. He is not looked upon as being a slugger in any sense of the word, and his manner of handling himself at the plate in the game between the Tigers and the Sox suggested as much.

One thing is certain, and that is that Jennings always has them displaying plenty of "pep." He has them hustling every moment of the game. But this year he apparently has them traveling faster than ever.

There is one condition on the club that will likely draw a lot of criticism upon the team and the manager if the Tigers should slump and fall from their high standing. Cobb and Crawford do not speak. That's all right as long as the team is winning, for then no one can find fault. But if the fellows from Detroit should ever hit the toboggan, can't you just hear the fans knocking?

Their remarks will run in a fashion something like this: "Well, what can you expect of a team when the men don't speak?" "How in the world do you expect to win ball games when your men are fighting?" "Whoever heard of a team winning pennants when there was internal dissension?"

So when you talk to Jennings you learn he figures he has a much stronger team than he had last year and therefore stands a better chance of grabbing the bunting.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Ad Wolgast Has Some of Qualities of Real Champion—Great Year, Says Force—Corbett Needs a New Act—Not the Same Old Rube.

(BY BRUCE.)

A LOT of us have been calling Ad Wolgast for not fighting. He has been lampooned and called the worst lightweight champion the ring has ever produced. But in the face of the recent showings made by the champion, it is rather certain that Owen Moran, leaving Packey McFarland out of the argument for the time being, is the only lightweight who will seriously endanger the chances of the crownbearer.

There are a lot of qualities that go to make a world's champion athlete. One of the first of these is gameness. Endurance treads close on the heels of the former quality. It would seem that Wolgast has them both. There are a lot of people who will tell you that Wolgast is not in the class of Gans and some of the great departed; and yet it must be admitted that the little Cadillac youth has toughness and gameness far above most of the boys of his class.

Another thing, he will beat "Knockout" Brown just as sure as the sun rises. Owen Moran is a fighter from his heels to his head. The battle between Wolgast and Moran will be one which will enlist the interest of fight fans throughout the country. In the case of the battle with Brown, the money of the wise followers of pugilism will go on the Western boy.

Hark back for a way down the path of past performances. It will be recalled that Nelson had Wolgast in a very bad way in that memorable encounter. Veteran ringsiders were saying to themselves that another tough and enduring youngster had succumbed to the wonderful iron constitution of the Battler. All of a sudden Wolgast began to get strong and the tide of battle turned.

Last night, if the press accounts are correct, the plumber from dear old San Francisco had Wolgast in a bad way for a minute. Here the wonderful powers of recuperation came to the fore and the champion went in and won. In the case of Hogan it was quite different, and in passing it might be remarked that powers of recuperation are often quite the distinguishing features between a champion and a man who is almost the distinguishing features between a champion and a man who is almost as good as the champion.

When Peter Maher fought Bob Fitzsimmons in New Orleans it was only a miracle that prevented Peter from taking old Bob's glory. In the very first round Maher rushed and swung a terrific punch to the jaw of the ruby one, and Maher was one of the greatest punchers in the ring. Fitz hung limp and helpless on the ropes, a beaten man, only for the ringing of the gong. Joe Choynski stuck a knife into the old fighter to bring him to. When the gong rang for the second round Fitzsimmons went out, never even wobbling, and cut Maher to pieces, making him quit.

Wolgast may not be one of the best champions we have had, but he is really a very tough and enduring boy, and he has at least some of the qualities that have distinguished champions of the past.

Hopeful Hitting Often Tells.

LET us hope that the little Sox continue their work with the bludgeon. Hitting is about the best thing you can ask of a ball player. He can err and boot the ball and act generally in the field like a man possessed with seven devils; but if he will step up to the plate and hit the ball right on the nose, his sins of omission and commission will be forgiven.

Of late the Sox have been hitting the pill. If we could have said the same of them last season there would have been many games turned to the home account. Hitting is what will win ball games. Any team that is heavy with the old bat is always dangerous. For that reason it is to be hoped that the hitting indulged in of late by the members of the O'Brien crew is a habit, not merely a whim of the time being. If those boys would come back home and pound the pill they will receive the very good thanks of the fans. Those weak stickers of last season got the goat of the fans; we will welcome with wide-open arms the boys with the willing willows.

One Great Year, Says Force.

IN A TALK with the writer Frank E. Force, president of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, expressed the opinion that the coming season would be the best ever enjoyed in the short history of the league. Mr. Force believes there is more interest in baseball at the present time than ever before in the history of the game, and also believes that conditions are ripe for a great season here in the Northwest.

"I have tried to get the very best umpires that could be found to officiate in the Minny," said President Force. "I realize that good umpires are a very essential part of the game, and also realize that good indicator holders in the Minnesota-Wisconsin will help the league. I believe that the staff that has been signed will be somewhat of an improvement upon some of the men who worked in the league during the past two years of its existence.

"I am going to try to get around the circuit as often as possible. I will be at Winona at the opening of the season and will also be in Duluth at the league opening there. I plan to make all of the towns of the league every so often, to keep in touch with conditions and to listen to suggestions that will help the league.

"There is no reason why we can't have fast baseball in the Minny, and at the same time observe the salary regulations. I want the co-operation of the club owners and the fans, and if we all work together there is no reason why we can't have the best baseball season that the eight towns of the circuit have ever enjoyed.

Corbett's Little Grouch.

RECENTLY in an article James J. Corbett, at one time champion heavyweight fighter of the world, and at the present time champion hot air merchant of the universe, came out in an article stating that Li'l Artha Johnson lacked cleverness.

It is a very well known fact that Corbett hates Johnson. Johnson made a fool of Corbett at Reno, and since then the white man has not been able to say anything good of the man who sent poor old Jeff tumbling down into oblivion. There is such a thing as fairness, and the absurd statements of Corbett have not only made sporting men realize that he is totally lacking in that quality commonly possessed by many sporting men, but have also made most followers of pugilism laugh.

Just how great a punch the gigantic black possesses, is not known. He carries a punch hard enough to beat all the men he cares to whip. He cut Jeff all up and then put him down, something that other fighters carrying wonderful wallops, were unable to do. There may be some doubt over the punch carried by Johnson, but for many years there has been no doubt over the fact that Artha was very clever with those wonderful hands of his.

Corbett is honestly becoming a joke. He hasn't picked a winner for years. His dope is about as original as a weather observation. He has also a weakness for bringing himself into the argument. As an unprejudiced observer upon ring conditions and the status of the men engaging in the sport of fistania, Corbett's opinion is about as valuable as that of a kid in public school.

Corbett writes because he loves dearly to see his name in print. Some of the things he has said about fighters are quite humorous, are uproariously funny, in fact, and would indicate that James carries an awful peeve around with him. One of the greatest boxers in the world, if not the very greatest, there are those who do hold to the opinion that Johnson is a cleverer fighter than Corbett, though the Californian would probably have been able to outpoint Johnson on scientific work alone.

He Isn't the Same Old Ruben.

SOME of the Twin City sport writers, at least some of them, are of the opinion that Rube Waddell has lost about everything but his eccentricities. To date the big fellow has done little and there are those who figure that the present season will be about the last for the once left-hander in any kind of a fast league.

When one thinks of what this fellow had once, and then thinks again of the opportunities he has wasted, one is reminded that the life of a baseball player is just about what he makes it. If Waddell had taken care of himself it is very probable that he would have been in the big leagues today. He may last through the present season in the American association, and again he may not. He has made the very worst of his wonderful abilities, and one feels sorry for a falling idol.

The action of William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., in notifying Harvey Granger, president of the Savannah Automobile club, to be in readiness, to go to New York to hear the award for the next grand prize race is considered paramount to a decision in favor of Savannah, where the race was held last year. Vanderbilt notified Granger that a decision was improper at this time, owing to the inability to get the committee together, but it is not believed that he would have warned Granger to be in readiness had it not virtually been settled that the Southern city will again act as host for the big automobile race.

WALSH PAYS TRIBUTE TO JOSS

Big Ed Declares Dead Twirler Was Greatest He Ever Faced.

Chicago, April 27.—"Addie Joss was the greatest pitcher I ever faced in a game," said Ed Walsh today.

Several members of the Sox and Tiger teams had a fanning bee and all had a story to tell of Joss. But the tribute from Walsh was probably as great as ever paid a ball player by a rival. Walsh, Walter Johnson of the Senators, and Addie Joss had ranked up as the leading three players of the American league.

Of all the players, however, Walsh remembers him best, because it was against the Chicago star that Joss pitched that famous no-hit no-run game three seasons ago. Moreover, Joss gave Walsh more hard battles than any twirler living.

Knew All the Batters.

"Joss' strength as a pitcher was not so much in his curves or his speed," said Walsh. "He had both of these, but so have many other pitchers. Joss' greatness lay in his knowledge of the batters. He was a student of the game in every particular. I have heard that he knew the peculiarities of every hitter in either league, and I certainly believe it.

"When we played the Naps and Joss was selected to twirl against me I always knew I had a battle on my hands. He seldom got in a tight place, and when his team put him there he was the coolest fellow I ever struck. He practically made the batter do just what he wanted. Joss came the closest to being the perfect pitcher of any in the game to my way of thinking.

"Although I always admired Addie as a ball player, he was even greater off the field. It was a pleasure to be around him and I don't mind telling, now, that I picked up a lot of points about baseball from him when I was younger in the game than I am now. He always was ready to give advice and help, even to the fellows of other teams.

How Addie Crossed Him.

"I've never told the neatest thing Addie ever put over on me. It was during a game five or six years ago—I don't remember the exact date—and we were pitching about even against each other. Along in the seventh or eighth inning Addie came up to bat with two out and a couple of men on bases. Joss never was a great batter and I certainly didn't expect any trouble from him.

"I put two straight strikes over on him and he didn't even offer to hit them. Then I believed I had him in a hole. I sent two wide of the plate and still he didn't move. As I wound up for the next one I noticed him get ready for an awful swipe. So I shot down a spitter as hard as I could fling it, and blessed if he didn't bunt it just a little beyond my reach. I was so taken off my guard that two men scored and Addie was on third before I recovered. I believe that bunt of his lost us the game, too. He always had something like that up his sleeve."

FORMER STREET RAILWAY EMPLOYES TO HAVE BANQUET.

It is expected that the meeting tonight will result in more future gatherings of the same nature.

Showers and Cooler Weather for Southwest and Northwest.

Wheat Declines—Bulge Here Is Lost—Linseed Is Listless.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 27.—Wheat declined today under pressure. Crop prospects are excellent; seeding in the Northwest is being completed under favorable conditions. Heavier receipts are expected after field work has been finished. Showers and cooler weather, favorable for wheat, is predicted. May wheat and July wheat each declined ⅜c to 97⅛c and 97⅞c respectively. Oats lost ⅛c; rye and barley were unchanged. Cash wheat was 1c over May. Durum lost ⅜c.

Linseed was quiet. May sold at $2.57. There was no trading in July and September. May and July lost ½c. September was unchanged. May closed at $2.57 asked and July at $2.57 nominal. September closed at $2.05 nominal. Cash seed was 1c over May.

The dullness in today's trading was reflected by the state of the cash market. There were no cash sales of any description reported for the first time in several years.

The wheat market advanced from a weak opening but the strength here was local and the market lost ground when support disappeared. The leading long got under Chicago May and Duluth and Chicago advanced while Minneapolis declined steadily. Chicago May became overbrought and slumped and the Duluth deliveries trailed along.

The strength here was due to a combination of causes. The supply of spring wheat is considered comparatively small in relation to the probable Eastern demand. Elevator interests think the Canadian reciprocity pact will not be ratified by the senate until after a long delay, if at all. They believe the East will need practically all of the first-class spring wheat available here. They are holding onto their wheat in the hope of obtaining attractive premiums.

The cash demand showed little improvement. The report of Price Current confirmed the favorable condition of the growing wheat. Weather and crop reports from France, Germany and Argentina were favorable. Rains have fallen in the three countries.

Linseed.

The first purchase of the next crop of linseed was made yesterday in this market when 1,000 bu changed hands at $2.05. The first bid was made several days ago at $2 a bu. The quotations for September linseed are interesting because they reflect to some extent the attitude of crushers toward the situation in its relation to the future.

Some of the bids on September linseed have been purely speculative and have indicated a desire on the part of some traders to put out feelers to guage the attitude of the crushing interests toward the market. Thus far their efforts have been unsuccessful because the crushers have not made up their minds as to the future aspect of the market—outlined in their several hypothesis.

There is very little likelihood of anything but scattered purchasing until seeding commences. The area seeded will influence to a large extent the attitude of crushers, and the nature of the conditions under which the seed goes into the ground will have an important bearing, also, on the trend of values in the next four or five weeks.

With bids of $2.05 for September seed in this market, foreigners have been offering American new crop seed in London this week at $2.03 to $2.05 a bu. The respective quotations here and abroad indicate the extent of the knowledge of American conditions prevailing abroad. The prices also reflect the difference in opinion here and abroad and indicate that the American markets are much stronger than foreign speculators choose to believe. No sales have been abroad at the prices quoted, probably because European buyers are occupied with the Indian crop, and are carefully watching an opportunity to grab a part of the tail end of the Argentine crop. The American situation to them is still in the future. American exporters have made no effort to sell new crop seed to foreigners.

The sudden shipments of seed from this market, aggregating about 5,000 bu daily in the last two days, have been caused by the demand for seed in the Northwest. The outgoing shipments have gone to Minneapolis, where the seed is cleaned and prepared for sale to Northwestern farmers in need of it. The Albert Dickinson company is the leader in this campaign, the crushers having in a large measure delegated to this company the distribution of seed for seeding purposes.

It is too early to tell definitely concerning the linseed acreage in the Northwest. Reports indicate that the acreage may be heavier in Minnesota than is generally expected. How accurate these messages are will be determined when seeding is underway. The farmers in Southern Minnesota and Northern Iowa had good crops last year and they were satisfied with prices which were unusually high. They are disposed to enlarge their acreages this year. The acreage in North Dakota may show a decrease of startling proportions and the acreage in South Dakota will not display much of an increase. Montana, of course, will increase its acreage.

Linseed in Oregon.

The state of Oregon last year produced less than 50,000 bu of linseed. All of this was consumed by mills on the coast. In addition seed was shipped from North Dakota. The American Linseed company, for instance, bought 100,000 bu of seed in North Dakota last year for its Portland grinders. Linseed can be grown in Oregon under exceedingly favorable conditions. Drouth is almost unknown and the soil is peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of linseed. To such a degree is this true that the qualities of both seed and fiber are higher than those of seed and fiber grown in the three leading Northwestern states. Climatic and soil conditions in Oregon produce the best linseed fiber in the world. India, Russia, Argentina and the leading states in this country do not produce fiber that can be placed in the same class as the Oregon fiber.

Officials of the Union Pacific and the Oregon Short Line are endeavoring to increase the production of linseed in Oregon this year. To this end experiments are being made at the mill of the Western Linen company in this city with fiber from plants grown in Oregon. If the experiments are as successful as indications point to, an effort will be made to establish manufacturing plants in Oregon to convert fiber into linseed yarn from which rugs, towels and other articles can be made. The increase in the Oregon acreage will have no bearing, of course, on the linseed situation in this country, but the experiments in relation to that state may later have some effect on the production of linseed in the extreme Northwest. The chief difficulty in the path of the Oregon campaign is the large profit obtained by fruit growers who are not disposed to consider other crops.

Reports from Canada indicate that the linseed acreage will be increased this year in at least the same ratio as last year, or between 80 and 90 per cent. It is, of course, impossible to tell definitely what the linseed area will be. The Canadian crop last year was estimated at 3,802,000 bu. In the previous year it was placed at 2,213,000 bu. The figures of the provincial government vary from the reports of the individual provinces. The total linseed production of the three provinces last year was, according to the respective governments: Manitoba, 410,000 bu, compared with 254,000 bu in 1909; Saskatchewan, 3,044,000 bu, and 4,448,000 bu in 1909; Alberta, 64,000 bu, and 82,000 bu in 1909. The three provinces' total estimate was 3,519,000 bu. This estimate is much higher than is generally accepted by the linseed trade. The provincial government at Ottawa made the linseed crop even higher, placing it at 3,802,000 bu from an acreage of 477,000. The estimated wheat acreage this year is given as a criterion of what increase may be expected in the linseed acreage. The first estimate sent from Winnipeg today on the spring wheat acreage placed it at 11,000,000 bu compared with 8,588,000 bu in 1910, the estimate of the Canadian government.

Russian Prospects.

The Russian official linseed estimate was 20,000,000 bu. The writer estimated the crop of European Russia at 21,000,000 bu and is inclined to believe that it was larger as shipments from Russia indicate either a larger crop than official estimates, or reserves were rushed to market. As there were no large reserves it is assumed that the govenment's figures are incorrect. However, the old crop is a thing of the past and interest in the Russian situation is now confined to the probable acreage of the new crop.

Reports to the writer from Russia indicate that the linseed acreage will be the greatest in the history of the country. Seeding has commenced in the Northern Caucasian region tributary to the Caspian sea. A cable received this week said that seeding of linseed in this district has been delayed on account of unfavorable weather and that climatic conditions have not been favorable. The soil was in poor condition but the weather has turned warmer and the temperatures are now seasonable. The seed did not go into the ground under favorable conditions. The acreage in this district is not large. Indications point to the acreage in Northern Caucasia at about 60,000.

Seeding In Progress.

In the bottoms near the Vistuea river in the extreme part of Western Russia, seeding is under way. Climatic conditions have been fairly favorable and peasants are increasing the acreage. Reports indcate that at least 95,000 acres will be seeded. Completer reports may show an acreage of 100,000, comparing favorably with last year's which was about 90,000.

In the province of Grodno, near the Vistula river the linseed acreage will be slightly increased to unchanged. Last year this province produced about 500 pounds of seed to the deciatine, or 2.7 acres. The normal yield is about 700 pounds. On account of the reduced yield it is possible that the linseed acreage this year may not be increased. The province is small and its linseed production is unimportant. Seeding is in progress.

It is likely that the total acreage for linseed in European Russia will go well over 3,500,000. The increase will not be as large as might be expected. American farming implements are gaining ground rapidly in Russia but their use is not as widespread as might be desired. The cultivation of the soil in states where there are large areas of unbroken ground available for seeding purposes is held back because of a lack of machinery, soil being broken by crude methods.

In the provinces of Kovno, Livonia, Pskof, Vitebsk, Smolensk, Tver, Vladimir and Novgogrod, extending in a belt east and west from the lower end of the Baltic sea to the center of European Russia, seeding has not started. Reports indicate that in these provinces the linseed area will not be largely increased, if at all. Seeding has not been started in the province of Vologda and will not be for several weeks. In this province there is an immense area of unbroken soil available for seeding purposes. The increase in this state and in the provinces of Perm and Viatka, adjoining Vologda on the Southwest, will determine chiefly the total increase of the linseed acreage in European Russia. It is too early to tell concerning the acreages that will be sown in these provinces.

The yield of the province of Vologda last year was about 15 per cent greater than in 1909. The yield was between 650 and 700 pounds of seed to every 2.7 acres, only slightly under normal. In the new territory the yields ran as high as 800 and 900 pounds. The favorable returns and high prices last year have stimulated peasants to prepare to break a large area of new soil, it is reported. Breaking of the soil is reported from scattered counties. Seeding will not be general for some time.

It is difficult to obtain news of linseed prospects in Asiatic Russia. In Transcaucasia seeding is in progress but not under favorable circumstances. The acreage is small and may not run over 50,000. This figure, however, is at least 18,000 or 20,000 acres larger than last year's area. In Central Asia and Siberia seeding will not be started for some time.

The acreage in Siberia is expected to be at least 150,000. A Russian correspondent estimates the acreage at 175,000 although it will be some time before definite estimates can be given. Central Asia is expected to put 275,000 acres under linseed compared with only 150,000 or 160,000 in 1908. In Uralsk, in the country drained by the Ural river, seeding is being started. Reports from this territory, said a Russian correspondent, are meager. In the last year this territory did not produce more than a few thousand bushels. Developments are unimportant in that district.

MARKET GOSSIP

Van Dusen-Harrington say: Wheat seeding in South Dakota and Southern Minnesota is completed and oats and barley seeding are 75 per cent finished. Wheat seeding in Northern Minnesota and North Dakota is still under way and will be entirely completed either this week or early next. Oats and barley seeding in this territory is just beginning. We have reports from various places that the early sown wheat is up and looks very good.

There will be an increase in the acreage devoted to bread wheat, variously estimated at from 5 to 25 per cents; probably 10 per cent would be a reasonable estimate of the increase for the three states. The bread wheat area will be increased at the expense of durum wheat and flax. There is no question but what there will be a heavy decrease in the flax area, due largely to the inability of the farmers to secure flaxseed.

There will be a decrease in the acreage sown to oats this year, farmers preferring to sow barley instead. The barley acreage will be about the same as last year for the three states. While it is true that the barley acreage in South Dakota and Minnesota will show an increase, the decrease in area in North Dakota sown to barley will offset any increase in the first two states.

Fergus Falls writes: "Regarding the condition around here will state that the ground is in very good shape and the wheat is going into the ground every day as fast as the farmers can put it in. They have been seeding wheat for the last week and a large percentage of it is in the ground now. I should say that the greatest share of the wheat would be sown by the last of the coming week. The other small grains, of course, will be a little bit later, as they are never put in as early as wheat. So far as condition of the ground is concerned, and so far as weather is concerned, the prospects are good."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Better Weather Conditions Abroad Pulls Down Wheat Prices.

Chicago, April 27.—Better weather conditions prevailing in France, Germany and the Argentine pulled down the price of wheat today. In the two European countries, beneficial rains had fallen where dryness had been retarding growth. Moreover, a high authority was quoted as declaring the domestic outlook favorable to a degree seldom equalled at this time of the year. Uncertainty connected with the May option, however, tended to make the market somewhat irregular. Opening prices were the same as last night to ⅜c below. July started at 87¼@87⅛c, unchanged to ⅛c off, declined to 87¼@87¼c, and rallied to 87½c.

Bearish reports from the Canadian Northwest occasioned further weakness. The close was steady with July ½@⅝c net lower at 86⅞@87c.

Resting orders formed a support for corn. Offerings were light. July opened a shade lower to a shade higher at 52⅝@52¾c, touched 52½@52⅝c and recovered to 52¾c.

The fact that the East was buying very little caused a subsequent decline. The close was weak at 52@52⅛c for July, a net loss of ⅝c.

Oats though more active than usual, were swayed by corn. July started a sixteenth to ⅛@¼c down at 31⅝@30¾c and rallied to 31⅞@32c.

Provisions had an easy tone on account of the heavy amount of packing for the week. First sales were the same as last night to 7½c off with July $15.10 for pork, $8.25 for lard, and $8.17½@8.20 for ribs.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Open Strong and Active But Close Dull and Depressed.

Prices Sag Steadily in Final Hour and Gains Lost.

New York, April 27.—General Electric advanced 1½ points, Canadian Pacific 1, and Western Maryland ¾ at the opening of the market today. There were few changes of importance aside from these. The market showed a firm tone with a good demand for the Northwestern railroads.

The market took on considerable degree of strength, the brisk inquiry for the active features and several other issues that have recently loomed into prominence imparting a cheerful tone to the speculation. The Canadian stocks were bought heavily, Canadian Pacific rising to 227⅝, its record price. Reports regarding favorable business conditions stimulated buying of several industrials, especially the electric shares. Reading reached 153 on a continuation of the recent large demand for the stock, and there was a substantial fractional gain also established in Union Pacific and United States Steel. The improvement of prices on the stock exchange this week was continued during the morning trading today. The tone was firm and the accumulation of stocks of the last few days was continued. Bonds also were in good demand, sales during the first hour of trading amounting to more than $1,000,000.

The buying apparently was based in large part upon the improvement which is expected as a result of the excellent crop prospects. Among the strongest stocks in the list are those of grain-carrying railroads, whose earnings are affected largely by the crop. The rise brought out the usual rumors affecting individual stocks, principally General Electric, in which valuable rights are expected. Talk of the short interests being harrassed in certain specialties was also instrumental in encouraging general buying. Bonds were firm.

Buying of the railroad stocks was checked and the list sold off a trifle on the publication of the unfavorable March earnings of the Harriman lines.

The market closed heavy. Prices sagged pretty steadily in the closing hour, with Union Pacific, Reading, United States Steel, Northern Pacific and Amalgamated Copper bearing the bulk of the pressure. These as well as many other issues sold fractionally below yesterday's closing, and the market's dullness and depression were in decided contrast to the early activity and strength.

Cotton Market.

New York, April 27.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 7 points to an advance of 1 point, generally 2 to 7 points lower, under overnight realizing orders and in sympathy with rather disappointing cables. Weather reports indicated that the worst of the gulf storm had not worked as far eastward as expected, but rains or showers were more or less general, with heavy precipitation in parts of the central belt, and during the early trading prices sold up to about the closing figures of last night on the old crop, and to a net advance of 5@6 points on new crop positions which were influenced by continued heavy covering and fresh buying based on the reports of further delays in planting, and claims that trade interests were buying as a hedge against early new crop requirements.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points lower; middling uplands, 15.25; middling gulf, 15.50. No sales. Futures closed near steady, distant easy; closing bids: April, 14.97; May, 15.03; June, 15.12; July, 15.19; August, 14.81; September, 13.68; October, 13.15; November, 13.06; December, 13.05; January, 13.02; March, 13.14.

Reapportionment in House.

Washington, April 27.—Before adjournment today the house of representatives expects to pass the reapportionment bill increasing its membership from 391 to 433. Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee had planned to take the measure up yesterday, but it was supplanted by the free list bill, though with the understanding that it would be taken up today. Efforts to get quick and favorable action are due to the fact that many state legislatures are nearing adjournment.

No state, under the bill, loses in representation, the reapportionment merely fixing at approximately 212,000 the number of constituents entitled to one representative.

IS LONGEST ON RECORD

For the May term of the district court there will be the longest list of cases since the county moved its offices from the old courthouse to the new, more than a year ago.

The calendar is being made up today and it contains 233 cases. Eighty-six of these cases were continued from the April term.

There are thirty-two divorce cases to be tried. A few of them are continued cases from April, but most of them are new.

The May term will open next Wednesday morning with the call of the calendar by Judge Ensign, who will be presiding judge. He will hear a majority of the divorce cases, the criminal actions and he will assign the other judges their work throughout the term.

The grand jury will go into session Wednesday after taking instructions from Judge Ensign. They will have nearly fifty cases for consideration.

The petit jury will report for duty the following Monday. The term will by that time be fairly under way.

"HOUSING" IS DISCUSSED

"Housing" was the subject discussed yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the social survey committee of the Duluth Associated Charities held at Memorial hall in the courthouse.

Dr. Webster, city health officer, attended the meeting and gave a very interesting talk, telling of the condition in Duluth and what it should be.

The committee recommended to the executive committee that the matter of a lodging house ordinance be taken up at once. A communication on this subject was written and sent to the city council today.

There was also a meeting of the executive committee held yesterday afternoon at Miss Poirier's office on the third floor of the courthouse.

This committee decided to sign the transportation agreement. This agreement provides that each case be thoroughly investigated before the vagrant or tramp or any one else down on his luck be shipped on to another point. The agreement provides that the subject will not be sent to another town simply to get rid of him locally, unless it is found that he has a reasonable chance of success somewhere else. Up to this time the cities have been ordering people out of town simply to get rid of them. This, it is thought, is a bad practice and many societies in other cities have signed the transportation agreement.

W. R. Peyton and W. A. McGonagle were elected directors. The board of directors is composed of fifteen members. The board is now complete for the first time since the organization of the Associated Charities.

The committee decided to join the National Conference of Charities and Corrections and to send, if possible, delegates to the national meeting which takes place at Boston, Mass., in June of the present year.

SIGHT OF A HOSE ENOUGH

After backing into a corner with a heavy chair as a weapon of defense, Joseph McDonald, a woodsman of Brimson, Minn., suspected of being crazy, yesterday held a quartet of jailers at bay for an hour and a half and refused to be taken to the probate court where a board of physicians was waiting to examine him.

He was finally captured, however, and taken to the courtroom where his examination resulted in his gaining his freedom.

McDonald was the toughest prisoner ever confined at the county jail, think the jailers. He yelled at the top of his voice when taken into the building. All the wooden chairs he could get his hands on, he broke. He spat at everybody within sight, and when his food, which consisted of soup, tea and vegetables, was given him, he threw the whole platter in the face of the attendant. He refused to be quiet, and called everybody who approached all the names in his vocabulary, say the jailers.

When it came time to take him to probate court, he refused to be taken. A tub of water had been provided to bathe a prisoner who had just been brought in, and as it was dark in the corridor, he fell in it. He jumped out, backed into a corner, grabbed a heavy chair and dared any four men to get him.

As the law forbids the use of a billy on any one suspected of being crazy, the jailors did not know what to do. They got a hose ready, and it had been no sooner turned on than he was ready to give up.

McDonald is 47 years old, and but little is known about him except that he follows the woods.

He first attracted attention at Brimson a few days ago, when he attempted to tear down the railroad station and a camp belonging to the Oliver Iron Mining company because they were not artistic and made him nervous.

HE WANTED A DIVORCE, TOO

John Kwiatkowski testified in police court yesterday afternoon, when he was arraigned on a charge of non-support, that his brother had secured a divorce from his wife, and that he thought it such a good scheme that he wanted one, too.

In accordance with that scheme, he said that he sent $150, which he had saved up, to his brother for safe keeping so that his wife couldn't get it. After he had planted his money he didn't deny that he had run away and had refused to support her and their child.

The court thought the scheme was a poor one, and showed it by handing the erring husband three months in the county jail after finding him guilty of the charge preferred against him by his wife.

COPPERS LOWER; BEARS ACTIVE

The copper market opened steady and after a slight tendency to advance the bears jumped on the leading issues and hammered them downward. The pressure was especially insistent on Amalgamated which opened at $63, advanced to $63.25, declined to $62.37½ and rallied to $62.50. The red metal market was said to be improving and a large foreign demand was believed to be on the verge of coming into the market. The effect was lost.

BRUSH FIRES ENDANGER SERPENT LAKE HOMES.

Brainerd, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grass and brush fire on the north end of Serpent lake, near Deerwood, last night endangered the summer residences of Duluth and Superior people.

A report that the $5,000 residence of Mrs. R. B. Dear of Superior was burned proves to be unfounded, advices from Deerwood stating that the fire was checked and the structure saved.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, who were appointed and designated to hear and consider the matter of the petition of Arthur H. Crassweller et al., for the vacation of a portion of the alley in block 20, London addition, respectfully report that pursuant to notice published by the city clerk your committee did meet in the city clerk's office in the city hall in the city of Duluth, on Monday, April 17, at 3:30 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of hearing and consideration of said petition, and that no one appeared who was opposed to said vacation.

The Duluth & Iron Range Railway company right-of-way runs diagonally across block 20, London addition, leaving the part of the alley sought to be vacated about 130 feet in length. AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND AN ORDINANCE ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE GRANTING TO THE DULUTH, WINNIPEG & PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, ITS SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS, A RIGHT-OF-WAY OVER, ALONG AND ACROSS AND UNDER CERTAIN STREETS, AVENUES, ALLEYS AND PUBLIC GROUND IN THE CITY OF DULUTH, WITH THE RIGHT, PRIVILEGE AND AUTHORITY TO CONSTRUCT, LAY DOWN AND MAINTAIN RAILROAD TRACKS AND FACILITIES OVER, ALONG AND ACROSS THE SAME, AND IMPOSING CERTAIN OBLIGATIONS UPON SAID COMPANY," PASSED FEBRUARY 7, 1910, AND APPROVED BY THE MAYOR FEBRUARY 11, 1910.

The Common Council of the City of Duluth do ordain as follows:

Section A. That Section 1 of an ordinance entitled "An ordinance granting to the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad company, its successors and assigns, a right-of-way over, along and across and under certain streets, avenues, alleys and public ground in the city of Duluth, with the right, privilege and authority to construct, lay down and maintain railroad tracks and facilities over, along and across the same, and imposing certain obligations upon said company," as heretofore amended, be amended by adding at the end thereof the following paragraph:

"Provided further, That instead of building upon the lines hereinbefore designated between Fifty-sixth avenue west and the line of the Duluth Transfer railway (now owned by the Northern Pacific Railway company) on the bay front, said railroad may be built, maintained and operated across blocks 151, 152, 155 and 154, West Duluth, Fifth division; block 2, Grand Avenue division of West Duluth; block 2, West Duluth, First division; blocks 168, 169, 171, 172, 178, 179 and 183, West Duluth, Seventh division; blocks 58, 59, 60, 61, 50, 25, 17, 11, 39, 26, 18 and 12, Oneota, and to the line of the said Duluth Transfer Railway company (now owned by the Northern Pacific Railway company), and the streets, avenues and alleys on and adjacent to said blocks along the line shown in red on the plat filed with the city clerk of the city of Duluth on the 27th day of March, 1911; that the actual construction of said lines upon said routes named in this section shall be deemed and construed as an abandonment of the other routes hereinbefore named between said points so far as they are different from the lines hereinbefore designated.

"No posts or obstructions of any kind shall be placed between the curbs in Fifty-fifth avenue west and Grand avenue, or in Fifty-ninth avenue west."

Wherever any of the avenues, streets or other highways crossed by said railway company are depressed below the grade thereof, by reason of any of the tracks of said railway crossing the same, said railway company shall remove any accumulations of ice and snow therefrom which may be necessary, in the opinion of the common council, in order to make such street, avenue or other highway convenient for ordinary travel.

Sec. B. Provided further, That instead of building upon the line hereinbefore designated between the southerly line of Bristol street and the westerly line of Sixty-second avenue west, said railroad may be built, maintained and operated across blocks 6, 7 and 8, Stowell's addition to West Duluth; blocks 7 and 8, Macfarlane's Grassy Point addition to Duluth; blocks 30, 27, 26 and 23, Dodge's addition to Duluth, and the streets, avenues and alleys between on the line shown in red on the plat filed with the city clerk of the city of Duluth on the 27th day of March, 1911, and the construction of said line upon said route shall be deemed an abandonment of the other routes between said points hereinbefore designated in so far as it is different therefrom.

Sec. C. Provided further, That said railroad company may build, operate and maintain a line across Polk street just easterly of Fiftieth avenue west to connect between the two lines of the Duluth Transfer railway (now owned by the Northern Pacific Railway company) on the line shown on the plat filed with the city clerk March 27, 1911.

This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

CONFESSION TO BE FEATURE OF ALLEGED DYNAMITERS' TRIAL

Story of Ortie McManigal Basis of the Prosecution.

Case Is Rapidly Assuming Aspects of Famous Moyer-Haywood Trial.

Deputy Sheriff Tells of Conversation With McManigal on Train.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 28.—When the curtain arose on the third day's scenes and incidents connected with the imprisonment and impending trial of the alleged dynamiters, John J. McNamara, James B. McNamara and Ortie McManigal, the true outlines of the great criminal case began to assume definite form.

The all prominent feature is the confession which McManigal is reported to have made, first to Detective W. J. Burns in Chicago, and then in more complete form to District Attorney Fredericks here yesterday.

What are claimed to be extracts from this latest confession have been published, but from all official sources the word has been given out that none of these is authorized or authentic.

District Attorney Fredericks has even refused to admit definitely that he holds a confession of McManigal.

The case is assuming more and more the aspects of the case of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone at Boise City. Even the "Harry Orchard" feature promises to be repeated almost in duplicate.

No official court action is likely to

STATE'S RELATION TO CHILD WELFARE

Mothers' Congress Talks About Good Roads and Other Things.

Washington, April 28.—The National Congress of Mothers and Parent Teachers' associations considered the relation of the state to child welfare today. Discussion of the welfare of the country child was informal. The attention paid by the states to its roads so as to make every country school accessible at all seasons, uniformity of standards of education in public schools throughout the state and consequent educational advantages, for the country child equal to those of the city child, heating and cleaning of the school building, cooperation of state departments of agriculture with the schools in promoting a knowledge of scientic horticulture, and agriculture, and the use of the buildings outside of school for educational and social purposes, were phases of the subject considered.

A conference of state delegates discussed the state's duty to the fatherless child, widowed mothers, the erring child, the orphan child, and the defective child.

PROBING INTO EXPENDITURES

Committee Chairmen Are Obtaining Figures on the Departments.

Washington, April 28.—The expenditure committees of the house, in carrying out the policy approved by Speaker Clark, have already got down to business.

Although none of the ten committees has held a formal meeting since their organization, the several chairmen have summoned a number of witnesses with a view to "getting a line on" the way things are being run in the departments. They have mapped out the methods they will use in conducting investigations and these are being kept secret.

Representative Cline, chairman of the committee on expenditures on public buildings, said today that he had arranged to hold a conference with the supervising architect of the treasury department in a day or two to obtain information relative to federal buildings selected in various parts of the country and those that will be constructed in the near future and for which appropriations have been made.

Representative Moss, chairman of the committee on expenditures in the agricultural deparment, had a talk with the chief forester and the chief of the weather service regarding expenditures. The meeting of this committee will be secret, he says, and although Mr. Moss is reticent in talking of the work ahead of his committee, he says that he expects to be able to find where many thousands of dollars appropriated by the government are expended indiscriminately and extravagantly by the department.

Representative Cox, chairman of the committee on expenditures in the treasury department, has a number of plans laid out which will enable him to make a comprehensive investigation of the treasury department.

He says he expects to unearth some starting facts regarding the useless expenditure of money in all branches of the department. He has held several consultations with the chiefs of the department, and he says he has already obtained much information that will be of great value.

CHINA HAS A REVOLUTION

Serious Outbreak Occurs in and About City of Canton.

Thousands of Residents of the Locality Are Fleeing to Hongkong.

Hongkong, China, April 28.—Only official messages are being received today from Canton, where a revolutionary outbreak occurred last night. These are of a disquieting character. The revolutionists have obtained a quantity of explosives and the government has asked the steamship companies plying to that city to suspend their service lest arms be smuggled in to the disturbers who are still at large. Many of the leaders have been imprisoned.

The fighting between the troops and the rioters last night began when the soldiers arrested a revolutionary leader and his followers who, carrying revolvers and wearing badges, boldly proclaimed their purpose, surrounded the viceroy's palace and set it afire, and after starting this fire interfered with the efforts of others to extinguish the flames.

The revolutionaries were armed with rifles and bombs and fought desper-

ASKED BROTHER TO KILL HER HUSBAND

New Allegation Made in the Famous Glover Case at Cambridge.

Cambridge, Mass., April 28.—An attempt by Mrs. Lillian M. Glover, widow of the murdered Waltham laundry owner, Clarence F. Glover, to induce her brother, Toby Le Blanc, to kill her husband, was one of the allegations made by Hattie Le Blanc, in a deposition taken at St. John, N. B., last week. The statement was read today as part of the deposition in the supreme court here, where a jury is hearing the evidence in the contest of Clarence Glover's will. The Le Blanc girl was acquitted of Glover's murder last December after a sensational trial. The will left all of the property to Lillian M. Glover, the widow, and Seymour Glover, the fifth brother of the testator.

In the deposition the Le Blanc girl told of her life as a housemaid in the Glover home. She said that she was on friendly terms with both Clarence Glover and his wife. The couple, she said, quarreled frequently, when Mrs. Glover would call her husband vile names and he would reply in language of a similar character. She had never, she said, seen any evidences of fondness exhibited by either of them. Once, she testified, Glover and his wife did not speak to each other for three weeks.

The girl said that she had heard Mrs. Glover make threats against her husband before a third party.

"Did you ever overhear any conversation between Mrs. Glover and any other person?" was one of the questions, and in answer the deponent said that in August, 1909, three months before Glover's death, she heard a conversation between Mrs. Glover and Toby Le Blanc, a brother of Mrs. Glover. Mrs. Glover, she said, asked Toby if he would kill Glover if she would pay him for it. Toby said that he would not and that if she wanted any killing done she would have to do it herself.

St. Paul Murderer Convicted.

St. Paul, Minn., April 28.—Joseph Sauro, charged with having slain his wife Dec. 6, 1910, was found guilty of murder in the second degree by a district court. The verdict carries with it life imprisonment.

DEPUTIES NOW ATTACK DIAZ OPENLY

Say That the Aged President of Mexico Is a Dictator.

Such Language Used at One Time Would Cause Imprisonment.

Shows Remarkable Change Wrought By Present Revolution.

Mexico City, April 28.—Nothing shows the remarkable change wrought by the revolution so much as the chaarcter of the debates on the anti-election bill in congress. Never during the whole Diaz regime have deputies dared heretofore openly to criticise the president, but now they are bold to the extreme.

Deputy Bulnes, representing Lower California, said in debate that no such thing as Latin-American democracy exists.

All, including Mexico, are shams, pretenses, whited sepulchres, tinkling cymbals. There are four phases in the evolution of nations, said Senor Bulnes. In the first stage nations suffer in silence; in the second, suffer, but shout; in the third, suffer and revolt, and in the fourth attain stable government. Mexico, he said, is now in the third stage.

Refers to a Roman Dictator.

Bulnes taunted all the members of the chamber with having been Porfiristas until the success of the Madero revolt unshackled them. Now their airs of independence are amusing, as one and all owe their seats to Diaz.

He warned them that the only dictator in history who resigned was Sulla. When Sulla later was insulted by a young Roman, he said: "This young idiot is doing his best to prevent

INSURGENTS SQUELCHED

Senate Standing Committees Are Elected Without Expected Fight.

Senator La Follette Contents Himself With Reading Formal Protest.

Washington, April 28.—The senate formally organized for business today by adopting the list of appointments to committees drawn up by the majority of both parties. The expected fight against the adoption of the lists threatened by the progressive Republicans, did not develop, Senator La Follette contenting himself with reading a formal protest against the selections made by the regular Republicans.

Getting Ready for Work.

Washington, April 28.—The senate today was setting its house in order and its completion of that task means readiness to proceed to business. Confirmation of appointments to the various committees, held up by opposition of the progressive Republicans, clears the situation and permits of a gearing up of the senate's legislative machinery.

The progressive Republicans last night abandoned hope of winning their fight to have Senator La Follette placed on the interstate commerce committee and Senator Bristow on finance. The Democrats declined to be drawn into factional dissension, recognizing the right of the Republican majority to make its own selections. Therefore the defeated insur-

REMOVED FROM FLOOR OF SENATE

Secretary of Railway Conductors Ejected By Order of Lieut. Governor.

Considerable Feeling in Upper House of Illinois Legislature.

Senator Manny Claims Secretary Ford Has Injured His Character.

Springfield, Ill., April 28.—J. L. Ford of Clinton, secretary of the Order of Railway Conductors, was removed from the senate chamber by the sergeant-at-arms by order of Lieut. Governor John G. Ogelsby today.

Ford's ejectment followed a sensational passage at arms between Senator Walter I. Manny of Mount Sterling and Senator James A. Henson of Decatur.

Senator Manny declared that Ford had sent a large number of untrue letters into Manny's district stating that Senator Manny was opposing employers' liability legislation.

"Never by any word or act during this session have I opposed such legislation," said Senator Manny, "and my fellow members know that such is the absolute truth.

"Now, this man has flooded my district with letters full of premeditated falsehoods against me. I ask the members to refuse this man, who so treated me that he has cast a slur upon the body of the senate, to refuse him the privileges of this floor."

Senator Henson opposed the removal of Ford in a bitter speech, during which he declared that Ford's ejection would be an open insult to organized labor.

The removal of Ford followed when the presiding officer referred to the

INVESTIGATING THE CRIME WAVE

Deputy Police Commissioner Flynn Called Before Grand Jury.

New York, April 28.—Investigation of the "crime wave" alleged to be due to police inefficiency, reached an important stage today with the expected appearance before the grand jury of Second Deputy Police Commissioner Flynn. Flynn resigned his office recently, his resignation to take effect May 1. It is believed that he will be asked to verify for the grand jury a statement he had been quoted as making, that he got out because men he knew to be "crooks" had been retained "in the department and in authority."

TILDEN ARRESTED BUT SOON FREED BY HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

ith Benedict and Cummings Gains Freedom in Half an Hour.

Apprehended on Charge of Contempt of the Illinois State Senate.

Refused to Obey Subpoenas Calling for Appearance With Books.

Chicago, April 28.—Judge Petit in the superior court today granted a writ of habeas corpus for Edward Tilden, George M. Benedict and W. C. Cummings within a half hour after they had been arrested by E. H. Hatfield, assistant sergeant-at-arms of the Illinois state senate.

Hatfield bore warrants charging contempt of the Illinois senate for the refusal of the three to obey subpoenas duces tecum calling for their appearance with their books and accounts of the Drovers' Deposit National bank and the Drovers' Trust & Savings bank relating to the accounts of Edward Tilden. Mr. Tilden was mentioned in the testimony of Clarence Funk of the International Harvester company as the man to whom he was invited to send a subscription for the alleged purpose of aiding in election of United States Senator William Lorimer.

Hatfield made no attempt to arrest the three last night upon his arrival here, and they surrendered themselves early today, accompanied by their counsel, Nathaniel C. Sears. They repaired at once to the courtroom, where the writ was issued, returnable forthwith.

Among other things the subpoenas were attacked on these grounds: That they were not supported by an oath or affirmation; that they did not describe particularly the books showing the receipts and disbursements of money during May, June, July, August and September; that the Helm committee has no power to investigate the conduct of any member of the present-general assembly and that the subpoenas were not signed by the president of the senate.

Monday next was set for the hearing and the defendants' bonds were fixed at $5,000 each, which were supplied.

DOUBLE TAXATION NOT PERMITTED

Two Changes Made in Wisconsin's New Income Tax Bill.

Madison, Wis., April 28.—The results of the labors of the special joint committee income tax were disclosed yesterday in the adoption by the legislature of a resolution to print extra copies of a proposed substitute for the pending bill. Two significant changes are presented in the proposed substitute over the provisions of the original bill. One is for the taxation of corporation incomes on a basis separate from that of personal incomes, and the other is the virtual abolition of the personal property tax.

Another important point is that the committee has framed the new bill so as to prevent double taxation. The rate of taxation for personal incomes is left the same as the original bill, but the taxation of corporation incomes is different. The first provision provides:

"If the taxable income of a corporation equals 1 per cent or less of the assessed valuation of the property used or employed on the acquisition of such income, the rate of tax shall be one-half of 1 per cent of such income." The rate then increases one-half of 1 per cent by the same method of computation until it reaches 15 per cent.

The provision affecting the personal property tax is that any person who has paid his income tax for a certain annual period may present his receipt therefor in full payment also of any personal property tax that may be assessed against him for the same period.

The exemptions on personal incomes are left the same as in the original bill, $600 for single persons.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 28.—Arbor Day is being celebrated throughout the state by the planting of trees today by school children and grownups. The exercises in Indianapolis this morning consisted of programs by the 30,000 school children. The afternoon programs were arranged by the Commercial club and will consist of the planting of more than 50,000 trees in the parks of the city.

EARTHQUAKE RECORDED.

Short Vibrations Not Believed to Be Far Distant.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 28.—The seismograph at St. Ignatius college observatory recorded an earthquake early today. The main shock occurred at 4:07 a. m., and the tracings on the record sheet, showing short vibrations, lead Father Odenbach, the observer, to believe that the center of the disturbance was not far distant.

DISCUSSING ARBITRATION

Distinguished Britons Considering Question With Reference to United States.

Asquith, Balfour and Others Speak of Treaty Proposed By Taft.

London, April 28.—What Premier Asquith described as "this venerable guild hall," without whose seal of approval no popular movement in London is really launched, witnessed today a meeting of the adoption of resolutions pledging the city to the support of Anglo-American complete arbitration.

The lord mayor of London in his scarlet robes and with the mace in front of him, held the center of a temporary stage. On his right was the prime minister, at his left Former Premier Balfour, leader of the opposition in the house of commons, while massed about the mayor were the archbishop of Canterbury, the archbishop of Westminster, Lord Loreburn, the lord high chancellor; Lord Strathconna, high commissioner of Canada; Sir Joseph G. Ward, premier of New Zealand, and other notables. Over their heads the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes were entwined.

Mr. Asquith and Mr. Balfour spoke eloquently of the treaty first proposed by President Taft, declaring that it would mark a new era in civilization, but both pointedly disclaimed that a peace pact between Great Britain and the United States providing for the submission of all differences to arbitration would mean an alliance between the two countries.

Mr. Balfour warned his hearers, than whom he said none in the world felt more the burden of preparing for war, that the treaty would not mean the immediate reduction of armaments.

The meeting represented the democracy of England rather than the aristocracy. Among those on the platform were the bishop of Hereford, the earl

LODGERS TAKEN OUT IN BLANKETS

One Woman Suffocated, Others Overcome By Smoke in Memphis Fire.

Memphis, Tenn., April 28.—One woman was suffocated, half a dozen other persons were overcome by smoke and several were injured in a fire that wrecked the lower floor of the Waldran block, a four-story building occupied on the three upper floors by the Palmer hotel, a lodging house, early today.

The fire originated in the basement, among a pile of mattresses. The building was quickly enveloped in dense smoke and the usual means of exit in the upper floors cut off. Those first awakened went down the stairway, but a number of the lodgers escaped over the roofs of adjoining buildings. Others were lowered in blankets or were carried down ladders. There were many lodgers in the building.

The body of Mrs. Hughes, an aged woman, who occupied a room to the rear on the third floor, was found lying across a bed after the fire had been extinguished. She was partially clothed and evidently tarried too long in an endeavor to gather her belongings.

The property loss will not exceed $25,000.

NEW QUARTERS IN COMMERCIAL CLUB

The smaller room obtained by the division of the room formerly occupied by the Duluth stock exchange in the Commercial club building will be fitted up for offices for G. Roy Hall, secretary of the traffic commission, and A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture of the Commercial club.

The office of the traffic commission is now on the fifth floor of the Manhattan building and the move to the new office will bring the secretary into closer touch with the club. Mr. Hostetter has had desk room in the main business office of the club, which is now rather crowded.

Mr. Hall and Mr. Hostetter, on account of accessibility and more convenient quarters, expect to be able to do better work in their new offices and to be able to serve the public with greater success. They will both be approachable for advice or information at any time. Mr. Hostetter also expects to work up a display of St. Louis county agricultural products for his new office.

PRINTERS TO CELEBRATE

Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of Organization of Union Will Be Observed.

Typesetters Had First Labor Organization in Duluth.

The members of the Duluth Typographical union, No. 136, will meet Sunday at the Maccabee hall for the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization.

The celebration will be in the nature of a smoker, and a general good time. State Labor Commissioner Houk will be present as will W. E. McEwen. Both men will give talks. There will be a number of other speakers and many of the older members of the Duluth union will be here from points near and far.

A great many of the charter members are scattered all over the country. Invitations have been sent to all the old members whose addresses are known.

First in Field.

Since the time when the trades' union movement in the city of Duluth was just beginning to become recognized as a strong factor in getting the laboring man his rights, the printers have boasted that they were the first to be organized in this city, and their claim has rarely been disputed by other unions. The union has been intact for twenty-five years, and has lived through several strikes successfully.

Before the regular organization of the union the printers of the city had a club, known as the Franklin club. This was more of a social affair than anything else, but this was the beginning of Duluth Typographical union, No. 136.

Typographical union, No. 136, of Duluth, was first organized on April 11, 1886, at a meeting in the old Duluth Daily Tribune office. Charles B. King, assistant state deputy, called the meeting to order, and it was unanimously decided by those present to apply to the international union for a charter. A second meeting was held a week later, and ten names to be placed on the charter were drawn from a list of the names of all those present, which had been placed in a box. The following were the charter members A. E. Townsend, Ransom Metcalfe, Morris Messenger, R. L. West, Robert Biggins, Charles Archer, C. B. King, G. A. Seipel, Peter Simonds and J. P. Barkdoll.

C. B. King, First President.

At this meeting members of the union elected permanent officers, C. B. King, who is now chief clerk of the Duluth land office, being chosen the first president of the organization. The other officers were as follows: Vice president, J .H. Logie; recording secretary, Ransom Metcalfe; financial secretary, J. P. Barkdoll; treasurer, G. A. Seipel; sergeant-at-arms, R. P. Coburn; board of trustees, Charles Burnett. Morris Messenger and A. E. Townsend.

When the union was first formed there was a total membership of twenty-one, including two apprentices. The following is a list of all the members of the original organization: A. E. Townsend, Ransom Metcalfe, Morris Messenger, R. L. West, Robert Biggings, Charles Archer, C. B. King, G. A. Seipel, Peter Simonds, J. P. Barkdoll, J. H. Logie, Charles Burnett, R. P. Coburn, D. G. Francis, "Shorty" Gamble, C. W. Carlson, Henry Dworschak, Frank Schultz and Fred Watts. The two apprentices were J. P. Thompson and J. J. Gaskell.

Of the original members only five are at present in this city—Peter Simonds, Charles Carlson, Henry Dworschak, C. B. King and Fred Watts—the latter two having left the newspaper business many years ago.

Although the printers are generally a quiet and peaceable body, they have gone through several strikes since the union was founded in Duluth. There have been long struggles, but in all cases they have come through with flying colors.

R. P. Coburn had the honor of being the first delegate to an International Typographical convention, which was held at Buffalo in 1887. Since that time Duluth Typographical union No. 136 has been represented at the following conventions: Kansas City, in 1888, when G. A. Seipel was the delegate; Denver, 1998, Ransom Metcalfe; Atlanta, 1890, W. D. Dean; Chicago, 1893, J. W. Jackson; Colorado Springs, 1896, W. D. Dean; Syracuse, 1898, Henry Dworschak; Cincinnati, 1902, Charles W. Carlson; Washington, 1903, C. E. Brown; St. Louis, 1904, John A. Barron; Toronto, 1905, Harry Witchall; Colorado Springs, 1906, Augustine Murphy; Hot Springs, 1907, H. N. Wilson; Boston, 1908, E. T. Hughes; St. Joseph, 1909, G. A. Bergstrom; Minneapolis, 1910, J. M. Murray.

Cigarmakers Lost Race.

At the time the printers were first taking steps to organize in 1886, the cigarmakers were also becoming active, and it was a race to see which union would be the first to get a charter from the international organization. The printers succeeded in doing this and the cigarmakers were organized shortly afterwards. The typographical union has always been affiliated with the Trades assembly and its members have always been more or less prominent in that body.

The long drawn out struggle of the I. T. U. for the eight-hour day throughout the country, which was started Jan. 1, 1906, was a remarkable one. For years the move had been contemplated by the I. T. U., but the date of the inauguration was not set till the meeting of the Toronto convention, 1905. The members of the United Typothetae of America were notified of the coming struggle and were given a chance to adjust their business to the new conditions. A large sum of money had been raised by the I. T. U. and was on hand at the opening of the strike, and besides this an assessment of 10 per cent was levied Jan. 1, 1906. Few of the union printers in Duluth have been out of work at any time in Duluth.

The spirit which the printers have shown in the fight was greatly admired by all members of other trades, and the Typographical union has been held up as an example of the kind of labor union which wins.

The local union, some years ago, purchased a plot of ground in Forest Hill cemertery, where members of the trade, who should die in this city, having no relatives or any means, are buried.

One of the charter members of the union, who has reached an age which incapacitates him from work, is at present receiving a pension from the union.

The following are the officers of the union at the present time: President, J. A. Barron; vice president, Edwin Anderson; secretary-treasurer, E. T. Hughes; recording secretary, N. H. Wilson; sergeant-at-arms, Peter Simonds.

P. E. Dowling Says Eveleth Star Will Soon Be Re-Established.

P. E. Dowling, owner and former editor of the Eveleth Star, will rebuild the plant, which was recently destroyed by fire and will re-establish the paper within the time allowed for the retention of its legal status. Mr. Dowling, who now lives in Duluth, has continued to direct the affairs of the range paper since he moved here and will continue to be its moving spirit. The suspension which was made necessary by the fire will continue only long enough to allow the rebuilding of the plant and the delivery of new machinery, says Mr. Dowling.

RETURNS FROM SPRINGFIELD

Wirt H. Cook Characterizes Hines' Statements and Denials as "Rot."

After giving the most sensational testimony in the Lorimer investigation which is going on at Springfield, Ill., Wirt H. Cook of Duluth returned home this morning.

Mr. Cook has beeen at Springfield for several days. His testimony was given following that of William Burgess, also of Duluth.

When seen today Mr. Cook stated that he had nothing further to say in regard to the case or his trip to Springfield or the evidence which he gave. He stated that he had no desire to start a newspaper argument with Mr. Hines. He did, however, label Mr. Hines' statements and contradictions as "rot" and stated that no one believes him.

THINK COST OF NEW SEWER IS EXCESSIVE.

A large number of property owners attended the first hearing of the board of public works this morning on the final assessment of the Polk and Sherburne street sewer. The first assessment was over $17,000 and the second is about $1,000. Some of the property owners do not think that this is just or that the assessment will hold if brought to the courts.

The extra cost was due to additional work ordered by the city engineer. The board took the matter under consideration and will hold the final hearing later. No definite action will be taken until that time, and it is possible that at the conclusion of the final hearing the board will reserve its decision.

EXPERIMENTS IN ALFALFA

J. Uno Sebenius is preparing to make thorough experiments in the growing of alfalfa this year. He has set out several plats in the product and will attempt to demonstrate that it can be grown successfully under climate and soil conditions existing in St. Louis county.

Mr. Sebenius has experimented with alfalfa to some extent in former years, but has never been able to make a complete success of it. This year he has determined to follow to the letter the instructions issued by the state agricultural school and the result of his experiments will be awaited with interest by others interested in the subject.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"All of A Sudden Peggy."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.
ODEUM and LYRIC—Photoplay.

Green Room Gossip.

No play that has been produced by the stock players of the Lyceum theater this season has made so favorable an impression upon the women of Duluth as the Duke of York theater success "All of A Sudden Peggy," which is being presented this week by Miss Maude Leone and her associate players.

The play is one particularly and peculiarly appealing to women, and the advance sales indicate that the matinee tomorrow will be given to a very large audience of women. Miss Leone as Peggy O'Mara, impulsive, lovable and as undecided as the gusts of wind of early March, is doing the best work since her big hit in "Salomy Jane."

A modern comedy that appeals to humor, sympathy and love, "All of a Sudden Peggy," is proving one of the best plays put on by the stock players.

Bonita, a former Broadway star, who is at the Orpheum this week, was yesterday telling some friends how she happened to enter vaudeville. She is appearing in a musical sketch called "The Real Girl" by Leonard Frank Adams, a Boston newspaper man.

"It was during my starring tour last season" said Bonita, "that Mr. Adams asked me for an interview, and during the course of our conversation he asked me why I had not followed the example of a good many of our leading stars on the dramatic and operatic stage, by 'going into vaudeville.'

"I asked Mr. Adams in return, why he did not follow the example of so many of our former newspaper men and write a sketch for me. Mr. Adams said he would write one, if I would read it, and I readily consented to do so, giving the matter very little thought after that. A few months later while in my apartment on Riverside Drive, New York city, my maid presented me with a card; shortly after Mr. Adams appeared, and presented me with 'The Real Girl' sketch, which I read then and there. It was less than two weeks after that that I made my vaudeville debut at Hammerstein's theater, New York city, and in the sketch, I am assisted by Lew Hearn, leading comedian in 'Wine, Woman and Song.'"

One of the acts on the bill at the Empress theater this week and it is admittedly, a very clever act, carries the title on the program of Al White's Four Dancing Bugs. Those that have seen the act know that it means two very clever, tall, thin chaps, with slender legs, which they can make do all sorts of things, and with them appear two dainty girls who suffer no comparison in the dancing line with their two associates. The two young men are Messrs. Kirby and Conley, but the two girls are sisters, and more than that they are twins—the Lawrence sisters. This act's appearance on the vaudeville stage is due to the musical comedy stage indirectly. The four were appearing in a musical comedy in Philadelphia, and Al White, who has several acts in vaudeville chanced to be back on the stage in conference with the stage manager. While waiting their cues, he saw the four who compose the present act dancing to the tune of the selection being played by the orchestra, and the fact that they danced and danced and then danced every chance they got caused him to make inquiries in a careful way. To his query to the stage manager as to who they were, he received the reply: "Four bugs on dancing." White was enough of a showman to appreciate their efforts and this is the way in which they got their chance to break into vaudeville, and also received their name from the same remark.

A special Saturday matinee will be given at the Odeum and Lyric theaters tomorrow. A morality photoplay at the Odeum, entitled "Though Your Sins Be As Scarlet" is causing much comment among patrons this week. It is one of the best films shown at this theater in many weeks, and Manager Furniss has issued a special invitation to any critics of moving picture houses to attend the theater this week and see the film, which teaches a strong moral lesson.

MAY 14 WILL BE MOTHERS' DAY

May 14 will be observed throughout the state as "Mothers' day." The special attention of persons away from home, particularly the younger pople, is called to Mother's day. It is intended to recall the fact that they have a home, or had one, where they spent the best and happiest days of their life under the maternal eye and guidance of a mother.

Every man or woman away from home is urged to send his or her mother some token of love and affection if she is still alive, and those at home to bring her some such token or show her some special kindness to let her know that she is appreciated. On the dining cars of one of the great railroad systems the day will be observed by the distribution of carnations free of charge.

NIGHT LETTER IS THEME OF SONG.

Western Union messenger "kids" who are ambitious are whistling or humming "Send Me a Night Letter, Dearie," the words of which deal with the night letter system recently inaugurated by the company. The words are set to popular music, and in the cover design of the song is printed a fac-simile of a telegram blank in which are written the words of the chorus. It is dated at "Loveland, Iowa, via Honey Creek," and is addressed to "Dearie," while the signature is "Anxious." The words of the chorus are as follows:

"Send me a night letter, Dearie, one that is long and sweet,
Send through the Great Western Union;
'twill come by a messenger fleet;
And with the check send an 'X' dear, to show that your friendship is true.
Send me a night letter, Dearie, and I'll send a letter to you."

SEVENTY-FIVE WITNESSES

Have Been Subpoenaed for the Trial of John Dietz.

Hyward, Wis., April 28.—Sam J. Williams, district attorney of Sawyer county, who has been out of the city part of the time in Milwaukee on the Dietz case, says he has subpoenaed seventy-five witnesses and wants another attorney to assist him. The county board is in session today and will authorize the appointing of an assistant district attorney. Williams says there is an immense amount of work for the attorneys between now and the time of opening the trial.

WILL SPORT LONG FEATHER.

Governor of Minnesota to Impersonate Lord Mayor of London.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 28.—Riding on a black horse, dressed in a medieval costume with a flat Henry VIII hat and a long feather, Governor A. O. Eberhart will be one of the figures in the May fete to be given by the students of the university. The governor, who was asked to impersonate the lord mayor of London, has formally accepted the invitation of the fete's executive board.

Mrs. George Edgar Vincent, wife of the university president, will ride with Governor Eberhart. She will impersonate the Elizabethan queen. Both will ride black horses and will have the place of honor in the pageant.

Dr. Vincent, being temporarily unattached, and having escaped the responsibility of being anybody in particular in the fete tableaux, will escort Mrs. Eberhart, who is to be one of the ladies of honor.

MAYOR URGES ECONOMY.

Ashland's Executive Makes Appointments Before New Council.

Ashland, Wis., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Economy in all branches of the city government was the burden of the inaugural address of Mayor Dodd to the city council at the first meeting of the new body Wednesday night. He commended both the police and fire commission but criticized the street commission, claiming he did not like the manner the slag from the blast furnaces was handled. All of the mayor's appointments were promptly confirmed as follows, excepting W. C. Morris as clerk: City attorney, W. S. Cate; comptroller, M. E. Dillion; sanitary officer, Charles Maloney; city engineer, Jerord Day; health commissioner, Dr. Jackson; assessor, A. Pearce Tomkins; jailer, William Kelley; street commissioner, John Sandstrom.

Jerord Day, the city engineer, was objected to on the ground that he was already county surveyor, but he stated that if he was appointed he would resign his office with the county and devote his entire time to the city. It was on this statement that he was appointed.

NORTH DAKOTA KNIGHTS TEMPLAR ELECT OFFICERS.

Fargo, N. D., April 28.—Dickinson was selected as the place for the next annual meeting of the Knights Templar. The new officers are: William Springges, Grand Forks, grand commander; S. J. Hill, Fargo, deputy grand commander; Andrew Ekern, Grand Forks, grand generalissimo; John W. Carroll, Lisbon, grand captain general; George Pike, New Rockford, grand senior warden, ex-governor Frank White, Valley City, grand junior warden.

NEW ULM SUICIDE.

New Ulm, Minn., April 28.—With a bullet wound back of the right ear, Frank Jaworski, aged 61 and single, was found dead by the police late Wednesday night in a room occupied by him. The body was lying across a bed and was in a state of decomposition, which indicated that life had been extinct for several days. An old-fashioned revolver lying on the bed beside the corpse told the story of suicide. No theory has been advanced for the act, as Jaworski owned real estate valued at about $2,500 and notes aggregating $1,100 were found in his room. He leaves an only sister, Mrs. Maria Lowaski, also of this city.

ALLEGED LAND FRAUDS.

Five Indictments Returned By Federal Grand Jury at Mankato.

Mankato, Minn., April 28.—The federal grand jury which has just completed its investigation here of cases presented, has returned five indictments against M. G. Thayer, Samuel D. O'Neil of Sherburn and Felix L. Perrizer of Delevan for the alleged use of the United States mails in promoting fraudulent land schemes in Minnesota and North Dakota. In addition, a separate indictment was returned against the three men for a conspiracy to defraud through the United States mails by collecting fees on lands which were never placed on sale. All the cases were continued to the October term.

Reject Little Falls Bids.

Little Falls, Minn., April 28.—At the meeting of the city council Wednesday night the bids for paving Broadway bridge with creosote blocks were all rejected. The bidders were J. W. Butler & Bros., St. Paul, who bid $8,284; General Contracting company, $8,428; and Thomas E. Woolley, La Crosse, Wis., $7,594.

Still Fifty Dresses Left—Still Thirty Coats Left

From the tremendous selling of Thursday and Friday. The values are the most remarkable ever brought to Duluth at the height of a season.

Distinctive Hats

are the only kind featured at this store. Every hat has a character, an individuality of its own, not to be found in any other store hereabouts. Our organization of Milliners, Trimmers, Makers and Saleswomen, we believe, is not excelled by that of the largest and most exclusive shop in the country.

Our hats are the talk of the town. Many a woman who has bought one hat already this season, has come back for a second hat and told all her friends about the unusual hats to be found here.

Don't get the impression that because these hats are refined and unusual, that they are necessarily high priced, because a pretty little tailored style can be had as low as $7.50, and the most exacting taste can be satisfied up to as high as $125.00 if she chooses.

Just now we are featuring beautiful dress hats, in the large, alluring shapes so much in vogue this season. Some are trimmed with graceful French plumes and bands, others with aigrettes, ghourra and other exclusive adornments.

Our salespeople will be glad to spend a little time with you in exploiting these new styles, whether you care to buy or not.

is our own special brand, designed for particular women and giving the same results in form molding that the most expensive French models can give. They are built for wear, as well as figure making, and are the best for the money that careful planning could procure. The LaHelene will be specially fitted to your figure by the most expert corsetieres in the Northwest. Prices, $3.50 up.

The S. & B. Special is intended for the more modest purse, wanting a good, practical, stylish corset at $1.00 to $3.00. We will put them alongside of any corset at 50c to $1.00 more in price, and vouch for them being equally as good.

The Modart, front lace, is intended for the woman who insists on a front lace corset, but this is the improved front laced, not the one originally put on the market, which has been found so objectionable.

The Rengo Belt Corset is intended for stout women, who give a corset extremely hard wear.

Any of the above corsets are to be found only at this store.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

"FRANK DAY OF MONTANA"

Former Minnesotan in Duluth on a Short Business Trip.

Reapportionment Will Come Only After Readjustment of Rates.

"Frank A. Day of Missoula, Mont."

That's what he signs it to the hotel register now, although it doesn't look natural.

The transplanted citizen of Minnesota arrived in Duluth this morning on a short business trip. He will remain for a day or two, and will meet his daughter, Miss Constance Day of Virginia, here, before returning to his home in Montana.

Mr. Day, formerly of Fairmont, St. Paul and Minnesota in general, is now a newspaper publisher at Missoula, Mont.

FRANK A. DAY.

"I see that Northern Minnesota didn't get reapportionment from the last legislature," said Mr. Day. "However, this part of the state fared pretty well, it seems to me, even if it did not have its just representation. You got about everything else you went after.

"I would like to venture a statement on reapportionment. I don't believe you will get reapportionment until the large terminal cities consent to a readjustment of freight rates that will permit the smaller towns and the country to grow. Under the present system you can't build up the country, and until there is a readjustment there will be a jealousy of the larger cities that is bound to be detrimental to their growth and prosperity."

Mr. Day was questioned regarding business and political conditions in Montana.

"The newspaper situation in Montana is a peculiar one," he said. "Several large papers out there have been established and maintained by special interests. It was immaterial to them whether they made money or lost money, and the result is that some small Montana cities have newspapers of a size that you would expect to find in a city like Minneapolis or Denver. That naturally makes very hard competition to meet.

"We had a most fortunate outcome to our senatorial deadlock, and we now have a good, progressive Democrat in the United States senate in place of Senator Thomas H. Carter.

"Business is a little quiet in Montana, but it is a wonderful state, with immense wealth and possibilities, and conditions are sound at the bottom."

LITTLE GRAIN FOR SHIPMENT

Even Package Freighters Are Unable to Get Cargoes Here.

There is little grain in sight here. Some of the package freight boats are out for grain cargoes, with the report today that few cargoes are in sight. The lightness of the east bound movement accounts for the package freight boats being in the market for grain cargoes.

The low water at the Soo causes the masters of package freighters to refrain from loading to capacity. The boats coming here at the present time are, however, loaded very heavily and the masters report no trouble with the low water mark.

Several boats have gone from here to the Canadian Head of the Lakes, where grain is being offered rather freely.

Ore is moving slowly, coal being the commodity that is being offered most freely at the present time. According to the news here, coal cargoes are offered freely, but some of the vessel owners are hesitating about taking coal with little ore in sight.

MANY PILES DRIVEN.

Marquette, Mich., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Raymond Concrete Pile company is making fairly rapid progress now in the construction of the new ore dock for the L. S. & I. railroad. About 2,000 piles have been driven, and in a short time concrete work will begin. The company is having considerable difficulty in getting enough common labor to carry on the work, and it is likely that it will be necessary to import twenty or more foreigners for this purpose within a short time.

Capt. P. C. Hart of Duluth, who has charge of the dredging work now being done in the harbor, has returned to the city, after a trip to Detroit. Capt. Hart states that the dredging should be completed in four or five weeks, barring unexpected delays.

GOVERNMENT WORK AT WISCONSIN HARBORS.

Francis R. Shunk, major of the corps of government engineers stationed at this district, has sent out notice of the preliminary examination that will be made in reference to the work at Cornucopia Harbor, Wis. It is the duty of Mr. Shunk to make the examination in order to determine whether the harbor should be constructed, and also to secure the opinion of those citizens living in the vicinity. Information is sought from the citizens and with that view questions have been sent to various residents of the vicinity of the proposed harbor construction site.

The river and harbor bill also authorizes the construction of a harbor at Brule Harbor, Wis. Maj. Shunk will make a preliminary examination at that point and has also sent out a number of circulars seeking information on it.

Wheat for England.

Fort William, Ont., April 28.—On the opening of lake navigation today 1,750,000 bushels of Manitoba wheat and 360,000 bushels of Manitoba oats were shipped from here and Port Arthur for England.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. R. C. Pringle of the Pringle line of boats of St. Clair, Mich., has purchased the barge John Barlum from the Algoma Central Steamship company. The consideration is not made public. The Barlum will be taken to Port Huron tomorrow. She will be rebuilt and later used to carry coal on the Detroit and St. Clair rivers.

Cloquet, Minn., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. David Perkins of Minneapolis died here this morning at 4:30 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mike O'Meara, from a stroke of paralysis, with which she was seized Wednesday night. She was 69 years old and had lived in Minneapolis twenty-three years. Her husband, who is in Milwaukee, has been telegraphed for. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. David Howell, Mrs. Gus Elery of Minneapolis, Mrs. O'Meara of Cloquet, Mrs. William Ducelle of Montevideo; and two sons, by a former marriage, Frank and Charles Wolf of Minneapolis. The funeral will be held Monday morning at the Catholic church here with interment in Minneapolis.

be taken here before the arrival of Clarence S. Darrow, who is expected to assume charge of the defense of the McNamaras, and W. Joseph Ford, assistant district attorney of Los Angeles county, who is on the way from Indianapolis as the bearer of important evidence. It is believed that the arraignments of the accused will take place early next week.

Admits He Dynamited Plant.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 28.—More light was thrown on Ortie E. McManigal's alleged confession of the dynamiting of the Llewellyn iron works of this city by Robert Brain, undersheriff of this county, who had charge of McManigal in the transcontinental trip just ended. Brain said the prisoner had voluntarily confessed to him while on the train.

According to Brain, McManigal brought up the subject last Monday morning, the second day out from Chicago, by asking what punishment would be given him if he were to turn state's evidence.

"I am not in a position to tell you," was Brain's reply. "Are you going to do it?"

"Yes," answered McManigal, "I'm going to tell."

"What are you going to tell?" asked Brain.

"All about it," said McManigal.

"You know what you are charged with?" inquired Brain.

"Yes, I am charged with dynamiting the plant of the Llewellyn iron works."

"Did you do it?"

"Sure, I did."

"What did you get for it?"

"Two hundred dollars," responded McManigal. "That is the price for all such jobs."

"Do you know Bryce?"

"Yes, I know him."

"How long have you known him?"

"About a year and a half."

Then McManigal said he would stop talking.

"All right, Mac," said Brain; "you know I am not trying to force you; do as you like about it. That is your right."

"When I get out there I will tell all about it," concluded McManigal.

The subject was dropped and not taken up again.

Shortly after noon Attorney Hilton emerged from the jail after a conference with the prisoners.

Denied by McManigal.

He said McManigal absolutely denied in the presence of witnesses that he had made any confession whatsoever and said statements to that effect were "unqualifiedly false."

Mrs. D. H. Ingersoll of San Francisco, in whose lodging house lived the man she knew as James B. Bryce, who was charged with the actual dynamiting of the Times building here, was taken into the jail yesterday to see if she could identify James B. McNamara as Bryce.

Mrs. Ingersoll and John D. Fredericks, district attorney, went to the office of the jail and waited there while Under Sheriff Brain brought McNamara from his cell.

To give Mrs. Ingersoll full opportunity to scrutinize McNamara, Fredericks contrived a seemingly official conversation with the prisoner lasting several minutes. Meanwhile Mrs. Ingersoll stood at one end of the room, apparently unobserved by McNamara, and gazed at the accused man.

Brain said that not a semblance of recognition passed between them, and it is declared that McNamara did not know why he was taken before the district attorney.

Mrs. Ingersoll left the jail with Fredericks, who refused to reveal the woman's decision in the matter of identification. No one was permitted by the district attorney to see Mrs. Ingersoll.

Job Harriman of Los Angeles and O. N. Hilton of Denver, the attorneys engaged to defend the accused man, were admitted to the jail. Harriman, leaving the jail to reach a telephone, made a short statement to the press to the effect that it was gas and gas only that caused the explosion in the Times building and that he and his assistants were prepared to prove it, regardless of public opinion. He announced that when they had completed their conference they would make public a statement as to their plans.

Arthur Veitch, a deputy district attorney, announced definitely, in order to set aside conflicting reports, that the charge against McManigal is that of dynamiting and that the accusation against the McNamara brothers is murder.

Harry Orchard Problem.

So far as the defense is concerned, it was announced by counsel that the case of the alleged dynamite conspirators will be conducted henceforth upon the theory that there is a "Harry Orchard problem" to be dealt with in the forthcoming battle for the lives of John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' association and his brother, James. The two McNamaras are now the only clients of the attorneys retained by the labor organizations and their legal fire will be turned upon Ortie McManigal, the man arrested as a fellow conspirator.

McManigal, about whose alleged confession so much has been said and written, was examined for three hours by District Attorney Fredericks.

Attorney O. N. Hilton, chief counsel for the Western Federation of Miners, said that he was convinced that McManigal made sworn statements at the time, purporting to fix the guilt of the Times explosion and other dynamite outrages.

But Hilton declared that the state might be in a position of having an alleged confession that was denied beforehand by its author. McManigal will have no attorney. At least he told Hilton so when the latter called upon him today and later District Attorney Fredericks made a similar statement for him.

"I knew that there was to be a 'confession,'" said Hilton "as soon as I talked with McManigal. He said he would not engage an attorney until he had seen Burns, the man who arrested him.

McManigal Again Denies It.

"Then, in the presence of competent witnesses, I asked McManigal the direct question whether he had ever made a purported confession or expected to make one. He answered that he had not and would not. Twenty minutes later he was in the district attorney's office.

"I made it a point to see McManigal first. Now if an alleged confession is presented in court, we will be in a position to present to the jury a denial."

Mr. Hilton denied that he had stated that he knew immunity had been granted to McManigal.

When asked whether McManigal had exacted freedom as the price of turning state's evidence, District Attorney Fredericks replied in the negative.

Other lines of attack and defense developed yesterday. According to District Attorney Fredericks Mrs. Ingersoll, the San Francisco boarding house keeper, completed her identification of James McNamara as J. B. Bryce, and signed an affidavit to that effect.

On the other side, it was stated by Attorney Job Harriman, who was with Hilton at the conference, that the defense would contend that the Times plant was destroyed by an explosion of gas.

Statement by McNamara.

John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' association, gave his first authorized statement as to his arrest, to the Associated Press. The statement follows:

"To the Brotherhood of Organized Labor in California and the United States—In this second attempt to crush and discredit the cause we represent, I realize fully the desperation of the enemies of labor arrayed against us, but I am of good heart, for it will fail.

"That I am innocent of any infraction of the law in word or act needs no emphasis from me, for the truth is mighty and will prevail right speedily and for it I shall contentedly wait.

"I send to all brothers and friends of union labor the world over, my earnest and affectionate greetings, with the assurance that there is no villainy or conspiracy possible of which we are afraid.

"I am also confident that it is not asking too much of the public to suspend judgment in these matters until opportunity for a full and fair defense has been afforded."

rules which gives the members privilege to demand the exclusion of any presons who are not ex-members of the legislature, or judge of a court.

In retaliation for the removal of Ford, Sennator Henson demanded that the floor be cleared of all other spectators. His demand, he declared, was based on the rules. Within a few moments more than 100 persons were excluded from seats along the rails surrounding the senators' seats.

Lieutenant Governor Oglesby then announced that hereafter no spectators will be allowed on the floor of the senate without the permission of the presiding officer.

gents were content with making formal protest, in this way setting forth their reasons for their stand in the controversy.

Tariff again holds the attention of the house. After having been laid aside to permit the passage of the reapportionment measure, the free list bill is under consideration. Debate, it is expected, will extend over several days.

any future dictator from resigning." Bulnes therefore warned the independents of today, the Porfiristas of yesterday, not to go too far in attacks on Diaz. He said it looks badly to turn against those from whom you have been receiving favors, but from whom nothing further can be expected.

Blames "the Courtier Group."

Deputy Batalla said: "The courtier group who danced attendance in the anterooms of the president's palace in the Calle de Cadena are responsible for the disturbances of public order and the blood which has been shed in Chihuahua and elsewhere."

All through the debate it was an ordinary thing for deputies to refer to the president as a dictator. Last year such utterances in congress would have meant jail for the deputies making them for "insulting the nation," the same charge for which Madero was imprisoned. Such utterances are now wildly applauded by the galleries.

Annihilated by Rebels.

Mexico City, April 28.—Refusing to surrender or leave the train on which he and his command of thirty soldiers were being brought to the capital, a second lieutenant, little more than a boy, yesterday engaged in a battle with a force of 400 rebels at Cajones, Guerrero. At the conclusion of the brief encounter the lieutenant and twenty-eight of the soldiers were dead and the remaining two of his men were prisoners. One of the arms of the lieutenant was shot away.

The rebels were under command of "General" Prudencio Figuerero. Learning that troops were being carried on the Cuernavaca division of the National railways, the rebel leader marched to Cajones. When the train stopped he sent forward a messenger to demand the surrender of the troops and a request, if they would not surrender, to abandon the train in order that the lives of the passengers be not endangered.

Fresh from the school of Aspirantes, a military training school, the boyish officer sent back word that he had his orders to continue on the train. Little time was lost in beginning the fight. The rebels poured down the embankment on either side of the train and almost simultaneously the shooting was begun by them and by the soldiers on the train. Passengers who had been imploring the young officer to yield, were in a panic. The cries of women and children were heard in the roar of the rifles and the shots from the rebels raked the sides of the train, many entering the coaches occupied by passengers. But one, however, was killed, Luis Bustamante, a young civil engineer, on his way to the capital to be married. Bustamante was kneeling beside a frightened little girl passenger attempting to comfort her when he was shot.

Bring Story of Battle.

Passengers, who arrived here on the train brought the story of the battle to the capital and today there stood in the yards of the railway the bullet-scarred coaches, mute evidence of the encounter.

At no time during the engagement did the federals betray signs of cowardice. With the blood of their companions running from the doors of the little second-class coach, the men coolly fired into the ranks of their assailants until but two remained.

In the first-class coach immediately in the rear of the soldiers' car was riding the jefe politicio of Iguala, Guerrero. The rebels forced their way through the panic-stricken passengers declaring they would improve this opportunity of ridding the country of one more of his kind. With the jefe politicio were traveling his wife and five children. They surrounded the man and with tears running down their faces, begged the rebels to spare his life. A short consultation ensued, and the rebels told the wife that the entire family might continue their journey.

Following the fighting, while the dead federals were being removed from the car and the rebels were collecting their dead and wounded—and none could tell how many of them had been hit by the federals—an American talked with Figueroa, the rebel leader. He said he had been commissioned a general by Madero and placed in command of the troops in the states of Guerrero, Puebla, Calexica, and Borelos. Gen. Figueroa added that he was now concentrating his forces for an attack upon Iguala, from where they would march upon Guernavaca. Once that point is taken, according to the plan as he outlined it, there will be begun a general advance by all the rebel forces in the south upon the national capital.

PRESIDENT GIVES AN ABLE ADDRESS ON RECIPROCITY

Says Proposed Trade Pact With Canada Should Be Ratified.

Shows Where Agreement Will Be of Great Benefit to Farmers.

New York, April 28.—Reciprocity with Canada must be adopted now or never and must stand or fall by its own terms. So declared President Taft in an address at the Waldorf-Astoria last night at the fourth annual joint banquet of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

His address was the first of a series which he plans to give to get public support for his policies, and he appealed to the company of editors and newspaper owners gathered from the length and breadth of the land to impress in the public mind that reciprocity should stand alone and "ought not to be affected in any regard by other amendments to the tariff law." His recommendations were warmly cheered.

All talk of annexation he characterized as "bosh" and said that the United States has all it can attend to with the territory it is now governing. He praised the house of representatives for its passage of the agreement; declared that it would not injure the farmer nor any special class, answered in detail the objections that have been raised to reciprocity and begged for at least a "kind of test" to dispel the ghosts "exhibited to frighten the agricultural classes."

"I have said that this is the critical time in the solution of the question of reciprocity," concluded the president.

"It is critical because unless it is now decided favorably to reciprocity it is exceedingly probable that no such opportunity will ever again come to the United States. The forces which are at work in England and in Canada—will derive an impetus from the rejection of this treaty and if we would have reciprocity at all, the advantages that I have described and that I earnestly and sincerely believe will follow its adoption, we must take it now or give it up forever."

Other Speakers.

Other speakers of the evening were Manuel De Zamacona, Mexican ambassador to the United States, who urged intelligent and deliberate consideration of the forces that have shaped the present insurrection; William Barton Northrop, king's counsel, and a member of the dominion parliament, who analyzed Canadian sentiment with reference to reciprocity; Nicholas Murry Butler, president of Columbia university and B. F. McKay, Colonial Press Ltd.

Oswald Garrison Villard, proprietor of the New York Evening Post, in introducing the president praised Mr. Taft for his abstention from the "shorter and uglier word" in his characterization of those who differed with him, and lauded his charity and judgment and advocacy of international peace. The signing of the pending treaty or arbitration with Great Britain—to be followed, the president had promised, by similar agreements with other nations—would inaugurate, he said "a new era in American history, if not of the world, with which your name, sir, will forever be most honorably and indissolubly connected."

"Yours is the privilege," he informed the president, "of telling us to our faces just what you think is wrong with us, or of saying what you can in our behalf to a larger public which sometimes has its doubts about us and our methods." He then proposed the health of the president, and Mrs. Taft who was in the galleries and the toast was drunk standing.

The president smiled broadly at Mr. Villard's invitation to criticise the press, but did not choose to take advantage of it.

President Taft's Address.

President Taft devoted the greater part of his address to the Canadian reciprocity agreement. On this subject he said in part:

"I am glad to have the opportunity of speaking to a body which fully represents the most important agencies for the formation of public opinion in this country, upon a question which has now reached a critical point in its settlement. The agreement is a commercial one, and affects the duties on imports from each country into the other and, therefore, it is difficult to say that a detailed discussion of tariff schedules is not relevant and important in considering its wisdom. But the general commercial, economic and social arguments in its favor are so convincing that I may be pardoned if I do not dwell on specific rates.

"The treaty provides for free trade in all agricultural products; and in rough lumber down to the point of planing. It lowers the duties on secondary food products by a very substantial percentage and it makes such reductions on a number of manufactured articles that those engaged in making them have assured us that the reductions will substantially increase the already large Canadian demand for them.

"We tendered to the Canadian commissioners absolute free trade in all products of either country, manufactured or natural, but the Canadian commissioners did not feel justified in going so far. It is only reasonable to infer therefore, that with respect to those articles upon which they refuse free trade to us, they felt that the profitable price at which they could be sold for by our manufacturers in Canada, was less than the price at which their manufacturers could afford to sell the same either to their own people or to us.

Would Not Affect Prices.

"Hence it would follow that their refusal to agree to free trade in those articles as we proposed, is the strongest kind of evidence that if we should take off the existing duty from such articles coming into the United States, it would not affect in the slightest degree the price at which those articles could be furnished to the public here. Thus the reason why meats were not put on the free list in this Canadian agreement was because Canada felt that the competition of our packers would injuriously affect the products of their packing houses. If that be true, how would it help our consumer or lower the price of meat in our markets, if we let their meat in free, while they retained a duty on our meat?

"The same thing is true of flour. And yet, gentlemen insist that the farmer has been unjustly treated, because we haven't put Canadian flour and meat on the free list. And it is proposed to satisfy the supposed grievance of the farmers by now doing so without any compensating concession from Canada.

"This proposal would be legislation passed for political platform uses, without accomplishing any real good.

"In another aspect, however, the effect of the proposal might be serious. Of course, a mere reduction of our tariff, or the putting of any article on our free list, without insisting on a corresponding change in the Canadian tariff, will not interfere with the contract as made with Canada. But if we do make such concessions, without any consideration on the part of Canada, after the contract has been tentatively agreed upon by those authorized to make contracts for ratification in both governments, then we are in danger of creating an obligation against us in all the foreign countries with whom we have existing treaties, containing what is called the 'favored nation' clause.

"This clause has been constructed by our statesmen not to involve us in an obligation to extend the privilege to all nations which we confer upon a nation in consideration of an equally valuable privilege, received from that one nation. But the serious question that would arise is whether, if now that the contract has been tentatively agreed upon and is about to be confirmed by Canada, we should grant to Canadians more than the contract requires, we could claim that this extra concession was not a pure gratuity and one which wah necessarily extended to all other nations under the favored nation clause. There are two objections, therefore, to inserting in the bill confirming this Canadian contract additions to our free list from Canada. The first is that they are a concession that is of no value to those whom it is proposed to propitiate by adopting it; and the second is, that it may involve us indirectly in a doubtful obligation in respect to trade with other countries. If we desire to put meat and flour and other commodities on the free list for the entire world, that is one thing, we can do it with our eyes open and with a knowledge of what it entails after an investigation, but to put such a provision in a Canadian treaty, and then have it operate as a free list for the entire world, is legislation necessarily ill considered.

Admission of an Injury.

"More than this, these proposed gratuitous concessions are in the nature of an admission that in some way or other, we have done an injury to a particular class by this Canadian reciprocity agreement. I deny it. It is said that it injures the farmers. I deny it. It is strictly in accordance with the protective principle that we should only have a protective tariff between us and countries in which the conditions are so dissimilar as to make a difference in the cost of production. Now it is known of all men that the general conditions that prevail in Canada, are the same as those which obtain in the United States in the matter of agricultural products. Indeed, if there is any advantage, the advantage is largely on the side of the United States because we have much greater variety of products in view of the varieties of our climate, than they have in Canada.

"We raise cotton as no other country does; of course they raise none in Canada.

"We raise corn, and hogs and cattle fed on corn, and with the exception of a very small part of the acreage of Canada, in Ontario, it is not possible to raise corn at all in the Dominion.

"With respect to wheat and barley and oats, conditions differ in different parts of Canada and in different parts of the United States. Classing them together as on the whole, the conditions are substantially the same. In prices of farm land the differences are no greater between Canada and the United States than between the different states in the United States. In the matter of farm wages, on the whole, they are about the same.

"It is said that this is an agreement that affects agricultural products more than manufactures. That is true; but if we are to have an interchange of products between the two countries of any substantial amount, the chief part of it must necessarily be in agricultural products. As it is, we export to Canada more agricultural products than we receive from her and so it will be afterwards. The effect is not going, in my judgment, to lower the specific prices of agricultural products in our country. It is going to steady them, and it is going to produce an interchange of products at a profit which will be beneficial to both countries.

"If objection can be made to the treaty on the ground that a particular class derived less benefit from it than other classes, then it is the manufacturers of the country who ought to object because the treaty in its nature will not enlarge his market as much as it will that of the farmer.

Should Give It a Test.

"I am quite aware that from one motive or another a great deal of effort and money has been spent in sending circulars to farmers to convince them that this Canadian treaty, if adopted, will do them injury. I do not know that it is possible to allay such fears by argument, pending the consideration of the treaty by the senate. But there is one way—and that a conclusive way—that of demonstrating the fallacious and unfounded character of all such fears, and that is to try it on. There is no obligation on either nation to continue the reciprocity arrangement any longer than it desires and if it be found by actual practice that there is a permanent injury to the farmers, everybody knows that they can sufficiently control legislation to bring about a return to the old conditions. Those of us who are responsible for the Canadian treaty are willing and anxious to subject it to that kind of a test.

"Another, and a very conclusive reason for closing the contract is the opportunity which it gives us to increase the supply of our natural resources which, with the wastefulness of children, we have wantonly exhausted. The timber resources of Canada, which will open themselves to us inevitably under the operation of this agreement, are now apparently inexhaustible, and we may derive ample supplies of timber from Canadian sources to the profit of Canada and for our own benefit. There are other natural resources which I need not stop to enumerate, which will become as available to us as is our own if we adopt and maintain commercial union with Canada. * * *

'But there are other—even broader—grounds than this that should lead to the adoption of this agreement. Canada's superficial area is greater than that of the United States. Of course it has a good deal of waste land in the far north, but it has enormous tracts of unoccupied land or land settled so sparsely as to be substantially unoccupied, which in the next two or three decades will rapidly acquire a substantial and permanent settlement.

Member of Parliament Speaks.

William Barton Northrup, a member of the Canadian parliament, spoke on the powers of the press, its responsibilities, and reciprocity between the United States and Canada. On the latter subject Mr. Northrup said in part:

"Our political system, as you know, is entirely different from yours. If the measure proposed by your president were repudiated by both houses, his tenure of office would in no way be affected. Our premier, on the other hand, cannot hold office one hour longer than he has a majority of the representatives of the people joined in his support.

"If, therefore, you should hear—and I do not for a moment predict that you will hear—but if you should hear that the opposition at Ottawa has refused to allow the bill to come to a vote, you will understand that the whole object was to compel an appeal to the people."

In conclusion, the speaker sketched the vision which Canado has of her own future. To the West, he said, Canada saw giant Asia awakening from the sleep of centuries. The sceptre of world dominion had once been hers, it had passed to Africa, and then to Europe, the poorest in natural resources of the cotinents and the smallest. Would the sceptre remain there, would it pass peacefully to America or was it destined again to be fought for?

Such a fight would be the greatest and unhappiest the world has ever seen, but if it should come "does it seem to you," asked the speaker, "that America's fight would be more successful and strong if one country, stretching from the Pacific to the Atlantic, composed of a people trained rather to the arts of peace than the glories of war, should resist the attack, or that Canada, as one of a sisterhood of nations, standing side by side with the United States and supported by all the wealth and treasure, the men and navies of her sister nations under the imperial flag, should oppose this invasion?"

PROUD OF THE RECORD MADE

Reputation of the United Doctors Now Firmly Established in Minnesota.

It is a source of great satisfaction to those upon whom disease has laid a heavy hand to know that if there is the least possibility of being permanently cured, the staff of United Doctors, by careful examination and scientific analysis of the blood, urine, and secretions, can positively determine that fact.

Pursuing the intelligent and improved methods which their thorough education, continued study and hospital experience points out as the only successful course to follow, their practice is laid upon a solid foundation.

Theory and experimentation have never entered their treatment of chronic diseases. They positively know, and intelligently act. This is why they have performed cures that have astonished not only patients and their friends, but have set the regular practitioner to thinking.

There is nothing miraculous or super-human connected with the wonderful cures they have made, although this may seem somewhat strange to those who do not look below the surface. Thorough knowledge and common sense are the weapons with which they conquer disease. First, they accurately determine the disease; secondly, scientific examination locates it; thirdly, knowledge and experience point out the infallible remedy.

Their record in Duluth is a corroboration of these statements and it is an open book which may be read by all. Some of the greatest cures they have performed have never been mentioned because the parties have objected to the use of their names, and the wishes of such are always respected.

There are hundreds in Duluth and surrounding towns and country who have reason to bless the day they gave their confidence into the keeping of the staff of the United Doctors. Not a single one of these hundred can say that they are not entirely satisfied with the treatment they have received, both in a business way and professionally. This is a record of which the United Doctors have a right to be proud, and although their straightforward methods have deprived them of many dollars, they are more than satisfied with the success attained.

George Bruhn of Leigh, Neb., is one of the hundreds who have good reason to thank the United Doctors for his return to health. In a letter written for publication he says:

"Leigh, Neb., March 17, 1911.

"I spent two years treating with various doctors for pain in the stomach and abdomen, inflammation in the bowels, and what was called appendicits. I laid in a hospital for several weeks and followed directions implicity, but obtained no relief. I was about to give up and go under an operation when I heard of the United Doctors' work in digestive troubles and consulted them in December.

"I have been under treatment less than three months now and my pain is practically all gone. The gas does not form and bloat my bowels any more, and I do not need any physic. I feel wonderfully improved and am satisfied that I can now escape the operation and become entirely well under the United Doctors' treatment.

"GEORGE BRUHN."

Item Welcomed By Many Men.

This recipe can be filled at home, so that no one need know of another's troubles, as the ingredients can be obtained separately at any well stocked drug store. They are in regular use and many different prescriptions are constantly being filled with them.

This will prove a welcome bit of information for all those who are overworked, gloomy, despondent, nervous and have trembling limbs, heart palpitation, dizziness, cold extremities, insomnia, fear without cause, timidity in venturing, and general inability to act naturally and rationally as others do, because the treatment can be prepared secretly at home and taken without any one's knowledge.

Overworked office men and the many victims of society's late hours and dissipation will, it is said, find the restorative they are in need of.

If the reader decides to try it, get three ounces of ordinary syrup sarsaparilla compound and one ounce compound fluid balmwort; mix and let stand two hours; then get one ounce compound essence cardiol and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom), mix all together, shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring.

A certain well known medical expert asserts that thousands of men and many women are sufferers all because of dormant circulation of the blood and a consequential impairment of the nervous force, which begets the most dreadful symptoms and untold misery.

NELSON OFFERS AMENDMENTS

To Canadian Reciprocity Bill, Putting Duties on Farm Products.

Washington, April 28.—In order to afford protection to agricultural products, and at the same time to reduce the rates on those products that are provided in the Payne law, Senator Nelson has introduced several amendments to the Canadian reciprocity bill. In several cases, notably wheat, the reduction is as much as 50 per cent from the present rates. Senator Nelson proposes to strike these products from the free list in the reciprocity bill as it passed in the house, and to impose duties, which, he believes, will afford ample protection to the farmers of Minnesota and the Northwest. These are the rates proposed by Senator Nelson:

Wheat, 12½ cents per bushel; barley, 15 cents per bushel; oats, 8 cents per bushel; rye, 6 cents per bushel; buckwheat, 7 cents per bushel; flaxseed, 15 cents per bushel; potatoes, 15 cents per bushel.

For butter and cheese coming from Canada, Senator Nelson proposes a rate of 4 cents a pound. Instead of admitting live animals free, Senator Nelson proposes the following rates:

Cattle less than 1 year old, $1 each; all other cattle valued at $14 or less, $2.50 each; cattle valued at more than $14, 20 per cent ad valorem; horses and mules valued at $150 or less, $20 each, when valued at more than $150, 20 per cent ad valorem; swine, $1 each; sheep, 1 year old and over, $1 each; all other live animals, 20 per cent ad valorem.

"In my amendments to the reciprocity bill," said Senator Nelson, "I propose to give protection to farm products and cattle, horses, sheep and other live animals raised by the farmers of Minnesota and the Northwest, and yet to reduce the rates provided in the present Payne law to a great extent. I believe the rates I propose will afford protection for the Northwest, which depends so largely upon its agricultural products for its maintenance."

Senator Nelson will press his amendments before the finance committee and in the senate when the bill is considered in that body, but they are not likely to be adopted, as any change in duties named in the bill passed by the house would violate the agreement with Canada.

A telegram, extending an invitation to the governor, was received from C. A. Meade, secretary of the Helena Commercial club. An acceptance was immediately forwarded.

ONE REVERSAL; ONE AFFIRMED

Two Decisions in St. Louis County Cases By Supreme Court.

St. Paul, Minn., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following opinions were filed by the supreme court today in cases originating in St. Louis county: A. C. McCutcheon, respondent, vs. Virginia & Rainy Lake company, appellant.

In an action to recover for personal injuries alleged to have been caused by the negligence of defendant, it is held that plaintiff's assumption of the risks of the employment conclusively appear from the evidence. Judgment reversed; opinion by Justice Brown.

James B. Walker, respondent, vs. Duluth Street Railway company, appellant.

In this, a personal injury accident, the evidence sustained the verdict in favor of the plaintiff; that the damages awarded are not excessive; that the defendant was not entitled to a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence. Affirmed; opinion by Justice Simpson.

LAWYERS MAY HAVE OVERLOOKED $4,000

Woman's Estate of $17,000 Is Settled at a Cost of Only $13,000.

Albany, N. Y., April 28.—The state treasury will be enriched to the extent of $4,000, the amount remaining of an original estate of $17,000 left by Catherine Grimes of Albany. The court of appeals affirmed the decision of the appellate division, third department, dismissing the appeal taken by alleged heirs of the woman in Ireland, against the judicial settlement of the estate.

The Albany county surrogate held they had not proven their claim to the estate. The cost of administering the estate, including attorneys' fees and funeral expenses, aggregated about $13,000.

RAILROADS

WISCONSIN CENTRAL WINS.

Need Not Pay for Use of Grassy Point Bridge.

St. Paul, Minn., April 28.—According to a decision by Judge Dickson of the district court, filed yesterday, the Northern Pacific Railway company cannot make the Wisconsin Central Railway company pay for the use of Grassy Point bridge at Duluth after the Wisconsin Central decided not to use the bridge.

The Wisconsin Central contracted for use of the bridge for twenty-five years beginning Jan. 1, 1909. The rental was to be not less than $625 per month, the contract involving a total of about $250,000. The Wisconsin Central was later absorbed by the Soo line and use of the bridge was not necessary. The Northern Pacific brought suit to enforce its contract.

The decision holds that the Wisconsin Central must pay for the use of a short stretch of track leading to the bridge from the Superior side, the judgment being for $2,846.

St. Paul, Minn., April 28.—The Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railroads in sixty days will have running rights over the Canadian Northern line from Emerson, on the boundary, to Winnipeg. Automobilist May Lose Eye.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Roy Spratt of Auburn rushed to this city yesterday for an operation, is in danger of losing the sight of his eye. While working about an automobile he was using a hammer on a piece of steel and a flying splinter pierced his eyeball. As the young man lost the sight of his other eye by accident a few years ago, this one gives him much alarm, for total blindness will be the result if the operation does not prove successful BUYS ANOTHER SAWMILL.

M. H. Bekkedal Purchases Hardwood Plant on Couderay Reserve.

Couderay, Wis., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. H. Bekkedal, a leaf tobacco packer and wholesaler of Westby, Wis., has closed a deal for the purchase of Nustad's large hardwood sawmill at Eddy creek on the Couderay Indian reservation near here. Mr. Bekkedal logged extensively on the reservation last winter and has several millions feet of logs at Eddy creek to saw. The price paid for the property was nearly $10,000.

MUCH MONEY IN SPRINGS.

Minnesota Leads Country in Production of Mineral Waters.

Washington, April 28.—Twenty mineral water springs in the state of Minnesota produced in the year 1909, 13,746,142 gallons of water valued at $614,291. This was a gain in production of 2,760,066 gallons, and in value of $63,305 over the figures for the preceding year. These facts are contained in a special report on the production of mineral water made by Samuel Sanford of the United States geological survey. The average selling price of the Minnesota mineral waters declined from 5 to 4 cents.

The twenty springs in the state listed as producing and selling mineral water in 1909 are:

Four in Hennepin county, two in Stearns county, and one each in Polk, Winona, Ramsey, Washington, Sherburne, Blue Earth, Pine, Steele, Pope, Becker, Scott, St. Louis, Lyon and Mower counties.

MINING COMPANY FINED.

Montana Corporation Is Heavily Mulcted for Timber Trespass.

Helena, Mont., April 28.—In the federal court here yesterday attorneys for the Anaconda Copper Mining company filed stipulations for the payment to the United States government of three judgments obtained against the company in three cases involving timber trespasses. The amounts to be paid by the defendant company are $150, $1,904.43 and $13,225.93.

The testimony in the cases showed that others than employes of the Anaconda company cut the timber and sold it to the company, whereupon Uncle Sam brought suit.

The cases of Oliver C. Dallas and A. S. Hovey, former employes in the surveyor general's office in Helena, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government, were dismissed on motion of District Attorney Freeman in accordance with instructions received from Attorney General Wickersham.

DEVILS LAKE DRUGGIST HAS BECOME BANKRUPT.

Devils Lake, N. D., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—B. J. Ness, long one of the leading druggists here, has filed a petition in bankruptcy before Referee T. B. Elton of Grand Forks. He schedules his total assets at $9,785.48, out of which he claims exemptions in the sum of $1,000. He places his liabilities at $13,069.47, having secured claims to the amount of $7,613.35, the balance being unsecured.

The first meeting of the creditors has been set for May 12 in this city.

FLASHLIGHT CAUSED FIRE

Old Spirit Lake Hotel, Landmark, Totally Destroyed--- Once Popular Place.

A fire, believed to have started from the explosion of flashlight powder, used in taking a picture, last evening totally destroyed the old Spirit Lake hotel, an old landmark, which in recent years has been used as a dormitory by the Finnish Working People's college at Smithville. The loss is about $3,000, covered by insurance.

The building was a three-story structure of frame construction. It was built in 1888 by Albert and Edward Swenson of Spirit Lake. In the early days it was a popular summer resort and was the rendezvous for pleasure seekers, many of Duluth's prominent people making the place their headquarters during the summer season.

The fire started on the third story about 9 o'clock. One of the students was taking a flashlight picture with a kodak and it is thought that the explosion was directly responsible for the conflagration. The blaze was a most spectacular one and could be seen for miles.

Fire company No. 8, West Duluth, made a run of four miles with the hook and ladder, hose cart and engine. The run was made in about twenty-five minutes, but it was nearly a half hour later before the firemen could get any water on the blaze. The water was pumped from the river, a quarter of a mile from the fire. The firemen could not save the building, but prevented the blaze from spreading.

The college directors purchased the old hostelry seven years ago from J. G. Williams, who acquired it from the Swenson brothers in the early 90's. Since then the building has been used for dormitory purposes, and has housed about fifty students.

In view of the fact that the college will close Monday, many of the students have left for their homes and when the blaze broke out last evening only a few were in the place. Little furniture was saved.

Last summer the college directors built a new school building near the dormitory. Had there been any wind last evening it is probable, the firemen say, that this structure would have been burned.

NO CELEBRATION OF FOURTH THIS YEAR.

It is hardly probable that there will be any big celebration of the Fourth of July this year at West Duluth. There are a few enthusiastic for a demonstration, but most of the business men are said to be opposed to having another affair this year. However, there will be an opportunity for the business men to express their opinion on the matter at a meeting which will be held at the Commercial clubrooms, May 2.

Nelson, chief templar; P. C. Nelson, vice chief templar; Ole Jensen, secretary, and Jacob Jacobson, treasurer.

Watch repairing. Hurst, W. Duluth.

Ole Sather has taken out a building permit for the erection of a frame dwelling house on the west side of Ninety-seventh avenue west between Bowser and Goodhue street.

ASSISTANT TO MANAGER

E. W. Kelly Given Water Department Position—D. A. Reed Turned Down.

At a meeting of the water board yesterday, E. W. Kelly of the city engineer's office, was appointed assistant manager of the water and light department.

D. A. Reed, who was in charge of construction work on the Soo road here, and formerly connected with the Great Northern Power company, had been recommended for the position by Manager L. N. Case, but his appointment was turned down by the board two weeks ago, and yesterday Mr. Kelly was given the appointment.

It is the purpose of the board to have an assistant to the manager who will not only be able to advise him on engineering problems, but who will be in a position to take charge temporarily in case the manager should be absent from the city at any time, or incapacitated by illness.

Remember bankrupt clothing sale at 17 East Superior street opens tomorrow.

REPORT WILL BE RETURNED

The troubles of the water and light department over the intake pipe at the Lakewood pumping station are not yet over. It was thought that the written report of Harry Halverson, the diver sent here by the Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company to examine the pipe, would point out just what the board would be required to do to remedy reported defecets. Instead the board members say the report was a confused mass of statements, from which recommendations could not be deduced, and it will be sent back to the company with a request that a coherent report be sent, specifying just what the diver found and what he recommends to be done.

The report was presented to the board yesterday and caused considerable dissatisfaction among the members. It was referred to President H. H. Phelps, who will return it to the company with the board's request. In the meantime, the board will not make public the contents of the report, believing that a complete report should be obtained before it is made public.

It is understood that the diver's report was substantially the same as the verbal report made to Manager L. N. Case of the department, after the examination. At that time, the diver reported that the rip-rap work was defective and that the expansion band, which was put in by Diver H. H. Thompson, was loose.

Manager Case was instructed by the board yesterday to prepare plans and specifications and advertise for bids for the laying of a 16-inch water main to Fifty-sixth avenue west, as provided for in the plans of the department, for which a bond issue of $200,000 was voted at the last election. Plans will also be prepared for a new pumping station at Woodland avenue and Victoria street and for a new reservoir at Thirteenth street and Second avenue east.

KILLS HER HUSBAND.

St. Louis Woman, Probably Insane, Commits Murder.

St. Louis, Mo., April 28.—Mrs. Alma James was arrested early today, soon after she asked the police to call at her home and aid her husband, Leo James, who, she said, was dying. The police found that James was dead with two bullet holes in his head. A revolver with two empty cartridges was found near the bed.

Mrs. James refused to discuss the shooting. Her husband was a stationary engineer.

Mrs. James later told a relative she killed her husband. She went to the observation ward of the city hospital as a prisoner.

GOOD NEWS RECEIVED BY WANDERING VAGABOND.

"Your shortage has been fixed up. Come home at once."

When Julius F. Wilcox, a wandering vagabond, who yesterday gave himself up to the police and told them that he was wanted by the Philadelphia authorities on a charge of embezzlement, received a telegram with above message this afternoon, he was so overjoyed that he fainted.

Along with the telegram to Wilcox, came the information from the Philadelphia police that Wilcox was no longer wanted and that the matter for which he was sought, had been adjusted.

He was released.

BOATS REPORTED TO HAVE SAILED BEFORE INSPECTION

The steamer John A. McGean has been reported for a violation of the lake marine regulations in sailing from Buffalo before being inspected. The boat was inspected yesterday by Inspectors Chalk and Monaghan, having come up the lakes loaded. The T. H. Wickwire, Stadacona and James P. Walsh are said to be involved in the same manner. The boats were loaded at Buffalo, it is said, and the owners refused to have them unloaded there for inspection as required. It is considered possible that the owners would rather pay the $500 fine, which may be imposed, than to have incurred the expense of unloading and loading the boats again.

POET HAVING HARD TIME

Creditors Break Into Country Villa of Gabrielle D'Annuneio.

Furniture Is Carried Off and Disposed of at Auction.

Florence, Italy, April 28.—The financial difficulties which have been hovering around Gabrielle D'Annunzio in the last year have reached an acute stage that threatens to put the poet, dramatist and novelist in dire straits. While the author of "Francesca da Rimini," in which his intimate friend, Eleanora Duse, toured the United States several years ago, is in the suburbs of Paris endeavoring to produce the crowning piece of work of his career, the Villa Capponcina, his home near here, has been invaded forcibly again and again, and property seized to pay certain debts. His magnificent horse, Malatesta, (Bad Head), named for the family of princes in "Francesca da Rimini," has been taken. Among his creditors who have employed urgent means to obtain money due them from the poet is a woman tailor, whose claim is for a ballance she asserts is due her for gowns she made upon his order while he was paying attention to a marquise.

A crisis in the money affairs of D'Annunzio arose recently when he quarrelled with Senor Del Guzzo of Buenos Ayres with whom he had contracted to make a trip to the Argentine Republic and deliver several lectures. D'Annunzio asserted Del Guzzo did not advance as much money as was agreed upon and refused to undertake the tour. Del Guzzo thereupon undertook to recover what he had already advanced for liquidation of the poet's debts.

Sold the Poet's Motor Car.

The terms of the contract between D'Annunzio and Del Guzzo, according to the former's lawyer, provided first that the South American should pay certain debts of the poet, amounting to $6,400. In return for this D'Annunzio was to place in Del Guzzo's custody seventeen unpublished manuscripts of poetry, novels and tragedy, with the provision that they should not be sold without the consent of the author. D'Annunzio also turned over his famous red motor car, Florentia, known in Florence and throughout Italy because of the inscription which the poet had painted on its sides: "That I may not sleep." Del Guzzo was authorized to sell the motor car, which he did, in South America.

It was further agreed that within a month of the date of the contract Del Guzzo was to pay over to D'Annunzio $3,000 for his personal use. They were to make the trip to the Argentine Republic, and D'Annunzio says he was promised very large profits from the lectures. He says he questioned Del Guzzo closely as to his ability to fulfill his part of the contract and was emphatically assured. However, he declares, the $3,000 payment never was made to him and instead of being indebted to Del Guzzo, he is loser from the contract. The agreement was entered into March, 1910, and D'Annunzio declares that he spent from that time until May preparing his lectures and also an ode for the Argentine Republic independence celebration. This ode, D'Annunzio's lawyer says, Del Guzzo promised to have published in the large newspapers of Buenos Ayres.

Del Guzzo Was Not Formal.

Del Guzzo insists, however, there was violation of contract on the part of D'Annunzio, and arrived here this month to make arrangements for the seizure which just has been made at the Villa Capponcina. When the bailiffs went to the artistic dwelling of the poet they found no one actually living there. A groom in a stable near by takes care of the horse Malatesta, and from him it was learned the keys were in custody of a lawyer, so that it became necessary to break in a door of the villa. The sale of the motor car had reduced the claim of the South American to less than $1,000, so that only sufficient property to secure that amount was seized. All was taken from the poet's green room, and comprised the following articles:

Two large reading desks of carved walnut.

One painting on wood, with carved and gilded frame.

Two carved walnut wardrobes.

One figure of a woman, in bronze, which stood in front of the poet's bed.

One Fifteenth century praying chair.

One Fifteenth century carved chest.

One ancient torch holder of beaten iron on a tripod.

The total value of thes articles was estimated at $900.

The Del Guzzo seizure set other creditors on the trail of the poet and the woman tailor seized the horse Malatesta, a wash boiler and two statuettes of ceramic ware. The horse was to be sold the following day, but the sale has been postponed for some mysterious reason.

The work upon which D'Annunzio is engaged at a villa in the suburbs of Paris is a life of Dante, which is to be used as an introduction to a great edition of the works of Dante to be issued by a famous firm of publishers in Florence.

PAYS $480,000 TO SAVE INVESTORS

Scranton Monopolist Pays Bonds of Company He Promoted.

Scranton, Pa., April 28.—W. W. Scranton, public utilities monopolist and many times a millionaire, has donated $480,000 to the North Jersey and Pocono Ice company in order to save small investors who bought stock because of his connection with it.

The enterprise was launched several years ago, with Mr. Scranton as one of the chief promoters and heaviest stockholders. It prospered for a time, but finally got in bad shape, and a few weeks ago the situation became acute. Efforts to induce the bondholders to surrender half their holdings for stock in a new corporation were unsuccessful. Then it was that Mr. Scranton came forward. He bought the bonds until his holdings totaled $480,000, and then announced that they would be cancelled. Thereby the company's fixed charges have been decreased 50 per cent.

As president and owner of a majority of the stock of the Scranton Gas and Water company, Mr. Scranton has an absolute monopoly on these two necessities in this city of nearly 130,000 population. His almost despotic methods have won for him the title of "Water Lord," and he has never been listed among the most popular citizens of the municipality that bears his name. But sterling honesty is just as prominent in his makeup as his utter contempt for public opinion. Knowing that the association of his name with the ice company attracted hundreds of small investors, he determined to protect them.

During the typhoid epidemic here a few years ago analysis of the city water revealed typhoid bacteria, and one of the victims wrote to Mr. Scranton demanding reimbursement for his doctor's bills and loss of employment, threatening to sue in the courts.

"Sue and be damned," was the prompt reply.

Once while a suit against his company was pending before Judge E. C. Newcomb, he impugned the judge's motives and was fined $500 for contempt.

BOYS' DEPARTMENT NOTES

The Boys' Department Scouts had their final practice last night for the Scout exhibition to be given at the boys' building this evening.

This will be the first public exhibition that the Boy Scouts have given, and it will prove a very novel and attractive program.

The Scouts, dressed in the official suits, will open the program with the salute and the raising of the flag. This will be followed with an exhibition of knot tieing, first aid, rescuscitating of the apparently drowned, water boiling contest, camp cooking, stretcher drill, taps and the lowering of the flag. The second part of the program will be an exhibition of gymnastic work as conducted in the boys' department gymnasium.

The final rally of the big membership contest that takes place Friday and Saturday, was held last evening in the club rooms. There are 120 boys on a special committee to enroll 200 members on the boys' department. A summer ticket good for the summer months will be sold on these two days for $2. This low fee will enable nearly every boy in the city to avail himself of the many opportunities that the boys' department affords.

• • •

Entries for the Duluth boy's exhibition are pouring in at the office. The exhibit will give a fair idea of what Duluth boys are interested in and the hobbies they have. Any boy in the city can enter the contest. There are three classes: Boys under 19 years; under 16 years; and under 13 years. This will enable every boy to compete with boys of his own age. All entries must be in this week. Exhibits will be received at the boys' building May 4. The exposition will be open to the public Friday and Saturday, May 5 and 6.

TRIPLETS ARE NAMED

When Taft and Roosevelt Refuse to Give Suggestions.

Henderson, Ky., April 28.—"Declined with thanks" is the substance of letters received today by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Duncan, of Corydon, this county, from Former President Theodore Roosevelt, President Taft, Mrs. Russell Sage and Miss Helen Gould, all of whom had been invited to name triplets born to the Duncans March 8, last.

Editors of the Christian Herald, who had been called upon also to suggest names, asked for a photograph of the triplets, promising a write-up.

"Well, well," said the mother, holding the letters from the notables in her lap. "I thought they had forgotten our request. I'm glad George and I didn't wait to name the babies now." To a neighbor Mrs. Duncan confided that she and her husband had grown tired of the apparent delay and had named the children themselves. They will be called Ralph, Ruth and Ruby.

Of the letters received the congratulatory epistle of Col. Roosevelt is prized most by Mrs. Duncan, as the ex-president is especially complimentary to the mother. Col. Roosevelt said he would have been glad to have suggested names for the children were it not for a long standing rule he had forced himself to obey. President Taft thanked the parents for a photograph of the children.

CLEVELAND BRIDEGROOM

Orders Architect to Build Most Beautiful Home in Ohio.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 28.—A fine mansion is to be set for Harry Coulby on the ridge at Wickliffe that overlooks the lake.

"Make the most beautiful home in Ohio," were Coulby's only instructions to the architect. Coulby told him to prepare to remain at work two years laying out the gardens designed to make the place one of the show spots of America.

The house is to be of glazed white terra cotta tile.

Coulby is president of the Pittsburg Steamship company. A divorce separated him from his first wife last June, and seven weeks ago he married Mrs. Allen Scott, widow of Dr. X. C. Scott.

A LIMBURGER DIVORCE.

Wife Objects to Husband's Notion of a Menu.

Hammond, Ind., April 29.—As the result of the filing of divorce proceedings in the Lake county superior court by Mrs. Caroline Stauffer against John P. Stauffer of Hammond, Judge Lawrence Becker will be compelled to pass upon the question whether a man has the right to buy tripe, young onions and limburger cheese for the table, when his wife wants olives, charlotte russe, French peas, lobster salad and Neuchatel cheese.

Because her husband denied her the right to get the daily menu and bought all the groceries himself, Mrs. Stauffer has sued for divorce. When Stauffer found out that his wife had begun action here he brought suit for divorce in the Elkhart county courts, charging incompatibility. Mrs. Stauffer also asks for $12,000 worth of real estate owned by her husband.

HUSBAND JUSTIFIED.

Slap Wife's Face, If She Searches Pockets, Says Judge.

Providence, R. I., April 28.—Judge C. M. Lee tried the separation suit brought by Elizabeth T. England against John E. England.

The Englands have been married five years. Mrs. England testified they had three children and had been living happily until a short time ago.

One night, she said, Mr. England arrived home about 3 a. m. and curled up on the floor. She thought he was asleep and started to go through his pockets in search of a watch and ring which she said belonged to her. Mr. England woke up and gave her a slap in the face. She tried to go through his pockets again and testified he gave her a kick in the back. Under cross-examination, Mrs. England said she had struck her husband in the head with a shoe.

Judge Lee told the lawyers the couple ought to become reconciled. They said they would do what they could.

"But you must tell your client," admonished Judge Lee, with a smile in addressing the wife's lawyer, "that she must not go through her husband's pockets again. A man is justified in slapping his wife if she goes through his pockets."

Estherville, Iowa, April 28.—At the home of L. R. Woods, brother of Congressman Woods, a very peculiar accident happened. Mr. Woods had not been feeling well, and in attending to his wants Mrs. Woods lost her footing and fell down the stairs, breaking one arm and spraining her wrist. Mr. Woods went to step to the telephone to call a physician and he fell on the dining room floor, breaking his leg just below the knee.

S.S.S. CURES ALL BLOOD INFECTIONS

Contagious Blood Poison, as the name indicates, is an infectious blood disease, of such intense nature that once the virus gets into the circulation, no portion of the body is free from its destructive force unless it is promptly checked.

It usually begins with a tiny sore or pimple as the only outward evidence of its presence. But in a short while its many symptoms begin to make their unwelcome appearance. The mouth and throat ulcerate, itching rashes appear on the body, the hair comes out easily, brown splotches appear on the limbs, etc. So highly contagious is the disease that it is sometimes communicated from one person to another by the use of the same toilet articles or handling the clothes of an infected person. It is a dangerous poison and should not be trifled with; the blood should be cleansed as quickly as possible of the destructive virus.

Some eight years ago I was inoculated with poison by a nurse who infected my babe with blood taint. I was covered with sores and ulcers from head to foot. I was advised to use S. S. S. We got some, and I improved from the start, and a complete and perfect cure was the result. S. S. S. is the only blood remedy which reaches desperate cases.
MRS. T. W. LEE.
Box 300, Savannah, Ga.

I was afflicted with a terrible blood disease, which was in spots at first, but afterwards spread all over my body. These broke out into sores, and it is easy to imagine the suffering I endured. When I had finished my first bottle of S. S. S. I was greatly improved, and was delighted with the result. I was soon entirely well, and my skin was as clear as a piece of glass. H. L. MEYERS.
58 Clinton St., Newark, N. J.

S. S. S. has been curing Contagious Blood Poison for more than forty years. It goes right down into the circulation, and removes every particle of the poison. While curing the disease S. S. S. adds richness and nourishing powers to the blood, and a person who is cured by the use of S. S. S. will find that every portion of the system has been benefited by the treatment. S. S. S. cures so perfectly that there is never any return of the old symptoms; it drives the poison completely out by purifying the blood. S. S. S. is known everywhere as the greatest of all blood purifiers, and for this reason it is a sure cure for Contagious Blood Poison. RAIN

The weather man still stick to that showers prediction and he is in a fair way to make good today. There was a light mist in the air this morning and the clouds were decidedly threatening. There were threats in the sky last night also, but nothing in the nature of moisture materialized. Colder weather is predicted for tomorrow.

Threatening weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:57 and will set at 7:14 this evening, giving fourteen hours and seventeen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Much colder weather prevails from Utah northward to Alberta and Saskatchewan in connection with a decided increase in pressure. The lowest pressure now overlying Saskatchewan has caused rain or snow over that province, Montana, Idaho, Nevada and the Western Dakotas, and light to copious rains over the lower Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio valleys and the western lake region during the last twenty-four hours. At the Head of the Lakes rain is quite probable during the ensuing thirty-six hours with a turn to colder during Saturday afternoon."

"Mrs. H——,
Where Did You Get
This Recipe?"

The other night a guest asked that of a hostess—about a wonderful dish of spaghetti.

Countless times she had eaten spaghetti called "Italian style." She had her own pet recipe, perhaps.

But none at the table had ever tasted such harmony of flavor—such an ideal blend.

At a sign from her mistress, the maid brought a can, marked "Van Camp's Spaghetti, Italian Style."

And the hostess said, "I would like to claim credit but I can't. There is where I got it."

That incident is true.

The recipe is secret, but the result is yours. Your grocer has it ready-cooked, ready for instant serving.

It results from the blending of 17 ingredients, each the finest of its kind. Our chefs spent two years in perfecting it.

We use in the making:

Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same superlative tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork & Beans.

Serve it to your guests. Hear what they say. They may soon forget all the rest of the dinner, but never this dish of spaghetti.

Order it now to be ready.

BUSINESS MEN WOULD OUST MERRY-GO-ROUND.

of Aberdeen, lord lieutenant of Ireland, Sir George H. Reid, high commissioner of Australia; agents of all the other British colonies, along with representatives of the banks, the railways and the steamship companies of England.

Address By Premier.

Premier Asquith said in part "The unique situation which we have met to recognize and welcome has not been organized or engineered by the apparatus of diplomacy. The seed which the president of the United States cast fell on ground prepared to receive it. That which a few years ago, even a few months ago, might have been regarded as the dream of idealists has not only passed into the domain of practical statesmenship, but has become the settled purpose of two great democracies. The profound significance of the new departure is that between Great Britain and the United States, whatever the gravity of the issue and the magnitude of the interests involved; whatever the poignancy of the feelings it aroused, there will be a definite abandonment of war as a possible solution, and the substitution of argument for force; and the supersession by judicial methods of the old ordeal of battle."

After declaring that their siren implied no menace to the rest of mankind and did not provide for an Anglo-American alliance aggressive or defensive, the premier continued:

"But we may hope and believe that other things will follow. It is not for us to dictate or to preach to other nations, but if the United States and Great Britain renounce war, a step will be taken of immeasurable and incomparable significance in the onward progress of humanity."

Presents Resolutions.

Mr. Asquith then moved the following resolution:

"That this meeting of citizens of London, assembled in the Guild hall, cordially welcomes the proposal of the United States in favor of a general treaty of arbitration between that country and the British empire, and pledges its support to the principles of such a treaty as serving the highest interests of the two nations and as tending to promote the peace of the world."

The resolution was received with tremendous applause, which continued until Mr. Balfour rose to second it.

The opposition leader said that Anglo-American arbitration seemed nearer fruition at this moment than ever before in history. Some, he said, regarded it as an idealistic dream, and believed that when the clash of conflicting interests came all paper barriers would be swept away, and he continued:

"It is true that it is folly to make international law go far in advance of public opinion. I cannot imagine a greater blow to civilization than if, or, I will rather say, when such a treaty was made either party should break it, but as far as I can read opinion on both sides of the Atlantic I cannot indorse these pessimistic views. I believe that the great mass of public opinion on both sides favors this move. If the skill of diplomats can embody this feeeling into a treaty I do not believe that when the stress of international difficulties comes it will be broken.

Is Treaty Necessary?

"Some ask if public opinion is thus, why a treaty is necessary?

"I do not believe that these logical dilemmas represent what actually happens. I grant that paper formulae are useless in themselves, but if they represent the settled convictions of the people, they are valuable."

International agreements with no more power of enforcement had made warfare more civilized than in the past, the speaker said, and asked why they could not make war impossible.

Mr. Balfour added that he was most optimistic regarding the prospects of the treaty, but he warned his hearers that they should not mix up the question of the morality of war and the methods of avoiding it with the question of reducing the burdens of armament. England would have as great responsibilities in all parts of the world which the treaty between English speaking peoples could not lessen, but the determination of these communities in joining to set an example to the world at large would not only make for certain peace between them but would mark a significant epoch in the progress of civilization.

The archbishop of Canterbury, the archbishop of Westminster, Chief Rabbi Adler of the United Hebrew congregations of the British empire and Rev. Frederick Brotherton Meyer, minister of Regent's Park chapel, who spoke for the free churches, seconded the resolution. Premier Ward of New Zealand, who spoke briefly for the colonies, received an enthusiastic reception. Lord Avebury, lord rector of St. Andrews' university, and Lord Rothschild, who were unable to be present, telegraphed their regrets.

ately. Several were killed and many arrested. The troops were commanded by Admiral Li and they suffered considerably, a colonel being among those wounded. The soldiers finally got control of the situation and energetic measures to prevent another outbreak were taken. The gates of the city were closed and a search made in suspected quarters for arms and ammunition. The fire at the palace burned for two hours, doing great damage. The viceroy escaped harm.

A strict censorship has been established and only official exchanges between Hongkong and Canton are possible.

Thousands of residents of Canton are fleeing to this city. Those who have arrived say that anarchy is rife among the soldiers at Canton. Many of the soldiers completed their service today, and these men are particularly feared. Anarchists have been furthering their propaganda in the army, where there was already much discontent owing to the recent suppression of gambling.

The British consul at Canton has reported to the governor of Hongkong that the situation is serious.

TURRISH WILL NOT TALK.

Says Both Hines and Cook Are Friends of His.

Portland, Or., April 28.—Henry Turrish of Duluth, Minn., whose name was mentioned by W. H. Cook before the senate investigating committee at Springfield, Ill., has refused to either deny or confirm any of Cook's statements.

Mr. Turrish declines flatly to discuss any phase of the Illinois senatorial investigation. He says he is not a politician and does not intend to become embroiled in their investigation.

"Both Edward Hines and W. H. Cook are friends of mine," he said.

Turrish subsequently stated that Hines and Cook were partners in the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company and that they "had been having trouble."

FOR DEFENSE OF McNAMARA

League Is Organized Among Wage Earners in Duluth.

Impeachment of Judge and Governors Urged in Resolutions.

Recommending that impeachment proceedings be brought against Judge Collins of Indianapolis, Governor Johnson of California and Governor Marshall of Indiana for their part in the arrest of John J. McNamara, the Duluth McNamara Defense league, organized at a meeting held at Kalamazoo hall last night, drew up resolutions against the methods taken to arrest Mr. McNamara.

The Duluth men believe that congress should look into the matter. They will call it to the attention of Congressman Miller of this district and also to Governor Eberhart. Prominent men in the city's public life will be interviewed that the union men may know where they stand.

Richard Jones, president of the Federated Trades and Labor assembly, was chosen chairman of the league and future meetings are being planned. W. E. Towne is secretary and E. Oss is treasurer. A committee of seven which will be increased by one additional member from each union was appointed to arrange for meetings. The committee consists of:

Morris Kaplan, chairman; J. H Baker of the carpenters union; John A. Barron, typographical; W. T. Neff, I. W. & W.; James T. Powers, painters and paperhangers; J. Lussan, cigarmarkers, and Jacob Gary of the horseshoers.

The meeting opened with an address by Morris Kaplan. He stated that he had had some correspondence with Mr. McNamara and that he was far from being a man who would be guilty of a dynamiting plot. He claimed that many of the newspaper articles written on the affair were "doctored" to suit the "interests." Richard Jones gave a short talk and referred to the Moyer, Pettibone and Haywood cases. J. H. Baker also talked.

The Resolutions:

The meeting was largely attended. The audience contributed money for the expense of the meeting. The resolutions follow:

"Whereas, John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Bridge & Structural Iron Workers of America, has been kidnaped from the offices of the union while engaged in his official duties and taken away from Indianapolis and railroaded out of the state of Indiana on requisition papers issued by Governor Johnson of California and honored by Governor Marshall of Indiana, and who, together with Judge Collins of Indianapolis, before whom McNamara was brought—ostensibly for a hearing, but in reality to furnish a legal pretext, as is evident in the fact that this eminent judge, contrary to all usage and custom, refused to allow McNamara the privilege of consulting with his attorney or others so as to apprise them of his arrest, therein conclusively proving the intent to be to get him out of the state by any and every means available;

"And, whereas, the Burns Detective agency, a private spying enterprise, claims to have worked up a 'dynamiting' case against McNamara, which from the reports, though coming from capitalistic sources, make it clearly evident that it is a 'plant' arranged with the primary object in view of breaking up the Bridge & Structural Iron Workers union;

"Be it therefore resolved, That we, the citizens and wage workers of Duluth, protest against the high-handed outrage and demand that this flagrant violation of constitutional rights be made the basis for impeachment of Governor Johnson of California, Governor Marshall of Indiana and Judge Collins of Indianapolis, all of whom have shown themselves to be tainted with the smut of the National Building Erectors' league and of the Burns Detective agency.

"Be it further resolved, That we instruct our congressman from this district to bring this affair to the immediate attention of the national house of representatives, and that he demand an immediate and full investigation of the causes that led to these two governors to allow themselves to be used as the catspaws of these private capitalistic organizations—both of which are known as union labor haters.

"Be it further resolved, That we call upon Governor Eberhart of Minnesota to immediately appoint a committee of sufficient capability and with power to investigate the various enterprises established in this state and operating as so-called detective agencies.

"Be it further resolved, That we call upon the members of the state legislature to enact a law making it a criminal offense for any individual or company to set themselves up in business as private detectives and to make spying upon labor organizations or their officers a criminal offense punishable by imprisonment. Be it further resolved, that we condemn without fear or favor every enterprise bearing the name of detective agency as a menace to the freedom and well being of every self respecting person and citizen in the state. That we know every such agency resolves itself into a recruiting ground for an organized professional scabbery against the interest of labor and labor organizations.

"Be it further resolved, That we send copies of these resolutions for publication to the Duluth New Tribune, The Duluth Herald, the Duluth Labor World, the Weekly Record, the Duluth Posten. Be it further resolved, that we call upon Mayor Cullum, and also upon the ministry of this city to assist in the organization of a McNamara Defense league."

BAKERS HAVE PAY INCREASED

Union Men Will Have $1 a Week More After May 1.

The pay of local bakers has been raised $1 a week.

At a meeting of a committee from the bakers' union and the master bakers held last evening at the St. Louis hotel, the union men asked for and received the raise. Twelve of the sixteen shops in the city have agreed to the raise. It is expected that the rest of them will sign the agreement before it goes into effect May 1.

Nearly all the bakers of the city have joined the union. Marcel White, general organizer, has been in the city for the past week, and he claims to have placed the union on a sound footing.

The new scale will give local bakers a salary of from $15 to $19 a week for day labor and from $16 to $20 a week for night work. This is said to be considerably less than is received in other cities of the United States.

DELICACIES IN MARKET

Potato Artichokes May Be Prepared as a Tempting Dish.

Butter Prices Are Lower This Week, But Eggs Are Firm.

Potato artichokes are one of the table delicacies in the market this week; they are priced at 15 cents a pound. The man at one of the markets says they are cooked about the same as cauliflower—boiled first in water and afterwards in milk with butter and seasoning added. The flower artichoke, which also makes a pleasing dish, has been on the market this week.

New parsnips are particularly nice just now. This is really the best time of the year for them, and they are only 15 cents a pound.

Asparagus this week is selling at two bunches for 25 cents and large bunches of new carrots are 15 cents each. New beets are a little higher this week, two bunches for 25 cents being the rating. Plenty of leaf lettuce, home grown, can be had, but head lettuce is very scarce and not to be had in Duluth today.

Texas Bermuda onions are good just now. They are young and mild. The white ones sell for 80 cents a peck and the yellow for 70 cents.

Strawberries, though a little smaller, are nice and ripe and are put up in quart boxes, now priced at 20 cents a quart. Oranges and grape fruit are about the same, but eating apples are quite a bit higher. The same apples which sold for 75 cents a peck last week are now 90 cents a peck, or $3 per box.

Butter Prices Lower.

The butter market displayed further weakness this week and values in dairy grades sank. Creameries were more firmly held an on account of their cheapness they were in large demand. This consumption was sufficient in volume to hold values steady while dairies were somewhat abandoned and receivers were forced to shade prices to make the dairies look attractive by the side of the cheap creameries.

Butter has met with a good inquiry, creamery selling wholesale at 22½@23c and dairy butter at 15@16c. The best makes of creamery butter are from 7c to 11c a pound cheaper than a year ago. Consumers can afford to buy the best butter and be a little wasteful in the manner of consumption. The breadth of the consumptive channel indicated that consumers were at least lavish in their use of this commodity.

Accumulations of previous weeks have been satisfactorily cleared away and the market appears to be established on a sound basis. The quality of butter received, although fully good enough to meet requirements of immediate consumption, was not generally desirable for cold storage purposes. The market was thus bereft of the support that might have been afforded by speculative buying. Support of this character was not needed to make a healthy market, however. As the week closes trading is active and the consumptive demand is large and broad.

Egg Market is Firm.

Eggs held steady and the market is firm. The wholesale price is within the range of 16½@17c. Buying of eggs to put into cold storage is in full swing and is the chief feature of the egg market. Receipts are of liberal volume and the demand for immediate consumption was much lighter, as was expected with the passing of the Lenten season. Speculators gave the market such willing support that the trade did not develop any signs of distress and as the week draws to a close values are firm and the market is strong.

Egg prices are from 5c to 7c lower than a year ago and are especially attractive to buyers. The fact that receipts are not as large as those of a year ago led to the belief that production this year will fall short of last year's tremendous output. This opinion and the prevailing low prices were the only inducements needed to unloosen the purse strings of speculators and cold storage people.

Potatoes Are High.

The potato market held firm. Holders are asking slightly higher prices for especially choice stock. Buyers seem unwilling, however, to follow further appreciations. Rains have interfered to a small extent with the movement from the interior. Short supplies at the leading markets have been chiefly responsible for the firm tone in values. The market is close to the highest level of the year. The demand is broad and distributors have been forced to pay stiff prices for choice stock although they are limiting purchases to urgent needs.

The cheese trade was of a narrow character. The market was weak and values slumped. Supplies of the old crop are in excess of requirements and steadily increasing receipts of the new make are pressing forward. The market is depressed with prices for Americans 1c under values of a week ago. Foreign descriptions are steady.

Fruit Receipts Heavy.

The apple market advanced slightly. Varieties are growing smaller in number and the supply is steadily decreasing, with a resultant firming in prices. Oranges from California are slightly firmer. Receipts are fairly heavy and the demand good. Receipts of strawberries are large and prices are more reasonable. The season has not been satisfactory thus far, as rains and hot weather in the South have made receipts erratic and berries have not always arrived in a satisfactory condition. The market is uncertain and fluctuates almost daily.

New cabbage is arriving freely from Southern territory and is offered at low quotations. In the last week or ten days cabbage has experienced a severe drop in prices. What little old cabbage is left in the market can be bought cheaply. The onion market is slightly higher and the trade is active. The market is exceedingly firm.

No Features in Vegetables.

The vegetable market is absolutely featureless, prices being practically unchanged. Pie plant is slightly cheaper, Illinois shipping more freely. A new arrival is the New Orleans cucumber, which is slightly cheaper than the local hothouse variety. Tomatoes are firmer than might be expected at this time of the year. Shipments are arriving from Florida. Weather conditions have been too changeable to permit of an active even trade in produce circles, but the comparative cheapness of most commodities served to discount to a large extent the unfavorable outside influences. Business for the week is satisfactory in the aggregate.

While there has been no material change in Maryland standard tomatoes, a firm undertone has developed for this line of goods, due largely to the fact that stocks in hands of packers are becoming noticeably smaller. The steady buying and consequent diminishment of packers' stocks tend to indicate a probable advance in the near future. It is more difficult now than for some time to buy No. 3 f. o. b. Baltimore, and under a packer's label, at less than 77½c, while goods of desirable quality to be sold under buyer's label are bringing 80c. Offers of 75c for large blocks of goods under packer's label have been rejected.

Asparagus is dull as a result of a good sized carryover and indications of a record-breaking crop. The movement of spot corn is fair, with prices steady.

Spot raisins continue firm in tone on account of the reports of damage by frost to the growing crop of the Santa Clara and San Joaquin valleys. Unconfirmed reports from Oregon say that Oregon Italian prunes were damaged by a frost last week. Apricot and peach trees in California were damaged, but apparently prunes in that state did not suffer.

The wholesale cost of sugar may make further advances after the recent bulge of 10c per 100 pounds.

BUY SITE FOR NEW BETHEL

Deal for West First Street Property Is Closed.

The site for the new Bethel building at the southwest corner of Mesaba avenue and First street is now owned by the Bethel society, the deal having been closed yesterday. The property was purchased from the Heyne Hospital society, the purchase price being $11,000.

Vernon J. Price & Co., architects for the new Bethel building, have been instructed to proceed with the preparation of the plans. The building will be a three-story brick structure and will cost about $60,000.

The last services in the old Bethel on Lake avenue will be held next Sunday, and Monday the property will be turned over to H. B. Fryberger, who recently purchased it. The new Bethel is expected to be completed early next fall, and until that time the society will have no quarters.

REAPPORTIONMENT BILL PASSES HOUSE.

Washington, April 28.—A bill providing for the enlargement of the national house of representatives from 391 to 433 members, and the apportionment of those members to the different states on the basis of the population shown by the recent federal census, passed the house early last evening after vein efforts of members of both political parties to amend it in important particulars.

The Houston bill, which was passed, leaves to the legislatures of the different states the power to rearrange the congressional districts in their respective states on the new population basis of one member for each 211,877 of inhabitants.

WILL WHITTIER GO?

Conference to Be Held Sunday Regarding His Resignation.

St. Paul, Minn., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following a conference between Governor Eberhart, members of the board of control and Judge Wilson of Red Wing, which lasted more than an hour, yesterday, announcement was made that a meeting had been arranged for Sunday, at which Supt. F. A. Whittier of the state training school for boys would be present, and the question of his resignation discussed.

Judge Wilson, who is Mr. Whittier's attorney, was told all phases of the situation, and returned to Red Wing last evening to advise with Mr. Whittier.

HONORED BY KING HAAKON.

Noted Norwegian Marksman to Become Citizen of United States.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 28.—Martin Trulsrud, who won over 440 competitors the prize offered by King Haakon of Norway for marksmanship in 1907, appeared before the clerk of the district court in this city yesterday and declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States. He is 29 years old and well educated in the Norwegian language and brought in the story of his markmanship when the clerk asked him: "Did you ever shake hands with the king of Norway?" He then told of the king presenting him with the magnificent shotgun which he still has in his possession, but not in this country.

Trulsrud left last evening for Montana to file on a claim.

Back in Washington.

Washington, April 28.—President and Mrs. Taft, accompanied by Secretary Hilles and Maj. Butt, aide to the president, returned to Washington this morning, after having spent two very busy days in New York.

GROWING GIRLS NEED A TONIC

When They Become Thin and Pale If Proper Development and Healthful Womanhood Is to Be Assured.

Poverty of the blood, scientifically called anæmia, is common in young girls and in persons who are overworked or confined within doors and makes its approach in so stealthy a manner that it is often well developed before its presence is recognized. Taken in time the disease is readily curable, the specific being a tonic medicine which increases the number of red blood corpuscles thus enabling the blood to carry the life-giving oxygen to all the tissues of the body.

Mrs. Nellie E. Roscovius, of Tulalip, Wash., was strong and healthy until her fourteenth year when she went into a rapid decline. For the next year she suffered from anæmia and was not cured until she gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. She says:

"When I was fourteen years of age I went into a decline and was miserable for a year. I had not a particle of color and my blood was turning to water. I was very weak and could not walk up stairs without great effort. I had dizzy spells and headaches all of the time and was compelled to leave school.

"The doctors pronounced my trouble anæmia but I did not receive much benefit from them. Through a neighbor, who had given her daughter Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I began their use. After a short treatment with the pills I was stronger. I quickly regained my health and strength and have had no occasion to use the pills since."

The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is successful because it acts directly on the blood, purifying and building it up to its normal health. It thereby keeps the body healthy even under unusual conditions.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves such as rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers, neuralgia, nervous debility, St. Vitus' dance and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Send today for a copy of our free booklet, "Diseases of the Blood."

Dry Shampoo Popular.

A local druggist is authority for the statement that most every woman, and many men, are using the popular "vilane-orris root dry shampoo." "It is becoming a craze," he says, "because of the quickly perceptible effect on the hair and scalp. It simply transforms an ordinary oily, stringy, dandruff-reeking head of hair into a most beautiful lustrious, fluffy and clean one. Mix together six ounces of powdered orris root and two ounces antiseptic vilane powder. Keep in a jar or box and frequently distribute a tablespoonful through the hair. Let remain several hours or a night and then comb and brush thoroughly."

A CONVINCING STATEMENT.

President Taft's talk before the publishers at their banquet in New York last night was one of the most convincing statements on the reciprocity question that has appeared since the matter of extending our trade with Canada has been broached. The president by virtue of his intimate knowledge of the negotiations that preceded the framing of the agreement now pending in the senate, was able to give conclusive answers to those who are opposing the plan on the ground that it would be detrimental to certain classes in this country. His statement throughout was clear and frank. It should have great weight with the members of the senate and with the men whom those members represent in the national congress.

One of the most insistent objections that has been raised to the agreement has been the fact that meats were not put on the free list as well as cattle. The president answered this objection by reciting the efforts made by the American commissioners to secure entire free trade between the countries, and the reply of the Canadians that they feared the results to their own home industries from such an agreement. He continued:

> The reason why meats were not put on the free list in this Canadian agreement, was because Canada felt that the competition of our packers would injuriously affect the products of their packing houses. If that be true, how would it help our consumers or lower the price of meat in our markets if we let their meat in free, while they retained a duty on our meat? The same thing is true of flour.

It must be evident to even the dullest mind that the Canadians regard their importations of meat as being so greatly in excess of their exportations that the latter can bear a duty on entrance to this country and yet not suffer any curtailment of trade. It is plain that we would have gained nothing by admitting Canadian meats free of duty under such circumstances.

As to amending the bill ratifying the agreement so as to include meats on the free list, the president pointed out the international commercial complications that must follow such action, by showing that the agreement as it stands is an arrangement of exchanges, whereas if we add to the free list it will mean that Canada becomes a favored nation, getting something for nothing in the way of a more open market, and therefore the "most favored nation" clause in our various treaties with other countries will open the way for them to demand similar market rights in this country.

Referring to the claim that the operation of the reciprocity agreement would mean a serious loss to the farmers of this country through a reduction in prices, the president said:

> The effect is not going, in my opinion, to lower the specific prices of the agricultural produce in our country. It is going to steady them, and it is going to produce an interchange of products that will be beneficial to both countries.

This is a matter of decided advantage to both producer and consumer. It will mean the doing away, to some extent at least, with the wide fluctuations in prices that have made agricultural returns uncertain and the cost of living an expensively variable quantity. Besides there will be the advantage of a broader and more active market.

To those who cry out that the Canadian agreement is aimed at one class as against all others, the president replied:

> If objection can be made to the treaty on the ground that a particular class derived less benefit from it than other classes, then it is the manufacturer of the country who ought to object, because the treaty in its nature will not enlarge his market as much as it will that of the farmer.

And it is the manufacturer who is objecting, through the American Protective Tariff league and every other agency that he can control. But he is not putting his objection in the way the president suggests. He knows that if he admitted for a moment the advantages the farmers will get through the operation of the agreement, he could not frighten them into opposing the agreement. What he is afraid of is that reciprocity with Canada will prove a wedge to split apart the high tariff wall, under whose protection he taxes the people of this country so that he can sell his goods at a high price here and at the same time undersell competitors abroad.

The president has reason to be gratified at the action of the house on the reciprocity agreement. So has the country at large, with the exception of the American Protective Tariff league and its minions. It is said the senate intends to ratify the agreement, too. There is every reason to hope that it will do so. Such a statement as that made by the president ought to be enough to convince the most radical doubter. It was manly and straightforward, and the men who are worrying about the Canadian agreement will do well to read and ponder upon it, and then prepare to take advantage of the bigger and better market that reciprocity will afford, and the improved business conditions that must come with closer commercial relations with our neighbor of the North.

THE "SENATE PROGRAM."

According to a dispatch published in The Herald last night, the regular Republicans in the senate have finally adopted a program—they will pass the bill providing for reciprocity with Canada, but will not agree to any further tariff legislation at this session. That is to be the limit of legislation in that line, at least, and it is expected, and with reason, that the Democrats in the senate will at least help the passage of the reciprocity bill.

It appears, then, that the extra session is to accomplish that for which it was called into being, and for this the country will be duly thankful. The Canadian agreement is a great achievement, and for congress to repudiate it would be to turn down one of the best measures that has been placed before the national lawmaking body in many years. The big majority given the measure in the house held out hope to the country. This senatorial program is promise of the fulfillment of that hope, for with the regular Repubicans and the Democrats in the senate combined in favor of it, the insurgent Republicans could do nothing effective.

The plan of the senate regulars means that the people will get the benefit of the extension of trade to the north, and there is abundant evidence that a vast majority of them are in favor of that extension. It will mean that President Taft will see the accomplishment of a project that has been very dear to him, so he will be pleased. It will mean that the schedules of the present tariff law will remain in force at least the balance of this calendar year, except in so far as they are affected by the Canadian agreement, and that will be gratifying to the protected interests. And it will mean that the Democrats will have the opportunity to point to their efforts to revise the tariff as wholehearted and sincere, and that will please the Democrats and at the same time not worry the standpat Republicans, since they proved by their passage of the Payne bill in the first place that they were willing to bear the responsibility for its provisions for as long as they might remain in force.

But the people also favor the "farmers' free list," and they will not be satisfied with the refusal of the senate to pass it. There is a possibility that its passage will be secured by a combination of Democratic and insurgent Republican senators. Some of the latter also are known to be opposed to the reciprocity bill, are understood to look with favor upon the free list bill, and by joining with the Democrats in the senate they may be able to defeat the regulars' plan to sidetrack that measure. The election of a Democratic house was a protest by the people against the iniquitous Payne-Aldrich tariff law and the failure of the Republican congress to revise the tariff downward. The free list bill aims to reduce the cost of living and it is a move in fulfillment of the pedges made by the Democratic party. The Canadian reciprocity bill is a step in the right direction and it should receive the approval of the senate. But the Democrats in congress would be faithless to their promises on the tariff question if they failed to use every effort possible to also secure the enactment of the free list bill.

THE INNOCENT BRIBER.

> I prosecuted the vote seller only. In the first place he was easier to catch. In the second place the buyer, I believe, was honest. I mean by this that he was working for his party. His attempt to buy votes was a sincere effort, according to his light, to help his own side. While the vote seller had no principle or even party loyalty to back him.

Truth comes out every once in awhile with some little thing like that that shows how far in the rear fiction is when it comes to downright surprises. The statement quoted was made by Judge Blair of Ohio, who prosecuted the Ohio vote sellers, and it puts a brand new light on the principle of bribery, or the lack of it, if you prefer.

"The buyer," says his honor, "I believe was honest." Sure he was. He "was working for his party." He wanted that vote, so he bought it, just as you would go to a store and buy a paper of pins, or to a neighbor and buy an old wagon that he was through with or a lawnmower that he had no more use for.

If there ever was anything on earth more beautiful than everything else on earth it is this honesty of the bribe-giver. He felt that his party needed the votes, and he went out and bought them. Think what that meant to the community. Undoubtedly, if his party had not got into power the nation would have gone to rack and ruin and the millenium would have been postponed a couple of trillion years. So in his simple honesty he went out and bought a few votes, and thereby saved all the suffering and sorrow and heartache that would have been sure to result if the other party had got in.

And think of the magnificent honor he displayed in his choice of men to deal with. He bought no votes that were not for sale. We can imagine him standing in the public square or at the foot of the statue of justice on top of the county court house, encircling the figure with loving arm, and saying firmly:

"If your vote is for sale, bring it to me and I'll buy it. But only if it's for sale, gentlemen; otherwise don't bring it, for I won't buy it if you won't sell it. No, no, gentlemen. I'm too honest."

And the beautiful discrimination he used in the prices he paid is another thing to marvel at. The public in its ignorance has always supposed that one man's vote was worth as much as another's, but the Ohio vote-broker knew better. Yes, indeed. He studied each vote, analyzed it, had it put through an acid test and then examined under the x-ray. And he would say after each examination: "This vote is worth 80 cents," or "this vote is worth $2.61," or this vote is worth $9.22, marked down from $9.25." And he would go and pay that price for it. Or if he found it necessary he might add another nickle, just to prove his honesty. Cheat a poor voter? No, not he. He believed in giving—and getting—full value. And he saved his party money at the same time.

It was all done for his party. Sure. That made it all the more honorable. If his party had planned a chicken pie supper and had needed the chickens he would have gone to a neighbor's hen-roost and got some, and it would all have been honest and honorable, since it was done for his party. And if the party had needed a drubbing at the polls maybe he would have gone and got that, too, in his simple, naive, honest way.

His honor may not know it, but this theory of his is positively refreshing. It is one of the best things said in years, outside Tammany hall. There, of course, the principle he lays down is nothing new. But Tammany always was a great stickler for honesty and uprightness, anyway. And Judge Blair is a close second to Tammany, it appears.

Another man who is due for trouble pretty soon is the flat janitor. He will have to learn the peculiarities of a lot of new families.

Albert T. Patrick is seeking prominence again. He is foolish to try to buck both the Mexican situation and reciprocity at the same time.

THE FARE PROVIDED AT THE SOLDIERS' HOME.

To the Editor of The Herald:

There has been published lately certain statements, purporting to come from different committee rooms at the capitol, charging that members of the Soldiers' home in the main dining hall were not given either milk or sugar with their meals. No opportunity was given to correct this absurd statement, and people who do not know the facts probably accept the statement as true. The people generally are interested in the home and the welfare of its members, and it is due them and to the management as well that the true facts should be given.

There is issued and used in the main dining hall alone an average of nearly three-fourths of a ton of good granulated sugar every month.

There is also issued and used in the main dining hall alone an average of seventy-one and one-half quarts of good milk every day in the month. This milk comes directly to us from a dairy farm near the home, and is of superior quality.

In this connection I may also add that butter and eggs are also shipped in to us directly from the farming country and are not purchased from cold storage houses. For further information I give you here the morning report of food served in the main dining hall:

Breakfast — Oatmeal, baked beans, eggs, bread, butter, coffee.

Dinner—Roast pork with dressing, sweet corn, potatoes, pudding, bread, butter, coffee.

Supper — Fried potatoes, cheese, bread, butter, cake, tea.

There is no excuse for any misrepresentation in regard to anything in this home, for all its departments are open to visitors at all times, and its books and accounts are often carefully inspected and approved both by the United States government and the state inspectors.

In no home in the country are the members better fed, better housed and better clothed than in the Minnesota home, and in no home are given greater benefits and privileges.

I regret to say that there are a few, and but a few, who neither appreciate nor acknowledge the benefits conferred upon them here by a generous people, but who continuously and outrageously misrepresent all that is done for them.

It must be borne in mind that all of these men are old, and many of them mentally irresponsible, and their unfounded complaints must be borne with all the patience and charity we possess.

FAIR DAY'S WAGE FOR FAIR DAY'S WORK.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Why not treat the laboring man like a man?

I am a young man who by almost starving myself saved enough to buy me an electric carpet sweeper and cleaner as well as a vacuum cleaner for walls, upholstered chairs, etc.

Now I have a machine second to none and a large portion of the East end people are very anxious to have me clean their houses for them, but it is a disgrace how they will haggle and try to get a man to work for nothing. They will have you bring your machine to their house and then offer you so little that it is impossible to live on the wages they offer. I became so discouraged by being beaten down so persistently and regularly that I went to my pastor and told him and he said: "Go to the next one and tell them you will do their work and they can pay what they think is right." I agreed to try it on this plan and so I started out and the first lady I tackled said, "Yes, go ahead," and I did so, and cleaned one rug of ten yards, six smaller rugs, six cushioned chairs, one fur coat, and one davenport. It was worth at least $3.50 and she could not get it done for a cent less anywhere. After doing the work I asked her what it was worth and she had the unlimited nerve to hand me out the sum of 75 cents.

Then came such a flood of orders from her neighbors that I had to fly for refuge. Very truly,

JAMES MORGAN.

Duluth, April 27.

Earth's Paradise.

I went down in the garden
In the early light of morn,
And walked about the borders
To see if the rose was born.

The violet was there to greet me
In purplue satin gown;
The robin came to meet me,
Dancing upon the ground.

And all about was the sunlight,
Falling in streams of gold.
And soft, sweet strains of music
Came from the wood and wold.

Song-birds happily mated,
Over a new nest crooned,
While I watched and waited,
A million roses bloomed.

Kissed by the truant winds,
Their holy incense rise
Over the wood and glen,
Earth's charming paradise.
—Dela McGovern.

The National Coal Bin.

The Independent: In 1814 twenty tons of coal were mined in the United States. By 1820 the amount had increased to over 3,000 tons in 1830 to 286,000 tons. By 1840 the production had reached nearly 2,000,000 tons, and in 1850 it was over 6,000,000. From this time the increase has been rapid and continuous. In 1883, production passed the 100,000,000 mark. in 1899 it was over 200,000,000; in 1903 over 300,000,000, and in 1907 exceeded 400,000,000 tons.

In 1870 Great Britain produced over half of the world's supply of coal, while the United States and Germany each furnished a trifle over 15 per cent, leaving 17 per cent for the production of the rest of the world. In 1902 Germany furnished about the same percentage of the world's supply as in 1870; Great Britain's proportion had decreased to less than 30 per cent, while the United States furnished more than one-third of the world's production. In 1870 England had produced more than the United States and Germany combined, while our country was third in rank. In 1902 the United States was easily in the lead, with Great Britain and Germany following.

Though the average individual, with his mind on kitchen range and household furnace, thinks of anthracite when coal is mentioned, our yearly production of bituminous quadruples that of anthracite.

The production and consumption of coal in this country are probably more nearly equal than is the case with the production and consumption of any other of the great staples. Only about 3 per cent of the product of our coal mines is at present exported, and during the last few years this proportion has remained fairly constant while the ratio of imports to our consumption has steadily decreased.

The Salt in the Sea.

Harper's Magazine: The sea, as all the world knows, is salt. It is salter where strong winds blow across the surface, as, for instance, in the trade-wind regions and in the Mediterranean and the Red Sea. It is less salt toward the poles and in the deeper layers of the ocean. It has long been known that the very salt water of the Mediterranean flows as an undercurrent outward through the strait of Gibraltar, and thus affects the salinity of the deeper waters of the Atlantic over a wide area. Although the amount of salt in sea water varies, the composition of sea salt remains very constant; slight differences have, however, been noticed along the continental coasts, in the polar regions, and in the deep water in direct contact with deep-sea deposits.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Lindbergh's Votes.

St. Cloud Times: Congressman Lindbergh voted against reciprocity. Has he yet voted for any important piece of legislation? Representatives Stevens, Nye and Miller voted for it, the other five against.

Not Easily Made.

Wabasha Herald: If you oppose Canadian reciprocity, you want to remember this fact: that we now have an opportunity to make an agreement with Canada by which a long list of articles can be imported from Canada to this country, or exported from this country to Canada, either free of duty or subject to a greatly reduced duty from what is now imposed. Such agreements are not easily made, and if not now accepted, we may not again have the opportunity. Should the effects of the treaty not prove to be in the welfare of this country, the agreement can be repealed by congress at any time. Remember also that nothing is contained in this agreement to prevent this country from lowering or doing away entirely with the duties named in this agreement or others.

Would Be a Calamity.

Sherburne County Star-News: Reapportionment in any form failed to come across in the legislature, and we'll have to stub along as before for another two years. According to newspaper reports, there will be no extra session, notwithstanding that the governor during the campaign threatened to call one if the state was not reapportioned. Of course, most of us knew at the time that the threat was merely buncombe, made at a time when votes were needed. Of course, when the proposition was put up to him he failed, for which we are duly grateful, as an extra session of the present legislature would be a calamity that we all shrink from, and no reapportionment that might be adopted would compensate for the other things that might be inflicted upon the public.

Give the Credit to Keefe.

Perham Enterprise: Practically the only piece of progressive legislation to the credit of the 1911 session is the Keefe bill, giving the Oregon plan of electing United States senators to this state. And credit for this is due to a Democrat, Representative J. K. Keefe of Redwood Falls.

Too Many Grafters.

Litchfield Independent: All kinds of theories are advanced as to why farming is not more profitable, and why the man who works for wages only gets a bare living. One reason not generally advanced accounts for a good deal of the trouble on both sides. There are too many grafters between the producer and the final consumer. The farmer raises 65 cents' worth of produce but gets only 35 cents for it because the middlemen take the other 30 cents. The laborer pays $1 for it, 35 cents more than it is worth, because the same middlemen make him do it. The farmer pays the go-between 30 cents and the laborer pays him 35 cents for his trouble, a tribute of 65 cents for every dollar in goods handled. The moral is to get the producer and consumer to deal direct. Then the farmer would get the 65 cents that he should have, and the consumer saves the 35 cents that he now pays to the rake-off chaps.

One Session Enough.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: It is a wise man who changes his mind for a good and sufficient reason. Governor Eberhart said he would call an extra session of the legislature if it did not pass a reapportionment bill. It was not passed, and there will be no extra session. The governor should not be charged with inconsistency. He is a wise man. One session of the legislature is enough, a-plenty, and altogether sufficient.

Stick to the Farm.

New Ulm Journal: If the young people who live in the country could get an inside view of city life, they would perhaps be more thankful for and contented with their lot. Every avenue of trade is overcrowded, and there are thousands of men and women today seeking employment and thousands of hard-working people are receiving a mere pittance in return for their labor. Few employes in the city make as much as almost any young man can make by farming. Even many of the clerks who create such a sensation by their seeming polished ways, fine clothes and dignified airs when they come down from town to visit their country cousins, get barely enough to keep soul and body together—a mere flimsy show, with no prospects ahead of anything better. Young man, stick to the farm a while longer. The hope of our land is yeomanry. An educated, righteous, farming population will bring prosperity to any nation.

An Unrepublican Idea.

Motley Mercury: It would seem that a thousand people in one part of the state are not entitled to as much representation as a thousand people in another more favored section. This is according to some of our statesmen at St. Paul.

A Baseball Story.

Here is one of Hugh S. Fullerton's stories in the American magazine:

"There were great base runners in the old days, and perhaps Collins, Cobb and Evers of the present-day base runners would class with them. This was chiefly because, in the early days, stealing second base was the chief aim of the game. Mike Kelly, Billy Hamilton, who in two successive seasons stole over 100 bases, "Big Bill" Lange, who stole 100 times in one season, were great runners who would be great under present conditions. I recall vividly Lange's 100th stolen base which established his record. He was on second base with no one out and Chicago needed one run to win the game. Anson was at the bat and, after his stolid, business-like style, he poked down a perfect sacrifice bunt and went lumbering toward first base. Lange started for third base, stopped and trotted back to second. Half way to the bench Anson discovered where Lange was and came near having a stroke of apoplexy. Lange had deliberately permitted his captain to sacrifice without advancing. Then by a wonderful dashing start Lange stole third base, scored on a fly and the game was won. Because he won the game Anson forgave him, but the modern player who attempted such a thing would be suspended and fined."

The Finishing Touch.

Judge: "No," says the eminent actress earnestly. "I cannot approve of the fashion that so many members of my profession have of being photographed continually."

The reporter makes some feverish notes and she continues:

"It seems to me that because one is on the stage is no reason why he or she should consider his or her face of absorbing interest to the public."

She continues for half a column, and as the reporter is stowing away his notebook she smiles sweetly and says: "Here is one of my latest photographs for you to use with the interview. I sat for it only yesterday, so you may be sure it has never before been reproduced."

Chicken Feeding by Telephone.

St. Louis Republic: Henry Myers, superintendent of the Waseca telephone system, keeps chickens and feeds them by telephone. He has fixed up a box in the chicken house with a drop floor in the bottom of it. In this he places feed. The catch that holds the door in place is a sensitive affair, and is connected to the telephone system. When 4 p. m. arrives Mr. Myers sticks in a plug and presses a button the same way operators do when they ring up your home or place of business. Then the catch on the feed box drops down, the feed falls to the floor and the chickens are fed.

Atlantic City Boardwalk Freak.

Philadelphia North American: Outside of the harem skirt squad the freaks of the boardwalk were a woman dressed in white from head to foot, who was in a white enameled rolling chair pushed by a coal black negro in a white suit; an actress who led a bulldog which carried a pipe in its mouth and a score or more of male pioneers who paraded in white flanneled suits topped by straw hats.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

General Manager Fisher of the Duluth & Winnipeg returned to the city today. He says laborers are distributed all along the right-of-way between Duluth and Cloquet, and expects the track will be finished before August.

A party of civil engineers in the employ of the government arrived in Duluth today. It consists of James A. Paige, who is in charge; L. D. Cabanne, Coburne S. Farrar and S. M. Shinke. The latter named hails from Vichy, Mo., and all the others from St. Louis. The corps is here to run a series of levels from Duluth to St. Paul, probably in order to obtain data for the proposed canal which St. Paul and Minneapolis people are advocating.

Secretary Pearson of the school board states that it is impossible to keep pace with the demand for more school houses. From Bay View Heights, Park Point, Oneota and everywhere comes the cry for more room.

Members of the "Old First Minnesota" residing in Duluth have received invitations from Maj. and Mrs. N. F. Warner of Minneapolis to be entertained at their home on April 29. Maj. Warner is prominent from his connection with the state militia. He was only 13 years old when the "Old First" was put into service and tried hard to get in with the regiment. Several years ago he conceived the idea of giving an annual reception to the regiment and he chose the day of its enlistment, April 29. This reception is now a regular thing and is very popular with the veterans.

Mrs. H. Everington of West Second street left last evening for Portland, Me., where she will take a steamer for Liverpool. Mrs. Everington was among the first settlers of Keweenaw Point, having landed there in 1850.

T. M. Helinski, Andrew Marshall and other Polish citizens have during the winter built a little steam launch twenty feet long, which made good time on a recent trial trip.

The old South Duluth swindle has bobbed up again. This time Arnold Reese of St. Paul is the victim. He bought two lots and on taking his deeds to the Superior county office found he has some worthless property.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Fliegende Blaetter: "And when shall I take the sleeping draught, doctor?"

"Well, about fifteen minutes before you go to sleep."

Boston Herald: "That dollar I gave you, James, to save up for a rainy day, did you put it in the bank?"

"I—I started for the bank, sir, but it came on to rain so hard that I was forced to go into the inn, sir."

Pele Mele: Magistrate—You are accused of stealing a diamond worth 50,000 francs.

Thief—I only wish I had the chance!

Magistrate—It is said to be worth more, even.

Thief—You can have it for 20,000, sir.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: The impassioned orator at the Milwaukee tramps' convention paused and wiped his perspiring brow.

"Brothers," he said, "this is hard work."

Then they expelled him.

Boston Transcript: Mother (reprovingly)—Willie, some one else may like the tender bits of celery besides you. Why do you always pick them out when the dish is passed?

Willie—You said, ma, that I must never take the biggest pieces when things are passed to me.

Exchange: Griggs—The doc has told Brown that his only hope is to go to Florida, but he says if he does he'll have to run into debt.

Briggs—Poor Brown. Then it's a case of either I. O. U. or R. I. P.

Pele Mele: Portrait Painter—How can you expect me to paint your portrait from these two photographs when one is dated 1863 and the other 1911?

The Baroness—Why, copy the head from the 1863 one and take the gown from this year's!

Kansas City Journal: Teacher—And did you make out a list of the nine greatest men in the history of the world, as I told you?

Willie—Almost. I can't pick out the best catcher, though, to save my neck.

Boston Transcript: A certain theatrical manager was aproached by a playwright with a scenario. After he had questioned the playwright as to the character of his offering, the manager asked for the outline and it was handed to him Giving one hasty glance at the title of the play, which was "Psyche," he remarked:

"Oh, come, this would never do. Fancy a romantic play with such a title as 'Fish.'"

Boston Transcript: "How did the burglar escape?" inquired the detective.

"Well," replied the guard with the damaged eye, "he sort o' nicknamed himself out."

"What do you mean?"

"First he pried open his cell door with a jimmy, then he knocked me down with a bully and then he sallied forth."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A man may be willing to confess, but if he is it is not the real thing.

The more sense some men can have the less they will use it in their own business.

A girl considers it a proposal of marriage when a man asks her if she was named after her mother.

Flowers seem to cost an awful lot more after a man gets through being engaged to a girl by marrying her.

Sometimes it seems as if a woman can't get any pleasure out of doing things for those she loves unless it means sacrificing herself.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: The strict mother may make an indulgent grandmother.

The prodigal son went wrong, but he came back all right.

Love in a cottage isn't bad, if you also own a house in town.

The upper crust of society isn't always founded upon dough.

Theories are all right until you try to make them do practical stunts.

Even a homely girl doesn't want to be described in plain language.

The woman who looks younger than she is hasn't much of a kick coming.

The self-made woman is just as proud of her figure as if nature had a hand in it.

Some men manage to dodge the trials fate has in store for them by not getting married.

When a bachelor finds a girl that pleases him he is apt to find that she isn't so easily pleased.

If you would be somebody, get in touch with men of affairs—that is, providing they will stand for the touch.

Instead of wanting to go West and fight Indians, some boys prefer to stay at home and get chummy with those of the cigarette shops.

Pike County Culture.

New York World: "Seppulchre," spelled Miss Margaret Patterson and the two p's ended the longest spelling bee ever held in Missouri, with Miss Ruth Crensaw, the winner, still standing.

The Pike county courthouse was filled with friends and relatives of the contestants, who for seventeen hours, with only an occasional intermission, had withstood the bombardment of words until 10,000 had been given out.

The contest was held under the supervision of the county school commissioner. It is estimated that of the 10,000 words assigned to the contestants, the winner spelled 2,500.

Cause and Effect.

Harper's Weekly: "I see from the papers," said Dawson, "that there is a great scarcity of chorus girls this year."

"I was afraid there would be," said Wiggles. "It's only another case of cause and effect. The French champagne crop has practically failed, and lobsters are scarcer than hens' teeth this season."

What Is a Diploma Worth?

Is a diploma from a college worth anything? asks the Omaha World-Herald. Dr. George Whiteside, a graduate of Harvard and a student in Paris schools, contends that his Harvard diploma is worth $20,000 and he has sued the Adams Express company for that sum, charging that the express company lost the document.

The case, which was argued in supreme court, recently, is complicated by the further fact that Harvard will not issue a duplicate diploma, but after a diploma has been lost will issue only a certificate setting forth the fact that the person who lost the diploma did graduate upon such and such a day. Dr. Whiteside has received this certificate. The express company attorney claims that the diploma has no intrinsic value, and that only a sentimental estimate can be put upon it, a thing which a court will not consider, it is asserted.

Philosophy From the Bleachers.

Aw, ginger up! Get hep! Get wise!
De woild ain't always at its best—
Remember dis, dey's lots o' guys
Dat's wearin' rainchecks in der vest!
If luck throws wide then change yer style
An' frame a Honus Wagner clout—
Dust off de plate an' grab a smile
An' hit her out, kid, hit her out!

Don't throw de game 'cause luck has lined
A pair of punk ones at y', boss!—
Dey ain't no pitcher ever signed
Dat always puts de pill across;
When wild ones come don't throw a fit
An' sneak along de bench an' pout—
Just grab a smile, buck up an' spit,
An hit her out, kid, hit her out!
—John D. Wells in the Buffalo News.

One of Those Questions.

Southwest: John Kendrick Bangs was one day calling up his wife on the telephone. The maid at the other end did not recognize her "master's voice," and after Bangs had told her who he wanted the maid asked:

"Do you wish to speak with Mrs. Bangs?"

"No indeed," replied the humorist; "I want to kiss her."

The program is about arranged for the meeting and acceptances have been received by wire from many of the prospective speakers who have been telegraphed asking if they could be relied upon for speeches. JOHN RYAN, DRILL MAN, PASSES AWAY

Well Known in Lake Superior Region and Veteran of the Boer War.

Ishpeming, Mich., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Ryan, a former well-known diamond drill man of Ishpeming, died suddenly recently in Denver, Colo., where he was working for M. A. Hern, also formerly of this city.

The deceased made a reputation as a diamond drill operator prior to leaving here for South Africa, where he conducted drilling contracts for several years. Many of the drill men of the Lake Superior district regarded him as the most successful drill runner in the business. He established a number of records for rapid drilling and besides being an expert with the machine he was also an exceptionally fine diamond setter.

Was Brave Boer Soldier.

Mr. Ryan distinguished himself in the Boer war, when he fought with the Africans. He was in a number of the severe battles and had several narrow escapes. The officers in command of the Boers regarded Ryan as one of their bravest and most capable soldiers. Following the cessation of hostilities Ryan resumed his drilling work in Africa and a few years later came to the states and went to Colorado to take a position with Mr. Hern. During a part of the time he was in Africa he and his brother, Martin, conducted drilling contracts on their own account.

The deceased was a son of Owen Ryan, one of the Ishpeming's early settlers. The family lived on North Maple street until the old folks passed away. Martin Ryan is now the only surviving member of the family, another brother having died in the West some years ago.

COURT UPHOLDS THE SUNDAY LAW

Supreme Court of North Dakota Rules on Bismarck Arrest Case.

Bismarck, N. D., April 28.—Arguments on the writ of habeas corpus issued by the supreme court to C. W. Temple, manager of the Grand theater of Bismarck, who is in jail on a charge of violating the Sunday theater closing law, were heard by that body yesterday, after which the writ was made returnable. The court quashed the writ and remanded the defendant to the custody of Sheriff Barnes.

As to the question of unconstitutionality the court held that the law is not vulnerable to such an attack. This means that the law is constitutional so far as this particular case is concerned, and the supreme justices belive this practically upholds the constitutionality of the law under any circumstances as they cannot conceive of any better way to bring a test case before them.

Knox of the Soo, who has been doing admirable work for the association as chairman of the publicity committee; Senator Moriarty of Crystal Falls; Thornton A. GIRL'S ANKLE AT ISSUE.

Minneapolis Jury Cannot Decide Whether It's Worth $20,000.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 28.—A jury in the Hennepin county district court was unable to agree on the value of a young woman's ankle and to set a price on her social pleasures and school studies. After a vain effort to arrive at a verdict the jurors were discharged.

Twenty thousand dollars was asked by Louise C. Atchison, a pretty 16-year-old high school girl, for a sprained ankle, alleged to have been injured when stepping from a street car at Cottage City, Oct. 7, 1910.

Before the accident Miss Atchison was in perfect health, she says. The wrenched ankle has made it impossible for her to take part in social gatherings, at which she was prominent before the injury, is the allegation.

The girl asserted her right side was serevely bruised and her right hand sprained at the time of the accident. Besides, she has been unable to keep up her school work in the manner she desires.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 28.—At the forty-sixth annual conclave of the Minnesota grand commandery, Knights Templar, held here Wednesday officers were chosen as follows: George F. Haynes of Minneapolis acted as grand captain of guard.

RATE CASE APPEAL.

Will Be Argued Before Judge Sanborn Next Tuesday.

St. Paul, Minn., April 28.—Judge Walter H. Sanborn will hear arguments for an appeal to the supreme court in the Minnesota rate cases next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. An important point to be decided is whether a stay of the injunction will be granted. The three roads directly involved will have to return to the old rates on June 1 unless the stay is allowed, and this would result in a rate mix-up because the other six roads are not bound by the injunction and would be obliged to stick to the present rates put in by the state railroad and warehouse commission.

According to the present plans, the Minnesota rate cases will be made one with the Missouri cases. If this is done the supreme court will hear the arguments early in the October term.

ATTEMPTS LIFE WHEN HIS SON TESTIFIES.

Jamestown, N. D., April 28.—After being obliged to listen to his own son give incriminating testimony against him in a local hotel where justice court was held on account of the illness of the prisoner's son, John Hagen went into the basement and cut his throat with a jack knife. He was unconscious when found but may recover.

How to Have Red Lips!

The girl with red lips and pink cheeks may be thankful, for both denote health—vigorous, forceful, magnetic health, and while it may be impossible for some to attain owing to morbid states or health, yet a vast majority of seemingly healthy young women and men are almost colorless, because of a lack of red blood corpuscles. When the blood is improved and enriched with these red corpuscles, the weight increases and a beautiful tint appears on the cheeks, while the lips assume a healthy red color. Many physicians and beauty doctors prescribe three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets which are said to invariably increase the red blood corpuscles after a course of treatment lasting several months. The nervous system and general health also improve rapidly. The best physicians and apothecary shops supply this tablet in sealed packages.

GREAT FUTURE PREDICTED FOR WESTERN SUBURB

Optimism Foremost in Some Speeches at New Duluth Banquet.

Center of City's Industrial Life on Shore of St. Louis River.

That New Duluth is destined to become the center of one of the principal manufacturing points in the great Northwest was freely predicted by speakers last evening at the first annual banquet of the New Duluth Commercial club. New Duluth is the coming industrial center of the city, they claimed.

The banquet was a decided success. More than 200 people were present, nearly half of those attending coming from Duluth and West Duluth on a special train. The supper was served by the women of the New Duluth Presbyterian church and it was a splendid one. There was an excellent list of speakers, and good musical numbers filled out an entertaining program.

Dr. C. J. Wallace of Superior was toastmaster. He introduced the various speakers in a pleasant manner and kept the crowd in good humor with his stories. Rev. Peter Knudson, president of the organization, gave the invocation and the address of welcome. The other speakers were Mayor M. B. Cullum, C. E. Lovett, W. A. McGonagle, P. E. Dowling, W. I. Prince, L. A. Barnes, H. H. Peyton and J. W. Norton. Those who took part in the musical program were Mrs. C. W. Peters and C. H. Peters, both of New Duluth. Mrs. Peters' rich voice was especially pleasing.

The banquet was held at Kaluaszcewicz hall.

Mayor Is Optimistic.

Mayor Cullum spoke on "Duluth." The whole city, he said, is on the verge of a new era of prosperity and development. The coming of the steel plant to New Duluth will mean much to the suburb, he declared, but it will mean more to Duluth. The city, he said, is still in its swaddling clothes and has before it, a great future. "Now is the time," the mayor said, "to be careful about matters of city government."

The mayor advocated that strict attention be paid to public improvements and urged that whenever any improvements be made, that they be permanent. In this connection, he held out much encouragement for New Duluth people, who are working hard to secure water and gas connections with the city mains and street car service.

He also talked of the playground movement and told of its importance in the development of any community.

Steel Distributing Center.

"Steel" was the subject that was assigned to W. A. McGonagle, president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway. The natural advantages of Duluth over the Eastern cities as a distributing plant for manufactured iron and steel, are bound to make the Head of the Lakes—for Superior also must share in this prosperity—one of the leading manufacturing centers in the United States.

To emphasize his statements, he pointed out the economy of manufacturing here in Duluth and saving a longer haul to other steel mills, the railroad facilities between Duluth and the iron ranges and the improved facilities in the manufacture of steel, which will be adopted at the new plant in Duluth.

The speaker predicted a half million population for Duluth within the next few years. Although Duluth and Minnesota will own the steel plant, there is no reason, he stated, that Superior and Wisconsin, should not profit greatly by the coming of the new steel plant. Several large industries, which will be attracted to Duluth by the steel plant, will locate on the Wisconsin side of the river, although no part of the steel plant itself will be outside of Minnesota.

For a United Duluth.

"All divisions of the city should be wiped out," declared W. I. Prince, who spoke on "The Commercial Club." "There should be no sectionalism, no New Duluth, no West Duluth, no Lakeside, but all one Duluth, among whose people, no contention should ever exist." Mr. Prince carried greetings to the new organization from the Duluth Commercial club and offered the co-operation of the up-town organization in working out the civic problems which might present themselves from time to time.

The "pull together" spirit was the keynote of his talk and he emphasized the necessity of co-operation as it applies to commercial clubs. He then gave a short talk as to what civic bodies can do if they set about it in the right way. The Commercial club of Duluth, he declared, was the most efficient club in any city northwest of Chicago.

Historical Review.

C. E. Lovett, who has been an active dealer in Duluth real estate for twenty-five years and has been prominent in the business life of the city during that time, gave an interesting historical paper. He traced the development of the city and the increases in real estate values from the time he came to Duluth to the present day.

Mr. Lovett gave an interesting account of the formation of the New Duluth Land company and the platting of the suburb. He told of the first sale of lots and the phenomenal success they met with. He concluded with a glowing promise for the future of the whole city and especially of the western section.

Duluth's Opportunities.

P. E. Dowling made one of the best talks of the evening. He spoke on "Future Manufactories in Duluth." He was not backward in his belief that Duluth was going to become a second Pittsburg in short order, as far as numbers and strength are concerned.

The field of opportunity opened up by the steel industry at the Head of the Lakes, said the speaker, is unlimited. New industries are bound to be attracted to Duluth by the steel mills, he said, and Duluth's future is destined to be a brilliant one in the industrial world.

Clubs Extend Greeting.

L. A. Barnes, president of the West Duluth Commercial club, extended congratulations from his club and expressed considerable satisfaction at the progress made by the new club. H. H. Peyton, president of the Proctor Commercial club, also spoke along these lines. James W. Norton, a member of the New Duluth Land company, was another speaker. He told of the ideal location of New Duluth as site of a large industry.

Remember bankrupt clothing sale at 17 East Superior street opens tomorrow.

RAN AWAY FROM HOME

Leo Wilkin, 15 years of age, was picked up while wandering along the streets of the West end at 2 o'clock this morning by Patrolman Mahlen. He asked the officer where he could get a job. He admitted when questioned that he had run away from his home in Chicago, and when searched at the police station a small arsenal was found on his person. He had a large .38-caliber revolver, a belt full of cartridges and a set of brass knuckles.

Wilkin said that he had left his home because his father was mean to him. He denied that he had been reading novels and was on his way West to become a cowboy. He claimed to have gotten his idea from the boys in his neighborhood, who were talking about going West to make their fortunes. This morning de declared at headquarters that if he ever got back home again he would never leave. The local authorities are writing to his parents. He said that he had only 50 cents when he started and is now without a cent.

Locked up with him in the boys department is Julius Wilcox, 19 years of age, who gave himself up to Sergeant John Roberg on the Bowery yesterday afternoon, stating that he is wanted at Philadelphia for embezzlement. He is just as anxious to get back home as his younger companion. "I was a fool," he said. "I had the traveling bug and left with $100 and a fine outfit of clothes. When I spent it all I got a job and went to work. But it wore on my nerves so much that whenever I saw a stranger approaching I felt like running away. Once I got so scared that I fell off a bridge into a river. I couldn't stand it any longer and made up my mind to come to the nearest big city and give myself up. I did so and I feel a lot better." The police have wired the authorities at Philadelphia, but up to noon had received no answer from them.

ORE PRICES ARE SHADED

The Lake Superior iron industry has been temporarily released from its rut of inertia by the sale of 200,000 tons of Bessemer ore from its Mesaba range mines and 550,000 tons of non-Bessemer ores by a Pittsburg ore company on a basis of $4.25 and $3.50 a ton, respectively. Cleveland firms have sold several blocks of ore at the same reductions. With the prices thus fixed, various reservations made in recent months become contracts.

The prices of Lake Superior ores are thus determined by sales rather than by agreement for the first time in several years. The reduction in 50 cents a ton of Lake Superior Bessemer ores and 25 cents a ton in crude Port Henry ores, was made to stimulate buying activity. While the lower prices resulted in sales by people who put the reductions into effect, yet the shading of values has faled to arouse buyers to the activity expected.

Furnaces are so well supplied with ore that they are not under the necessity of making contracts and are not disposed to increase their financial obligations which are already onerous, until trade conditions show indications of improvement.

Conferences between the various interests represented in the manufacturg of steel products have not contributed to cheerfulness and manufacturers are not optimistic over the immediate future. The expectation that the reduction in the prices of iron ore would stimulate inquiry for pig iron has not been realized.

The percentage of furnaces of the United States Steel corporation in operation has declined within the last week from 70 to 67. Four furnaces of the Carnegie Steel company have been put out of commission and two merchant furnaces in the Mahoning valley have been blown in.

PUZZLED BY SITUATION

Bankers and Merchants See No Reason for Business Inactivity.

Financial Condition Sound and Crop Reports Seldom So Good.

New York, April 28.—The business situation as viewed by Wall street and by the bankers of the country is an anomalous one, and many are the theories which are put forth as to its cause and of the remedies for it.

The financial condition is declared not only to be sound in every way, but absolutely stronger than it has been at any time in the past.

The credits available at home and abroad were never so large, never so easy to be made use of.

Our crop reports were seldom so good, and the agricultural prospects never so glowing as far as supplies for our own people and a large surplus for exportation can be predicted from information gleaned so early in the season.

There are no war scares sufficient to alarm our people, no epidemics to paralyze their energies or prostrate their enterprises; in brief, we are in financial and basic business conditions that should stimulate commerce and industry to the very highest degree, and yet the country lags in a measure that calls for careful consideration as to cause of failure to respond to the exceedingly favorable surroundings.

Conflicting Theories.

If you ask a leading financier or a Wall street operator he will at once say it has been caused by the waiting for decisions of the supreme court upon important business affairs.

If you ask manufacturers of protected articles they will tell you it is the uncertainties of the proposed tariff legislation.

If you ask a free trader he will tell you it is because the people have to pay too much profit to certain manufacturers.

If you ask the merchants they say frankly they cannot tell why their sales do not increase to a greater degree in the face of such prosperity throughout the farming districts, and the steady employment at good wages of so many persons in the industrial districts in city and town and country.

It would seem that the country is simply waiting for greater certainty as regards the important crops of the republic, and if they even equal those of last year there will result the largest business in the summer and fall of this year that has ever been known in the United States.

The people of New York city are heartily in favor of Canadian reciprocity, and they think that will be a fixed fact before July 1, and they expect in the autumn and winter to have the benefits resultant from that measure.

Railway lines running from the Northwest and North to this city expect to derive great benefits from the adoption of reciprocity by the congress, and steamships running from this city, it is claimed, will have an increased tonnage offered them by reason of the growth of trade brought about by the pending measure.

Considering Annexation.

The residents of Westchester county are earnestly debating the question as to whether the county shall soon appear as an annexed borough to this great city, or whether they will organize a municipal government of a great city of their own.

The county has gained 20 per cent in population in the last five years and each year the ratio of gain is increasing.

The growth of the county is owing largely to the proximity of New York city, and as every one is aware the business interest of the city is the predominant factor in all things that make for the progress of the county.

Every line of transportation in Westchester county has its main terminal in the city, and during the coming two years additional lines will be constructed to traverse every portion of the county and bring new districts into direct communication with the very heart of the metropolis.

The county is now but an outlying borough of the city as far as its business is concerned, and whether its residents form another municipality or come in as part and parcel of this city it will make little or no difference save as to the name which it will take.

Jersey City, even in another state, is quite as direct a contributing factor to the actual business of Manhattan as is Brooklyn, one of the city's boroughs, and so it will be with Westchester county.

It may never be known as New York, but it will each year become more and more one of the contributing sources to the growth of the metropolis, and with the electric and steam railways carrying its inhabitants every few minutes to and from the Battery and the intervening points, it will be for all practical purposes as much New York as the territory south of the Harlem.

New Electric Road.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway company is promoting the construction of an electric railway called the New York, Westchester & Boston railway through the county, touching at White Plains and Port Chester, and it will connect with the elevated and subway systems of this city.

This new road is of the very latest type of electric railway construction and has four tracks, two of them to be used for express trains and two for locals.

The railroad is to be running to White Plains not later than Nov. 1 of the present year.

In connection with this extension of the city's suburban limits, it is interesting to note from the latest annual report of the Long Island railroad, made public on April 11, that the receipts of that road increased $818,720 from the prior year, equivalent to 9.14 per cent increase.

This was due to the increase in the passenger traffic of the road, owing to the direct connection made with the Pennsylvania terminal at Seventh avenue and Thirty-second street.

An Interesting Report.

A great deal of interest is being taken by the merchants and manufacturers of this city in the recently published report of the English board of trade upon the cost of living in the United States.

This report is being extensively used by British protectionists as an argument against free trade in Britain, and here it is discussed as an article in favor of protection and also as a statement showing there are no reasons for our workingmen being dissatisfied with present conditions, as they, according to this report, are far more comfortable in every way than the workingmen of other countries.

The report contrasts wages, rents and costs of living in the United States with those received and paid by the workingmen of England, and in summing up, places all the advantages with our people.

While this report will be used, no doubt with great effect in Europe, and especially by the tariff reformers of Britain as a political weapon in order to place Britain in line for higher duties, it cannot cut much figure here, as our workingmen are fully aware of advantages of residing in the United States, and however well provided our citizens are, it is an axiom among all classes that they must strive to do still better.

THERE can be no more certain indication of good taste in dress than to wear "Gothams," the shirts most preferred by New York men.

GO TO YOUR dealer and ask him to show you the new idea in Shirts—they are labeled "Gotham." If you are unable to find them, tell us so. $1.00, $1.50 and higher. The "Gotham Style Book" is ready for the asking.

LARGE WAD AND FOURTEEN "KIDS"

Of Frederick Schneider Made Ellis Island Officials Smile.

New York, April 28.—Wisdom is bestowed as the middle name of most of the immigrant inspectors on Ellis Island since the whole Dam family arrived in port last week, but it remained for Frederich Schneider to introduce them to something new. They thought that Mr. Schneider was easy at first when he marched into the inspection pen, followed by fourteen children ranging in ages from 2 to 23 years.

"Where do you come from?" was the first question they asked him.

"Johanisthal, Russia, near Odessa," replied the father of fifteen, for the eldest son is at present in North Dakota.

"How many children?"

"Fourteen," said Mr. Schneider. "Nine boys and five girls." Then he whispered something in the inspector's ear and smiled as much as his whiskers would let him. The inspector—well, he wrote fourteen in the book, but congratulated Mr. Schneider.

"Where are you going?"

"Glenn Ullen, North Dakota," said Mr. Schneider.

"How much money have you?"

This is where Mr. Schneider made the inspectors forget their middle names, for he answered, "$26,500."

When the inspector looked as though he might have grown up on the other side of the Mississippi, Mr. Schneider reached down in his jeans and displayed a roll of money, the size of which never before was seen on the island.

When he reached the Battery Mr. Schneider explained that he had been a farmer in Johanisthal, which is in the providence of Garsonski, and when he was not busy farming he was buying land until he had more than 300 acres. As soon as his eldest son settled in North Dakota Mr. Schneider sold his land and came to America.

The Schneider family is going West at once, and the father figured out that his transportation from Johanisthal for all hands was about $1,800. He comes near establishing a record, too. With fourteen children and the promised visit of the stork, and that $26,000, he makes a strong bid for Ellis Island championships.

CARNEGIE "TECH" GIRL SUSPENDED

Letter to "Cupid Page" of Newspaper Upsets Prim School.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 28.—Girl students of the Margaret Morrison Carnegie school, the women's branch of the Carnegie technical schools, are in a panic, and Cupid is hiding in Panther Hollow in Schenley Park, where the schools are situated.

The professional adviser of that portion of Pittsburg's youthful population which suffers from "puppy love" and which writes to the newspaper employing this friend of the lovesick for advice probably realizes by this time that her advice is as nothing in the way of wholesome effect compared to the application of a barrel stave by a stern parent.

An instructor in the Carnegie school perused the "Cupid page" of a daily paper and found a letter from a "tech" school girl. The writer minutely described her charms, asked whether she was to be considered pretty, told of her love affair with a young man and asked the guardian of the "puppy lovers" if she thought the youth really had serious intentions.

But alas, the little girl signed herself "M. M. C. S. Student," the mystic letters standing for Margaret Morrison Carnegie School. The instructor immediately informed the other members of the faculty and the student, who had described herself so minutely, was given the "third degree" and confessed. Then she was suspended.

W. P. Field, secretary of the board of trustees of the Carnegie Technical Schools, made the following statement:

"Action by the faculty was taken in this case in order to maintain the discipline of the institution. While the offense is entirely within the province of the faculty to pass upon, the members exceedingly regret the publicity given the case. The girl has been suspended for the rest of the term, but probably will be allowed to take the June examinations."

Some of the members of the faculty spoke of the culprit as a foolish, indiscreet child and smiled indulgently.

Other girls at the school who have been letting "Tech" boys carry their books and pay their car fare are much wrought up since the members of the faculty have barred Dan Cupid.

FIFTY MILLION DOLLARS

Represents Wealth of Jury That Will Try Assault Case.

Akron, Ohio, April 28.—For the trial of John Becker, charged with assault, Judge R. M. Wanamaker has ordered a special venire. He furnished the names to the clerk, and on the list were twenty of the most prominent business men and bankers in the city.

The total wealth of this jury is estimated at $50,000,000. The jury was composed of the following: A. H. Marks, Frank A. Seiberling, Will Christy, B. G. Work and H. S. Firestone, all officials of the rubber companies; J. B. Campbell, N. P. Goodhue and G. P. Morgan, bankers.

The remainder of the jury is made up of business men. This is the first jury of its kind which has occupied the jury box in this court. Some of the men have never done jury duty before.

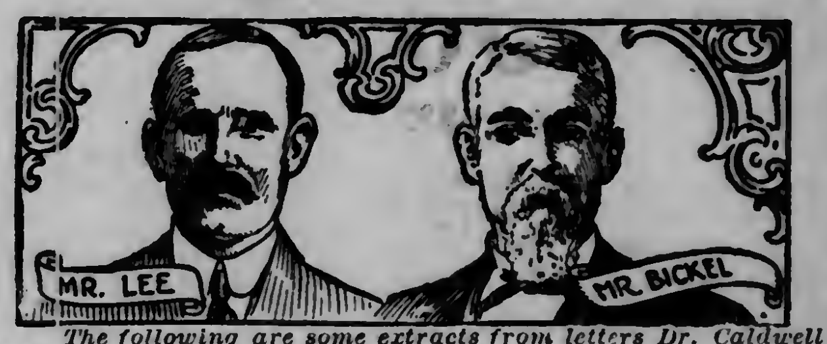
ASKS BALM OF $50,000.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 28.—Miss Georgiana Young of Pittsburg, who is suing a young millionaire ore man, James Corrigan, Jr., of this city, for $50,000 damages, alleging breach of promise to marry her, wept profusely as she told her story in the federal court, and how he came into her room at a French Lick Springs hotel and spent part of the night.

Miss Young says Corrigan asked her to become his wife. She consented, and after she returned to Pittsburg from the Indiana resort, he presented her with an engagement ring, she testified.

Attorney Holdings, for Corrigan, made a bitter attack on the young plaintiff's habits previous to the time that Corrigan met her.

In addition to many witnesses Miss Young will have introduced as evidence a number of letters written on Corrigan-McKinney stationery and alleged to have been signed by Corrigan.



Remedy That Cures Indigestion Free

The reader who will take the time to look over the accompanying testimonials must admit that a remedy about which such words can be written—and they are honestly written—must be a marvelous remedy indeed. We have from time to time printed letters regarding Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in which the writers said they had lived on crackers and milk for weeks until they took Syrup Pepsin and were cured of their indigestion. Syrup Pepsin cures indigestion and such troubles as constipation, biliousness, belching, gas on the stomach, heartburn, etc., because it is in every sense a scientific preparation. It is effective but yet mild, and it tastes pleasantly. It also contains tonic ingredients that strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles so that in a short time they do their work again naturally. It is a laxative tonic of genuine merit, and yet perfectly harmless to an infant. Thousands of mothers buy it for their children. Perhaps it would be best for you to send for a free sample bottle first, and then, after you have used it and become convinced it is the remedy you have been looking for, buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Thousands have begun the use of Syrup Pepsin by first beginning on a sample bottle, which was sent free.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ill.

The following are some extracts from letters Dr. Caldwell has received:

"I have traveled all over the country for my health, have tried changes of climate, different waters, different doctors, but never could get rid of my indigestion. Finally I couldn't eat the lighest food without it nearly killing me. One lucky day I saw a reference to Syrup Pepsin and determined to try it. I had tried everything else so why not this? I did and the result is that I am a cured man today, able to do as big a day's work as I ever did, and sound and well in every way. I believe Syrup Pepsin did it, and hence willingly recommend it."—William Lee, 228 18th Street, Cairo, Ill.

"Your free sample bottle of Syrup Pepsin was a great fortune to me. I got to the point where I could not trust myself to eat anything but milk toast, oatmeal and such things. Since I am taking Syrup Pepsin I can eat most anything with a relish and do not experience any misery in my stomach as I did for two years past. I will always have it in the house hereafter for it has done me more genuine good than all the other things combined I have taken in the past three years."—J. E. Bickel, S 19th Street, Terre Haute, Ind.

"I received your sample bottle O. K. I was troubled with indigestion and heartburn and could not eat anything without being troubled, but after taking the Syrup Pepsin I could eat anything without any bad effect, so I bought a large bottle. I would not be without it for anything."—John Wallace, Austin, Texas.

"The sample bottle of Syrup Pepsin received. The result of the trial proved satisfactory, and am now using a large bottle purchased from our druggist. I find it to be a good medicine for indigestion." — Mrs. J. S. Stanley, Seymour, Mo.

"I received your free sample of Syrup Pepsin, which I took according to directions, and can say it has done me more good than anything else. I have bought one bottle and used it."—T. W. Worthy, Forsythe, Ga.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Dr. Nathanial I. Rubinkam gave the first of his course of three lectures under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club yesterday afternoon at the guild hall of the Endion Methodist Episcopal church before an appreciative audience. His subject was "The Influence of Darwin on the Poetry of Tennyson."

Dr. Rubinkam had not been in Duluth for two years, and he spoke of the growth which he had noticed, especially in the East end, and the churches which have been erected. He said that religion is evidently a chief concern, if not the chief concern, among mortale here below.

"If I were a Shinto priest, or a Confucian, a Hindu, or a Mohammedan, a Budhist or a Jew," he said, "you might be curious to know just what my religion is. My religion is the study and love of nature in its broadest sense—the great universe without and human nature within. My oracle is the latest dictum of science and my faith a vision and love of life as it is. I have a respect for various forms of religion which men profess, and all I ask is that they have a regard and charity for mine. To attain it has cost me the greatest price and the greatest sacrifice.

"My great regard for Tennyson," he continued, " is that his great soul strangled and agonized with the facts of science which seemed to be tearing away the foundations of all he had learned as a son of a clergyman of the Church of England. In trying to adjust his traditional faith to Darwin's revolutionary theory of evolution, he keeps the old vocabulary and spirit, yet one can see in his lines that he is in reality a child of the new world.

"He met the problem of evolution not as a scientist with empirical demonstration, not as the theologian, with tradition; but as the artist, as a poet, with a mystic intuition, with audition expressed in terms of art. He said 'I cannot understand, I feel.'"

Dr. Rubinkam stated that to him the five greatest names in English poesy from the Sixteenth century down through the Nineteenth were: Shakespeare, Milton, Pope, Byron and Tennyson.

"Tennyson's poetry," he said "is much greater and more enduring than that of Robert Browning because he dealt honestly with the facts of the new science of evolution. Browning assumed the old theology. His life philosophy is very beautiful but will not stand the test of the ages. Browning is the prophet of life happiness, but a deeper study of his poetry discovers an optimism which cannot be substantiated in fact."

Dr. Rubinkam showed through Tennyson's "In Memoriam" over the death of his friend Arthur Hallam, the wonderful infleunce of Darwin's hypothesis as to the origin of man, plants and animals. Tennyson's deductions lead him to positive despair as to any knowledge of his friend's destiny.

"'We have but faith we cannot know,
For knowledge is of things we see,
And yet we trust it comes from Thee,
A beam in darkness. Let it grow.'"

"Tennyson," he continued, "even outgrew the new thought of the immience of God of the nineteenth century where he says,

"'I found him not in world or sun,
Or eagle's wings, or insect's eye,
Nor through the questions men may try
The pretty cobwebs we have spun.'

"He gave up entirely the thought of a personal individual immortality of his friend Hallam. He mixes him with the world of nature:

"'Thy voice is on the rolling air
I hear thee where the waters run,
Thou standest in the rising sun,
And in the setting thou art fair.'"

The speaker read other of Tennyson's later poems on the same idea, his "De Profundis," "Out of the Deep," "Maud," "By an Evolutionist," "The Princess," "The Dawn" and "The Making of Man."

"In all of these poems," he said, "there is a strange mixture of the old and the new ideas. Tennyson lived in the century of the first struggles of the new idea of evolution with the new science and yet there is sufficient of the universal in his poetry to assure him a place in the literature of all times."

Dr. Rubinkam will lecture again tomorrow afternoon at the same place on "Jose Echegaray and the Great Goleoto," commencing at 4 o'clock.

LATEST PICTURE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE AND WIFE

Andrew Carnegie and his wife were prominent figures at the consecration of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York, where this picture was made. Mr. Carnegie is in the news just now in connection with the defunct Carnegie Trust company. The depositors, stockholders and creditors of the trust company look to the iron master as their last hope. Mr. Carnegie is asked to advance $3,000,000 in return for which he will receive a large bundle of securities which at present have a problematical value. Mrs. Carnegie does not figure much in the social life in New York. She is a home body and spends most of her time looking after her daughter Margaret. She was Louise Whitfield of New York.

RECITAL PLEASING.

Pupils of Flaaten School Entertain Friends.

A large audience of parents and friends enjoyed the program given last evening by a number of pupils from the various departments of the Flaaten Conservatory of Music, who appeared in a recital at the Y. M. C. A.

Each number was well presented by the young people who are deserving of praise for the ability shown and the evident work which they had put upon their number. Of the smaller children the little Miss Laura Stewart, a girl about 6 years old, played her violin number remarkably well. The other violin numbers were by George Casmir, Greta Ferguson and Lionel Larson, all of which were well received.

The piano numbers were played by Jean Irwin, Minnie Ruhnke, Islay Johnson. The readings by Bessie Markowitz, Agnes Nunan, Elizabeth Donovan, Gertrude Farman, Dorris Mallet and two groups of vocal numbers by Thelma Larson were exceptionally good.

A string number of George Casmir, Elmer Gratto, Arnold Tomling and Greta Ferguson with Lecarda Eliason as accompanist, was also a delightful addition to the program.

I. Rubinkam at the Endion M. E. church on "Maeterlink and the Blue Bird," under the auspices of the club.

This will be the last meeting of the year for this class and every member is urged to be present. The reading of "Richard III," will be finished under the leadership of Mrs. L. K. Daughtery.

Freshman-Sophomore Hop.

The freshman-sophomore "hop" which the students of these two classes of the Duluth Central high school are planning, will be given on Saturday evening, May 6, in the hall of the high school building. THE EVENING STORY

SEEING IS BELIEVING

By R. Reham.

"Pardon me, sir, I believe this telegram is for you."

Mr. George Gillette looked up from his desk, where he had been intently looking over details of his temporary position, and recognized the office stenographer, who held out a telegram to him.

"The messenger boy awaits an answer," she said; "so I thought I had better bring it directly to you."

"That is right. I thank you," and taking the message he proceeded to open it and having noted the contents he penciled an answer and turned to hand it to the young lady, but found to his suprise that she had vanished.

So calling a boy he sent it out to the waiting messenger.

Resuming his work at the desk, he heard the clicking of a typewriter near at hand and turning he saw again the young lady who had handed him his telegram.

Rising from his chair he observed the slender figure in her dark clothes, the shapely head, the delicate hands. Taking a few steps he stood at her elbow.

"I beg your pardon, but could you do a little work for me on your machine? I am such a slow hand at it, that I do not accomplish much."

"Certainly, sir, I can do it, I always took care of Mr. Brown's correspondence, although I am not an expert at it."

"You have not been at it very long then?"

"No, only a short while," she answered, with a bewitching smile in the corners of her mouth.

"Miss Goodyer, Mr. Craven wishes to speak with you."

This interruption brought their conversation to an abrupt end, and George Gillette returned to his own desk.

"Harry," he said suddenly to a clerk. "What is the name of that young lady stenographer?"

"Goodyer, Miss Bessie Goodyer."

"Goodyer, Bessie Goodyer," and George Gillette sat motionless staring at his foot gently tapping the floor.

Rising suddenly he put on his heavy overcoat and started out just as Miss Bessie Goodyer entered from the private office.

The next noon George Gillette invited Miss Goodyer out to lunch.

Seated at the table, George Gillette looked intently at Miss Goodyer.

"There is something the matter, is there not, Miss Goodyer, something worrying you a great deal of late? Won't you please tell me," he urged, as she remained silent. Now, I know you have some trouble on your mind."

"Yes," was the slow quiet answer. Then suddenly becoming animated she spoke out in quick, trembling tones.

"I am in a dreadful dilema. My father's will compels me to marry a man I have never seen—a son of his best friend or else I forfeit every penny he left. I have decided the latter and that is why I am working in his office. I am just at present under the doctor's care, and he has advised me to give up office work and get out into the air as he feared I was near a serious breakdown. So there is where I am now, afraid to decide either way."

"Marry the man," was the quiet answer.

"No, I cannot do that—at least not now."

The "not now" was barely audible, but he knew that she had uttered it, and his heart rejoiced.

"You say you have never seen him," he continued. "You don't know, you might find it impossible. Does he live in New York?"

"He has been abroad a great deal," was the hurried answer.

"He was in Egypt till lately, but he is now in New York. I had a letter from him this morning. I can't imagine how he managed to find out my address. He wants to call on me."

"I think I should see him if I were you," he said.

"No, you wouldn't," she retorted, the color flaming in her face. "It is utterly useless—now."

"Then play the game, and tell him so," was the blunt rejoinder.

But to this she vouchsafed him no reply.

All the next morning she studiously avoided him, working the typewriter at a reckless speed, and going out to lunch fully an hour beforeher usual time, but as she passed his desk a piece of paper fluttered down in front of him, bearing the irregularly typed message:

"I have taken your advice and I am going to play the game this evening."

Three times George Gillette read the words over, then, folding it with care, he placed it within his pocketbook.

"A gentleman to see yer, Miss Goodyer."

The commonplace words brought to an end the agony of suspense which Bessie Goodyer had been enduring since her return from the office. She was about to face the man she had fled from, the man she almost had it in her heart to hate; and she had done it because she had been advised to "play the game."

Why had she taken his advice—why had she sought an interview which could only be horribly humiliating to herself? Since, if she played the game fairly, it involved a confession of an unrequited love; for, had he cared, he could never have given her such advice.

Suddenly the door was flung back, and, followed by the curious and admiring eyes of the little "general," the man who had advised her entered the room.

"You!" In a sudden revulsion of feeling the words escaped Bessie Goodyer's lips. "Why have you come— this evening?"

"Because you told me to," was the steady reply. "Bessie, listen a moment, and I will tell you everything."

With one hand gripping the edge of the mantelshelf his story was soon told of his sudden return from Egypt, his distress when he learnt from her solicitor of her attitude towards him, his chance of meeting with his friend Brown, and his offer to take his work while he took a sorely needed holiday, of his recognition of her in the office, and his resolve to keep his own identity hidden from her, and so give them a chance of being friends. And, lastly, he told her of the reason why he had written, imploring her to grant him an interview.

Then from his pocketbook he drew the paper she had dropped over his desk as she left the office.

"Bessie," he said gravely, holding it out before her, "the man who advised you holds you to your word. Aren't you going to play the game after all?"

For one long minute her face was hidden from him. Then, with an impulsive movement, she turned, her hands held out towards him.

"How can I," she said unsteadily—"how can I, dear, when you have won it from me?"

AFTER NEW ORDINANCE

Associated Charities Much Interested in Duluth Lodging House Conditions.

Letter Sent to City Council —Ask Chance to Be Heard.

The members of the executive committee of the Associated Charities of this city are very much interested in getting passed a lodging house ordinance. It has been the claim for some time past that Duluth lodging houses especially on the Bowery, are kept in a filthy condition,

The communication urging the passage of the lodging house ordinance which was sent to the city counsel yesterday, follows:

"Honorable Common Council, City of Duluth, City Hall—Gentlemen: The executive committee of the Associated Charities respectfully urges favorable action by the common council upon the lodging house ordinance proposed by the commissioner of health. This ordinance is based upon the one in force in the city of Minneapolis. It is considered an excellent one by Charles H. Hall, for a number of years chief sanitary inspector of Chicago, who was one of the officers of the tenement house department of New York city when it was first organized, and is probably the leading authority in the West on housing. The draft submitted by the commissioner of health contains several modifications suggested by Mr. Hall to the secretary of this association, in order to perfect it in a few details.

"Therefore, we consider that the ordinance as it stands would be of the greatest benefit to the city of Duluth in remedying conditions of overcrowding and insanitation that exists in lodging houses at present, and are a menace to the health of the city. We respectfully ask that no important changes be made in the proposed ordinance without giving those interested an opportunity to be heard publicly."

WOMAN IS BOUND OVER.

D., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Anno Boreen of this city, charged with maintaining a common nuisance and conducting a house for immoral purposes, was given a hearing in justice court and bound over to the June term of the district court. COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Nelson, the King of Advertisers—New York and the Native Son—McFarland's Speed and Cleverness—Barney and the New Record—The Croakers.

(BY BRUCE.)

WHEN it comes to the gentle game of advertising you have to hand it to Mister Oscar Battling Nelson, one time champion lightweight fighter of the world, and all time gamest fighter who ever crawled through the ropes to meet a foeman.

In yesterday's mail came a revised copy of his book. Bat knows personally every sporting editor in the country, and he knows that they fall willingly for his little scheme for keeping his name before the public. A copy of his little book, handsomely done in cloth, and a personal letter with it, reminds one that the great old Battler is still doing business and still has the keenness of mind that has made him wealthy and famous.

There is not a sporting editor in the country who has not, after all has been said, a kind word for the old Battler. He has made lots of money, but who is there who will not say that he has not earned every cent of it? He has taken more beatings and harder beatings than any man in the ring. He has never flinched under the most murderous fire of pounding fists. Fear has never been a part of this wonderful little man.

He has been truly one of the wonders of the age. The McAuliffes, Griffos, Gans and Lavignes have passed into the great yawning chasm of pugilistic history, and the name of Battling Nelson is still before us. Whether he was the greatest of all these or not, none of us will probably know. There is one thing certain, and that is that Nelson was the toughest man who was ever tossed into the pugilistic stream.

The old fellow at the present time is matched to fight one of his oldest and bitterest enemies of the past, and there are a lot of fellows throughout the country who hope for the best for the Battler.

Native Son and Provincial.

ONE of the reasons why Western fighters can't get a fair deal through the newspapers of New York, is because the native sonism of California has been combined with the provincialism of little old New York, making a condition something awful for the poor fighting waif from the great outside.

That was how "One Round" Hogan got his start in New York. You saw what Wolgast did to him. He made him look much worse than the man who spoke lightly, not to say flippantly, of the auld Irish King in a tough saloon. Hogan wasn't nearly as good as the New York papers boosted him.

He is a Californian and so is Tad, and so is Bob Edgren, and so is Van Loan, all New York sporting editors. The manager of "One Round" Hogan is a very smooth guy, and there you have another answer.

Wolgast is from Michigan and frankly admits that he doesn't like New York. He has come in for a lot of panning from the New York sport writers, who are the most clannish and provincial in the world, because he isn't "in right."

Here is some more for just you. This "Knockout" Brown is one of the most overrated boys in the world. See for yourself. He is beaten by this Hogan, a former plumber, and then Wolgast comes along and beats the Hogan chap in two rounds. Which one of the two boys would you think the better?

The plain and unvarnished is that Wolgast is one of the toughest in the business at the present time, if not the greatest fighter that the lightweight ranks have produced. He will beat "Knockout" Brown as sure as the sun rises, and he will beat him with an ease that will surprise some of the people who take the writings of the New York editors seriously.

There are a lot of us who believe Battling Nelson in his prime would have beaten Wolgast. But the tender little fact remains, breaking through the loam of doubt cast by the New York closed corporation of sporting fancies, that Wolgast will have little real trouble in beating Brown when the pair meet over the longer route, if such an interesting event ever deos come off.

McFarland Is Great, Says Garry

LITTLE Tommy Garry was in the city for a short time yesterday. This little chap looks more like a college football player than a prize-fighter. All of which leads to the remark that the little chap, if his own statement is to be relied upon, has played the game, is some quarterback, and was almost on the verge of entering Notre Dame last fall.

You might say Garry is the type of fighter that at the present time is forging to the front. In appearance and action he is a perfect little gentleman. In his street attire you would never take him for a fighter. He dresses quietly and with good taste. He is on the style of Packey McFarland and some of the other good boys who are at the present time the best of their weight in the country.

Yesterday the little Chicago fighter paid a very nice compliment to McFarland. Garry said the stockyards boy was one of the very, very best boys in the country wide, and it is pretty wide if you are walking. Cleverness, speed, defensive qualities of the highest class, a punch and the ability to take a good hard swat and come back smiling, are some of the qualities Tommy concedes to the McFarland person.

"He is one of the very greatest fighters in the country," said the little chap. "He has simply wonderful speed and is today the cleverest boxer in the world. He is a better boxer than Attell or Welch, and that is going some. Very few of the boys boxing today can hit this fellow. At that he can take a punch to the jaw or body and come back strong. At ten rounds there is no boy in the world who has any business fighting this fellow."

What Will Barney Do About It?

MISTER BARNATIO OLDFIELD has ever been a man jealous of his reputation. He has been immensely proud of the fact that he traveled a mile faster than any other man. Now along comes a certain frenzied individual who travels by the name of "Wild Bob" Burman and cops with ruthless hand the record held by the proud and reckless Oldfield.

The question hangs fire as to what Barney will do about all this. Will he call in his able publicity agents, Sloane and Bill Pickens, and inform them to get busy and tell the waiting world that he is again in the field and will try for the records that he was once so proud to boast of?

There are those who look to see Barney return to the game. Especially is this so after his records have been taken away from him. That mile mark was the pet of his very existence. Then this Oldfield person is one of the big livers of the country. That flow of milk and honey in the land to which the Israelites made the long hike to, has not so very much on the flow of coin that ambles out from the pockets of Oldfield.

He may use up all his money and be forced to go to work. But at that they are getting the record down pretty close to the point impossible, and it may be that the Burman person has set the mark where it will remain impregnible for some time to come.

Listen to the Croakers Croak.

EVERY once in a while you hear some wise guy, and he is to be avoided, cry that baseball is fixed. This kind of a gink ought to be left alone, for if his dear old grandmama brought him a jar of honey, he would suspect that it would not pass the pure food law, and grandmother was trying to exploit him.

There have been some crooked things in the past, and baseball has not been one of them. Fighting and foot racing and wrestling in the past have been called most of the names that come to the ready wit of man. In many cases these sports have been guilty of grave sins against the ethics of clear sport. In many other cases it has been the cry of the ever-persistent "wise guy."

Clear back in the years before the game knew the growing fame of Hans Wagner, in those days when "Casey at the Bat" was a very young and coy thing, some men tried to put the great old national game on the fritz. Their efforts were met with summary action, with the result that the game has always remained on the level and has been the one great sport against which the sharp, pointed finger of accusation has never been pointed.

Here some little time ago some of the gamblers tried to get a withering and contaminating finger on the sport. Their efforts in this regard were met with so much outspoken opposition upon the part of the fans and the public alike, that the effort has been abandoned for the time being.

It is a shame to hear any one cry out against a game that has always been on the level, and the very best treatment for a croaker of that kind is to leave him to his own sour musings.

CHALLENGE.

Theater Employes Organize Ball Team and Look for Trouble.

The Orpheum theater has organized a ball team, in the ability of which the manager has so much confidence that he issues a challenge to any theater team in the city.

All the players on this team are employes of the Orpheum theater, and they will have no "ringers." They stipulate that no "ringers" will be permitted to play on the opposing team.

The manager of the Orpheum team refrains from giving the names of his players at this time, fearing that to do so, as he says, would cause a frigid feeling to come stealing over the pedal extremities of his possible opponents, and cause them to seek the lofty uncut.

ROWING PROSPECTS ARE LOOKING VERY BRIGHT

From the numerical standpoint the prospects of the Duluth Boat club for a good crew looks very bright at the present time.

Last evening there were five fours on the water, and some of the new men are showing up in very promising form, according to the statement of John MacGregor, rowing department captain.

Thompson, Quimby, Sole, Forgette, Lathrop, Slack and Kent are some of the old men out. There are a number of promising new men, and with Killorin, one of the promising substitutes of last season, and Nelson, another good man, there should be the foundation for a very fast crew.

Ten Eyck is expected to arrive Tuesday. The boat club officials expect that the first night the coach takes charge, there will be something like thirty men on the water.

The bantams, with Mapp, Walker, Refus and O'Donnell should win the present season.

With the arrival of Ten Eyck interest in rowing will increase and the present season should be the best in the history of the club.

Bob Block, a former football and baseball player, who is making his home in Duluth for the time being, may get out and try for the crew. He is a big fellow weighing around 180 pounds and should make a husky crew candidate. He has had some experience with the Minnesota Boat club.

JACK JOHNSON WILL FIGHT SIX ROUNDS WITH O'BRIEN

Chicago, April 28.—Jack Johnson, champion pugilist, who returned yesterday from his two months' trip and a stay of twenty-five days in jail at San Francisco, has entered into a tentative agreement to box "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien before the latter's American Athletic culb in the Quaker City. No date has been set, but it will be during the first week in June, says the Reno hero. The Eastern promoter wired Johnson while he was doing penance in the coast jail and after due thought the champion has practically decided to accept. O'Brien in addition to naming himself as prospective foe for the title holder guarantees Johnson a lump sum of $10,000 for his end.

If held the bout will be a scheduled six-round affair, with no decision, as stipulated by the Quaker fight code. O'Brien would have preferred an earlier date, but the fact that Johnson is not in good trim, following his siege of inactivity, caused him to name the first week in June.

Sore on Official.

Johnson branded the act of Justice of the Peace Cantwell, who sentenced him to jail for speeding at Frisco as an instance of a "frame up" and an effort to seek cheap notoriety.

"That man is half Indian, and he acted the part," said Johnson yesterday.

If any one is of the opinion that life in a Frisco jail is joined with any hardships they are mistaken and the champion himself will vouch for this. Outside of the liberty to stroll beyond the confines of the institution it made little difference, according to Johnson. He had everything in the way of conveniences and was not even locked up, and adds that the fine treatment received caused him to reciprocate in appropriate fashion when his time was up.

Jack Going East.

Johnson does not intend to tarry about the home fireside for long. With his usual following, including the machines which "got him in bad" on the coast, he plans heading for New York either Saturday or Sunday. He will train in the East until he meets O'Brien at Philadelphia, and after that will cross the pond for a trip on the continent and in England, where he will attend the coronation.

The champion will not even attempt to get a match in Paris, as he was toting a letter about yesterday from the scene of "gay activities," telling him that the fight game is "in bad" in the French capital, due to the recent Langford-McVey fight. Johnson claimed the letter termed the fight as a "pure and simple fake," and one which the fans over there will not swallow in a hurry.

ADAMS WILL OPEN WITH COLUMBIAS

Old Rivals Will Be Opponents at Athletic Park Sunday.

Sunday afternoon at Athletic park the semi-professional baseball season of 1911 will be ushered in by a game between the strong Adams team, champions last season, and a nine representing the Columbia Clothing company of this city.

Since last season new players have been secured for some of the positions on the A. A. A. team, so that the supporters of the West end aggregation believe the team is at the present time even stronger than last year. Al Olson, the crack infielder, who played second with the Kelleys some few seasons ago, has been secured and will be seen at second base in the game Sunday.

Graham, who defeated the Fitwells, will be seen in the box against the Columbias. The Adams have been out for the past two weeks and are in good condition for the contest.

The game will mark the opening of semi-professional baseball at the Head of the Lakes and should bring out a large early-season crowd.

The line-up of the two teams:

A. Olson	2b	Jarvis

BUSHEY WINS FROM CRAWFORD

Well-Known Eastern Fighter Beaten By Range Unknown.

A dispatch from Walker, Minn., to the sporting editor of The Herald brings the information that Tony Crawford was beaten by "Rough House" Charlie Bushey, who put it all over the man from the East in ten rounds of fighting.

If the telegraph is correct in all its details, Bushey had Crawford down for the count of nine in the eighth round and again put the Eastern boy to the floor for the count of nine in the tenth round.

In the words of the telegram, "Bushey put it over Crawford," winning the decision of the referee. Further referring to the telegram, it is stated that Crawford outweighed his rival by something like fifteen pounds.

Little has been heard of Bushey around these parts, but after his victory over Crawford, though Crawford was far from being in the best of shape, he may be seen in action before one of the Wisconsin fight clubs. They might sick him on to Jack Parres.

THOMPSON AND KELLY TO MEET

Rivals for Middleweight Pugilistic Honors Will Go Ten Rounds.

Chicago, April 28.—Hugo Kelly of Chicago and Johnny Thompson of Sycamore, Ill., rival claimants for the middleweight pugilistic championship, are ready for their scheduled ten-round fight which will be decided before a Racine, Wis., club tonight. Both are below the required weight of 158 pounds. Promoters of the contest are planning to match Billy Papke, former middleweight champion, with the winner of tonight's battle.

BROWN MAY GO TO OLD ENGLAND

Hibbing Fighter Considering Trip Across the Raging Brine.

A special news dispatch to The Herald from Hibbing contains the statement that there is a possibility of Pal Brown, the fighting kid of the iron ore district, going to England the present summer for the purpose of meeting some of the best fighters on the other side of the pond.

This trip is contingent upon the outcome of some of the fights that Pal has scheduled for the near future. According to the story sent to The Herald, Brown will meet Jack White at Winnipeg on May 15. He has a meeting with Tommy Garry intervening, and should the Hibbing kid be successful in both of these engagements, it is said that the trip to the other side of the foaming brine will be made, and that Matt Wells, the latest sensation in English pugilism, may be encountered.

In the event of Brown getting safely by in his fights with Garry and White, his manager will go to bed with the conviction that Pal is one of the very best boys in the country. It is said, in the case of two clean-cut victories, the Hibbing fighter will be sent after the very best in the game.

Just why Brown should want to go to England, unless he is fond of travel, is hard to understand. There are bigger purses in this country, and if he is successful in his coming battles, he will be able to get any number of fights right in the dear old U. S. A.

Players Sold.

Davenport, Iowa, April 27.—Manager Dan O'Leary of the Davenport Three I team today sold Pitcher Harry Benton of Davenport and Outfielder Lester Lund of Monticello, Iowa, to Manager Tom Stark of the Monmouth, Central association, club.

BASEBALL PLAYER SENT TO STATE ASYLUM.

International Falls, Minn., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Phil Passault, a baseball player who has been seen here a number of times with the Baudette team, and who has a homestead in the Clementson country, was arrested here during the week in a supposedly intoxicated condition and placed in the county jail. Later he developed symptoms of insanity and before he could be overpowered had terribly injured his head by butting it against the steel bars of the cells, and bruised up the officers somewhat. He was given a hearing by Judge Iltis and ordered sent to Fergus Falls, where Deputy Sheriff Watt, assisted by Ralph Burdick, took him.

BOUT BETWEEN GARDNER AND MOHA POSTPONED.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 28.—The ten-round bout scheduled for tonight between Jimmy Gardner of Lowell, Mass., and Bob Moha of Milwaukee has been postponed until May 12, owing to an injury to one of Gardner's hands sustained in a recent contest.

GEORGE CHIP WILL MEET DILLON AGAIN.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 28.—George Chip, the Pittsburg middleweight boxer, and Jack Dillon of Indianapolis will meet here tonight in a scheduled ten-round bout. Dillon and Chip have met on two previous occasions, once in a six-round no-decision affair in Pittsburg and then at Dayton, Ohio, when the Indianapolis boxer won a 15-round decision.

CY YOUNG CANNOT PITCH FOR A MONTH.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 28.—Denton T. Young, the veteran pitcher of the Cleveland baseball club, is ill at a hospital here with acute bronchitis. Young's condition is not serious. He will probably be able to leave his room in two weeks, but cannot play ball for a month.

JAPS LEAVE FIELD IN QUARREL OVER DECISION.

San Francisco, Cal., April 28.—The baseball game between the Waseda university of Japan and the Mission high school team of San Francisco ended in the tenth inning, with the score 5 to 5, when the two teams were unable to agree on a decision. The Japanese players refused to continue play unless the disputes were decided their way.

College Runner Dies.

Danville, Ill, April 28.—John H. Garland, 28 years old, a student of Greer college, Hoopeston, dropped dead of heart disease following a practice run on the race track at the college yesterday. His home is in Michigan.

A Traveling Show.

The former Mrs. Marshall Field Jr., now Mrs. Drummond, was robbed of $130,000 worth of jewels while crossing the Atlantic. It looks like a fairy story, but some people have so many little bunches of jewels of that size, that they get careless about leaving them under foot. People in the northwest prize their golden grain belt beers more than this great lady did her diamonds, and are never without them in the house. Try them for a table beverage. They are brewed for the best tables. Supply yours from your dealer or duluth branch minneapolis brewing company.

DYNAMITE IN STATION.

Fifty-Six Pounds Found in Waiting Room at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., April 28.—A valise containing fifty-six pounds of dynamite, found under a settee in the second class waiting room in the union station Wednesday night, remained in the lost articles room until last night when city detectives, whose duty it is to inspect all such parcels, opened the valise and discovered what the contents were. There is no clew to the identity of the person who left the explosive at the terminal.

The dynamite was contained in two cans. One of the cans was a screw-top receptacle and the lid on the other was clamped down with wire. Both cans were ready for firing, each being fitted with caps and twenty feet of fuse.

The cans were wrapped in two gray coat sweaters, the whole bundle fitting snugly in the valise.

The ends of the fuses projected from a slit cut in the grip just under the lock.

On the order of the chief of police the dynamite was thrown into the Mississippi river, the caps, valise and sweaters being retained in the hope of furnishing a clew to the owner and as evidence.

Men Who Drove Street Cars in Old Days Hold Banquet.

Those Employed Previous to 1899 Eligible to Membership.

The banquet of the old-time street car men at the Metropole hotel last evening proved a decided success and resulted in the formation of a permanent organization, which will be known as the "Old-Time Street Car Men's club."

The affair last evening was attended by thirty-two men who were in the employ of the company previous to 1899. Among those present last evening were:

EVELETH TO HAVE TWO NEW SCHOOLS

Board Decides to Ask People for Authority to Issue $60,000 Bonds.

Eveleth, Minn., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school board last evening instructed Clerk Harry S. Sherman to call a special election of the voters of the School District No. 39, to vote on bonding the district for $60,000 for the erection of a brick two-story, ten-room grade school to replace the burned Fayal school. Architect Bray of Duluth, was engaged to draw up plans and specifications for the new school, which is to be completed by the opening of the fall term. The new school will not be built on the site of the old structure, as mining operations are being worked in that vicinity, but the new site will not be far from the burned building. It is planned to have a modern gymnasium installed in the school. The board also will build an eight-room two-story brick, $60,000 school in the Adams district, which will give Eveleth two new schools.

The regular work of the Fayal school was resumed today. The first and second grade pupils are being accommodated at the Fayal kindergarten, the kindergarten students at the Fayal township hall, the third graders at the First Presbyterian church, and the fourth, sixth and seventh graders at the high school. The commercial department, drawing and kindergarten rooms of the high school are also being used, while the Commercial pupils are being accommodated in the dining room of the high school.

Mrs. Kerr is a daughter of the late James Ward, who was one of Negaunee's earliest settlers. He passed away eighteen years ago and his wife died in Negaunee forty-two years ago. "Whereas, The grand jury now in session, before and after listening to a large amount of criminal evidence from parts throughout St. Louis county, have come to the conclusion that the commission of crimes and misdemeanors is more or less prompted and stimulated by the laxity of its officials and others in authority in not enforcing the laws governing the liquor traffic, and

"Whereas, Nearly all the crimes investigated by the grand jury, are directly or indirectly due to the use of intoxicating liquors, and

What Breeds Law Contempt.

"Whereas, Contempt for one law breeds contempt for another: therefore,

"We recommend and demand stricter enforcement of the liquor laws, that more fear and respect may be gained for all officers and the law they represent, and that it may not be necessary for any future grand jury to investigate the conduct of or indict any officer for neglecting his duty under his oath of office."

The grand jury returned the following indictments, charging:

STREAMS STOCKED IN LAKE COUNTY

Sixty Cans of Fry Received This Week and Placed in Waters.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fish car from the state fish hatchery was in the city Tuesday morning and a second consignment to the number of sixty cans was left. This lot, together with those shipped here several weeks ago, makes 120 cans received here this spring. In the first shipment there were approximately 90,000 and in the last 60,000, making a total of 150,000 trout fry planted in the streams near the city this spring.

The fish this year, as has been done for the past sixteeen years, were shipped to Dr. J. D. Budd, who, during all these years, has personally attended to the restocking of the trout streams. The fry was distributed as follows. Ten cans in the Gooseberry, at Highland; thirty cans in the Stewart, thirty-two cans in Knife river, thirty-two cans in Silver creek, sixteen cans in Encampment river. The Split Rock river, the main Gooseberry and the Beavers have been restocked this year from the Alger line by parties in Knife River.

Who Helped Dr. Budd.

Those who assisted Dr. Budd in planting of the fry were: Fred Hagberg, P. K. Anderson, T. J. Brown, Iver Amundsen, Ben Pruet, Peter Carlson, Axel Lindgren, Charles Carlson and F. W. Walker. Dr. Budd is informed that there is still another consignment to arrive. This year he made a request from the United States government hatcheries and he has received word that a shipment will be made during this summer. The entire shipment from this source will be planted in Stewart river.

Thousands of fish are taken from Lake county streams every year by Duluth fishermen and those who do the most fishing pay the least attention to the restocking of streams.

Has Sanitary Bakery.

When you want bread, cakes, pies and pastry "like mother used to make," you can find no better place to trade than at the Zenith Home Bakery, 427 East Fourth street. Fred Schmoldt, proprietor of this popular bakery, says it is the only one in Duluth that employs lady help exclusively. This, together with the fact that Mr. Schmoldt gives personal attention to the baking, insures absolutely sanitary conditions. Every loaf of bread sold from this store is wrapped in oiled paper, an additional precaution that the patrons appreciate.

LICENSES EXPIRING

This is the time of year when the city collects the bulk of the $192,000 which goes into the general fund. The saloon licenses are expiring, as are the dog licenses, the peddlers' and hawkers' licenses, the second-hand licenses, the employment office licenses and other miscellaneous licenses.

In addition to these the wheelage tax is due May 1. The funds raised from this go into the street maintenance and repair fund and are expended by the board of public works. It is estimated that from $15,000 to $20,000 will be raised from this source. The money must all be spent in the improvement of streets inside the city limits.

The first of next week it is expected that the office of the city clerk will be crowded with applicants for the tags which will enable vehicle owners to operate on the city streets without danger of arrest. They are beginning to come in already, in order to "avoid the rush." Yesterday about twenty-five tags were issued, and it is estimated that fully that number will be taken out daily until the 1st of May, when the size of the crowd will undoubtedly increase.

This year no leniency will be extended to those who fail to pay this tax. The officials announce that the city "needs the money," and that failure to take out the license will mean arrest. Unless the cash is forthcoming the street work of the city will be delayed and held up. Special Detective James Walsh will make it a point to check up every rig in the city to see that it is equipped with the proper tag of 1911.

It is not known whether or not a special man will be put to work to enforce the collection of the dog taxes. Since this practice was discontinued several years ago, the amount collected in this manner has fallen off considerably. The figures show that if the full amount were collected the city would raise about $2,500 from the dog taxes. This has dropped off over $1,000. Those interested say that if a special man were hired he could collect this difference, and after getting his salary, leave the city a good sum ahead on the deal.

BRIDGEMAN-RUSSELL Co's BUTTERMILK

THE IDEAL DRINK FOR OLD AND YOUNG, FOR INVALID AND ATHLETE

Aside from the well known food value of sweet milk, which remains unchanged in buttermilk, the latter is also rich in lactic acid. Lactic acid has medicinal properties that are little short of marvelous as thousands of Duluth people have discovered.

OUR BUTTERMILK

is made from specially ripened sweet milk that has been deprived by pasteurization of the strong rancid flavors so commonly found in other buttermilk, making it rich and inviting and just tart enough to appeal to the palate.

USE IT IN COOKING

Bridgeman-Russell Co.'s buttermilk is cheap and is a great help to the labors of a good cook. It imparts to bread, cornbread, pancakes, etc., a quality that can not be gotten without it.

WHEAT IS UP; TRADE LIGHT

Frosts Feared in Southwest —Report on Kansas Unfavorable.

Foreign Markets Higher— Red Winter Wheat Is Exported.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 28.—The wheat market advanced slightly today, May appreciating ⅜c and July ½c. Cash wheat was 1c over May, oats and rye were unchanged, barley was not quoted, there being no sales, durum lost ¼c.

Linseed was dull. May sold at $2.58 and $2.57, closing ½c up at $2.57½. July sold at $2.57½, closing at that figure. September was $2.05n. Cash seed was 1c over May. Winnipeg was weaker closing at $2.37. Plata seed at Antwerp for April-May delivery was cheaper at $2.196 a bu.

The only export business in American wheat was the sale of about seven loads of red winter wheat, low grade for shipment to Antwerp to fill cheap ocean freight.

The wheat market opened strong and declined because of selling on account of favorable crop reports and the mild activity of the bears who thought they saw a hard spot. Values quickly rallied and advanced, however, on reports of predicted cold weather for the Northwest and Southwest. Freezing temperatures are in prospect for the three Northwestern states and there is a probability of heavy frosts in the Southwest. Showers are probable in the Northwest.

Rollin E. Smith's belief that Kansas only promises 67,000,000 bu of wheat if conditions are unfavorable and 80,000,000 bu if conditions are favorable from now on stimulated buying. From nearly all localities in the winter wheat belt prospects are reported highly favorable. Weather conditions are almost perfect and there has been little or no damage from insects.

The market is a trading affair and is liable to swing either way according to intermittent activity on either side. The May deal is still of puzzling character and trading in that delivery is at a low ebb. Trading in all options today was exceedingly light and the small buying power was sufficient to put values up.

Australian and Argentine shipments were smaller than expected and the foreign markets reflected the lighter movement. Southern Europe is beginning to ship more heavily and Russia is expected soon to become a heavier shipper. Indian shipments were smaller this week than last.

Receipts of wheat in the Northwest were small and the cash position was firm although the demand was light. The outgo of spring wheat from this port is producing a firmer tone in prices for choice grades of that variety of wheat.

Cash Sales Friday.

MARKET GOSSIP

Chicago Tribune of yesterday: The usual rumors in regard to the wheat trade that are current usually just before delivery day were circulated yesterday in regard to May wheat. One report was to the effect there had been a settlement of 3,000,000 bu May. No names were connected with the report and as the leading firms interested in the May transaction denied any participation in any such settlement there presumably was nothing in the reports. Some traders were of the opinion the rumors were spread simply for the effect on the speculative market.

Chicago Record-Herald yesterday: "Do not understand why decreases in the visible supply at this time of year should attract any attention," said H. E. Rycroft. "This is the last quarter of the crop year, and available supplies should reach their lowest volume. The rate of decrease is really very small in comparison with the known facts of consumption, showing that farm and invisible supplies are very large. Since March 1 we have used 30,000,000 bu for spring seed, exported 11,000,000 and used for domestic consumption about 87,000,000, making a total of 128,000,000 that has disappeared, only 10,000,000 of which came out of the visible supply."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Belief in Falling Off in Shipments Gives Wheat a Lift.

Chicago, April 28.—Belief that world shipments would show a decided falling off this this week gave a lift today to the price of wheat. Forwardings from Australia, India and the Argentine were less than had been looked for, and Liverpool reported a continued demand for cargoes. The bulls were also helped by a prediction that the quantity of breadstuffs on passage to the United Kingdom would decrease to a material extent. Offerings here were light, and the openings was ⅛@¼c higher to ⅜c off, the latter for May. July started at 87@87⅛c to 87¼c, a gain of ⅛c to ⅛@¼c, and rose to 87½c.

Corn strength led to a further advance. The close was steady at 87⅝c for July, a net gain of ⅝@¾c.

Prospective wet weather hoisted the market for corn. Pit traders crowded to the buying side. July opened ⅛@¼c to ¼@⅜c up at 52¼c to 52⅜c, and advanced to 52⅝@52½c.

Covering by shorts pushed the market still higher. The close, however, was easy with July at 52⅝c, an advance of ¼@⅜c over last night.

Oats were firmer in sympathy with corn. Business, however, was light. July started the same as last night to a shade higher at 31½@31⅝c, and ascended to 31¾c.

Provisions eased off owing to the fact that the hog run West was nearly three times as large as a year ago. First sales varied from 5c decline to a gain of 2½@5c, with July delivery $15.00 for pork, $8.15 for lard, and $8.10 for ribs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Trading of Small Volume With Wheat Exceedingly Nervous.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 28.—The wheat market was very nervous. Trading was of small volume and fluctuations in narrow range. Some fear of congestion in May is expected by the local trade. May closed ½c higher than yesterday, July ¾@⅞c higher and September ⅜c higher. Local elevator stocks decreased 575,000 bu for the week and oats decreased 140,000 bu. Minneapolis today received 132 cars of wheat against 113 a year ago; Duluth, 21 against 19, and Winnipeg, 141 against 253. May wheat opened 96@96⅛c; high, 96½@96⅝c; low, 95⅝@95¾c; closed, 96⅜c. July opened 97¼@97⅛c; high, 97¾@97⅞c; low, 97c; closed, 97⅝c. September opened 89⅞c; high, 90½c; low, 89¾@89⅞c; closed, 90⅜c.

Cash wheat was in good demand for choice grades only. Lower varieties, which comprised the majority of offerings, slow sales. No. 1 northern sold 1½@3c above the May contract. Close: No. 1 hard, 99⅞c; No. 1 northern, 98@99⅞c; to arrive, 97⅞@99⅜c; No. 2 northern, 95@97⅜c; to arrive, 94⅜@97⅞c; No. 3 wheat, 93@95⅞c; No. 3 yellow corn, 49½@50c; No. 3 white oats, 30@30½c; No. 2 rye, 94@95c.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Canadian Pacific Reaches the Highest Point in Its History.

Bonds Are Traded in Extensively and at Higher Prices.

New York, April 28.—Canadian Pacific advanced 1¾ to 229½, the highest point in its history, when the market opened today. Otherwise there were few changes of importance. The market was firm, most of the active stocks advancing small fractions.

Fractional additions were made to the opening advances in the principal stocks aside from Canadian Pacific, which reacted a point on profit taking. A few of the specialties moved rather widely, General Electric and Westinghouse Electric rising 2 points. International Paper preferred and Allis-Chaimers preferred lost 1.

Compared with yesterday's early session, business on the stock exchange this morning was small. The undertone was more firm, however, and there seemed to be indications of accumulation of the better class securities by substantial interests. The new high records of Canadian Pacific made it the most talked of issue and there was further buying of the stock for Canadian account. Reading was affected favorably by its March report, which while not brilliant, served as an offset to other statements recently issued. United States Steel was in demand, resuming its leadership and touching its high quotation of the week.

From the investor's viewpoint, the most interesting feature was the sustained inquiry for bonds, which were traded in extensively and at higher prices. A number of substantial gains were established, particularly in Reading, Union Pacific, American Smelting, Consolidated Gas and American Can preferred.

The market closed active and strong. A brisk demand arose in the closing hour for the high priced dividend paying railroad stocks and St. Paul, Union Pacific, Reading and other issues of a similar class went up 1@1½. United States Steel preferred was pushed up vigorously and there was a renewal of the earlier demand for various other specialties. Canadian Pacific mounted to 230¾, a gain of 3 points.

Cotton Market.

New York, April 28.—Cotton opened irregular at an advance of 7 to 14 points on the old crop, but 1 to 2 points lower on later months, with near positions influenced by bull support and rumors that notices would be promptly stopped, while the new crop reflected prospects for better weather and talk of a big increase in acreage. Cables were about as due, and the early feature here was the active business in old crop positions which fluctuated very erratically after the call. The circulation of May notices estimated at about 15,000 bales seemed to be causing considerable scattering liquidation, but the leading bull brokers bought on every little setback and the old crop sold 15 points net higher during the first few minutes. This was followed by a setback of 8 or 9 points, but renewed bull support sent the market back to about the best prices before the end of the first hour. The new crop continued barely steady, under Southern selling and realizing.

Spot, closed quiet, 10 points higher; middling uplands, 15.35; middling gulf, 15.60. Sales, 100 bales. COPPERS ADVANCE; NEWS FAVORABLE

The copper market advanced today after a slight uneasiness and hesitation immediately after the opening. The Amalgamated and Cole-Ryan groups were particularly strong. The report that the Amalgamated holdings of the late Henry H. Rogers have been entirely liquidated, the strengthening of Amalgamated's control over the copper production of the country, and the rumor that W. E. Corey and friends are buying Amalgamated in order that Mr. Corey may join the copper industry as he formerly was associated with the steel business, all caused buying in Amalgamated, which sent that stock sharply upward.

N. S. Mitchell, stockbroker, returned yesterday from a business trip to Toronto, Can. He stated that he found business conditions better generally than he had expected, with the Canadians optimistic. On the other hand he said that he was surprised to find that they are not enthusiastic over the reciprocity treaty. Mr. Mitchell said that they seemed to think that the United States was getting the best of the bargain. He asserted that the Porcupine mining district is attracting much attention in Toronto.

SOX STRONG WITH STICK

Yesterday the Duluth White Sox continued their good work of the training trip by taking the Rockford team into camp, the score being 7 to 4 in favor of the O'Brienites.

Three home runs were contributed during the matinee by White Sox hitters, Holstrom, Miller and Leber, who has been showing strong at third, clouting the spheroid with enough vicious intent to drive it out of the lot.

Kramer rode the mound for the Duluth team and his debut was as successful as that of some sweet young thing whose patient papa has coils of the long green in his strong box and was on awfully friendly terms with Mr. Bradstreet.

Mr. Kramer let the Rockford boys down with three hits, and from the accounts of the game contained in the dispatch, they were very lucky to score four runs.

Kench is accounted some pitcher in the vicinity of Rockford. He was trotted to the slab with bells hung around his neck, but retired to the bench with resignation and a call from the manager. Eberly finished the game for Rockford.

In all the Sox accumulated fourteen hits. The bombardment was the heaviest for years, so says ancient residents of the Rockford village, and the game will be remembered for some days to come.

The Sox are scheduled to remain at Rockford until April 30. From Rockford the merry band is scheduled to journey over to Madison, Wis., where the spring training trip will be finished. The team will come home somewhere around May 3.

The score by innings of yesterday's murder:

		R.	H.	E.
Rockford	0 2 1 0 1 0 0 0 0	4	3	4
Duluth	0 0 0 2 0 2 0 2 1	7	14	4

Batteries—Kench, Eberly, Reidy and Reisingen; Kramer and Doar.

GIVEN WORLD'S SKIING RECORD

Ishpeming, Mich., April 28.—It has developed that not only was the American ski record broken when Anders Haugen of Chippewa Falls, Wis., jumped 152 feet on the Curry hill at Ironwood, Mich., but the feat set a new mark for the world. A leap of 163 feet was made by Sigurd Brevik at Elverum, Norway, in February, a year ago, but under the rules it was not allowed, the rider being disqualified because he was unable to retain his balance and fell sixty feet below the point where his flight had ended. Haugen made his phenomenal jump in perfect form, alighted gracefully and finished the run with the so-called Telemark turn in admirable style. The points credited to the Chippewa Falls professional have, in fact, never been equaled by any ski jumper in this country or Europe. His score was 321.

Prior to the Ironwood tournament the American ski record was 140 feet, made by August Nordby of Superior, Wis., on the hill at Ishpeming, Mich., Feb. 22, 1910. In the first of his three jumps, Haugen equaled this mark, in the second he covered 145 feet, and in the third he attained the world's record, with 152 feet. Not once did he fall. His average for the three leaps—145.66 feet—stands unrivaled. There is no doubt that the measurements at Ironwood were correctly taken, but to assure the absolute reliability of the figures, the officals of the Ironwood club had selected a committee of two expert riders from each of three visiting clubs, namely, those of Duluth and Red Wing, Minn., and Stoughton, Wis., which committee measured the tape and fastened it so that the jumps could not be recorded otherwise than correctly. This was done because it has been claimed that in some tournaments the tape has been pulled up several feet, thus giving the riders greater marks than actually were made.

Notwithstanding Haugen's sensational work, it was only because of a mishap that the world's record did not go to Barney Riley, amateur champion of Coleraine, Minn. This young man jumped 154 feet. Unfortunately for him, however, he did not alight at quite the correct angle. He was compelled to touch the ground with both hands, to prevent falling, and so was disqualified. Riley is a former Marquette iron range boy and did his first ski jumping at Ishpeming, the home of the great Scandinavian sport in this country. He is from "Tipperary," but has beaten many of the best Norwegian riders at their own game.

SAILORS WANT PLACE ON CARNIVAL PROGRAM.

A meeting of the sailors was held last night, when it was determined to ask the carnival committee for a regular place on the program of sports that is being planned at the recent time for the carnival.

So far the rowing and motor boat races have been considered most seriously by the men in charge of the sport program. It is the intention of Capt. Charles Brewer of the sailing department to ask that the sailing division be given some time, and it is probable that part of the two days will be turned over to the sailors with the result that some special races will be held.

FOREST BLAZE CHECKED BY VIGOROUS BACK-FIRING.

North Adams, Mass., April 28.—The forest fires sweeping down the slopes of Bear mountain, near Clarksburg, were checked by back fires early today, and many of the tired fighters were allowed a few hours' rest, after their hard fight against the blazing forest. The advance of the flames towards Clarksburg had been checked and it was believed control of the blaze had been secured.
